Steel Walkout Starts; Ike Hopes For Early End

Taft-Hartley Action Held Not Warranted

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel mills producing 90 per cent of the nation's steel lay idle today in the grip of the sixth major strike since World War II.

President Eisenhower, hopeful that negotiations will bring a quick end to the strike, told his news conference at Washington that present conditions do not warrant invoking the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to end the walkout.

In New York, the United Steelworkers Union proposed the industry agree to submit strike issues to a fact-finding board composed of a man named by the union, another by industry, and an impartial member to be named by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

The proposal was made in a letter today by the union president, David J. McDonald to the industry's four-man negotiating team. McDonald said the recommendations of such a board would not be binding.

The glow from the big open hearth furnaces was no longer visible—nor was the reflection from the Bessemer furnaces. The mills remained dark and quiet.

At the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. plant on Pittsburgh's South Side, hundreds of steelworkers picked up their checks. No picket signs were in sight.

This was the next to the last pay for the duration of the strike.

At the Homestead works of U.S. Steel Corp. about 20 pickets were on duty. It was a far cry from the 300 or more that swelled the area before midnight.

A half-million steelworkers, heeding the call of union leaders, struck after two months of contract negotiations that had gotten nowhere.

The union gave no indication of retreating from its demand for higher wages and improved fringe benefits. Just as steadfastly, the industry stuck to its position that it could not increase production costs, must be able to effect some economies.

FOR NOVATO AIRPORT

Contract Terms Agreed Upon By County, Owners

Contract terms which may lead to establishment of a county airport at Novato were agreed upon last night by the county airport committee and William Q. Wright, owner, and Harry Tollefson, operator of the Novato Airport.

Wright and Tollefson agreed to sublease seven and one-half acres of the airport, containing a 3,000-foot dirt runway, the sublease to coincide with Tollefson's lease on the entire airport which expires in 13 years.

$17,000 FOR RUNWAY

The county committee, headed by Eugene Trombley, agreed that a total of $17,000 should be paid for improvements on the runway, "with additional funds going to improve an access road into the property and parking area improvements."

Financing would be accomplished with money from the county airport fund, now containing about $32,000 in state gasoline taxes.

The proposed lease also would provide that the county may, if it desires, purchase the seven and one-half acres after three years "at no less than $1,000 per acre."

GOING TO BOARD

Carrol Snyker, secretary of the committee, said today that the agreement will be formally drawn up by County Counsel Leland H. Jordan and submitted to the board of supervisors, "probably within the next two weeks."

The proposal, he said, will be accompanied by a letter from the committee advising that the remainder of the county airport fund also be earmarked for the Novato project.

The agreement also provides that:

1. Thirty per cent of the "tie-down" (air craft parking) fees at the airport go for maintenance of the county-leased portion.

2. Right of way be provided by the airport owner for an access road to the landing strip.

3. The operator, Tollefson, must be responsible for carrying up to $500,000 of liability and property damage insurance.

No rent would be paid by the county, according to the agreement.

Gromyko Tells Red Price For Berlin Truce

GENEVA (UPI)—Russia warned the West today that her loaded all-German committee proposal is the price for a Berlin truce. The Western powers accused Russia of threatening to torpedo the Big Four talks.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the Western foreign ministers that the all-German committee, on which East German Communists should have equal representation with the West Germans, is tied tightly with his Berlin truce proposal.

". . . And it is not possible to alter that," he said.

The foreign ministers were meeting today for the second plenary session since the Berlin crisis talks were resumed Monday. The chief Western aim was some sort of Berlin agreement that would permit a summit conference with no loss of prestige.

Gromyko threw the Western ministers into a tailspin Monday by refusing to give the fool-proof guarantees the West demands. Then he confused

Hub Youth Tells Of Kidnaping

San Anselmo police and county sheriff's deputies prowled the hills from Olema to Stinson Beach this afternoon in search of a carload of youths who kidnaped a 16-year-old San Anselmo student and threatened to force indignities on him.

Lawrence Joseph Bersano, of 89 Park drive, San Anselmo, was released, badly frightened but unharmed, at White's Hill. He walked back to his home and reported the kidnaping to police about 9:15 a.m.

Asst. Police Chief Sam [illegible] Serio, accompanied by the boy, cruised the hills looking for a 1955 or 1956 bluish-green Chevrolet two-door sedan.

According to Officer John Orr, the boy gave this account:

He was walking along Saunders avenue to attend summer class at Sir Francis Drake High School about 7:50 a.m. when a group of five youths, about 18 or 19, stopped and asked if he wanted a ride. He said no. But they dragged him inside

Hub Defeats Change In Civil Service

San Anselmo voters — or at least those who went to the polls —tourned down resoundingly yesterday a proposal to remove city department head positions from the protection of civil service.

Vote on the proposal was 781 "no" to 429 "yes"—nearly a two-to-one turndown, with a two-to-one majority the other way needed to enact the change.

ITS EFFECT

The measure would have removed civil service protection from department head positions while not affecting other city employees covered by the civil service ordinance.

William Souza, president of the San Anselmo Civil Service Employees Assn., today hailed the result.

"City employees were really out working" to defeat the measure," said Souza.

SIGNS CONFUSING

He said he thought the turndown would have been by an even greater majority except that "Vote No Civil Service" signs put up by the employees early in the campaign "confused some people."

"The city council has really done us a favor," said Souza. "We're organized now. If they start any other attack on civil service, we'll be ready to fight it. We intend to follow everything the council does a little closer from now on."

Mayor Arthur W. Smith, who for years had urged removal of department heads from the classified list, said he felt the council had failed to adequately explain the proposal to the people.

"Naturally I'm disappointed," said the mayor. "Through my years of experience, I'm convinced of the need for the change. I think the people were confused."

City Councilman Carleton G. E. Little charged yesterday that the San Anselmo Post Office failed to distribute on Monday 750 cards urging a "yes" vote which he mailed Sunday night.

YOU WILL FIND BARGAINS GALORE IN INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL TODAY

Bargains all through its 62 pages—that's the Independent-Journal today.

San Anselmo Bargain Days opens tomorrow with 43 participating business firms. A 10-page section of today's I-J is loaded with advertisements of the special buys being offered in the Hub City.

Also in San Anselmo, United Markets tomorrow starts the grand opening sale of its new supermarket, Marin's most modern. The celebration values will be offered also in United Markets' San Rafael store. Fourteen pages of the I-J tell you all about them.

Novato is going into the windup of Golden Treasure Days, a sales promotion event featured in advertising on two I-J pages.

And throughout the county other merchants are making sure their stores aren't left deserted by those flocking to the special events. Their challenging bargain offers will be found on the rest of the 62 pages.

Convent Land Studied For Coleman School

The San Rafael Board of Education will seek to settle the controversial Coleman School issue by purchasing land from Dominican Convent, Supt. Frank Lucas said today.

He said the board authorized him and two of its members, Roderick P. Martinelli, and Chairman C. Paul Bettini, to meet next week with convent officials in the hope of being able to purchase six-tenths of an acre which lies directly across the street from the school.

There has been considerable opposition to a board plan to split up grades at the school and move the higher grades to a proposed building at 215 Mission avenue, across High street from the high school.

The property, which Lucas said contains only trees, is across Watt avenue from the school. The superintendent said the board would attempt to get the section of Watt avenue that fronts on the school closed and use the street for part of the school grounds.

Lucas said the site would provide ample space for the addition of six classrooms at the crowded school. Watt avenue would be closed about 500 or 600 feet from Belle avenue. About 10 homes have access from Watt between the point where the school would close the road and Grand avenue.

The plan was presented by a joint parent-board committee.

"This action probably will not result in complete agreement," Lucas said, "but it is our alternative to have the school moved to Mission avenue."

He said that in addition to the six classrooms, a library also would be added.

Lucas said he had no idea how much the land would cost.

Stubborn Fire Chars 25 Acres In Terra Linda

Units from three fire departments fought a stubborn grass fire for two and a half hours yesterday afternoon in Terra Linda.

San Rafael Fire Chief C. M. Johansen said the blaze, which spread over 25 acres before it was extinguished, was started by children playing with matches in a cardboard playhouse.

San Rafael sent two units to the fire at 3:41 p.m. They were assisted by five trucks from the county fire department and one from the Terra Linda department.

For a while the fire reportedly threatened new homes under construction in Terra Linda Oaks. Johansen said if the fire "had climbed another couple of ridges it would have been in Sleepy Hollow."

He said children had built a playhouse of cardboard and trash and were playing with matches inside.

The cardboard caught fire and was blown by the wind into the dry grass. The blaze was confined to the area south of Frietas parkway, in the new annexation to San Rafael.

Johansen said it was the third big grass fire in the area since the recent annexation.

Ex-Marinite Lost In Lake Tahoe

A $500 reward has been posted at Stateline, Nev., for recovery of the body of John Ehrhardt, 24, Stateline Casino employee and former Sausalitan who is believed to have drowned in Lake Tahoe.

D. W. Ehrhardt of 205 Fourth street, Sausalito, the young man's father, posted the reward yesterday after searchers from El Dorado and Douglas County sheriffs' offices abandoned hope that Ehrhardt will be found alive, United Press International reported from Stateline.

The young man disappeared Sunday. He is believed to have fallen overboard while testing an inboard boat.

Angel Island Ferry Studied

Applications for ferry service to Angel Island are being considered by the state Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco.

Milton McDonough of Sausalito, wants to operate boats from Tiburon. Another applicant, the Harbor Tug and Barge Co. has applied to provide ferry service between the island and San Francisco.

The applications have been opposed by Russell G. Lewis of Sausalito, who previously was granted a franchise to run ferries between the island and both San Francisco and Sausalito.

THRIVING CROP — The courtroom looked like a nursery this morning as a Mill Valley man faced trial for growing the plants in pots on his back porch. During noon recess, the courtroom doors were carefully locked to safeguard the evidence. Suspect Donald James is behind the plants, talking to his attorney, Peter Allen Smith. To right is Chief Bailiff Jack Bones. (Independent-Journal photo)

Man Denies He Grew Marijuana

A 25-year-old amateur botanist from Mill Valley, accused of nuturing a thriving marijuana crop on his back porch, today denied he had grown the plants.

Donald Phillip James of 59 Crown court testified in his own defense as trial opened before Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

James told the court it was his roommate, Don Barre, 25, who grew the plants. After James's arrest on June 2, roommate Barre disappeared and is now a fugitive.

When James denied owning the plants, Dist. Atty. W. O. Weissich asked the judge for a recess until 2 p.m. so that he could present a tape recording of what James had said at the time of his arrest. According to Weissich, James said he was the one who grew the plants, and Barre had nothing to do with it.

Councilmen Face Lengthy Session

One of the longest agendas in many months faces the San Anselmo City Council when it meets at 8 tonight in the city hall—and several of the items promise to produce long and perhaps bitter discussion.

Approval of the eligibility list for police chief, to replace Donald T. Wood when he retires Aug. 1, is among the items. The agenda prepared by City Manager Arthur W. Brewer does not call for appointment of a chief tonight. However, under the city manager ordinance, Brewer could make the appointment if the council certifies the eligibility.

Approval of an eligibility list for police patrolman and appointment of one new patrolman also are scheduled.

The council will receive the results of yesterday's election—another matter bearing on the police department as the ballot proposition called for removal of police chief and other department head positions from the classified civil service.

Discussion of financing of the No. 2 firehouse is slated. Councilmen balked a bit two months ago when they realized the cost of financing under a lease-option plan, but have consistently opposed suggestions that a bond issue be submitted to the voters.

The proposed corporation yard site—which also is planned for development under lease-option—is again up for discussion. City Manager Brewer last week renewed the city's option on the property at the end of San Francisco boulevard.

The council is to set a salary for city treasurer, effective with next April's election. The job is now being filled as an extra chore by Police Chief Wood at $1 a month, but the post is elective, Wood having been appointed when the elected treasurer resigned.

A twice-postponed appointment to the board of review, to succeed John P. O'Connell, may produce additional discussion.

Bids are to be called for the Ash Avenue Assessment District street improvement project. A resolution excluding library employees from the city's retirement plan is to be introduced. Numerous reports and several complaints from citizens are also on the agenda.

Special Session On Water Plan Held Possible

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A special session of the legislature "could be called next spring" to iron out kinks in the multi-billion-dollar California water plan, one of its chief authors said yesterday.

M. J. Shelton of San Diego, former assistant director of the state department of water resources, told the American Water Works Assn. conference such a session could "resolve some controversial points which were bypassed in order to avoid further delay in adopting the basic legislation."

Shelton said "efforts to freeze guarantees and reservations in the constitution, efforts on the part of individual legislators to further projects for their own area and many other factors delayed adoption of a program."

MIXED RACIAL WEDDING SCENES DROPPED FROM MOSCOW EXHIBIT

NEW YORK (AP)—Two wedding scene involving Negroes and whites have been dropped from a fashion show prepared for the American exhibition in Moscow.

More than 40 newspaper fashion editors who attended yesterday's dress rehearsal protested the two scenes, saying they were not representative of the American way of life.

Originally there were three wedding scenes:

One depicted a civil marriage between Negro principals with white witnesses

Another depicted the marriage in a garden of a white couple with Negro attendants.

A third showed a marriage in a cathedral of a white couple, with Negroes among the guests.

Only the cathedral wedding will remain, according to Shirley Goodman, liaison director for the Fashion Industries Presentation Committee, which is responsible for the show.

She said that was partly because of the need to shorten the fashion show to 30 minutes and partly because of the protests.

Race Tension In Harlem On Rise, Leader Warns

NEW YORK (AP) — Race tension in Manhattan's dense Negro quarter — Harlem — is on the rise, a Negro leader says.

Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack reports "the people of Harlem are in an angry mood."

Jack made his comments after a stormy meeting between city officials and Harlem leaders at City Hall concerning a near-riot in Harlem Monday.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy assigned 88 extra police to the section.

Jack said the incident was an outgrowth of "rising race tension" in Harlem. It was caused, he said, by resentment over "inadequate housing, poor schools, unsanitary conditions and low-paying jobs."

Police gave the following account of Monday's incident.

Investigating a report of a woman throwing dishes in a restaurant, two white policemen arrested Carmela Caviglione, 21.

The policemen managed to get her into the police car. They said she stepped on the gas, and the car hit a fence. An angry crowd of Negroes gathered.

One policeman stepped out, pistol drawn, and a bystander tussled with him. The gun went off, the richochetting bullet wounded both policemen, neither seriously.

More police arrived and arrested the bystander and the woman.

A sullen crowd of 500 milled for three hours outside the precinct station. When the man was released with a summons to court, the crowd left.

Tennis Club Opens Doors To Bunche

NEW YORK (AP)—The governors of the fashionable West Side Tennis Club say they would give "courteous and prompt attention" to a membership application by Dr. Ralph J. Bunche or his 15-year-old son, Ralph Jr.

The governors have accepted the resignation of the club president, who told Bunche that he and his son were not eligible for membership because they are Negroes.

A statement by the governors yesterday also said "it is the policy of the club to consider and accept members without regard to race, creed or color."

Bunche, a winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, said there seemed to be no immediate likelihood that he or his son would apply for membership.

Bunche, United Nations undersecretary for special political affairs, announced recently he had been barred from the club, in the Forest Hills section of Queens.

START OF THE STEEL STRIKE

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, stands atop a car outside the U.S. Steel Corp. Fairless Works at Morrisville, Pa., and raises a picket sign just before the start of the steel walkout. "We're absolutely determined on this strike and by the eternal gods we will win," McDonald told the union members gathered outside the plant gates. Story on page 1. (AP Wirephoto)

McClellan Is Convinced Hoffa Won't Cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today it is crystal clear James R. Hoffa never will clean up corruption in his Teamsters Union.

The Senate rackets probers headed by McClellan wound up yesterday a 2½-year investigation of Teamster President Hoffa and scandals in the union.

As a parting shot, committee counsel Robert S. Kennedy denounced Hoffa to his face as a taker of payoffs from employers.

"I'll tell you that's a lie," Hoffa flared back.

Kennedy said he has no plan for further questioning of Hoffa. But he said the committee still could change its mind and investigate the Teamsters further.

In hopeful tones, Kennedy told reporters the board of monitors appointed by a U.S. District Court to help police the Teamsters could "make the problem academic" by removing Hoffa as the union's president.

'MONITORS FORTIFIED'

In a separate interview, McClellan said he felt sure the inquiry at least has "fortified the monitors in their purpose to supervise and direct a cleanup."

But, the senator said, "Hoffa and his henchmen by their performance have made it crystal clear there can be no cleanup from within the union."

The inquiry ended just about where it had started. Hoffa made lengthy replies to every question the committee asked but they contained little information.

He testified he will move—"in due course"—to deal with charges that gangsters, racketeers, extortionists and narcotics peddlers have risen to power as his aides in important union officers.

PROBLEM DRAMATIZED

McClellan said the final hearing dramatized one of the big problems of the whole investigation—getting real answers to questions.

Hoffa parried demands that he help disclose the source of $10,000 in 50-dollar bills which had figured in the testimony.

"Ask Brennan," Hoffa suggested, pointing to Owen Bert Brennan, his right hand man in Michigan Teamster affairs.

Brennan invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Court Awards Damages To Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Claims today upheld the claim of the Dixon-Yates combine for damages because the government canceled its controversial power contract.

Dividing 3-2, the court rejected the contention that the activities of Adolphe H. Wenzell constituted a conflict of interest. It ruled Dixon-Yates should be reimbursed for out-of-pocket costs before the contract was canceled.

'NO CONFLICT'

Judge J. Warren Madden, who spoke for the majority, said the court saw "not the slightest conflict of interest in Wenzell's position."

The court awarded $1,867,545.56, which was about what Dixon-Yates finally asked. Originally the claim had been for about 3½ million dollars.

Wenzell served as a consultant to the Budget Bureau at the same time he was a salaried official of the First Boston Corp., which became financial agent for Dixon-Yates interests.

The Dixon-Yates contract, entered into by the Atomic Energy Commission, called for a 107-million-dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark.

President Eisenhower had ordered the contract signed in 1954.

Power generated by a Dixon-Yates firm, Mississippi Valley Generating Co., was to be supplied the Tennessee Valley Authority system to compensate for electricity TVA fed into Atomic Energy Commission plants.

STIRRED UP BATTLE

The contract stirred up a battle in Congress over charges that private power was usurping a public power area.

Eisenhower ordered the contract canceled in 1955.

Real Estate Views And Values

"There are two ways to make money," writes a well-known financial columnist. "The most common way, and also the hardest method, is to work for it. The easy way, however, is to let it work for you. This means selecting a good investment for your funds."

Unfortunately, most people assume that it takes lots of money to acquire a real estate investment. Actually, many investment properties can be handled on convenient terms.

For example, you can buy a house to rent out for as little as $1,000.00 down. If you keep it rented, (and most homes in good condition rent readily here), your tenants will pay for this extra house for you over a period of years. This is your reward for merely making a down payment and keeping the property rented and in good repair.

Nancy Kopf

Real estate has an unique advantage compared with any other investment. You can get possession, and all the benefits of ownership, from making a down payment. Frequently, the down payment is as little as 10% of the total price, but you receive 100% of the earnings and benefits.

Come to our office. Let us show you how easily you can make your money work for you—in a sound real estate investment. Wm. E. Doud & Co., 25 E. Blithedale, Mill Valley, DU 8-8494. Multiple Listing Service.

DEMO BUDGET CUT PLANS HIT SNAG

Senate's Boosting Of Defense Money May Interfere With Reduction Aim

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate increases in a defense money bill may interfere with congressional Democrats' plans to show President Eisenhower they can spend less — not more — than even he recommended.

Democratic leaders want to wind up with a net budget reduction and counter Eisenhower's "spender" charges.

But the Senate last night passed by a 90-0 vote a defense appropriations bill calling for 40 billion dollars in defense spending in the next twelve months. This is $346,139,000 more than the President originally requested and $746,000,000 more than was voted by the House.

A House-Senate conference committee will try to resolve differences between the two versions, and the pressure is on to try to chop funds somewhere.

Here's the problem:

Congress so far has completed action on eight of 17 money bills this year. Together they were cut $360,666,980 below the President's level.

Five other bills, including the defense appropriations, have been assigned to conference committees. The Senate versions of these five bills provide for an over-all increase of 661 million dollars. If the Senate bills prevail, this would more than offset all of the cut achieved so far with the first eight bills.

House conferees see one way in which they could reduce the total sharply — and in one fell swoop. They hope to eliminate 380 million dollars the Senate voted for a nuclear powered aircraft carrier.

Demos Balk At Ike's Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) —Democras balked today at accepting the Eisenhower administration's newest version of a housing bill.

Instead, Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) said a banking subcommittee he heads will begin hearings soon on President Eisenhower's voto of a Democratic-sponsored measure the chief executive called extravagant and inflationary.

"We know the President is wrong in the statements he made about this bill and we are going to show on record that he is wrong." Sparkman said in an interview.

"We are going to have a housing bill but it will be written only after full hearings. We are not going to accept just anything he throws at us."

Sparkman joined Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas in denouncing Eisenhower's contention that the vetoed bill would have involved $2,200,000,000 in expenditures. The Democrats estimated costs of the two-year program at $1,375,000,000.

Johnson told the Senate yesterday that Eisenhower's figure was arrived at by a "Madison Avenue gimmick" of including estimates for possible public housing subsidies for the next 40 years. In the public housing program the federal government makes up by subsidy the difference between costs and rents received.

Is Cuba Red Dictatorship?

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP) — What is the truth about Communist infiltration in Cuba's revolutionary regime?

The former chief of Cuba's air force told a Senate committee in Washington Prime Minister Fidel Castro is himself a Communist and heads a Red dictatorship.

Cuban officials from Castro down angrily scoffed at this testimony. They called Maj. Pedro Luis Liaz Lanz a liar and a deserter and traitor.

The truth appears to lie somewhere between these two extremes.

Castro admits there are Communists in his rebel army. He says that when he was fighting dictator Fulgencio Batista, he didn't stop to examine a man's politics if he wanted to help.

Castro denies emphatically, however, that Communists are playing a major part in Cuba's political life.

The man in the street usually says he sides with Castro. Those who don't keep their mouths shut.

But there are many Cubans high in the nation's business and professional life who agree in part with what Diaz said.

Most of them would not call Castro a Communist, but many feel he is being used by the Reds.

They point to Argentine-born Maj. Ernesto Che Guevara, No. 3 man in Castro's government, a man who has long been linked with the Communists.

La Paz, Bolivia, 11,909 feet above sea level, is the world's highest large city.

New Novato Country Club Plans Bared

Plans for a $1,750,000 Novato country club, to be developed in stages over a four-year period, have been announced by John Bowen and Associates of San Francisco.

Construction of the first stage, to include a swimming pool and tennis courts, is to start promptly, the announcement said.

Plans for later stages of development include two more pools, a clubhouse with bar and dining rooms, playgrounds, barbecue and picnic areas and an 18-hole golf course with pro shop. A boating facility for the club at Black Point is also planned.

Memberships are available at $150, the announcement said. The club is to be located on a former turkey ranch on Olive avenue, formerly owned by developers Rudy and Boyd Lang.

Juvenile Hall Is Crowded, Board Told

The average daily number of inmates in Marin's juvenile hall during the first 13 days of July has been 28, with the count having reached as high as 35, Probation Officer Walter Busher told the county board of supervisors yesterday.

Rated capacity of the hall is 20, he noted.

Busher told of the crowded conditions of the hall, and current problems of hard-to-manage inmates, as he asked the board to approve 143 hours of extra-hire work during the 13-day period. The board granted the request.

Preliminary plans for a new hall in Lucas Valley are being drawn by San Rafael architect Rolland B. Hammond.

Shoppers In Novato Hoping For Prizes

Novato buyers today were shopping overtime in hopes of bringing home one of the prizes valued at more than $3,000 as the Chamber of Commerce sponsored Grand Treasure Days drew to a close.

More than 70 businesses are participating in the event which will end at 6 p.m. Saturday, July 18. Businesses taking part include not only retail stores but also service stations, banks, real estate offices and restaurants.

In addition to the prizes—donated by more than 70 Novato retail merchants—the stores involved are offering bargains "unheard of in Novato history," according to George Marshall, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Harley McAskill, chairman of the retail merchants' committee, said that all participating merchants have reported sharp increases in sales during the shopping spree.

GETS EAGLE AWARD — Richard Turner, 18, Novato's newest Eagle Scout, received an Eagle award at a meeting of Novato Rotary Club which sponsors Explorer Post 56. In 1950, Turner, then a Cub Scout, circularized eligible boys at the old Grant School to form the basis of Novato's present large Scout organization.

BUT NOT IN CAPITOL

Portrait Of Knight Is Placed On Display

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —San Franciscans are getting a look at the portrait former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight can't quite see.

The controversial portrait by Cameron Booth went on display yesterday at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

After a few weeks, it will be shown in Los Angeles.

It was originally intended to hang in the state Capitol.

But Knight doesn't like the picture.

He says it's impressionistic. He doesn't care for the cast of the eyes. He doesn't even like the color of the suit — brown.

Mrs. Knight doesn't think the painting looks like her husband. "And that striped tie," she said, "is awful."

Booth isn't saying much anymore. State Finance Director Bert W. Levit assured him he would be paid $3,000 because he fulfilled his contract.

There are two big questions still to be answered:

Who's going to pay for another portrait of Knight for the Capitol wall?

And who's going to take a crack at painting it?

Rug Cleaning Firm Forms

A new Larkspur business partnership today was being drawn up under the name of Colortone Carpet and Upholstery Cleaners, which will specialize in on-location rug cleaning.

The partners are Byron L. Berry, 45, whose home at 32 Millard road, Larkspur, will be the business address, and Grant A. Gipson, 30, of 3 Church court, Corte Madera. Both have operated rug cleaning businesses in Marin County under their own names.

Their specialties will be a color-renewing process and a rug shampoo and soil-proofing in a single operation.

Berry, formerly a professional musician, plays the trumpet for the Olema Owls, the band which won first prize at a recent College of Marin jazz festival. Gipson is a former insurance broker.

Long before the United Nations, there was a United Provinces of Central America in 1824. It broke up over religious issues.

Strawberry Group To Resume Organ

Publication of "Strawberry Leaves," monthly organ of the Strawberry Property Owners Assn., will be resumed next month with Col. W. E. Long, association secretary, as editor.

The publication has been dormant for more than a year. In accepting the assignment, Colonel Long agreed to undertake the job temporarily and appealed for cooperation of all Strawberry residents.

New State Atom Office Created

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California will get a new state officer to keep tabs on atomic energy development and radiation hazards.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed a bill by Assemblyman Seth J. Johnson (R-Los Angeles) creating the position of atomic energy coordinator in the governor's office.

He'll have the job of coordinating the activities of all state agencies concerned with atomic Energy Commission permits in the state and liaison between the state and federal governments.

Pedestrian Hurt By Greyhound Bus

Kenneth Raymond Cundy of Berkeley was struck by a Greyhound bus Monday night as he was walking north on Bridgeway in Sausalito near the Glad Hand restaurant.

He was released from Marin General Hospital after treatment for injury to his left arm.

The driver of the bus, Lester J. Stark of Petaluma, was not cited.

Trunk Sewer At Novato Is Approved

Final approval has been given by the Novato Sanitary District board for a new main trunk sewer line designed to extend from the Novato treatment plant across Highway 101 to a point adjacent to Lamont avenue and the highway.

Cost of the 30-inch pipeline was estimated at between $80,000 and $100,000.

A. H. Tresch, secretary-manager of the district, said the board has approximately half the required funds set aside and will draw the remainder from the reserve construction fund.

Bids which will be called as soon as final drawings of the project have been completed by J. Warren Nute, district engineer.

The board Monday night approved applications for annexation of the property of Brashear and Tauno Sjoblom at Simmons lane and Marion avenue and of Jack W. Shields on Wilson avenue.

Applying for annexation by the district were Lee Brothers, contractors, whose property is on Tamalpais avenue; Mr. and Mrs. R. Angeli on Center Road; and Desco-Novato, a 21-lot subdivision north of Leese lake.

Also discussed was connection of the Meadow Park School into the Hamilton Field disposal line. This will require a special agreement between the water district and the San Jose School District.

Auto Stripper Gets Jail Term

James Lee Barri, 23, of 119 Ross street, San Rafael, must serve 90 days in jail for his part in stealing and stripping a car last January in San Rafael.

Barri's attorney, William Bagley, asked for a shorter jail sentence, pointing out Barri's clean past record and the fact that he had merely gone along with three other companions.

But Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled that Barri was the oldest of four involved and should have stopped the others instead of following their actions. The judge put Barri on three years probation on various conditions including a 90-day jail term with work-furlough privileges. Barri must also help make restitution for damages to the stolen car.

Group Will Study Crime In State

SAN FRANCISCO, (UPI) — State Attorney General Stanley Mosk has appointed a 32-member committee to find out more about how and why crime is committed in California.

Led by Chief Assistant Attorney General Arthur H. Sherry, the committee will study ways of compiling more information about criminals, from the worst felons to the misguided practical joker.

"We now know the numbers arrested and something of what happens in the courts but there are many gaps in existing information which should be remedied," Mosk said, speaking particularly of narcotics offenders.

SUPERVISORS ROUNDUP

Study Of Sewage Ordinance Asked

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday requested further study of a proposed ordinance which would require approval by the health officer of sewage disposal systems installed in subdivisions.

The ordinance, proposed by County Counsel Leland H. Jordan, would also provide fees for inspection of the sewer systems and penalities for violations of the law.

On recommendation of the supervisors, the ordinance will be given further study by Marvin W. Brigham, director of public works; William H. Desmond, director of sanitation, and Jordan.

In other action, the supervisors:

1. Approved payment of $24,394.95 to Carney Brothers Construction Co. for construction of facilities at Miller Park.

2. Authorized overtime payment for county employees who operate the county dump on Saturdays and Sundays.

3. Approved painting of center stripes on several Larkspur streets, the actual cost of the painting to be borne by the City of Larkspur and the striping to be done by county crews at the same time they are painting county roads in the area.

4. Accepted an agreement between the county and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. covering surface riser piping on Sir Francis Drake boulevard at Wolfe Grade. The contract, at no cost to the county, would provide for power to traffic signals recently installed at the junction.

5. Approved payment to Rolland B. Hammond for preliminary plans for the proposed juvenile hall.

6. Received an estimate by the director of public works that proposed improvement of Northern and Marin avenues in Tamalpais Valley would total $229,000. A copy of the estimate was sent the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Assn., which had requested the figures.

7. Turned down a request from Kurt Heath, developer of Marinero subdivision, to be allowed to file a bond for only $100,000 to guarantee subdivision improvements, which are to be installed through assessment district proceedings. Brigham estimated the project's cost as $294,000.

8. Asked County Clerk George S. Jones and County Administrator Donald A. Jensen to work out details of a program under which county department heads will make regular personal reports to the supervisors, or the board will regularly visit the departments, or both.

9. Approved an advance of $30,000 to the Tiburon Fire District until the district receives tax funds at the end of the calendar year.

10. Read 51 postcards asking for a vote on the proposed civic center, and directed that the usual form letter of reply be sent.

11. Received a letter from the Marin County Labor Council reaffarming its stand in favor of the proposed Pt. Reyes national seashore recreation area. The letter was filed after a brief, inconclusive discussion.

12. Sent to Jordan, for preparation of a memorandum to department heads, a policy proposal by Jensen that all proposed new ordinances or amendments be approved in principle by the board before Jordan's time is taken in drafting them.

13. Approved appointment of Eugene Trenam as intermediate clerk in the county clerk's office at a salary of $295, effective July 1, to replace John Dana, resigned.

14. Approved appointment of Evelyn Flindt as senior stenographic clerk in the planning department at $341, effective July 1, to fill a vacancy.

State Colleges Busy Building

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's state colleges are in the midst of their biggest building program in history, a program designed to house a record 50,000 students next September and the 141,000 students expected to throng the campuses by 1970.

State architect Anson Boyd said that 67 million dollars worth of new buildings will open in September and that another 120 million dollars worth of new construction is expected to be completed during the next 12 months.

There will be 19 residence halls among the new buildings holding 200 students each, the result of the first dormitory program for state colleges in their 103-year history.

Library Addition Is On Schedule

Construction of the $170,000 addition to San Rafael Library is on schedule, and the new wing should be completed by the end of November.

This was disclosed at Monday night's meeting of the library board. Mrs. Vivian Smith, chief librarian, said there was nothing else on the agenda except payment of monthly bills.

The next meeting of the library board is set for Aug. 10.

Civic Leader Released From Hospital Today

Truel F. Tourtellotte, San Rafael civic leader who suffered a heart attack last Thursday, was to return home to 12 Clyde avenue today from San Rafael General Hospital, but his physician said no visitors would be permitted for two weeks.

Tourtellotte, a special representative for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., was stricken while on vacation.

Slaying Suspect Pronounced Sane

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A man charged with the murders of two women in San Francisco hotels was pronounced sane yesterday by two court-appointed psychiatrists.

Richard Thomas Cooper, 32, had entered a double plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity last week.

Dr. Walter Rappaport, superintendent of Agnews State Hospital, and Dr. Percy Poliak examined Cooper on orders of Superior Judge Gerald S. Levin.

Cooper surrendered himself June 4 when he said he had strangled Earlean Mosely in his hotel room. He later confessed the slaying of Elvira Hay, Aug. 3, 1958 — a crime for which John (Tennessee) Fry went to San Quentin Prison. Fry was released when Cooper's confession was verified.

Dillon Beach Street Work Is Protested

Residents of the Dillon Beach Assessment District must wait at least two more weeks for a decision on complaints regarding the street and grade situation in their community, it was decided yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Facing more than a dozen letters of protest and personal appearances by many embittered residents were representatives of the firms of Wilsey and Ham, engineers and planners, and Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton, civil and structural engineers.

Protests, both written and oral, centered on the inequity of individual assessments due to the inaccessability of streets from many properties.

"I will be satisfied to pay what the others pay if you will add 55 feet of blacktop to reach my house," one protestant said.

B. J. Whitlow, vice president of one of the engineering firms involved, indicated that the continuation of the street would have to be put in at the property owners expense. "According to the contract, you are as close as you will ever be to a street unless you build it yourself," Whitlow told the owner of the property in question.

Eugene K. Sturgis, attorney for the assessment district, told the supervisors that the contractor would be responsible for bringing any work up to standard which were in the specifications. If the specifications did not indicate particular items the residents are demanding, the cost would have to be borne through additional assessment, Sturgis said.

Indicating that the engineers present had "wasted everyone's time" by not being prepared to answer the individual complaints, the supervisors gave them until July 28 at 4 p.m. to appear with the answers.

Floods Hit Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Floods following torrential rains spread over southern Japan and the unofficial death toll rose to 41, with 16 persons missing.

Supervisors Refuse To Delay Apartments

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday by a pair of 4-1 votes refused to hold up apartment buildings while the county's apartment zoning ordinance is being changed.

An ultimate apartment development of two million dollars opposite Hamilton Air Force Base, which would begin with one triangular building containing 30 units, was sent back to the county planning commission with a recommendation that it be approved. The planning commission earlier had voted 2-2, effectively denying the apartment under the present zoning.

The proposed building, the first of six planned for a seven and one-half-acre tract owned by Joseph Bianchi, would average out to about 1,500 square feet of site area for each apartment unit.

A proposed new apartment zoning would require 1,750 square feet for each apartment unit. Attorney Harold F. Riede, representing Edgar T. Lindner of Ross and an associate who hold an option on the Bianchi property, said his clients would be willing to take their chances with a changed ordinance but would like to get construction started soon. A new ordinance would apply to property presently zoned "R-3" unless construction on it is already under way.

Six triangular apartment buildings of 30 units each are planned for the Bianchi property. In the center of each would be a courtyard with swimming pool. The site is on the west side of Highway 101 about 400 feet from the highway.

Reide said fewer apartments per building would force rent up to about $150 a month. He said the expected tenants, enlisted men from Hamilton Air Force Base, could afford only $110 to $115 rents.

On the motion of Supervisor William Gnoss, the supervisors voted 4-1 to send the matter back to the planning commission with a recommendation that it be approved.

The same vote was recorded on another Novato apartment project previously denied by the planning commission. In both cases the dissenting vote was cast by Supervisor Vera Schultz.

The second apartment project was proposed by Alfred Bellucci, Novato real estate broker, for a site on the east side of South Novato boulevard just north of Yukon way. He proposes a building of 12 to 15 units with a swimming pool on a site of slightly more than 20,000 square feet.

The supervisors set a hearing on Aug. 4 at 2 p.m. on Cypress Lane Apartments, a 14-unit building on Sir Francis Drake boulevard in Kentfield between Stetson and Terrace avenues.

Prison Camp Escapee Captured In Arizona

Raymond E. Lockwood, 27, who walked away from San Quentin Conservation Camp 17 at Willits on July 7 was picked up at Globe, Ariz., yesterday, prison officials reported.

Lockwood, a welder, was serving a five-year-to-life sentence for first degree robbery in San Diego County.

11 Booby Traps Are Found In Prison Mine

PETROS, Tenn. (AP)— Brushy Mountain Prison officials reported today they have found 11 dynamite booby traps in a prison coal mine where rebellious convicts held three foremen captive for 32 hours.

"They had used their mine cap batteries to rig up booby traps," Warden Frank Llewellyn said. "Anywhere from two to 10 sticks of dynamite were used in each trap."

The prisoners gave up yesterday after officials issued an ultimatum.

Meanwhile, a high state official offered the rebels a chance to air their complaints.

Pat Patterson, assistant corrections commissioner, remained overnight at Brushy Mountain Prison to listen to individual grievances. He had refused to negotiate further until the 94 rebel convicts left their hideaway and released three captive mine foremen.

Eight men Patterson called ring-leaders in the rebellion were shipped last night to the maximum security section of the state penitentiary at Nashville, 160 miles to the west.

The convicts started the rebellion at the start of the Monday day shift.

Marshall Trustees To Study Budget

Trustees of the Marshall School District are expected to meet early next month to approve a final 1959-60 budget approximating $14,900.

Mrs. Lydia Grossi, board clerk, said today a meeting previously set for yesterday was canceled because the tentatively approved budget had not yet been approved by the county superintendent of schools.

The budget, about $2,000 higher than the current year's expenditures, will not mean an increase in the present tax rate of 80 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, Mrs. Grossi said.

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL BOYS LEARN ABOUT SILENT SERVICE

Thirty-three eager newspaperboys from the Independent-Journal went by bus yesterday to the Naval Reserve Training Center at Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Vallejo, first visiting the reserve submarine Sunfish and later being given a conducted tour of industrial and waterfront areas. This shows the group boarding the Sunfish. After their tour they were given luncheon before departure. (All photos by Independent-Journal photographer Jack Steinheimer)

DRAWING A BEAD—David Harris of Lagunitas, one of the newspaperboy guests, peers through sights of a 40-mm. gun. Behind him is Peter Del Tredici of San Anselmo.

I-J Newspaperboys Get Look At Navy's Undersea Craft

Thirty-three Independent-Journal carrier-dealers got an inside look at the Navy's underseas fighting craft.

The boys, as reward for efficient service, were taken to Mare Island Naval Shipyard by bus, on a tour arranged by Chief J. J. Zuurbier, Marin Navy recruiter.

There, they went aboard the naval reserve training submarine Sunfish — a veteran of World War II, her sides decorated with the emblems of Japanese shipping she sent to the bottom of the Pacific.

They saw how the craft is submerged and raised to the surface, how its torpedo tubes operate, how its crew lives while afloat under the sea.

They peered through a land-mounted periscope used in training naval reservists, to get a sub's eye view of the bay.

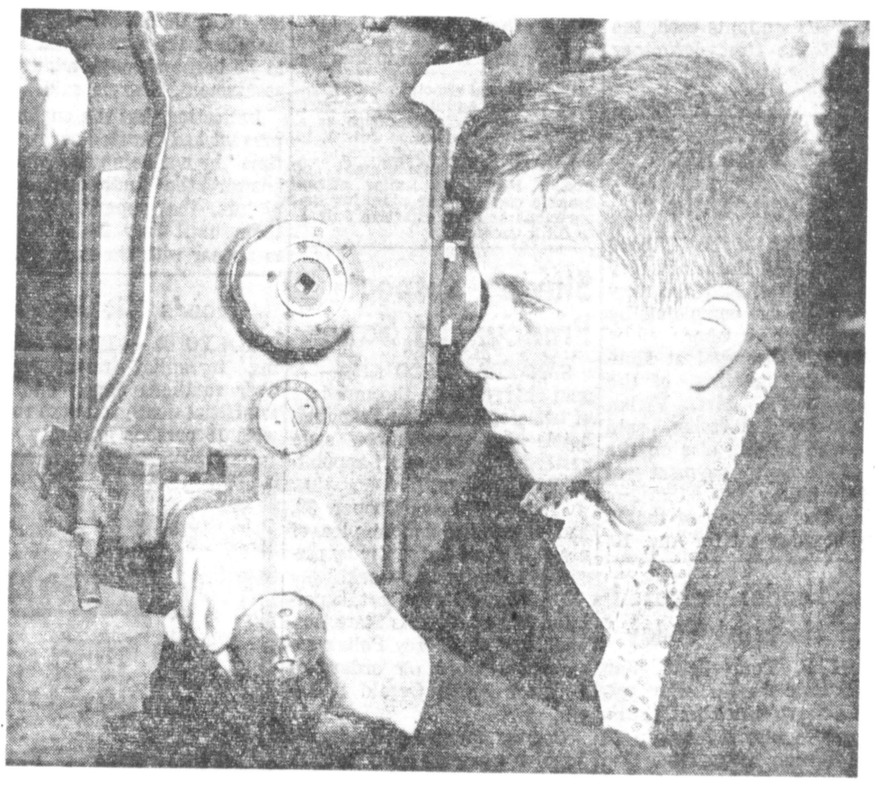
They toured facilities of the Naval Reserve Training Center with E. J. Lowry, civilian management analyst for the naval shipyard, as guide.

And they were taken through a full-scale mockup of the Theodore Roosevelt, one of two atomic submarines now under construction at Mare Island. It will be larger than the Nautilus that made the famed trip under the ice of the North Pole.

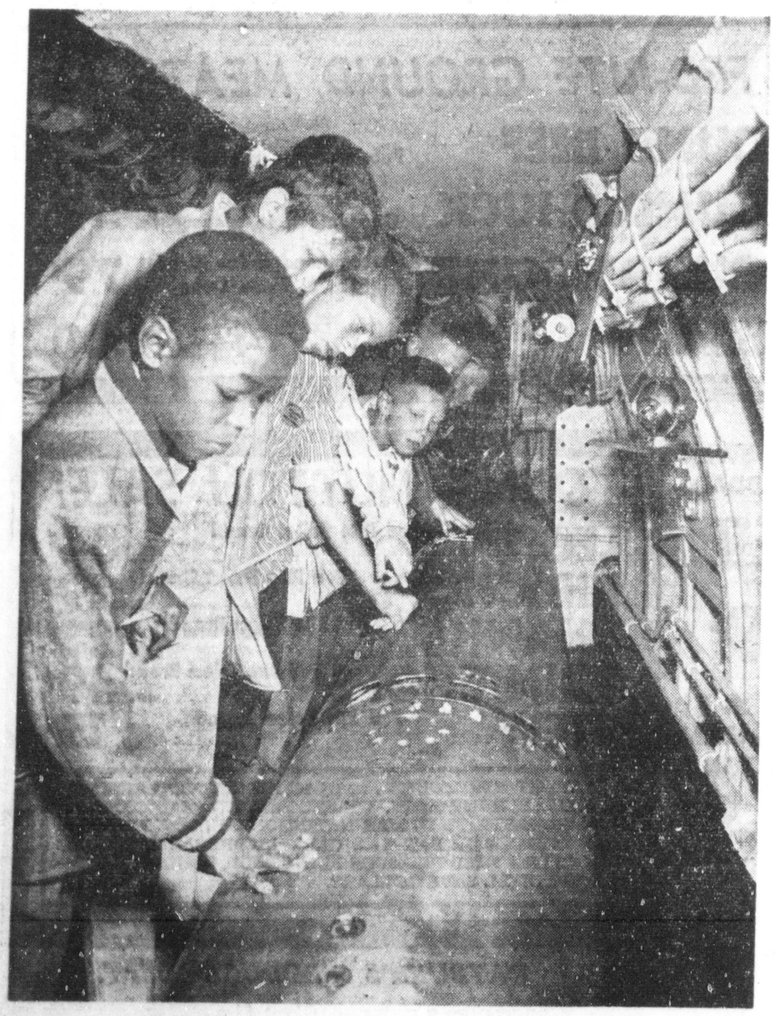
To top off the tour, the boys were guests of the Navy at lunch in a cafeteria of the Reserve Training Center.

"I think it was the most educational and interesting trip the boys have ever made," declared Julian C. Leone, circulation manager, who, with district manager Willie Wong, accompanied the boys.

Most of the boys seemed to agree wholeheartedly.



UP PERISCOPE!—This periscope is land-mounted but it works like those on submarines. Jim Wagele, a newspaperboy from Greenbrae, is having a look as though the sighting device were mounted on a vessel below the surface.



GOES WITH A WOOSH—The long streamlined form of a deadly torpedo is inspected by the Independent-Journal newspaperboys in the Sunfish's forward torpedo room.

HOW IT GOES DOWN—Engineman 1/c J. M. Aloi of Vallejo explains use of the diving planes which are handled for proper "trim" from the submarine's diving control room.

Three Children Hurt In Truck-Car Crash

Three farm laborer's children were injured today, when the pickup truck they were riding in collided with a car west of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge near the turnoff of Sir Francis Drake highway from Highway 17.

Both vehicles were eastbound on Highway 37 when the accident happened at 10:10 a.m.

Thrown from the rear of the truck along with mattresses, a washtub and other household gear, were Christine, 7; Louise, 5; Rose Marie, 4, and Joseph, 3, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Servin of Lindsay.

Louise and Rose Marie were being treated at San Rafael General Hospital for head injuries. Christine was cut on her legs. The others were not injured, a California Highway Patrol officer said.

Mrs. Servin was driving the truck, she told the CHP, and heard the children yelling as she started to turn the car from an outside lane toward the center.

As the truck entered the center lane it was struck from the rear by a car driven by Gerald G. Hoyt, 35, a general contractor and developer of Marinwood, who lives at 131 Blackstone, Marinwood. Hoytt complained of stiff left elbow, and went to a doctor.

The CHP said a citation is pending against Mrs. Servin for changing lanes without warning. The CHP said the family was en route to a farm-labor job at Sebastopol.

More Talks On Sewage Deal Asked

More discussion between the Corte Madera Sanitary District and its Ross Valley counterpart on charges to the Corte Madera for use of Ross Valley's Greenbrae sewage treatment plant is being asked by the Corte Madera district in a letter being prepared by Ernest T. Mock, member of the Corte Madera board of directors.

A proposal by Ross Valley Sanitary District that Corte Madera pay $200 for each million gallons of sewage in excess of a contractual limit of 175,000 gallons a day was discussed by the four Corte Madera directors at an adjourned meeting Monday night. A draft of a reply was prepared. Mock would not state his board's position in detail before the letter had been sent to Ross Valley Sanitary District.

Charge to the Corte Madera District now is $26.10 for each million gallons of sewage. An average of 400,000 gallons a day is pumped to the Greenbrae plant for treatment.

Ever since the Corte Madera Sanitary District began to exceed the 175,000-gallon-a-day limit set in a contract the two districts have been negotiating off and on for an expanded plant, with the cost to be underwritten by the Corte Madera district.

in a San Francisco surgical supply house, also told the district attorney that he studied botany as a hobby and was interested in the growing habits of the marijuana plant, Weissich said.

Mill Valley police and sheriff's deputies confiscated 17 potted marijuana plants from the porch of the Mill Valley home. They were about three feet tall then.

This morning, Weissich introduced the plants as evidence in court. They now stand five to six feet high. One of the deputy sheriffs had kept the "evidence" growing at his home until today's trial.

Novato Woman Dies Suddenly

Alice T. Hogg, 47, died unexpectedly yesterday at her home, 6 Los Alondros court, Novato, where she had resided with her sister, Grace Hogg, for the past four years.

Cause of death was not immediately known.

Miss Hoag was employed by the Bemis Bag Co. of San Francisco for the past 21 years. She was a native of that city. There are no other survivors.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato. Interment will follow in Memorial Park Cemetery, Colma.

Woman Gets Probation For Bank Thefts

Mrs. Ulla Diana Engstrom, 24, of San Rafael pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in San Francisco today to misappropriating $270 from the Crocker-Anglo National Bank in San Rafael while she was employed as a teller-bookkeeper there.

Judge George B. Harris imposed a one-year suspended prison sentence and placed Mrs. Engstrom on probation for three years. He made full restitution of the funds a condition of probation.

Mrs. Engstrom, a citizen of Sweden, was formerly employed by the Crocker-Anglo bank in San Francisco. When the San Rafael branch opened last Dec. 15 in the Montecito Shopping Center, she transferred to it.

She left the bank's employ about the end of February. Subsequently, a $270 shortage in her accounts was discovered.

Mrs. Engstrom wrote checks on her own account and posted them against another customer's account.

She was quietly arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after discovery of the shortage, and admitted the thefts.

Mrs. Engstrom's address while employed at the bank was 6 Wood street, San Rafael.

Trial Set For Editor

Pearce Gardiner Davies Jr., 37, editor of the Sausalito Gazette, will be tried by jury next month on a charge that he cut a picture out of a library book to use on the front page of his first edition.

Davies pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of malicious mischief and petty theft, and asked for a jury trial. Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court set trial for 9:30 a.m. Aug. 18.

Police Chief Howard Goerndt of Sausalito and Inspector Donald E. Midyett of the district attorney's office said Davies borrowed the book, "In Tamal Land," from the Sausalito library on May 21. When it was returned, a rare picture showing the main street of Sausalito 50 years ago was missing. Last week, the first issue of the Gazette carried the picture on the front page.

the car and drove off toward Fairfax.

At first, he said, they were wondering what they would do with him, and finally decided to take him to Stinson Beach to commit atrocities. But at White's Hill, they let Bersano out of the car, probably because they became frightened, the victim related.

Bersano said four of his abductors had black hair, and the fifth had brown greasy hair.

Child Kicked By Horse; Parents Sue

Parents of a 2-year-old Mill Valley girl are suing for $75,000 damages for injuries suffered by the girl when a horse on the loose kicked her in the head last April.

Mrs. Laura Andrews of Montecimas avenue filed the suit for her daughter, Teresa, in Marin Superior Court today against neighbors Alfred A. and Catherine Averill, also of Montecimas avenue. Attorney Theodore A. Rosenak of San Francisco is representing the Andrews.

According to Rosenak, the girl was playing alongside Montecimas avenue, accompanied by her mother, on April 15. An unattended horse owned by Mr. and Mrs. Averill came wandering along and kicked the girl in the head, Rosenak claims.

The complaint alleges that the girl required hospitalization and operations for head injuries.

OBITUARY

Composer Bloch Succumbs

Composer Ernest Bloch, 78, father of Mill Valley painter Mrs. Lucienne Bloch Dimitroff, died this morning in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore.

Bloch, who has lived on the Oregon coast for a number of years, had been undergoing treatment for cancer. He entered the hospital last Tuesday.

The former director of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music had traveled extensively throughout Europe, but spent most of his creative life as a composer in the Bay Area.

Bloch came to the United States in 1917 from his native Switzerland. He was naturalized in 1924.

In 1938 he accepted the post of instructor of music at the University of California in Berkeley. His prize-winning composition, "America," once received an honorary resolution from the San Francisco board of supervisors.

Mrs. Dimitroff, his youngest daughter, is the wife of Stephen P. Dimitroff, owner and operator of an art supply store in Mill Valley. She is the mother of three children.

Gate Playhouse Bills 'On Town'

The Gate Playhouse in Sausalito will open "On the Town," on July 24, director Leslie Abbott announced today. Curtain will be at 8:30 p.m.

"Visit to a Small Planet" closed last Sunday night after an extended showing.

Funeral Is Held For Ex-Resident

Private funeral services for Mrs. Mary Hornell, 89, a former resident of Marin who died at a local rest home Friday, were held yesterday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Hornell and her late husband, James Hornell, were residents of Marin for 10 years prior to moving to San Jose a number of years ago.

Recently Mrs. Hornell came back to Marin to reside at a rest home. She was a native of Canada. She is survived by a son, John H. Hornell of Burlingame, and a grandson in San Jose.

Burial was at Mt. Tamalpais Memorial Park, San Rafael.

Former Marin Resident Dies

Mrs. Martha L. Blagg, 83, died yesterday at a Sonoma rest home where she had been confined with an illness for nine months. She was a former resident of San Rafael, where she had lived many years.

Prior to moving to the rest home she had made her home in San Francisco.

She is survived by two sons, Ernest J. and Martin J. Blagg, and two grandchildren, all of San Rafael.

A Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Rita's Church, Fairfax, with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

The rosary will be read at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Keaton Mortuary chapel, San Rafael.

TOPS IN HARMONY—The Baytown Four, which placed among the top 10 in the SPEBSQSA this summer, will be featured in the Marin County chapter's sixth annual Harmony Festival Saturday night at Marin Catholic High School. The four, from Berkeley, are Don McDaniel and Fred Anderson (rear) and Dave Baughman and Dick Saylor (front).

Barbershop Music Fete Saturday In Greenbrae

The Marin County Chapter of SPEBSQSA (that's the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America) will hold it's sixth annual Harmony Festival Saturday evening.

The festival will start at 8 o'clock at Marin Catholic High School in Greenbrae, and will feature the Baytown Four as a star attraction.

The Baytown Four, organized less than a year ago, has climbed to national prominence in record time. In competition with 26 other quartets from five states it qualified in the Far Western District regional contest last spring. This gave it the golden opportunity to compete in the national contest in Chicago this summer. There, the four placed in the top 10 in a field of 60 accomplished Barber Shop Quartets, representing the best on the North American continent.

Every year the SPEBSQSA holds a national competition to find the best of the nations quartets and male choruses. This has been going on for 20 years, since the society was formed in 1938. This year over 5,000 attended the three-day convention and competition in Chicago.

The Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America was formed by a group of professional and business men in 1938 to preserve the old harmony, and the fellowship it expressed. Today there are 26,000 members—barbershopers, as they call themselves—organized into 600 local chapters. California alone has 46 chapters with an average membership of 40 per chapter.

The Marin Chapter was formed six years ago by two San Rafael businessmen, and with 43 members today, membership chairman Ben Walton hopes to make it 60 by the time the year is over.

The Marin chapter's chorus, the Marin Saltaires, are polishing up several numbers for the festival Saturday.

Three organized quartets from the chapter; the Golden Gate Harmony Four, the Chord Reporters, and the San Rafelows, also will be on the program.

Brown Signs Bill Banning Racial Bias

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Racial or religious discrimination in any business establishment in California was banned by a bill signed today by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The measure by Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles) becomes effective Sept. 18.

Present California law explicitly prohibits discrimination only in certain businesses, such as inns and restaurants. Court decisions have caused uncertainty about certain other places.

Unruh's bill says "all business establishments of any kind whatsoever."

It also increases the penalty for violation from $100 to $250.

Brown called it the third major civil rights bill he has signed. The others prohibit discrimination in employment and publicly assisted housing.

'Dozer Operator Is Hit By Pellet

A 12-year-old boy with a pellet gun stopped a bulldozer in Tamalpais Valley Monday afternoon.

Bulldozer operator John M. West, 41, of 77 Spruce road, Fairfax, was working on the B. W. Albert property at 620 Eucalyptus avenue about 4 p.m. when the pellet struck his right shoulder. West said the shot left a red welt on his shoulder.

The boy admitted he and his brother were shooting pellet guns, and he aimed the one that hit the bulldozer operator.

Sheriff's deputies confiscated the pellet guns and ordered the boys and their parents to appear at the probation office Thursday.

The American Federation of Labor was organized in 1886. Originally it was known as the Knights of Labor.

New Deputy D.A. Weds Berkeley Girl In Nevada

Hadden Roth, 29, of Mill Valley, newest member of the Marin district attorney's office, surprised his colleagues and parents alike by getting married in Nevada to a Berkeley girl.

She is Shelly von Duering, 27, a social worker in Alameda County, who formerly lived in Fairfax.

Roth took a leave of absence this week, but Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich said no one in his office thought Roth was going to get married. Monday this telegram arrived at Weissich's office from Kings Beach, near Lake Tahoe: "Married Sunday in Nevada. See you next Monday. Hadden."

Roth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Roth of 101 Ralston avenue, Mill Valley. Mrs. Roth operates the Redwood stationery store in Mill Valley while Roth owns a bulletin board manufacturing company in San Francisco.

Two Big Sequoia Trees Make News

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK (AP)—Two giant sequoia trees, in the Sierra Nevada range where people from throughout the world come to see the oldest and largest living things, are making news.

The redwood giants have been something of a mystery, and certainly one of nature's most awe-inspiring attractions, since their discovery little more than a century ago. They have lived the longest of anything known, with the possible exception of their gnarled, straggly eastern Sierra neighbor, the bristle cone pine.

These trees have survived hundreds of forest fires over the centuries, the ravages clearly written in the bark and tree crests. Many are from 3,000 to 4,000 years old.

Last March 23 the evening sky behind Giant Forest Lodge in Sequoia National Park was illumined by a bolt of lightning that gave new fuel for an old discussion about the fire-resistance of the big trees. It struck a 240-foot sequoia and started a fire in the upper trunk that burned steadily for a week.

Many of these trees have been hit by lightning. Some were destroyed outright. But literature does not reveal another instance of a tree being consumed by fire. Only after it had burned down to about 100 feet and fire hoses were played on it, was the flame extinguished.

Witnesses said two large limbs knocked from the trunk by lightning left holes into the hollow center that seemed to create a strong draft. This gave the fire the force of a blast furnace.

On June 23 another sequoia, 275 feet tall and some 30 feet in diameter, crashed only a mile away and carried two large sugar pines with it. The top 125 to 150 feet shattered with such force against a granite outcropping that nothing but splintered chunks—many weighing tons—remained strewn over the mountainside. Beneath the trunk lay the sugar pines, themselves so large they would dwarf companions in any ordinary forest.

"It is not a rare thing," said park naturalist Harry Robinson, "for a sequoia to fall; that is how most of them finally come to an end. A few have succumbed to lightning. None is known to have died 'on its feet' from disease, insects or old age."

No other tree is like a sequoia. The gigantea, native only in the western Sierra Nevada range, with a maximum known diameter of 35 to 40 feet, is the largest. Its coastal cousin, sempervirens, is taller, reaching some 400 feet. With little more than half the mass of the gigantea it still is the second largest in the world' by a wide margin.

Both species have a thick brown bark nearly impervious to fire and insects, whether alive or dead. Trunks of trees known to have died hundreds of years ago when they were more than 4,000 years old, lie intact on the forest floor.

Church Projects Are Authorized

Last week's building permits issued by the Marin County Building Inspection Department included two for churches. One for a $3,000 addition to Church of the Nativity at 350 Blackstone drive, Marinwood, and one for a $2,500 chapel at the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Estimated value of new construction authorized last week in unincorporated Marin County totaled $341,049. This included permits for two Novato duplexes, a Kentfield duplex, 15 single-family dwellings, and four swimming pools.

Bargain Carnival Opens Tomorrow In San Anselmo

A style show on the lawn of the San Anselmo City Hall at 10 a.m. tomorrow will open special events of the three-day San Anselmo Bargain Days, a chamber of commerce - sponsored citywide sales event.

Forty-three businesses are participating in the bargain carnival, which will feature awards of two 17-inch portable television sets and two eight-transistor pocket radios. All merchants will begin tomorrow morning handing out tickets for the prizes, with no purchase necessary. The winning numbers will be drawn on the city hall lawn at 10 a.m. next Monday.

10 NUMBERS

Ten numbers will be drawn for each prize. If the winning number is not surrendered within five days, the prize will go to the second number. If it is not then surrendered within one day, the third number will win, and so on, said George G. Washburn, chamber of commerce secretary.

Individual interviews with all participating businessmen will be broadcast over radio station KTIM during the sale. Window banners will identify participating stores.

CITY HALL PROGRAM

A program on the city hall steps preceding the fashion show will feature addresses by Mayor Arthur W. Smith, president A. Von Rotz of the chamber of commerce, and Homer Hickards, the San Anselmo Bargain Days chairman.

Participating merchants and business firms are:

A. Von Rotz, contractor; Cutty's Liquor and Smoke Shop, Photo Shop, Hank's Menlo Service, Orrick Travel Bureau, Lamps and Things, Jim and Jay's Meats, Casper's La Siesta, Modern Shoe Store, Owl Rexall Drugs, Kientz's Pastry Shop.

Haggett's Machine Shop, Lee's Loom, Drake Market, Brown's Store for Men and Boys, Braverman's Kaufman's Department Store, Oriental Treasures, Sunnyside Nursery, Yarn Nook, Toy Circus, Sir Francis Drake Nursery, Red Hill Nursery, San Anselmo Hardware.

Dupree's Jewelers, Preview Maternity Shop, San Anselmo Furniture, Winter Hardware, Torrance Art Gallery, Home Market, Lalla's, Ernest Ongaro, Sally's Apparel, San Anselmo Health Foods,

Hoy's Golden Hind Book Store, Sprouse-Reitz Co., San Anselmo Paint Center, White's Furniture, Art Smith Variety Store, Marin County Poultry, Marin Paint Store and United Markets.

SHE'D BETTER NOT LET DADDY KNOW

LONDON (UPI) — Alina Correa Ribiero, 17, of Brazil said yesterday on completing two years at a finishing school here that she now likes tea much better than coffee. But she's not sure whether she'll brew any when she gets home.

Her father is one of Brazil's leading coffee producers.

Phone Stock Split Approved By PUC

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state Public Utilities Commission yesterday authorized the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s plan to split its common stock seven for one.

New Pharmacy Wins Planners' Approval

A new Poehlmann Pharmacy building with drive-in facilities won architectural approval last night at the San Rafael Planning Commission meeting.

The new drive-in drug store will go up in the burned-out block of Fourth street between D and E street. It will be built between the Christian Science reading room and Miller and Severin architectural office.

Plans presented last night show that customers will be able to drive in on Fourth street, and through to Fifth avenue for exit. Offstreet parking spaces are also provided.

In other action, the planning commissioners:

1. Set July 28 as public hearing date for a proposed private tennis and swim club at the south end of C street. Developer John Farrar and several partners plan to put in a club similar to the Mill Valley Tennis Club on seven acres of land. The property extends from the end of C street to Meyer road.

2. Rezoned Julius J. Frnjak's property on First street at Miramar from duplex to multiple zoning. Frnjak wants to put up a medical building.

3. Put off until July 28 a request to erect a "Terra Linda Oaks" sign at the entrance to Terra Linda. The planners asked John Kenny to bring in plans on the sign by the July 28 meeting.

4. Set July 22 as date for a special meeting to consider several subdivision requests, including Terra Linda Meadows, Dominican Heights, and Loch Lomond Unit 6.

5. Granted Harry Albert a use permit for a new building on Fifth avenue behind Grand Auto Stores. It will be used for auto accessories and appliances as an expansion of Grand Auto Store.

Assessment Roll Down In Sausalito

Although Sausalito has enjoyed a large increase in property development during the last year, its equalized assessment roll is down almost a million dollars from last year, according to figures submitted to the City Council last night by City Clerk-Assessor Amelie Smith.

The apparent paradox developed as the county sat as a board of equalization after the regular council meeting which ran until after midnight.

The equalized roll presented by Mrs. Smith came to $9,767,360. Her records indicated the comparable figure for a year ago was $10,778,270.

"This seems hard to believe," Mrs. Smith said, referring to the city's constant building growth. "However, the difference is probably traceable to the reappraisal of property as well as from the fact that last year the figure was based on 28 per cent of appraisal, where this year it is 25 per cent."

Only one assessment protestant showed up last night.

Fred D. Turner of 144 Prospect avenue told the council the assessed valuation on two of his lots had been set at $5,500 and he felt it should be $3,760. At the suggestion of Mayor Howard Sievers, the figure was changed to $4,000. Turner said he would also protest to the county.

Sausalito Councilmen Argue About Sandspit

Sausalito's City Council was dealing in futures last night when city fathers and City Atty. John B. Ehlen engaged in lengthy debate as to whether the sublease on the controversial sandspit should expire in 2007 or in 2002.

Ehlen recommended that the date of 2007, now in the document, be changed to 2002. There was some question, he said, about the city's legal right to lease the property for the longer period.

Councilman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., consistent foe of the entire sandspit commercial plan, sought to block approval of the change. He contended the entire agreement should be reexamined.

"This policy of planned delay leaves me flat," stormed Ehlen as Mayor Howard Sievers called for a vote approving the change. It carried 3-1, Ehrlich dissenting. Councilman Marjorie Brady is on vacation.

A threatened hassle on minimum land requirements for apartment or hotel construction was avoided as the council introduced an ordinance cutting in half the 2,500 square foot figure recommended by the planning commission.

The council also:

1. Approved a liberalized agreement for annexation and zoning of the Conser property on Waldo Point, to be developed for 50 apartments utilizing a minimum 1,250 square feet per living unit, one-to-one parking, underground utilities and 30 per cent lot coverage. A planning commission recommendation had been for more severe restrictions. A public hearing is set for Aug. 18.

2. Again set a "final date" for Byron Edwards to provide a performance bond covering removal of a barge from a city street and another covering required changes to the structure. New "final date" is Aug. 4.

3. Denied unanimously a petition by occupants of four arks on Mono street to connect with city sewers after City Attorney Ehlen termed the petition "as phoney as $3 bill" and not made in good faith. Attorney Theodore Rosenak denied the allegation.

4. Accepted a state map showing location of state tidelands deeded to the city.

5. Introduced an ordinance authorizing boulevard stops on both sides of Bridgeway from San Carlos avenue to the north city limits.

6. Introduced an ordinance repealing a section of the new building code which conflicts with the zoning ordinance on building height limits.

7. Authorized 12 new parking meters on upper Bridgeway and seven on Humboldt avenue between Anchor and Bay streets.

8. Authorized City Manager Donald A. Duerr to hold an examination to create an eligible list for police officers.

9. Approved claims and demands totaling $31,781.25.

10. Postponed action on a new appointment to the planning commission replacing Richard Grambow, who submitted his resignation.

11. Set Aug. 18 as a hearing date on a request by Frank Bugai for abandonment of a portion of Marin avenue at Bridgeway.

12. Approved a revision in the agreement with Mark-A-Line Inc. for installation of parking lot facilities, subject to approval by Ehlen.

13. Set for Aug. 4 a public hearing on a proposal by Morden Dunn for rezoning a portion of Nevada street for commercial use.

14. Welcomed new city engineer John L. Hunter, who succeeds John C. Oglesby.

15. Noted that the next meeting would be Aug. 4, cancelling any meeting on the regular date, July 21.

Buildings At San Rafael High To Get New Roofs

The San Rafael Board of Education last night accepted a low bid of $6,900 from the Marin County Roofing Co. to re-roof the San Rafael High School shop buildings and auditorium.

It was the lowest of three bids, with the high bid at $8,500, according to Supt. Frank L. Lucas.

He said the work would be completed for the opening of school in September.

At the same time the board called for bids for filling low areas at Davidson School. Lucas, who gave no price estimate, said about 7,000 cubic yards of fill will be needed. Bids will be opened Aug. 4.

In other business the board:

1. Heard a report that the evening high school adult program had 210 students the past school year.

2. Heard a report that the county is ready to build an overpass for the San Pedro School at Loch Lomond after a joint agreement by the school district, San Rafael, and county to split the costs at $8,000 each.

3. Approved tentative new design for the proposed homemaking and arts and crafts rooms at the intermediate school at Santa Venetia. The board previously had rejected architectural designs by Cantin and Cantin because it was thought that the building program might be too costly. The same firm was authorized to start work on new working drawings.

4. Held a brief discussion on a name for the new high school at Terra Linda, but did not come up with any suggestions.

5. Named Webster Smith of Torrance as principal at Coleman to replace Ann Philbert who will be principal at McPhail. She replaces Harold Delma who will be principal at E Street School, who in turn replaces William Sewell who will be principal at Laurel Dell. He will replace Mrs. Marion Faustman, who resigned.

6. Hired Mrs. Louise Cheatham of San Rafael for a half-time teacher at Santa Venetia School at $2,341 a year, and Douglas Felt of San Francisco as an English teacher at the high school at $5,272 a year.

Nine Take Out Bid Forms For Ward Project

Nine contractors have taken out forms for bids to be opened at 3 p.m. tomorrow for a four-million - dollar Montgomery Ward and Co. store in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held April 30 on a 175 by 350-foot site covered with some 40,000 cubic yards of earth fill. A two-story building with 75,000 square feet of space, designed by architect John S. Bolles of San Francisco, is expected to be ready for business by next February. It is to be fully air-conditioned and to have escalators.

This will be Montgomery Ward's second such construction in the west since 1940. A new Richmond store is expected to be ready just before completion of the Corte Madera project. Included will be an outside sales area for seasonal merchandise.

Brown Signs Bill Raising Jobless Insurance Payment

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed legislation raising the state's top unemployment insurance payment from $40 to $55 a week, assuring more than 600,000 idle workers of increased benefits.

Brown gave final approval to the bill by Assemblyman William A. Munnell (D-Montebello) yesterday. The governor had requested the increase in his message to the Legislature.

About 95 per cent of the workers covered by unemployment insurance will get a raise under the bill, which Brown praised as "one of the major social insurance achievements of the decade."

ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it, not from us, but from official results of this year's Mobilgas Economy Run: Chevy's pennypinching 6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 22.38—of any full-size car. And here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's other six bests:

BEST TRADE-IN
Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE
It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES
In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR†, Chevrolet 'out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not: Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM
Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.‡ make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE
Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE
MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about a long list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

NEW TYPE OF GOVERNMENT TWO-WHEELER

Pfc. Douglas C. Kizziah, 21, of Travis Air Force Base was at the steering wheel of this truck when it sideswiped a lumber truck as both were northbound at 12:55 p.m. yesterday. The truck lost its front wheels, reported California Highway Patrolman Richard O'Brien. Kizziah suffered cuts on both hands as the windshield shattered. Driver of the lumber truck was Gene Walton Ramsey of Willits. (George Wheeler photo)

Ike Says No Break Yet In Deadlock

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Eisenhower said today that Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has full authority to agree to a Big Four summit conference if Russia makes it clear it will respect Western rights and obligations in Berlin.

The President said at his new conference, however, that for the moment there doesn't appear to be any break in the deadlock at the just-resumed Geneva Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

He said he was sure the Russians would like to reach an agreement in Geneva if it was all in their favor. However, he added, the real question is whether the Russians are ready to make concessions, in exchange for Western concessions, that would give everybody confidence that there is some progress being made toward peace.

STOCKS TODAY

NEW YORK (AP)— Steels, nonferrous metals and electronics advanced in moderately active trading late this afternoon as the stock market posted a limited gain.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,300,000 shares, compared with 3,230,000 yesterday.

Pivotal issues rose from fractions to about a point. Losers moved in the same range.

The start of the steel strike found shares of the industry nicely ahead. Youngstown Sheet and Lukens Steel were up about two U.S. Steel was ahead about a point.

Kennecott rose about a point while Magma Copper jumped more than a point.

Electronics cut back some of their best early gains. Zenith remained ahead about four and Texas Instruments around five. Motorola and Ampex were ahead more than a point each.

Novato School Board Adopts Final Budget

A final budget of $1,578,295 for 1959-60 was approved last night by trustees of Novato Unified School District, with the board members agreeing to "try to hold the present tax rate of $3.16."

This year's expenditures have totaled $1,373,120. The increase next year, however, is expected to be offset by increased assessed valuation, reported Supt. William J. J. Smith.

Trustees included the stipulation that $6,000 of items in the budget be earmarked for deletion in the event the increase in revenue is not realized.

The board approved the sale of $141,000 worth of elementary school bonds, which will go to amortize previous state loans and make possible further state loans for purchase of eight acres off South Novato boulevard for a new school site (the Connell property) and further construction work at Hill School.

Trustees also:

1. Awarded contracts totaling $10,155 for new furniture at Lu Sutton and Hill Schools to Beir and Gunderson Co. of Sacramento, Virco Manufacturing Co. of San Francisco and Educators Co. of Sacramento.

2. Authorized calling bids for sound equipment, estimated to cost $7,000, for language classes in German at Novato High School. Half of the funds are to come from the federal government under the National Defense Act.

3. Accepted the bids of five suppliers for metal and wood working shops equipment totaling $19,976.

4. Accepted a low bid of $1,376 by Fabian Bobo of Novato for asphalt paving at Marion School.

Patrol Car Strikes Parked Automobile

A sheriff's patrol car driven by Deputy D. L. Greeson hit a parked car on Mar West street in Tiburon about midnight last night while trying to avoid an oncoming car.

No one was reported hurt, but the patrol car received damages on the front fender. Greeson said he was forced off the road by an oncoming car which swerved into his lane.

Gems Stolen From Store In San Rafael

Somebody walked into Gorb's Jeweler's in San Rafael and slipped out with a trayful of gems worth $3,000 retail, Michael Alex Gorb reported to San Rafael police yesterday.

Missing are six sets of diamond engagement and wedding rings which were in a tray inside a showcase. Police said it is possible for a person to reach over the 18-inch wide showcase, open the sliding door, and take the tray. Each set of rings had a carat of diamonds, and was worth $500.

Billie Margaret Arrington of 804 Rosal way, San Rafael, the store's only employee, discovered the tray missing about 3:30 p.m. Monday. Gorb said he did not report the loss to police right away because he wanted to do some checking first.

Investigators said the theft probably occurred in daylight.

Corte Madera Sanitary Budget Set

A 1959-60 budget of $56,450 and predicated on a tax rate limit of 60 cents pere $100 assessed valuation was adopted Monday night by directors of the Corte Madera Sanitary District.

The four directors whittled $3,500 from a proposed budget submitted by William A. Adam, district manager. The budget represents an increased spending program of $11,130 over the 1958-59 budget but no change in the district's operating tax rate.

Breakdown of the adopted budget is as follows:

Salaries totaling $20,700, including $7,800 a year for Adam and $2.50 an hour for Mrs. Portia Fitzgerald, a part-time secretary (both receive the same salary as last year, and the remainder to cover wages of seasonal labor; $28,700 for maintenance and operation; $2,050 for purchase of a used truck, man hole jacks and other tools, and $5,000 as a reserve fund.

The adopted budget requests that the district's June 30 balance estimated at about $10,000 to be "reserved" to the district. The budget of $56,450 is to be financed entirely from current tax revenues.

Archers Slate Shoot Saturday

The Northwoods Bowmen's Club will hold a variable distance handicap archery tournament Saturday at their range out San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia.

Registration begins at noon and closes at 1:30. Shooting starts at 1 p. m.

All archers are invited to participate. Tournament is arranged so that every archer, regardless of ability, has a chance of winning one of the trophies that will be offered.

A special trophy will be given for the most original "alibi" for having missed a deer during the current archery hunting season.

MISS PHYSICAL FITNESS GIVEN TROPHY

Two startling examples of physical perfection are awarded winning trophies after the Miss Physical Fitness contest in Albany. Winning the title over 30 shapely contestants was Donna Engar, San Francisco (left). Winifred Lewis of Corte Madera (right) placed second. Miss Lewis is the wife of Reg Lewis, "Mr. Universe of 1957," who operates a physical culture studio in Corte Madera. Placing fifth in the event was another Marin girl, Judy McAtee of Ross.

Fairhurst Continues To Head Airport Unit

Reappointment of C. J. Fairhurst, president of the Fairhurst Lumber Co., San Rafael, as chairman of the airport committee of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation was announced today by President Fred F. Enemark.

Main activity of the committee, membership of which Fairhurst is now selecting, will be to seek to educate Marinites on the potentialities a small plane airport has in this county.

In accepting the appointment Fairhurst stressed that such an airport would not depend upon locally owned planes for its economic health but rather those attracted by nearby communities, particularly San Francisco and the East Bay.

Fairhurst, said: "Travel by businessmen in company owned planes is increasing by leaps and bounds, and yet in the increasingly congested San Francisco Bay Area, it is getting continually more difficult to find airports where such planes can be based. This is Marin's opportunity. The San Quentin Point site is extremely accessible to its market. We feel, and competent surveys assure us, that it will attract not only a volume of planes presently and uncomfortably based at other airports but will also serve as a magnet for attracting new industries and businesses that must be close to such an airport. With the signing of the new federal airport bill by the president, we plan to again bring the proposal before the people."

New Building For College

BERKELEY (AP)—A new $1,600,000 six-story reinforced concrete building has been completed on the University of California's Berkeley campus.

Chancellor Glenn T. Seaborg said today occupation of the building will begin soon and should be completed by the opening of the fall semester. It will house the departments of astronomy, mathematics, and statistics and the university's computer center.

The new building has been named William W. Campbell Hall in honor of a former president of the university and director of Lick Observatory. Features include two domed observatories on the roof and an open deck observatory.

Bus Loses Brakes, Kills Small Girl

ARCADIA (AP)—A bus returning 90 youngsters from a mountain day camp lost its brakes on a grade yesterday and careened wildly down a tree-lined suburban street.

The bus left a wake of three smashed cars and the broken body of a 3-year-old girl before it overturned.

None of the campers was seriously injured.

The girl, Corrine Matson of Arcadia, was killed when thrown from a sedan hit from behind by the bus.

Exhaust Control Step Is Taken

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress took the first major step yesterday towards possible control of harmful exhaust gases from automobiles.

A House health and safety subcommittee approved a bill, sponsored by Rep. Paul F. Schenck (R-Ohio), which would require auto manufacturers to equip cars so they produce only a limited amount of air pollution.

The legislation would direct the U. S. Public Health Service to determine what the safe limits are. Once the standards are set, auto makers would be prohibited for one year from shipping in interstate commerce any new cars which did not conform.

One Forest Fire Under Control, One Waning

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

One major Northern California forest fire was controlled and another 60 per cent under control today, but not until enough potential lumber to build 1,500 averaged-sized homes had been destroyed.

Fair weather aided fire-fighters yesterday, as the worst of the two blazes, in the Kern River Canyon area, was 60 per cent subdued with expected total control by late today.

The other blaze, in the redwood logging region on the Sonoma-Mendicino line, was controlled by 6 p.m. yesterday, with all danger to the evacuated town of Annapolis ended.

By yesterday the two blazes had consumed 21,500,000 board feet of timber.

Two-hundred-fifty persons fled Annapolis yesterday when flames reached the town's edge, but an overnight fog and a cool southern breeze helped 700 fire-fighters save the Annapolis homes.

The estimated loss of the blaze that broke out Sunday in Sequoia National Forest was estimated at 5,300 acres with 1,000 of that amount in valuable pine and fir trees.

Nearly 1,000 men were still on the fireline.

MEDICAL SOCIETY URGES

Health Department Cease Throat Culture Analyses

Dr. Calvin Plumhof of San Rafael, representing the Marin County Medical Society, recommended yesterday to the county board of supervisors that the county health department discontinue its analysis of streptococcal throat cultures.

The supervisors had asked for a recommenation from the medical society when it noticed an abrupt rise in cost of health department laboratory supplies. Last year $1,483 was spent and $2,200 was budgeted for 1959-60.

The rise in cost was explained by Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer. In January a better method of transporting throat cultures was perfected and the number sent in by physicians tripled, she said.

The throat culture now may be inserted in an envelope and sent to the health department by mail instead of being taken by hand in a glass tube. From July through December last year, 657 cultures were analyzed; during the first six months of this year, 3,420 were analyzed.

In addition, sheep red blood cells used for the cultures have doubled in price recently.

The laboratory staff of two microbiologists and since July 1, a half-time aide, have been "nearly killed with work," Dr. Albrecht reported.

Dr. Plumoff told the supervisors that the free service was started as "a research thing and seems to have continued because of doctors' curiosity."

Dr. Albrecht said she thought "if our department is to prevent illness we should detect the unknown carriers."

She told the supervisors that the laboratory staff could carry on for three months until statitical study is completed, and asked that decision on the streptoccal throat cultures be postponed until then. The supervisors agreed.

Radio Panel To Discuss Billboards

Kitty Oppenheimer will moderate the question, "Are Marin County's Billboard Regulations Too Strict?" on the Marin Sounding Board program heard over radio KTIM at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Taking part in the discussion will be Leland H. Jordan, county counsel; B. D. Dobbs, county planning commission member; Angelo Sabella, owner of Sabella's restaurant; and James Stockman, owner-manager of the Edgewater Inn.

Questions telephoned by listeners will be directed to the panelists. The program will be re-broadcast Sunday at 12:30 p.m. from a recording.

Blood Is Sought For Anemia Victim

Blood donations are sought for Bograd Christensen, 60, of 110 Terrace avenue, Kentfield, a retired engineer who worked on the Golden Gate Bridge and whose condition requires a pint of blood each week. He has thus far used 50 pints.

Christensen is a victim of aplastic anemia.

Donors to the Marin Reserve Fund may be made in his name at the San Rafael Elks Club Friday between 2:30 and 6:30 p. m. They will be received by the Bloodmobile of the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank of the San Francisco Medical Society.

Joe College's Writing Concerns Educators

By DAVID O. TYSON

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —Why Johnny can't read is a big problem for some educators. Others are worried because Joe College can't write.

They feel Joe just doesn't get enough drill in putting words together while he's in high school and something should be done about it.

High schools in 16 cities throughout the nation this past school year started an experiment designed to ease the problem. Already the program has improved the compositions of some 8,000 students.

The program is based on a simple idea: Housewives with college training and tested ability in correcting themes are hired on a piece work basis to grade papers.

The work is the sort many mothers like to do. It's stimulating. And it means more money in the family till.

English teachers are just as enthusiastic. The fearful chore of correcting up to 200 themes for all her classes, a job estimated to take 33 hours, has been lightened.

More writing can be assigned, which means writing is improved.

"You can't learn to write without writing," says Henry Chauncey, president of the Educational Testing Service of Princeton.

The idea of using so-called "lay leaders" to help English teachers popped into Chauncey's head several years ago. But he takes no credit for it.

"I had the original idea but ideas are a dime a dozen," he says. "The important thing is the way they're carried out. So the credit should go to Paul Diederich for having conducted the program and the fund for the advancement of education for sponsoring it."

Diederich is on the staff of ETS, a nonprofit corporation which conducts educational research and tests for schools, colleges, the government and professions.

The Fund for the Advancement of Education provided $150,000 to develop the program. And Diederich tried it out first during the 1957-58 school year at New Brunswick High School and nearby Bound Brook High School.

A women's page story in the New Brunswick Daily Home News announced the experiment.

A total of 110 women applied in person in New Brunswick and 67 more in Bound Brook. Others telephoned. Only six readers, plus six substitutes, were to be chosen in New Brunswick.

The field was narrowed with the help of ETS and its testing experience. The applicants got a verbal aptitude test, paper-grading test, paper-correction test and wrote a short paper on choice of topics. The 20 who stood highest were interviewed.

New Brunswick High has a total enrollment of 1,575. About 16 English teachers were assigned lay readers for some, but not all, of their classes. Between 500 and 525 students in grades 10 through 12 thus had the benefit of lay readers.

Diederick says homework writing assignments in many schools are down to four or five a year. The teachers can't handle the grading any more.

Diederick says no feature of the plan is copyrighted and ETS will make test materials available to any other high schools which care to launch such a program.

Measles In Marin Still On Decline

Measles in Marin continued to decline last week as 17 cases were reported to the county health department.

Of these, eight were reported in San Rafael, three in Kentfield, two in Larkspur and one each in Mill Valley, San Anselmo, Fairfax and Novato.

Other communicable diseases reported throughout the county included six cases of gonorrhea, five of mumps, one of tuberculosis, two strep infections and one case of salmonella.

Span Unit Against Giving Funds To Visitors Bureau

The finance committee of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District's board of directors Monday recommended denial of a request that the district give $500 to the Marin Visitors Bureau to aid in promotional work.

The committee's vote to recommend denial was 7-3, with Marin Director Matthew Graham voting in favor of the appropriation. Marin's other director, Leland Murphy, is not a finance committee member but was present and spoke in favor of the fund request.

The request was presented to the committee by Bernard Seligman on behalf of the visitors bureau, which is an adjunct of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

Report On Uniforms At Redwood Slated

A progress report on the possibility of uniforms for girls at Redwood High School will be presented Monday to the Tamalpais Union High School District board.

The presentation will be made by representatives of the Redwood Parent-Teacher Assn. who have been working with student body members and Dean of Girls Emma Jean Wulzen to determine the amount of interest. The P-TA committee is composed of Mrs. J. R. B. Ellis of Greenbrae, Mrs. Thomas Procter of Belvedere and Mrs. James Jenkins of Kentfield.

Other business on the board's agenda for the 8 p.m. meeting at the district office at Redwood High School includes:

Consideration of revising the option agreement for the Marin City School site to allow the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to maintain and operate buildings on the property until 1962.

Arranging another meeting with Mill Valley city officials on the proposed development of the road involving a portion of Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way adjacent to Tamalpais High School.

A report that five students of the Tamalpais Adult Evening School have met requirements for graduating.

Approving publication of the final draft of the 1959-60 budget approved on June 17, and designation of a public hearing date.

Opening of bids for a tractor-loader, language laboratory equipment, station wagon, and a folding machine for the Tam print shop.

Adoption of a new textbook for current geography.

Check Clearings Total Is Given

Total check clearings of the six Marin offices of the First National Bank in San Rafael were $26,013,000 during the period June 16-30.

The first half of June showed a total of $28,739,000. Each period contained 11 banking days.

Death Penalty Kept

BOSTON (AP) — The House of Representatives last night defeated 168-50 a bill to abolish the death penalty in Massachusetts.

Sonoma County Fair To Open Tomorrow

SANTA ROSA—The Sonoma County Fair, third largest in California, opens its 22nd annual run for 10 days here tomorrow.

An extra day of racing is expected to better last year's 173,542 attendance and exceed 1958 total pari-mutuel handle of $2,702,060. A total of 2,648 head of livestock is the most ever assembled for exhibit at a county fair.

West Coast Shows and Foley and Burk again split the dates, the former in for the first five days. A new enclosed rodeo ring this year finally takes all night shows off the race track and clears the way for construction of a new million-dollar-plus grandstand for 1961.

The John Strong Circus, "The Cloudbusters" aerial thrill act, four days and nights of vaudeville, a flower show, three clowns on the grounds, arena polo and a horse show and rodeo round out the attractions.

School Officials Answer Questions On Study Course

"Questions About School Study Course Need Answering."

That's what we said in this space last Friday, suggesting that the County Board of Education and the county superintendent of schools ought to set the record straight with regard to the controversial study course.

We subsequently learned that the chairman of the county board, Mrs. Nancy Rust, already was at work doing just what we suggested and she had enlisted the assistance of the county superintendent, Virgil Hollis.

Here are their joint answers to pertinent questions:

What is this course of study?

The Course of Study, as approved by the County Board of Education on June 8, 1959, consists of three volumes, each covering three grades. It is a guide of areas to be covered, a plan for sequential development of concepts, and a bookful of ideas for teachers. At every grade level it is further divided into the subject areas of Science, Arithmetic, Health, Physical Education, Music, Art, Social Studies (the term used to cover the combined subjects of History, Geography, Civics, Economics, etc.) and Language Arts (the term used to include reading, writing, spelling, speaking and listening.) The Course of Study suggests what children should be taught as they move through the grades and the concepts they should learn; it also suggests examples for teachers to use that will help children learn the suggested subject matter. The purpose is to provide the classroom teachers in every school with a curriculum guide. It does not attempt to regulate the freedom of teachers to add to the content nor does it try to require all teachers to do exactly the same things at the same time.

Why is there a new course of study?

The law requires that the County Board of Education in each county in California adopt a course of study prior to July 1st of each year. Marin County has been using the same course of study since approximately 1943, with a few revisions throughout that time. In 1953, the County Board of Education, recognizing the need for a more comprehensive revision, appointed a Curriculum Steering Committee of about 35 members, composed of classroom teachers, principals and administrators from districts throughout the county, County Staff Members, PTA representatives and school board members. The Board believed that major revisions were imperative due to growth in Marin County, changing technological development and advances in materials for classroom use. For example, the space age and its implications may require a different approach in science and social studies, and a curriculum guide needs to be flexible enough to incorporate changes as they occur. The old course of study devoted one and a half pages to science for all eight grades. With the current emphasis on the need for an understanding of the methods of science, the influence of science on human life, and the main scientific facts concerning the nature of the world and of man, the science section in the new guide is far more complete.

How was the guide developed?

The Curriculum Steering Committee, with the advice of the county staff, selected chairmen and consultants for each of the subject areas, usually classroom teachers from one of the school districts, to serve on a Production Committee, and additional members were recommended or volunteered. These committees met to discuss and put into written form their ideas of what the scope and sequence of each subject-area should be, and how it might be taught. The committees were aided by the use of consultants from Stanford, U.C., and San Francisco State College. Although every committee may have gone at it a little differently, most of them developed a guide using these general headings: Concepts; Areas of Experience; Methods and Techniques; Ideas for Classroom Use; and Other Teaching Aids.

Each Production Committee Chairman reported at the monthly meeting of the Curriculum Steering Committee. When completed and approved by the Steering Committee, each section of the guide was sent to about 200 teachers throughout the county for their additional suggestions.

When the recommendations from these 200 teachers had been received and worked on by the production committees, the guide went back to the Steering Committee for further review, and approval. It was also presented to the district superintendents, and was sent to every classroom teacher in Marin County. Copies were also available in the County Office for any interested person to study. At this point the Guide was presented to the County Board of Education, who devoted eight board meetings to the discussion of the various sections of the guide and, in addition, had them reviewed by their own curriculum committee. The Board thus had the opportunity to study, comment upon and understand all the guides before formal presentation for giving final approval on June 8.

Why is the guide desired by September 1?

The various districts in Marin County have expressed their desire to have the guides available for in-service education meetings with their teachers prior to the opening of school in September. The County Board and the County Superintendent agreed that this was imperative. The production committees and the consultants in the County Office recognized the validity of this request and worked rapidly to complete the guide prior to the July 1st deadline for approval by the County Board. (The Education Code states "County Board of Education shall prescribe, on or before the first day of July each year, the course of study in and for each grade of the elementary schools of the county for the ensuing year." (Section 10321). It adds "Such a course of study shall not apply to elementary schools in cities governed by city board of education" (Section 10322). It clarifies the requirement for unified school districts thus: "Whenever a unified school district has within its boundaries a chartered city or a city of the first to fifth classes, inclusive, or whenever the average daily attendance of a unified school district is fifteen hundred or more, for all purposes the district shall be deemed a city school district governed by a city board of education and the governing board thereof shall be deemed a city board of education." (Section 4629). Consequently, all elementary districts in the county except San Rafael and Novato will base their instructional program around the County Course of Study.

One of the unique aspects of public education in the entire United States is the local control of the schools expressed by the people through their local school boards. The County Board of Education and the County Superintendent wish to enhance this position of local boards in curriculum matters. However, there are certain state laws which conflict with complete local autonomy and which place the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent in a compromising position. Therefore, the County Board and Superintendent are offering a curriculum guide to the local school districts which should ensure to each child instruction in certain minimum essentials as required by law, but which also encourages local districts to implement the course of study in the best way possible in each school district. Thus the districts exercise their rights to have their local school boards make some of the policy decisions (within legal limitations) regarding the courses their children shall be taught and how they wish to teach them. As a matter of fact, some of the districts, with the permission of the County Board, will add other courses such as typing, foreign languages, homemaking, shop, and others. Novato and San Rafael are examples of districts that, although they have participated in its development, wish to postpone full use of the new course of study until they have developed details to assist their own teachers and supplement various areas.

What is the cost?

The cost of printing 3000 volumes (1000 complete sets) of the guide by a local union printer (R. G. Fontant & Son, San Anselmo) is $10,534.76. This was the lowest estimate for printing.

When did the board authorize the course of study?

When the Course of Study was approved unanimously by the Board on June 8, unanimous approval was also given to print it as soon as possible in order to have it available before the opening of school next fall. Dr. Hollis suggested a postponement of approval until June 23 so that he could have additional copies duplicated, during the next week, to give board members and others further opportunity to study the final guide, and to assure availability of study copies before printing could be completed. Some of the board questioned the physical possibility of reproducing the 550 pages in a week, felt study copies might be achieved by requesting additional galley proofs, and that time pressure required starting to print at once. Early the next week, Dr. Hollis phoned the board members and recommended that R. G. Fontana & Son of San Anselmo, who had submitted the lowest estimate, be authorized to start work. The board informally approved this.

When will the Course of Study be finished?

At the board's meeting on June 23, Mr. Blackmore, Administrative Assistant in the County Office, presented the Board with copies of a schedule of the estimated cost of printing the course of study, and gave a brief explanation of it. He stated that formal order to print could not be given until the board approved conditions of the contract. The schedule showed that in order to obtain all three volumes of the guides by September 1, additional charges for overtime, amounting to approximately $3850 would be necessary. He indicated that this figure was the average for printers consulted. Dr. Hollis expressed concern over this total high cost, and that although it was imperative that the school districts have the course of study by Setember 1, the decision to assume the additional cost must be made by the board and that he had reservations about recommending it to them.

In discussion the board reviewed the funds available, and stressing the need of the districts, approved by a vote of 6 to 1 a written contract for printing the course of study, including the overtime premium for delivery by September 1st and that a penalty clause be inserted.

Why were alternate methods of duplicating the guides discussed?

In negotiating the written contract, Dr. Hollis learned that the printer would not be able to deliver all three volumes of the guide by September 1st nor would Fontana accept any penalty; and that there had been a misunderstanding of the schedule submitted at the board's June 23rd meeting. Even with overtime, only two volumes could be completed by that date, with the third not ready until October 15th. Therefore, Dr. Hollis called board members to discuss alternative methods of producing the guides for delivery before the opening of school.

At the board's regular meeting July 7, Dr. Hollis submitted to the board a listing of costs to multilith the course of study in the County Office instead of having Fontana print it. Following the phone calls of the previous week, several of the board members had checked into costs on their own. It was found that the printing bid was not exorbitant for a job of this size. Another member had obtained time and cost factors on multilithing from a large San Francisco firm with wide experience in estimating these factors in their own office. Board members pointed out that the recommendation all the way through the various presentations had advised printing as the best method to reproduce a guide that was expected to be used constantly over a number of years, and that a verbal contract was in effect with Fontana & Son, and that there would be severance costs with them or even the possibility of a breach of contract suit. However, Dr. Hollis believed that satisfactory arrangements could be made with Fontana & Son even though a contract release cost had not been obtained, and that he would be able to have it multilithed in the office before September 1st for approximately $1700.00. Everyone agreed that multilithing would be less expensive, but some of the board believed Dr. Hollis's cost estimate was much lower than actual expenses would run and feared that obligations already incurred with Fontana would push the total cost close to the contract amount. Therefore, on a 5 to 2 vote, the board authorized Dr. Hollis to sign a contract with R. G. Fontana & Son for $10,534.76 to print the County Course of Study with the following delivery dates: Volume 1 on August 1, 1959 or earlier; Volume 2 on September 15 or earlier; and Volume 3 on November 1 or earlier. This contract was signed on July 8, 1959.

In order to provide the school districts with copies of Volumes 2 and 3 of the guide in time for their in-service meetings, without the large overtime charge required by the printer, Dr. Hollis is giving consideration to and making cost estimates of duplicating in his office enough copies of these two volumes for the teachers' use until the printed volumes are ready.

What happens now?

The major concern of both the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent of Schools is the improvement of instruction for the boys and girls who live in Marin County. There is a genuine need for the new course of study to help achieve this goal. The details on how to produce it have been settled and now both the County Board and the County Superintendent will make every effort to complete the production as rapidly as possible.

Volunteer Firemen Thanked For Aid

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

On behalf of Mrs. Holladay and myself I wish to express our thanks to the many volunteers who helped in fighting the fire which involved our house on Greenwood Beach, June 30.

It is indeed gratifying to realize that there are so many public spirited citizens who are willing to help their neighbors.

Loggers Threaten Our Scenic Assets

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In the contest between the forces laboring to save our finest scenic assets and those determined to erase them, fire may easily have the last word again, and we all lose.

It happened next door to Muir Woods and partly burned a redwood area just-logged yet publicly long known to be within the published bounds of land the State has indicated intent to buy and preserve for all. Fire almost cost us Muir Woods in addition. Logging should cease here immediately or it might cost Muir Woods and more.

Secondly, drive along Highway 1, stop and park, then look west at the rapidly expanding mess in the Douglas fir forest. This is the same forest stated to be an integral part of the admittedly finest National Seashore Park proposed anywhere along the entire Pacific Coast.

Then please recall what just occurred beside Muir Woods.

Please consider this for your "What Our Readers Say" column.

Copy Editor Cleans Out Desk, News Writing Gems Come To Light

IN THE ABSENCE of anything else to write about this week (that's the way we always write this thing) we will pass along to you a couple of nifties that came over the I-J's news service teletypes.

We owe these to our copy editor Dick Layman, who has been cleaning out his desk preparatory to moving to the news editor's desk which he is taking over.

In the process of cleaning it out, he found these:

From Associated Press: "OAKLAND — In what investigators believe was an attempt to murder a sleeping couple, someone slipped into an Oakland apartment early today, poured gasoline over them and set them on fire."

We are inclined to believe it, too.

And then there was United Press, bobbing up with this insert for the story of the death of comedian Oliver Hardy:

"Death, attributed to the effects of a stroke Sept. 12, 1956 left Hardy virtually completely paralyzed."

CLINTON T. DUFFY, warden of San Quentin Prison from 1940 to 1951, is moving into a new home in Greenbrae this week.

The home, at 197 Corte Damon on a hillside site, commands an excellent view of—among other things — San Quentin Prison.

KEN MOLINO, former I-J photographer and now a commercial lensman in San Rafael, is not above doing a bit of press-agentry to get his name and new business mentioned in the paper.

He dropped off an item the other day telling of photo contest prizes won by people who have studied photography in his class at College of Marin.

Molino is a dandy photographer, but leaves a bit to be desired as a press agent.

His handout neglected to mention the name of the commercial photographer-instructor — Molino.

On second thought, maybe he's not so bad at that. He got his name in here one way or another. We might as well go whole hog and put his address in, too: 1203 Third street, San Rafael.

DURING DISCUSSIONS by the board of supervisors over pay raises for county employees, Supervisor Bill Gnoss mentioned that quite a few people who thought the county aides ought to get bigger raises had called him and mentioned, pointedly, that they had read where supervisors got a $100 a month boost by act of the recent legislature.

Gnoss, sounding kind of aggrieved, pointed out that they had better read the small print, too. The supervisorial raises don't start until the beginning of a new term of office, which in Gnoss' case will be January, 1963, if he seeks and wins re-election.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon Could Sew Up Nomination Right Now But Refuses To Do So

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon is driving his highest-level political supporters mildly frantic.

The reason is they are absolutely convinced that fairly, firmly and save against later challenge, they can lock up the 1960 Republican Presidential nomination and deliver it to him with iron-clad commitments tonight — but the Vice President won't let them.

To most non-politicians and to some politicians this must sound boastful or wishful or like some kind of slight-of-hand.

THIS IS WHAT they are talking about:

The minimum nominating majority at the 1960 Republican national convention will be 663 delegates.

Mr. Nixon's influential advocates are in intimate contact with the Republican leaders of every state in the union — except New York — and their reports add up to a maximum of 1,000 delegates and a minimum of 800 delegates whose backing at Los Angeles next July can, they say, be unequivocally pledged.

The basis on which these pledges are said to be tree-ripened and ready to be harvested by the lightest breath of a breeze is fourfold: (1) Mr. Nixon has battled their battles and campaigned in the Republican party's campaigns in every part of the country in two Presidential and four Congressional elections and they honorably feel in his debt; they look upon this kind of service to the party as earning due-bills of political return support which they would like to honor not tardily but soon, not later but now; (2) they feel that Mr. Nixon would make the kind of candidate and President they want; (3) they would like to avoid any possibility of a lacerating, last-ditch fight between Nixon and Rockefeller so that they can concentrate for a good twelve months on preparing for the election, organization-wise and fund-wise, (4) They are confident he can be elected.

IF THESE estimates are correct — and there is a good deal of evidence to support them—then what really stands in the way of these Nixon advocates collecting on these "due bills" with, in effect, signatures on the dotted line?

Something does stand in the way — and it is Mr. Nixon himself. If these "due bills" are to be cashed and unequivocal commitments obtained affecting enough delegates to guarantee his nomination no matter what, only the Vice President can say the word that will do it. He would have to be unequivocal himself. He would have to say: "Yes, I am a candidate and I would like to see the matter settled just as soon and just as definitely as possible."

But Mr. Nixon will not make this statement — and this is what drives his highest-level and closest supporters mildly frantic. He refrains from making it, in my judgment, not because he is not a candidate or being coy, not because he does not want and does not expect to be nominated. He refuses to make this statement because he is taking a longer and, I believe, a wiser view than his nail-it-down-now advocates.

The Vice President's controlling views are these:

That it is impossible to separate in the public mind the campaign for the nomination from the campaign for the election.

That is going to be hard enough for the Republican nominee to win in 1960 without making it harder by allowing either the appearance or the substance of high-pressure tactics to surround the nomination.

That the Republican leaders and the delegates ought not to try to freeze the nomination in advance of the convention.

That if Mr. Nixon can't get the nomination in an open convention without trying to pre-empt it months ahead he had just as soon not have it; or, perhaps more precisely, he is entirely prepared to take and prefers to take that risk.

ALL THIS is what Mr. Nixon's most politically powerful advocates are telling the Vice President and what he is telling them.

The fact that they are eager to sew up the nomination so soon suggests anxiety over a late-starting, snowballing Rockefeller. If Mr. Nixon is worried, he doesn't show it.

What's wrong with the New York Yankees? Take your pick. What's right with the champs? Only one answer. Ryne Duren.

The big, right-handed reliever has whitewashed Yank ills, you might say, with a string of 32⅔ scoreless innings in 17 games since April 30. And he hasn't piled up that streak, longest in the majors this season, against any pushovers.

Fact is, a third of the string has been run up against Cleveland, and Tuesday night he paired with a tired Whitey Ford for a five-hit, 1-0 victory over the Indians that trimmed their American League lead to mere percentage points. It also halted the Yankees' skid at five games and left them 6½ games behind in fourth.

While Duren was nailing it with a two-inning, one- hit mop-up capped by three strikeouts in the ninth, Chicago's second-place White Sox closed within .002 percentage points of Cleveland with a 7-3 victory at Boston.

Third-place Baltimore moved within four games of the lead by splitting a twi-night double-header with last place Kansas City, winning 3-1 after being blanked 1-0 by Ray Herbert's four-hit pitching. Washington tumbled Detroit to fifth, 4-2.

The Yankees, now 6-6 against the Indians for the year, beat a wild Herb Score (9-7) although they managed just four singles. Score walked eight, two ahead of Bobby Richardson's two-out single that scored the run.

Ford, now 9-6 with Duren's seventh save in the shutout string, also allowed four singles. Working with only three days rest, the little lefty walked five, all in the first three innings, and struck out four.

HELD HALTED

The Indians gave Duren, who has fanned 43 in his streak, a tough time in the eighth when the Yankees messed up a pair of double-play balls after Tito Francona's leadoff single. An error and a wild pitch put the tying run on third with two out, but when Woody Held tried to score after a pitch got past catcher Yogi Berra, he was nailed at the plate on Berra's toss to Duren.

Billy Pierce won his 10th for a .500 record as the White Sox won their fourth in a row. But he was tagged for home runs by Don Buddin and Jackie Jensen and needed Turk Lown's relief for the last two outs against the Red Sox, who had won five straight. Ted Wills (2-6) lost it in a three-run fourth when Chicago overhauled a 2-1 Boston lead on an error and rookie Jim McAnany's two-run single.

Herbert (7-7) ,who pitched his first major league shutout in his last start, ran his scoreless inning streak to 18. The A's had only five hits and were blanked until the ninth, when Harry Chiti's popfly double beat Billy O'Dell (5-7). The Orioles came back on a five-hitter by Milt Pappas (10-4) and Willy Tasby's homer off loser Johnny Kucks (3-5). Roger Maris homered for the A's.

Rookie Bob Allison hit his 23rd home run and Roy Sievers smacked his 11th for the Senators, who made four of their five hits good for extra bases while edging within a half-game of the Tigers. A walk and consecutive triples by Hal Naragon and Billy Consolo beat Frank Lary (9-7) in the fourth. Pete Ramos (10-8) won it with an eight-hitter.

Hillsdale Vs. Round Table Race Is Off

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scratch the proposed match race between Round Table and Hillsdale.

Aimed at helping settle "Horse of the Year" honors, the head-to-head meeting of the two wealthy contenders was shelved yesterday at least for the present, by C. W. Smith, Hillsdale's owner.

Smith—emphasizing that he is not afraid of Round Table—said he decided his 4-year-old colt needed a summer vacation.

Hillsdale, the year's leading money-winner with $432,500 in the bank, has run 10 times this year, winning eight races and finishing second twice.

Smith said he wants his horse in the peak of condition when he meets Round Table, the all-time leading money winner who has won $1,452,639 during his career.

"It has been our pattern," said Smith, "to race Hillsdale a couple of months and give him a month or so off."

The possibility remains that Hillsdale and Round Table can be brought together for a fall meeting.

Skidmore Stopped By Mackin In Richmond Fight

RICHMOND (AP) — Middleweight Lyle Mackin of Oakland, scored a second round knockout over Frank Skidmore of San Francisco last night.

It was Mackin's third straight kayo and 16th win in 17 fights.

Mackin, 146, dropped the 149-pound Skidmore twice in the second round. As Skidmore wobbled to his feet the second time, Referee Tony Bosich stopped the bout at 2:27 and called it a knockout.

The preliminaries:

Morris Duran, 134, San Francisco, outpointed Al Carroll, 131, Stockton, 6.

Al Vega, 118, Los Angeles, outpointed Stan Davis, 122, Stockton, 6.

Eddie Moore, 134, Oakland, outpointed Charlie Robinson, 133, San Francisco, 4.

Charlie Pyatt, 137, San Francisco, stopped Ray Bett, 140, San Francisco, 3.

Chandler In Blast At Major Leagues, Frick

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Taking his baseball bat in hand, Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler thumped big league baseball and some of its leaders yesterday.

"So far as leadership is concerned, baseball is bankrupt" said the Kentucky executive on the eighth anniversary of his retirement as baseball commissioner.

"Baseball liquidated the office of commissioner when it refused to renew my contract, and got just what the owners wanted when they named pliable Frick," he said referring to Commissioner Ford Frick.

Chandler also blasted National League President Warren C. Giles and minor league head George M. Trautman.

"Frick and Trautman and Giles are just time-servers, all working for big salaries and big expense accounts, and accomplishing nothing," Chandler elaborated.

He said Frick and Trautman are more interested in pleasing the major league owners than in helping baseball, the fans and players.

FRICK WON'T FEUD

Frick declined to become involved in a feud with his predecessor.

"He has been completely discredited long ago," Frick commented.

Chandler, however, charged that baseball no longer belongs to the fans but "belongs to those selfish men who own the major league clubs—and they will ruin it eventually."

Chandler said baseball hit a new low last week in passing a ruling that allowed inter-league trades without getting waivers.

"Frick was against it, but that made no difference to the owners. It just shows how much power Frick has. I wouldn't have permitted it, no matter what the owners wanted."

"If baseball is to survive—and I think it's headed for destruction—you must have local rivalries.

"The three-league answer is to set up one circuit on the east coast, one in the midwest and one in the far west. It would cut traveling expenses and set up rivalries which do not now exist."

Palacio 2nd In Publinx Qualifying

Mat Palacio, personable auto salesman from San Rafael, started out in match play today in quest of the National Public Links golf championship in Denver.

The 43-year-old former California amateur champion appeared "up" for the gruelling national test as he wound up in a three-way tie for second in qualifying rounds yesterday. Mat barely missed a tie for medal honors when his 10-foot putt on the 18th green lipped the cup. He settled for a 69, duplicating his opening round score for a total of 138.

The qualifying medal was won by defending champion Dan Sikes Jr., of the University of Florida with a 69-68—137. He canned a 12-foot side-hill putt on the 18th green yesterday to shake Palacio.

Tied with Palacio, who, incidentally, was celebrating his 15th wedding anniversary, were Rick Casabella of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. Donald Keith, San Diego.

Johnny's Quint Wins Again In Drake Basketball

Bill Buffalow tanked 14 points and Bill Anderson followed with 10 last night as they paced Johnny's Service to a 38-19 rout of San Rafael in the high school division of the Drake Summer Basketball League. The win was Johnny's second without defeat.

In other games Marin Catholic, paced by Ron Blum's 13 points, topped Schaefer's Sports Shop 40-34 and Tamalpais trounced Maggi's Florists, 48-26. Hinky Kreuter and Ray Edwards with 13 and 12 points led the Tamites.

Crucial Game In Gallinas League

The first place Red Sox and second place Merchants clash tonight in a crucial Gallinas Valley Little League game at Castro Field, Santa Venetia, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

The Red Sox lead the standings with five wins and one loss while the Merchants have a 4-2 record, tied with the Beavers. Other teams' records are Odd Fellow and Lions each 2-4 and Redwood Sports Shop 1-5.

Rigney Still Gives Giants Good Chance For Pennant

S. F. Pilot Sees 4-Team Race Right To The Wire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manager Bill Rigney said today his front-running San Francisco Giants have a good shot at the National League pennant because "we've got a young club and six pitchers who are pitching like hell."

"But," Rigney added, "we'll play one game at a time. It's going to be a race right down to the wire with us, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh.

"And don't forget, the other clubs can be just as tough on any given day. They're all trying to get better. You'll see a lot of good baseball now."

Rain washed out a scheduled twi-night double-header between the Giants and Philadelphia yesterday. They'll play a single game tonight and a twi-night double-header tomorrow night.

The pitchers Rigney referred to were Mike McCormick, Johnny Antonelli, Sam Jones, Eddie Fisher, Jack Sanford and Stu Miller.

"The way our schedule is right now," Rigney remarked, "our club will be playing practically every day. We've got a young group and if they keep their strength—hell, we've got a chance."

BULLPEN PROBLEM

The manager declared that although his starters have been coming through, the bullpen's been thin. "We'll need some help too from Gordon Jones, Al Worthington and Billy Muffett," he said. "I've had to use starters in relief and I'd rather not do that."

There was one other thing Rigney was looking forward to.

"One of those .400 months a certain center fielder is noted for."

You guessed it. Willie Mays!

The double-header marked the fifth and sixth games the Giants have been rained out of here in the past two seasons.

McCormick, who shut out the Phils three times already this season, opposes Robin Roberts, one of the three Philly pitchers to beat the Giants in the nine games played so far.

McCormick's record is 8-7, Roberts' 7-8.

Law Keeping Pirates In Thick Of Race

By Associated Press

When your two aces have won only four games and have lost 16 by the middle of July, there oughta be a law. For Pittsburgh, there is — Vern Law.

A year ago, the Pirates finished a sudden second in the National League race, with Bob Friend a 22-game winner and young George Witt winning his last seven in a row.

At the moment, Friend has a 4-10 record, Witt is 0-6. Yet the Bucs are fourth, just 2½ games shy of first, and it has been Law's job as a starting pitcher plus Roy Face's magnificent relief performance that has put them there.

Law won his 10th, a total bettered only by Face's 14 on the Pittsburgh staff, with a seven-hitter that beat Los Angeles 9-1 last night. It was the big righthander's fifth success in six decisions and it pushed the Pirates within one game of the third-place Dodgers.

First-place San Francisco gained a full-game lead although rained out at Philadelphia. Second-place Milwaukee lost 10-5 to the Chicago Cubs. St. Louis ended Don Newcombe's winning streak at eight by beating Cincinnati 6-5 in 11 innings.

LOSES SHUTOUT

Law (10-5) lost his shutout in the sixth when Charlie Neal doubled and Wally Moon singled. But he was home free from the start when seven consecutive hits — beginning with Dick Groat's one-out double and a triple by Bob Skinner—gave the Bucs five first-inning runs against Johnny Podres and Clem Labine.

Three Milwaukee errors gave the Cubs four unearned runs, three of them scoring in a four-run, tie-breaking seventh inning capped by a two-run single from winning reliever Bill Henry (6-4). Lee Walls and Earl Averill homered for the Cubs. Walls' came with a man on in the first, ending Juan Pizarro's shutout string at 14 innings. Hank Aaron hit his 24th home run for Milwaukee. Joey Jay (3-6) was the loser.

The Cardinals rapped newcombe (9-5) for 17 hits, handing him his first defeat since May 10 on singles by Ray Katt, Don Blasingame and Joe Cunningham after Stan Musial's eighth home run had tied it 5-all in the sixth. Winning reliever Lindy McDaniel (7-10), who pitched the last two frames, and rookie Marshall Bridges blanked the Reds on five hits over the last 8⅔ innings. Cincinnati chased starter Larry Jackson in a four-run third, triggered by Frank Robinson's three-run, 23rd homer, his fifth in five days.

40-LB. SALMON CAUGHT BY MARIN ANGLER

H. H. Paulsen of Santa Venetia went fishing yesterday morning and came back last night with 60 pounds of salmon.

One of 10 anglers aboard the party boat "Blue Fin," skippered by John McKeon, Paulsen caught a whopping 40-pound Chinook along with smaller ones of 12 and 8 pounds as every member of the party limited out in waters near the Farallon Islands. The 40-pounder, which will win Paulsen a prize in the Schenley Sportsmen's Club, put up a 25-minute battle.

TUCSON Ariz. (AP)— Reaction to Supt. of Schools Robert Morrow's suggestion for a 10-month school term was quick. He was hanged in effigy a few blocks from Tucson High School.

SOLTAU QUITS 49ERS AFTER NINE SEASONS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gordy Soltau, the San Francisco 49ers' place-kicking specialist and the National Football League's third ranking scorer, is quitting professional football after nine seasons with the 49ers.

Soltau will team with Tommy Harmon, former Michigan great, in broadcasting 49er games televised by the Columbia Broadcasting System next season.

"It's tough to hang them up after nine seasons," Soltau said yesterday. "But I believe I've received a great opportunity in the broadcasting field."

Soltau plans to continue his work as a sales executive with a San Francisco stationary firm. He lives in Palo Alto with his wife, Nancy, and three children.

The departure of Soltau leaves the 49ers without an experienced placekicker. The job is expected to be filled by Bobby Luna, defensive regular in 1955 returning after Army service, and Tommy Davis, rookie halfback from Louisiana State.

In his nine 49er seasons Soltau, a collegiate end star at Minnesota, scored 644 points on 25 touchdowns, 284 conversions, and 70 field goals.

Don Hutson of Green Bay tops NFL scoring records with 825 points and Lou Groza of Cleveland ranks second with 694 points.

"I've enjoyed my association with the 49ers," said Soltau, "and I feel fortunate that I'll still have a close contact with the game."

Presidio '9' Ties For Lead In S. R. Softball Circuit

Presidio Army Base defeated Sohner Tree Service, 4-1, and Hamilton Field's 28th Air Division bombarded Pacific Telephone, 12-0, in last night's Class A double-header in the San Rafael Recreation Department Men's Softball League at Albert Park.

The Presidio victory gives the Army nine a 2-0 second round record and moves the soldiers into a first place tie with the idle Novato Merchants.

Presidio scored once in the first inning and then iced the game with a three-run rally in the fourth with catcher Gene Viviani's single the key blow.

Jack Phillips accounted for Sohner's lone run when he blasted a fourth-inning homer.

Presidio first-sacker Jim Willingham stabbed Tom Orovich's liner with the bases loaded in the sixth and turned it into a game-saving double play. A foot either way and the score would have been knotted.

THREAT ERASED

Sohner's threatened again in the seventh when Bert Coffey and Earl Beyer hit back-to-back singles, but Presidio hurler Lee Gascon put down the uprising to keep the Soldiers in the unbeaten ranks for the second round. (Presidio and Hamilton Field meet at 2 p.m. Sunday at Albert Park in a playoff for the first round championship.)

Jim White with a triple and single and Willingham with a pair of singles paced the Presidio hitting attack while Phillips' homer and single led the Sohner assault.

In the second game, Hamilton's Howie Miller hurled a two-hit shutout and struck out 16 batters to keep the Jets in the running for the second round crown.

Shortstop Art Marthallar with two doubles and a single and center fielder Jim Hibbard with a two-run homer led the Hamilton hitting parade.

Jim Menthroe and Ron Jerome collected the PT&T safeties.

North Bay Lumber Team Wins Title

Twin Cities Little League second half series championship was won last night by North Bay Lumber Co. in a 4-3 extra-inning victory over Larkspur Lumber Co.

North Bay's Dick Newberry and Larkspur's Jack Baglietto pitched a six-inning 3-3 duel. They were relieved by Tom Gootherts and Dennis Smith, respectively. In the bottom of the seventh, with one away and the bases loaded, Newberry drove in Jeff Huelett with the winning run and the championship.

TRANS-PACIFIC YACHT RACE

Goodwill First To Finish; Chubasco Leads On H'Cap

HONOLULU (AP) — The 161-foot schooner Goodwill crossed the finish line first in the rain last night in the 21st Trans-Pacific yacht race.

The big schooner, which broke her topmast five days ago, and mended it to continue, covered the 2,225 miles from Los Angeles in unofficial time of 10 days, 12 hours, 16 minutes and 15 seconds.

Although the Goodwill finished first in the fleet of 41 starters, she stood no chance of ending up the actual winner because of her heavy time handicap.

The Goodwill carried top handicap of 12 hours, 6 minutes added to her elapsed time while all the other boats in the race received lesser handicaps to be deducted from their crossing times.

The actual winner of the sailing classic may not be decided for a week.

The Goodwill is owned by Ralph Larrabee of Huntington Park and carried a crew of 52, largest in the race.

Thousands of yachting enthusiasts, well wishers and friends of the crews lined the shore at the finish as the Goodwill's white sails passed before the huge searchlight beam on Diamond Head that marked the finish line.

Families of many of the crews flew here from the west coast to be on hand for the finish and take part in a week of revelry.

The Goodwill crossed the searchlight beam at 9:16 p.m. Hawaii standard time (11:16 p.m. Tuesday PDT).

Second in the fleet position and with a good chance of winding up the actual winner was the 66-foot yawl Chubasco, owned by Arnold Haskell of Newport Beach.

It was roughly 60 miles out from Honolulu when the Goodwill finished.

Other boats in the race were strung out up to 600 miles from Honolulu.

The last boat was not expected until next week.

The third position was the 75-foot schooner Constellation, owned and skippered by 29-year-old Sally Blair Ames of Beverly Hills, the only woman skipper in the race.

In crossing first, Larrabee failed to break the elapsed time record of 9 days, 15 hours, 5 minutes established by the ketch Morning Star in 1955.

The race got under way at noon July 4 from San Pedro with 41 starters.

The 72-foot yawl Escapade from Newport Beach, owned by Baldwin M. Baldwin of Pasadena, was due in today along with the 66-foot cutter Nam Sang of Los Angeles, owned by A. B. Robbs Jr. of Phoenix.

GIANT LANTERN

Observers perched along the highway around Diamond Head said the Goodwill glowed like a giant lantern as she crossed the beam of the finish.

She flew only six sails and found it difficult to fill these because of weak winds near shore.

She was not carrying a Spinaker because of the loss of the main topmast last Thursday.

Sailing master Don Douglas radioed in advance that a tug would be needed. The schooner's engine could not be used, he said, because the propeller was removed from the drive shaft for the race.

State Boating Act Not Yet In Effect

While California's first uniform boating bill for recreational craft has been signed by Governor Edmund G. Brown, it has not yet become law.

The measure, known as Assembly Bills 828 and 830 while before the legislature and finally amended together as AB 828, will not go into effect until it obtains the final approval of the Secretary of the Treasury in Washington.

The secretary's approval of such legislation is required under the terms of the Federal Boating Act of 1958.

AIMED AT UNIFORMITY

The California bill is aimed at establishing uniformity for safety, equipment, operation, boat numbering, and liability of owners throughout the state.

Generally AB 828 adopted many of the established federal regulations which have been enforceable only upon waters classified as navigable.

For lack of any such regulations on the so-called "non-navigable" waters, 26 counties have passed local ordinances with varying provisions, thus compounding the confusion.

One of the prime provisions of the new state law will be a requirement that all undocumented vessels not exempt within the act must obtain a number for their bow. After April 1, 1960, effective date for the boat numbering, there can be only one number on a vessel.

Whether you have a U.S. Coast Guard number on your boat now or not, if your boat is not specifically exempt from numbering under the act, you will get a new number on that date. Boats exempt from state numbering are all documented vessels; boats propelled solely by oars, paddles, or electric motors of 10 horsepower or less; boats 8 feet or less in length propelled solely by sail; and special government vessels as outlined in the act.

FROM VEHICLE OFFICES

Pending secretary of the treasury endorsement, the act states that the original certificate of number, renewals, replacements, and change of address or ownership certificates must be obtained from any motor vehicle office in the state. The U.S. Coast Guard will not issue numbers except to special vessels under other federal law, after April 1, 1960.

Owner liability for injury or damage caused by negligent operation of the vessel holds a limit of $10,000 for the death or injury of one person in any one accident and $20,000 for the death or injury of more than one person in any one incident. There is a $10,000 limitation for damage of property.

'Framework' Dates For Hunting Seasons Released By U. S. Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Fish and Wildlife Service yesterday announced revisions in bag limits and adjustments in seasons for some areas in releasing the framework regulations under which states may select 1959-60 hunting dates for doves, rails, gallinues, woodcock, and bandtailed pigeons.

The service also announced migratory bird hunting seasons in Alaska.

The service specified these outside dates for state hunting seasons: mourning doves, Sept. 1 through Jan. 15; rails and gallinues, Sept. 1 through Jan. 10, woodcock, Oct. 1 to Jan. 15; and band-tailed pigeons, Sept. 1 through Jan. 10.

The various state game departments may select their own hunting seasons within the limits set by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

The principal changes in regulations this year include a reduction of 20 days in the rail season for the Mississippi and Central flyways on account of the drought; an increase of one day in the white-winged dove season in Texas in view of a substantial increase in this year's white-winged dove breeding population in that state; a reduction in the bag and possession limits on sora; and a reduction in daily bag and possession limits on brant in Alaska because of a significant decline in the brant population in the Pacific flyway.

Detailed regulations for the hunting of migratory waterfowl, coots, and Wilson's snipe in continental United States will be issued in August.

The basic regulations cover the four flyway regions in the United States. Flyways are the migratory routes of the birds.

Regulations by species:

RAILS AND GALLINUES—Open seasons are prescribed only for the Atlantic, Mississippi, and Central flyways.

WOODCOCK—Season length remains at 40 days and the daily bag and possession limit at 4 and 8.

MOURNING DOVES — Since the 1959 dove breeding population is about the same as in 1958, regulations will remain the same as last year. Within the Sept. 1-Jan. 15 framework, all states east of the Mississippi River and Arkansas and Louisiana, may submit recommendations for hunting seasons that conform to the following conditions: (a) hunting only between the hours of noon to sunset; (b) 65 consecutive half-days; or (c) two periods totaling 65 half-days.

For all states west of the Mississippi River (exclusive of Arkansas and Louisiana, and except Texas as explained under regulations for white-winged doves), the 1959 season will be 50 full days, the same as in 1958.

Possession limit on mourning doves throughout the country, except in California and New Mexico, will be 20 after the first day of the season with the daily bag limit remaining at 10 —the same as in 1958.

California is being offered the same option as last year: (a) a daily bag limit of 10 mourning doves or 10 white-winged doves or 10 in the aggregate of both kinds, with possession limit of 20 singly or in the aggregate; or (b) a daily bag and possession limit of mourning and white-winged doves of 10, singly or in the aggregate of both kinds.

Because of its size, Texas again will be permitted to recommend three separate mourning dove seasons on the same basis as last year which includes the provision that hunting will be continued to the period of noon to sunset. Texas, therefore, can select seasons of 50 half-days for each of three geographical areas.

WHITE-WINGED DOVES — Where a white-winged dove season is prescribed, in Arizona, California, and New Mexico, it will conform to the mourning dove season in these states. A substantial increase occurred in this year's white-winged dove breeding population in Texas, which permits three alternate days for hunting this species in that state, with the same bag and possession limits and shooting hours as last year. In Texas, the daily bag limit on mourning and white-winged doves is 10 singly or in the aggregate of both kinds, and possession limit is 20. In Arizona the daily bag limit is 10 mourning doves and 25 white-winged doves, and the possession limit is 10 mourning doves and 25 white-winged doves.

BAND-TAILED PIGEONS — Regulations for this species will remain the same as last year. Outside dates in two areas of California and in Oregon and Washington are from Sept. 1 to Jan. 10, with daily bag and possession limit at 6.

WATERFOWL, COOTS, AND WILSON'S SNIPE IN ALASKA —The season, bag and possession limits for Wilson's snipe in Alaska will remain the same as in 1958. The season will be from Sept. 1 through Oct. 15.

The waterfowl and coot seasons in Alaska will run from Sept. 1 to Dec. 5, with bag and possession limits remaining the same as in 1958, except in the case of brant. Because there has been a significant decline in the brant population in the Pacific flyway, the hunting of brant in Alaska during the 1959 season will coincide with the waterfowl season but the bag limit will be two instead of three and the possession limit two instead of six.

Not Through, Insist Ted, Stan The Man

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—If Ted Williams and Stan Musial, two of the greatest hitters of our time, decide to call it quits at the end of the 1959 season, it will not be because they feel they no longer can hit big league pitching.

The two future Hall of Famers made it plain in interviews during the All-Star break in Pittsburgh they are far from washed up, as has been indicated in some quarters.

The 40-year-old Williams, fiercely proud of his reputation as the most feared hitter in baseball for the past 16 years, refused to subscribe to the theory of slowed reflexes, lost timing and inability to cope with with the new crop of fine young pitchers in the American League.

NECK TO BLAME

"Don't believe that hogwash," he said. "It's not the pitchers at all who are responsible for my failure to hit. And it's not my age either. It's that damn neck of mine.

"I don't like to talk about it because those newspaper wise guys will accuse me of alibiing and I've never alibied in my life. But this thing is killing me."

Handicapped by a neck condition which sidelined him the first month of the season, Ted got off to the worst start of his career and was hitting a microscopic .217 at All-Star game time.

"I've been hitting a little better in the past two weeks," he said, "but it's going to be a real battle for me to hit .300."

In 16 seasons, Ted has never hit below .317 and owns a lifetime mark of .349.

Had he given any serious consideration to hanging up his spikes?"

KNOW IN OCTOBER

"Well, I don't want to make any decision now," he said. "It all depends upon this neck of mine. If it comes around, I see no reason to quit. The weather should have a lot to do with it. The doctors seem to think that's all I need—warm weather. I'll let you know in October."

The 38-year-old Musial, a modest, unassuming man devoid of any temperament, laughed at reports he was through as a top-flight hitter.

"This may sound trite," he said, "but honestly I feel better now than I have during the last three years. I can't explain my .270 batting mark though. If I could, I'd probably be hitting higher."

During the last month, Stan has raised his batting average 34 points from .236 to .270. In the same span, Williams boosted his mark from .173 to .217.

"I think I can reach .300 before the end of the season," Musial said. "In fact, I'm confident I will."

VETERANS CHAT

Musial related a conversation he had with Williams the night they were both honored by the Pittsburgh baseball writers for their contribution to baseball over the last two decades.

"We'll both wind up hitting .300," I assured him.

"'You're not too badly off,' Ted said. 'You're within striking distance of .300. But I've got to hit .500 to make it.'"

Actually, Williams has to hit .365 the rest of the season to climb into the .300 circle.

THANKS FOR A WONDERFUL TIME, MISTER

Andrew Edgar, secretary-treasurer of Whitney's Playland-at-the-Beach, receives a token of appreciation from the Ross Little League Dodger champions of 1959 after the boys were treated to a day of fun at the play spot which sponsors their club. Hamburgers, hot dogs, soda pop, and rides were included in the outing. The Ross champs won 15 games and lost but two in chalking up the championship.

Mims Favored Over Benton In TV Fight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — George Benton, an unranked middleweight who is about as popular as the tax collector, will meet seventh-ranked Holly Mims tonight in a nationally-televised 10-rounder.

The bout at Miami Beach Auditorium will be televised (ABC) at 7 p.m. PDT. Mims is a slight favorite at 6-5.

Benton, a 26-year-old fighter from Philadelphia, has been a professional for 10 years, but his record shows he has trouble finding men willing to crawl into the ring with him. He has fought only 41 times during the decade, winning 36 fights and losing 4. One ended in a draw.

Mims, a 30-year-old boxer from Baltimore, has had 69 fights since he became a professional in 1948. He has a 45-18-6 record.

Wife Seasick, So Marathon Swimmer Gives Up Attempt

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Griffith, husky 31-year-old former life guard, gave up near the half way mark last night in his third bid to swim across Lake Michigan from Chicago to Michigan City, Ind., a distance of 36¾ miles.

Griffith, stroking strongly, pulled himself out of the rough waters after 17 miles because his wife, Phyllis, became seasick in an escort boat.

The ex-Marine, an auto salesman, had been in the water about 13½ hours in his attempt to become the first person ever to swim Lake Michigan.

He had been moving steadily at a pace of nearly 1⅓ miles an hour. Griffith had planned to swim the distance in 30 to 40 hours.

Last July 29, a fatigued Griffith came within 10 miles of his goal after a gruelling swim of 28 hours and 35 minutes. In 1957 Griffith hit rough surf and was pulled out after 12½ hours.

Rookie Backs Join Chicago's Regulars

CHICAGO (AP) — First-year Chicago Bears halfbacks Jim Ellis and Don Miller, join veterans in the opening next week of training at St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Ind.

Ellis, a regular on Michigan State's 1953 Rose Bowl team, won three letters at Michigan State, and all-Big Ten and All-America mention in 1951 and 1952.

Miller was with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1954.

The BULLPEN

With JOHN J. CONNOLLY

CONNOLLY

Go swipe the kid's crayon and make a big fat circle around this date: Monday, July 20, 1959.

That is the date that our S.F. Giants return home from their current road trip.

And IF the Giants still are in strong contention at that time, I'll change my mind, stick out my neck, go out on a limb, if you will, and solemly swear that they will bring the first National League pennant to San Francisco this year.

Don't laugh or giggle—there is cool logic behind this thinking—and I mean cool, man, cool.

Between July 20 and Sept. 27 (the last day of the season) the Giants are scheduled to play 60 games, plus any make-ups, and of these 37 will be played in the cool of San Francisco's fog season.

23 games are away in the heat of Los Angeles and the East and Middle West.

IF YOU HAVE never traveled "the big apple" you have no idea how tiring and enervating it can be to play baseball day after day in the hot, humid weather that prevails east of the Rocky Mountains.

It is nothing for a ball player to lose 10 to 15 pounds during a stretch.

It is too hot to eat, too hot to rest, and tempers flare at the slightest provocation.

Pitchers "die" a couple of innings earlier, and the poor relief pitchers can be through before they are called in to take over for a faltering starter.

For two long stretches, from July 20 to Aug. 9, and from Sept. 2 to Sept. 20, the Giants will be meeting their rivals in the cool of Seals Stadium or Candlestick Park.

And in contrast to the early part of the season, the Giants will have nine or ten days off in the second half, unless there are too many make-up games thrown in.

DURING THIS same stretch, Milwaukee has 32 games at home and 29 away with only 5 games in the cool of San Francisco.

And, at the moment, the Braves have more make-up games to face than the Giants, with a greater prospect of more to come in the thunder storm belt.

The Pittsburgh Pirates face a similar ordeal with 34 games at home and 23 away with four in San Francisco.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have 33 at home and 26 away with five in our area. While the weather at the LA Coliseum is not as humid, the temperature goes well above 100 and stays high for the night games.

To look at it from another angle, after July 20 the Giants will play 23 games in the East, Middle West and Los Angeles; Milwaukee will play 56; Pittsburgh 53, and Los Angeles will play 54. This is a serious matter to contending clubs.

If the Giants can get into Candlestick Park by the scheduled Sept. 2 date they will have two more odds going for them. Greater familiarity with their park and the "lift" that goes with bigger and more enthusiastic home crowds.

YOU CAN bet your paycheck that the Candlestick grounds will be "tailored" to the present Giants club—even to a hard surfaced centerfield for Willie Mays and a soft infield for the benefit of whoever is playing shortstop for the Giants at that time. A smart groundskeeper can mean many games for our club in the stretch.

So, if our Giants don't fall apart through the "Ides of July" they have all the odds going for them to sweep the field.

Don't say we didn't warn you.

HOLE IN ONE IS 292 YARDER

WASAGAMING, Canada (AP)— Salesman Art Slater of Winnipeg realized the golfer's dream at the Clear Lake course there—a hole-in-one.

What's so unusual about a hole-in-one these days?

Well, Slater's came on Lake's No. 8 par four hole — a distance of 292 yards.

His three companions in the foursome and a Brandon couple just leaving the green witnessed the fabulous shot.

San Rafael Firemen Use Drill Tower For Ladder Practice

Three mornings a week a crew of half-a-dozen firemen practice "ladder evolutions" under San Rafael's Deputy Fire Chief Vance Trivett.

San Rafael holds a unique position among the county's fire department. It is the only one which has a drill tower. This structure, which resembles a tall, thin, four-story apartment house, is behind the new Firehouse No. 2 on Third street.

The men practice extension of ground ladders ranging in height from 24 to 50 feet. At least once a year, they practice drafting water from a pit near the drill tower. And periodically they practice laying hose on an infrequently traveled San Rafael street.

The morning practice sessions, held each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, are open to members of any Marin County fire department who are authorized by their chiefs to take part, Chief Trivett said.

As Marin County gets into the summer months when fire is an everyday hazard, the members of the San Rafael Fire Department have nine months of drilling to their credit.

"Of course, training is a never-ending thing," commented Chief Trivett.

INTO THE DRILL TOWER—Fireman Donald Dressel climbs from a 35-foot ladder into the San Rafael Fire Department's drill tower. All members of the department have the chance to train at regular morning sessions under Deputy Chief Vance Trivett. (Independent-Journal photo)

DIZZY HEIGHTS—Fireman George Hasler looks unconcerned about the fact that solid ground is 100 feet below him. Beside him on the end of San Rafael's aerial ladder is a telephone to communicate with the engineer who must extend and retract the ladder from a fire truck.

80 YEARS OLD

Novato Man Is Honored On Birthday

One hundred friends and relatives of Victor Sjoblom gathered at his Novato home Sunday to pay their respects on his 80th birthday.

And all 100 were served a lavish buffet dinner prepared by Mrs. Sjoblom, who is "not quite 80."

The festive board at the family home at 511 Atherton avenue was adorned with ham, scalloped potatoes, macaroni and cheese, "old country" style salads, home made bread and coffee, all cooked by Mrs. Sjoblom—plus big birthday cakes baked by her daughter and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anna Church and Mrs. Verna Sjoblom of Novato.

Son Tauno Sjoblom, daughter Mrs. Church and adopted daughter Charlotte Fuller of San Francisco, along with four grandchildren, were among the 100 who called at the party for the longtime North Marin poultry raiser.

Mrs. Sjoblom, who worked several days preparing the feast, said she doesn't do it for every one of her husband's birthdays: "Just every 10 years—I'll do it next when he's 90." 90."

Trial Scheduled In Drug Forgery

A Terra Linda mother, accused of forging doctor's prescriptions to supply herself with barbituates, faces a jury trial in Marin Superior Court on Aug. 11.

Mrs. Inger Helene Kelly, 32, of 794 Del Ganado road pleaded innocent to several counts of forgery Monday before Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Sheriff's Inspector Guido Battaglia said Mrs. Kelly is suspected of using the name of a Redwood City doctor to get large amounts of seconal and dexedrine tablets from Marin pharmacies. Some of the prescriptions retrieved date back to 1957.

Caffe Espresso, Capuccino Can Be Served At Home

In the coffee house, one may sit at a small table, sipping a cup of fragrant espresso, and talk away a long afternoon. Somewhere in the background, there are strains of Handel or Beethoven, interupted occasionally by the puffing and steaming of an espresso machine in one corner. This, indeed, is a world apart from the rush of daily routine.

Exotic coffees—like Caffe Espresso, spicy Cappuccino or Caffe Borgia—all belong to the coffee-house tradition of atmosphere and elegance. Caffe Espresso, with its colorful twist of lemon peel, is easy enough to make at home. So is Cappuccino, a blend of espresso and steamed milk, said to have been developed by the Capuchin Monks centuries ago.

Caffe Borgia is still another variation of espresso that's topped generously with whipped cream and grated orange. All three capture the true spirit of the coffee house.

ITALIAN COFFEE

4 Standard coffee measures (8 level measuring tblsp.) French or Italian-roast pulverized coffee
1½ measuring cups water

A drip pot may be used, but a macchinetta is best. This coffee-making device consists of two cylinders, one with a spout, and a coffee sieve between them. Measure the coffee into the sieve. Put together with cylinder having the spout on top, and with measured water in lower cylinder.

Place on heat and wait for small opening in lower cylinder to steam. Then remove from heat and turn the macchinetti upside down until all the brew has dripped through. Serve in demitasse cups or wine glasses with a twist of lemon peel and sugar, never with cream. Makes 4 demitasse servings.

CAFFE CAPPUCCINO

Combine equal quantities of steaming Italian coffee and steaming milk. Pour into Cappuccino cups and sprinkle with cinnamon and nutmeg. Serve with sugar.

CAFFE BORGIA

Combine equal quantities of steaming Italian coffee and hot chocolate. Pour into cups and top with sweetened whipped cream. Sprinkle with grated orange peel.

VARIATIONS on the espresso theme are worthy of a summer party. You can make them yourself at home with a little care.

The Coffee House Captures The Fancy Of Younger Folk

Marin residents are no strangers to coffee houses, for they have flourished in the Bay Area for many years, springing up without much fanfare and attracting hosts of young people.

Now the coffee houses phenomenon, it appears, is sweeping across the country inland from the West and East Coasts.

Marinites who visit Minneapolis, New York, Los Angeles and Chicago's North Side report that the coffee house is becoming a popular meeting place there too.

The little espresso shops, which often feature classical music, Italian pastries and an assortment of art on the walls, attract the younger generation and have given them the taste of the many special coffees served.

The coffee houses offers Americans something that is hard to find — a pleasant place where one can pursue the art of conversation away from the main stream of frenzied activity. Here two people can relax and chat, unhurried, over cups of espresso. The fare is usually simple, the decor imaginative, and the relaxed mood conducive to talking.

MOSTLY YOUTH

The ascendency of the coffee house has been brought about mainly by young people. This is important because, in many ways, it is a reflection of the young generation's need to talk thing over, to ask questions, to discuss the future. Also important, the coffee house provides a place for the date, one that is sophisticated, romantic—and easy on the pocketbook.

Of course, it is not only the young who patronize coffee houses. Middle-agers have their favorite coffee haunts, attracted by the aura of the arts. Catering to the aesthetic bent of their patrons, many coffee houses feature art exhibits, hi-fi concerts, folk singing, poetry readings or just an abundance of Bohemian charm. Young dancers and students are often employed to wait on tables, making the coffee-house scene even more appealing.

In New York, as elsewhere, couples gravitate toward the coffee houses that best suit their romantic moods. The Coffee Mill for example, is a favorite among couple in the getting-to-know-you stage. Here, one couple set an all-time record . . . oblivious of time, they talked for twelve hours over two cups of coffee. The Coffee Mill's policy is that it never hurries its customers.

IN THE VILLAGE

Another coffee house, the Limelight in Greenwich Village, seems to attract the almost-marrieds. According to its pretty, red-headed proprietor, Mrs. Helen Gee, young people today are "family minded." She also says, "It seems to me that the youngsters look upon cocktails as a rather quaint and old-fashioned diversion."

In order to achieve individual flavor, two things are needed: a strong idea and a strong personality to back it up. A prime example is the unique coffee house, Serendipity 3, on New York's fashionable East Side.

The word "serendipity" means " the art of finding the unusual, or pleasantly unexpected, by chance or sagacity." The "3" indicates the three men who, a few years ago, decided to concoct a coffee house which would answer this definition. They opened a tiny coffee-house gift-shop patterned after a refined general store of the Victorian era. The walls were painted white, the shop was filled with Tiffany glass, hand-made hats and bone china.

Of course, there are hundreds of other coffee houses with the strong, individual idea behind them. Orsini's in New York is an elegant replica of Rome's historic coffee house, Cafe Greco.

One of the thirty coffee houses now in Hollywood is the new Renaissance, which sponsors programs of progressive jazz, drama workshops and a string quartet.

Enrico's in San Francisco is famous for its elegant serving of 31 different coffees, while Riggs Cafe Espresso in Minneapolis has won state-wide recognition for its continental decor. There is also a new coffee house in Memphis . . . one in Albuquerque . . .and still another in Dallas.

IN A SETTING of espresso machine, dark furniture, art and hi-fi music the talk goes on and on in the American coffee house. More and more a favorite of the younger generation, the coffee house is one place where a couple may sit undisturbed and talk quietly for hours over a single cup of coffee.

Make It Separate

Like to serve salad with your main course? Then provide a separate salad plate or bowl and place it to the left of the luncheon or dinner plate. Cold salad should never be served on plates that have been warmed for a hot main course.

When Company Comes

Company dinner service: If service plates are used, napkins should be placed on them. If the first course is at each place before guests come to the table, place napkins to the left of the forks.

Planning Another Barbecue? Be Sure You Buy Best Meat

"Make mine thick and juicy" is an often heard request in steak houses around town, at backyard grilling parties, and even in the family kitchen when it has been announced there's steak for dinner.

The first step in preparing a steak that's "thick and juicy" begins in the meat market. It's there that a certain amount of the thickness and juiciness of the cooked steak is chosen — cooking has a great deal to do with it, too.

All beef steaks for broiling should have a generous covering of white or creamy fat on the outer edges and the lean should be marbled with fat — the fat makes the meat juicy. For broiling, steaks should be cut at least an inch thick —1½ to 2 inches is an ideal thickness for broiling. One-third to one-pound meat per person is the amount of steak to buy. The amount varies according to the appetites of the persons to be served, the amount of bone in the meat, and probably, the cost of the meat. Choose from these favorite steaks:

Club steak, from the rib end of the short loin, is triangular in shape and has little or no tenderloin. Club steaks are usually served one to a person.

Rib steaks are sold in some parts of the country where rib steaks are more popular than rib roasts of beef. Rib steaks are similar in shape to club steak, but cut from the rib rather than the loin.

T-bone steak adjoins the club steak on the loin, but is larger and includes some tenderloin. This steak is easily identified by its T-shaped bone.

Porterhouse steak is really a large T-bone steak. It is cut from the sirloin end of the short loin and is the most tender section of the side. It includes a large portion of the tenderloin.

Sirloin steak is cut from the loin end. It is the largest of the loin steaks for broiling and is named according to type of bone it contains: pin bone, double bone, round or wedge bone. Sirloin steak is an excellent family steak.

Tenderloin steak, or filet mignon, is cut from the whole tenderloin. Tenderloin steaks have less fat than the other beef steaks, and are often cooked with a strip of bacon, especially when cut from the lower grades of beef.

Another steak, available in some parts of the country, is known as strip steak, Kansas City or New York steak. Strip steaks are available frozen. This steak is easily cut at home, for it is actually a T-bone steak minus the bone and tenderloin.

1. Preheat broiler with regulator set at "broil."

2. Slash fat edge of steak to keep meat from curling during cooking. Place steak on rack in broiler pan with top of steak two to five inches from source of heat: A one-inch thick steak, two to three inches from heat source; a two-inch steak, three to five inches from heat source.

3. Broil until top side is cooked to the preferred degree of doneness, then season and turn, using tongs rather than fork which might pierce the meat and allow juices to escape.

4. Broil second side to the preferred degree of doneness. Check doneness of meat by making a small slit with a sharp knife near the bone and note color of inside. Season second side of steak and serve immediately.

CHINESE SOUP TRICK

Secret With Egg And Broth Is How You Pour And Stir

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures

Chefs try to keep their secrets. This food editor tries to ferret them out!

What's on our mind? The way of a Chinese chef with an egg and a kettle of broth. A quick beating, a few stirs, and lovely films of egg looking like delicate flowers appear.

We followed chefs' directions for this soup as given in cook books, but never could we create the magic. Blame it on recipe semantics or on us, but the long wispy shreds of egg just didn't form. You know what we were aiming for if you've ever eaten Egg Drop Soup in a fine Chinese restaurant.

Then we came on a special directive, experimented with it; now we pass along the secret to you. There are three keys to this operation. The broth has to be the right temperature. The egg has to be beaten to the proper consistency. The pouring and stirring — has to be done just so. The simplest trick in the world once you've mastered it!

This egg broth, we find, is a superb pickup.

EGG FLOWER SOUP

Ingredients: 1 egg, 1 can (12½ fluid ounces) clear chicken broth, boiling water, salt.

Method: Break the egg into a teacup; with a fork beat just enough barely to combine yolk and white so when egg is lifted high it will run off fork in a watery stream.

Empty broth into a 1-pint measure; add enough boiling water to make 2 cups. Turn broth into a 1-quart saucepan and heat until boiling hot; adjust heat so broth will simmer —that means bubbles form slowly and collapse below the surface of the liquid. Hold cup about 5 inches above saucepan and pour egg slowly in a fine stream into the very hot broth; stop and start again a few times during the pouring so as to be sure to add the egg slowly enough to keep the soup at simmering temperature; as you pour, stir constantly with the fork in wide circles so as to draw the egg, as it hits the hot broth, into long films and strands. After all the egg is added, add salt to taste and simmer several minutes. Serve at once. Makes 2 servings.

EGG FLOWER SOUP, front right, is easy to prepare with broth and a raw egg—if you know the technique. The other two soups, boullion and vegetable, feature hard-cooked eggs.

Some Prefer Roll 'N Cut Cookies

Ingredients: 1¼ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoons baking powder, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, cup sugar and vanilla; beat in egg thoroughly. Mix in sifted ingredients. Chill until firm. Roll out a small portion of dough at a time on a prepared pastry cloth with stockinet covered rolling pin.

Cut out with 2-inch cookie mutter. Mix 1 tablespoon sugar and lemon rind; sprinkle over cookies. Place on buttered cookie sheet about 1½ inches apart. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 10 minutes. Makes about 40 cookies.

Oatmeal Cookies Are Easy, Good

Ingredients: 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¾ cup shortening, 1¼ cups firmly packed dark brown sugar, ⅓ cup milk, 2 eggs, 3 cups quick-cooking rolled oats.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add soft shortening, sugar, milk and eggs. Beat vigorously until combined. Stir in rolled oats. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, a few inches apart, on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven about 12 minutes. Cool on wire rack; store in tightly-covered container. Makes about 3 dozen.

Vegetable Tray

For a raw vegetable tray use radishes, cauliflowerets, sticks of carrot and celery, strips of cucmber and pickled mushrooms.

Light and airy omelets are pleasantly satisfying on a warm summer day. Puffy omelets have a souffle-like quality and are frequently served as dessert fare with fruit filling or sauces. To prepare puffy ones, simply beat whites and yolks separately . . . the whites until stiff but not dry and the yolks until thick and lemon-colored. With a gentle hand, fold whites into yolks, pour into skillet and bake or broil until slightly dry on top. The omelet should gently spring back when touched.

French omelets are generally known for their smooth surface and texture. The eggs being beaten long enough to thicken and then cooked in a hot skillet with only a suggestion of melted fat.

Filled omelets boast such filling fare as jellies, jams and marmalades, cream cheese with chives, cottage cheese with green pepper diamonds, shredded sharp cheddar cheese, sauteed chicken livers, garlic-croutons, chicken salad, chopped turkey, and for a he-man appetite tempter, hash browned spuds.

Surprise omelets have the taste tempting flavor accents tucked inside. For Puffy Omelet fold the "surprise" food into the yolks before the whites, and French Omelets after the eggs are beaten together. For 3-egg Surprise Omelets add:

½ cup crispy bacon crumbles
½ cup grated sharp cheddar
¼ cup each drained bean sprouts and crisp bacon crumbles
⅓ cup chopped or ½ cup tiny whole mushrooms
¼ cup each chopped onion and chopped parsley
⅓ cup shredded oil packed tuna

Onion Burgers

Ingredients: 1 pound ground lean beef, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons instant onion, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 to 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Method: Sprinkle beef with salt, pepper and onion. Add milk and mix lightly. Shape into 4 patties. Heat butter in heavy skillet until very hot. Add hamburgers and brown rapidly on both sides over high heat; reduce heat and cook to desired doneness. Makes 4 servings.

Egg, Lemon, Veal Are Combined Into Meatballs

Ingredients: 1 egg, 1 tablespoon cold water, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 pound ground veal, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons peanut oil, 2 tablespoons olive oil, ¼ cup water.

Method: In a medium-sized mixing bowl, beat egg and 1 tablespoon water enough to combine yolk and white. Mix in salt, pepper, grated lemon rind, lemon juice, paprika and nutmeg. Add veal and work together well with a fork.

Taking up 1 tablespoon of the mixture at a time, shape into small balls and roll in flour. Heat oils in 10-inch skillet; add veal and brown thoroughly; by this time the meat should be cooked through.

Remove meat to serving platter; add ¼ cup water to skillet; stir over low heat with a wooden spoon to get up drippings and bring to a simmer; pour over meat. Makes 4 small servings.

Good With Fish

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fishermen will relish this side dish with their catch. Drain and chop 1 (1-pound) can of sauerkraut. Add 1 medium-sized green pepper, chopped, 1 cup of mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon of salt and ⅛ teaspoon of pepper. Mix well and chill.

Enhances Flavor

If you've always flavored your standard jelly-roll cake batter with vanilla, try adding 1 teaspoon of lemon juice and ½ teaspoon of grated lemon rind and omit the vanilla.

FASHION PREVIEW

Glittering Brocades Are Seen In Simple Shirtwaist Dresses

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Offhand opulence is the keynote of fall fashions.

This is the word from New York designers, opening a crowded week of fall style previews for the visiting fashion press, in the 32nd National Press Week of the New York Dress Institute.

Lavish furs and lush fabrics are cut as casually as a schoolgirl's raincoat. Glittering brocades appear in simple shirtwaist dresses. Man-tailored suits sport fabulous fur linings or collars.

Fashion, being a woman, is enjoying a season of contradictions.

She goes to the theater in a gold trench coat and a slouch hat, shows up for work in a menswear worsted suit bearing a fortune in furs. She wears a fedora and carries a swagger stick, but her little-boy coat is lined in sable.

It's the same spirit that inspired the renowned Marlene Dietrich to wear a white ermine polo coat with slacks, and that impelled designer Valentina to observe that "mink is for football games."

It's an all-American attitude of taking luxuries for granted, a sort of ostentation in reverse, like trading your limousine for a sports car.

You wear the most luxurious furs, fabrics and jewels with nonchalance. You never look fussy or overdressed whether you're clothed in brocade or denim. The more fabulous the fabric of your costume, the simpler the cut.

Though there are no extreme changes in silhouette for fall, there is a whole new mood throughout the collections. Almost everything has a tailored, under-state, subtly sophisticated look, whether it's a tweed suit or a satin evening dress.

Kaplan-Grafman Rites In Belvedere

At a home ceremony attended only by the immediate family, Rosemary Grafman of Hilarita Circle in Belvedere became the bride of Daniel Eliot Kaplan on June 21. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. Elliott Grafman and the bridegroom, who is from Palo Alto, is the son of Mrs. Hyman Kaplan.

Fore her wedding, the bride wore a short white organdy dress with a bouffant skirt decorated with tiny yellow rosebuds. She carried her Confirmation Bible and a single white orchid. She was attended by her new sister-in-law, Mrs. David Kaplan of Sacramento. Officiating at the noon ceremony was the father of the bride who is a Rabbi.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Grafman chose a beige embroidered gown, while Mrs. Kaplan wore a yellow print.

Rosemary is a graduate of Stanford University and has done graduate work at San Francisco State. This coming year she will teach third grade at the Alto School in Mill Valley. Daniel is a graduate of the University of California where he received a PhD in physics. He is employed by Lockheed in Palo Alto. He has two brothers, David, who was his best man, and Arnold, of Berkeley.

Following the ceremony a champagne luncheon was served to the guests and the new Mr. and Mrs. Kaplan left for a week at Highlands Inn near Carmel. For her wedding trip, the bride changed to a light blue suit with black accessories and wore a white orchid.

Wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Sol Silverman, cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Arthur Jovis, sister of the bridegroom's mother. Mrs. Jovis came from New York just for the ceremony.

OWC Greets Newcomers At Coffee

Red chrysanthemums and red firecrackers carried out the decorations for the recent Welcome Coffee of the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers' Wives Club in the Officers' Club lounge.

Newcomers greeted by the Welcome chairman, Mrs. Richard Tompkins, were Mesdames James Kleckner, Donavan Lyon, Walter Phillips, Winfield Burns and Teresa Spring (new associate member), mother of Mrs. Marvin Good.

Also greeted was a guest, Mrs. Allen Ahrens, mother of Mrs. Lyon.

Mrs. Hugh Parker, honorary OWC president and wife of Maj. Gen. Parker, commander of Western Air Defense Force, was introduced.

Newly elected and appointed council members and chairmen include Mesdames Joe Lyle Jr., president; James Fuhrman, first vice president; Melvin Call, second vice president; Leroy Hude, secretary; Harry Caldwell, assistant secretary; Edward Hoover, treasurer; Parke Tamblin, first assistant treasurer; Thomas Jones, second assistant treasurer; Herbert Lindstrum, parliamentarian; George Milholland, welfare chairman; Thomas Brown, ways and means; Phillip Coady, publicity chairman; Richard Tompkins, welcome chairman; John Rice, editor of the Lady Hamilton; Harlow Millard, social activities chairman; Harry Arendt, property chairman and Maxwell Johnson, activities director.

Decorations were done by Mrs. Tompkins and her committee of Mesdames Robert Williams, James Kleckner and L. B. Griffith.

SWINGING to happiness are Barbara Galvan and Richard Allen Dobell, who will be married on Aug. 15. The bride-elect is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edmond E. Galvan of Orinda, formerly of San Rafael.

BARBARA GALVAN TO BE WED TO RICHARD DOBELL AUG. 15

At a dinner party attended by members of both families, the engagement of Barbara Galvan and Richard Allen Dobell was announced recently. The bride-elect is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edmond E. Galvan of Orinda, formerly of San Rafael. Also residents of Orinda are Mr. and Mrs. Bernal E. Dobell, parents of the future benedict, and the dinner was at their home.

The young couple will be married on Saturday, afternoon, Aug. 15, at 2 o'clock at the Northbrae Community Church in Berkeley and will reside in San Luis Obispo.

Barbara, who has one sister, Mrs. Joseph Tyman (Mary Alice Galvan) of Walnut Creek, attended San Rafael High for two years and then Reno High of which she is a graduate. In February she was graduated from University of California in Berkeley and will teach in the Pismo School District. She is a Delta Gamma and was active in music and drama groups in high school and at the university where she also served on the Rally Committee. At San Rafael High, she was a member of Ra Ravas. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Charles C. Heller of Sacramento and the late Hubert H. Moulton and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Galvan.

Dick, who has one brother, Rodger Dobell of Hayward, is a graduate of Acallanes High School in Lafayette and is a junior in the School of Architecture at California Polytechnic in San Luis Obispo. His fraternity is Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

TIBURON PENINSULA

Four Girl Scouts Presented Highest Award—Curved Bar

The highest award for proficiency in intermediate scouting, the Curved Bar, has been awarded to four girls on the Tiburon Peninsula. They are Janet De Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick De Berry of Little Reed Heights; Nancy Bagnall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bagnall of Belvedere; Tina Bertrand, daughter of Mrs. F. J. Bertrand of Paradies Cove, and Julie Banning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Banning of Belvedere.

To receive the Curved Bar a girl must have attained first class rank and then earn at least four badges in each of the following interest fields: homemaking, arts, citizenship and out-of-doors. To complete the pioneer badge in the out-of-door interest field, the girls participated recently in a three night campout at Big Basin in the Santa Cruz Mountains. They were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Wayne Bingham, and Mrs. F. J. Bertrand. Also on the campout were Carol Lee Willetouski and Barbara Bonfigli.

The Curved Bar signifies a tremendous amount of cooperation between the parents and the leaders plus exceptional effort on the part of the girls. It is comparable to the Eagle Scout award in boy scouting.

Because the requirements had not been completed in time for the Tiburon-Strawberry Courts of Award, a special ceremony was held to present the girls with their pins.

This year three Courts of Awards were held on the Tiburon Peninsula by grade level. The fifth graders met at Strawberry School where 43 second class badges were presented to the girls. Jan Hutchinson spoke on the eleven fields of scouting and the cooperation which parents can give. The previous week Troop 11, at a special meeting, received cook badges as their special emphasis has been on homemaking.

A Court of Awards for the sixth graders was held at Whitaker Hall at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere. This group had received their second class badges the previous year and this year were awarded proficiency badges. Two girls, Kim Hahn and Sandy Marshall, new to scouting this year, were able to accomplish in one year what normally takes two. The two passed their tenderfoot rank and went on to win their second class badge plus proficiency badges.

Vickie Emerson, senior scout, discussed with the girls the opportunities in senior scouting. Some of the badges, particularly seamstress, were explained and aspects of first aid including artificial respiration and bandaging, were demonstrated. On display were a rock collection and exhibits depicting the dabbler (painting), adventurer, and campercraft badges.

A five-year pin was awarded to Mrs. Robert Watkins by Mrs. Arthur Collbran, vice president of the Marin County Girl Scout Council.

The older girls, including seventh and eighth graders and senior scouts, met at the Strawberry School where first class badges were awarded to Linda Allroggen, Sue Bishell, Donna Darroch, Sandra Lelich, Joan Nettro of Troop 34, and Peggy Mirata, Sandra Estudillo and Melinda Moore of Troop 152.

The advantages of senior scouting were explained by Jan Lafferty, Winnie Watkins, Bettina Bost and Randy Daugherty. The girls emphasized the Senior Roundup which has just been held at Colorado Springs.

Adult awards which were presented by Mrs. Collbran included a 15-year pin to Mrs. Mollie Love; a 10-year pin to Mrs. Bingham, and five-year pins to Mesdames Gilbert Darroch, M. R. Bolan, Edwin A. Gratonik and L. S. Bergstrom.

Inge Bauer Bride Of Richard Rhodes

St. Paul's Church in Stuttgart, Germany, was the setting on Saturday, July 11, for the 12:30 o'clock single ring wedding ceremony of Inge Ursula Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Bauer of Schorndorf - bei - Stuttgart, and Richard Willard Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rhodes of San Rafael.

Greens, white gladioli and white carnations were at the altar for the ceremony officiated by Herr Dekan Brezger. The wedding was held at St. Paul's because of the reconstruction underway at the Gothic Cathedral of Schorndorf.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of Swiss nylon and lace fashioned with high neckline and long sleeves. The skirt had a taffeta undergown. She had a coronet of veiling, sequins and silk and a short veil. Her bouquet was of moss roses with veiling.

Erika Bauer was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a sheer lemon colored dress and carried a bouquet of summer flowers.

Heidi and Doris Lutz and Irmgard Gratze as bridesmaids, wore pastel organza dresses and carried bouquets of summer flowers.

Sussanne Koglin and Regine Briegel were flower girls.

Roy Rhodes served his son as best man and ushers included Erich Bauer, the bride's brother, Hans Haller, Ullrich Kessler and Eberhard Kessler.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bauer chose a blue and silver brocade dress with matching jacket.

Mrs. Rhodes wore a powder blue lace sheath with matching accessories.

A reception for 50 guests followed the ceremony at the Hotel Lamm in Schorndorf where summer flowers and pink and blue ribbons were used in arrangements.

For a wedding trip to Salsburg, Austria, the bride changed to a red silk suit with black accessories.

The bride and bridegroom met when he was with the U.S. Army in Germany in 1955. She attended schools in Germany and worked for an advertising firm in Schorndorf before coming to live in San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lowell High School in San Francisco and the University of California. He is employed with the California Retail Hardware Assn. Mrs. Duane Dotson of San Rafael is his sister. Richard is a member of the Marin Lodge 191, Free and Accepted Masons, the California Alumni Assn., and the Press and Union League Club of San Francisco.

The bridegroom's parents are now touring Europe with the bride's parents.

The newlyweds will return to the United States by ship and take up their residence on Arch street in San Francisco.

THE MILL VALLEY Community Church was the setting for the recent wedding of Tenney Louise Coulon and Speed B. Leas. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Coulon of Mill Valley and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nat N. Leas of Fresno.

Expectant Mothers Honored At Tea

The Expectant Mother's tea recently given for 14 women who have completed the course given for them at Marin General Hospital, by Miss Amelia Ditt, director of nurses at the hospital.

Pink Ladies, Mrs. Lee Marriott, and Mrs. Robert W. Smith were hostesses at the tea. Among those present were Mesdames Alan H. Sawyer, Kyle R. Mauk, Chaunce Dunford, Harry L. Parker and John MacAuley of San Anselmo; Mesdames Robert F. Stewart and Richard H. Dicker of Belvedere; Mrs. James L. Roy of Tiburon; Mrs. Thomas Y. Drake of Sausalito; Mrs. Jerry Frazier of Fairfax; Mrs. William C. Bentinck of Kentfield; Mrs. James R. Smith and Mrs. R. J. Nicholson of San Rafael; and Mrs. Charles Campbell of Novato.

Mrs. Martin Stuart Fetes New Resident

To welcome Mrs. Bruce Manheim to the Tiburon Peninsula, Mrs. Martin Stuart entertained at her Belvedere Lagoon home last week. Luncheon was served on the sundeck overlooking the water and the tables were decorated with old fashioned bouquets of yellow daisies with a central rose.

Dr. and Mrs. Manheim, who are from Scarsdale, New York, have recently built in Little Reed Heights. They have three children, Melissa, Bruce Jr., and Leslie.

Guests at the luncheon were the Mesdames William Slater, John Raisin Jr., Charles Bancfort, Bobert Brown Jr., Robert Schell, Walter Machette, Richard Garrick, John Hoefer, Robert Gros, Warren Fink and Albert Siedel.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II Fair Game For Fashion Critics

By FRANCES LEWINE

A little girl in Chicago looked at Queen Elizabeth and lamented: "But mommy, she's not wearing a long dress."

A Toronto woman in her 80s raised an eyebrow at the Queen in a cool, gray and white checked outfit and said in surprise: "She looks like a little girl."

From the very young to the very old, Britain's Queen Elizabeth II is fair game for the fashion critics.

Nobody is quite sure what a 20th Century Queen should wear. But getting drama into her daytime dresses seems to be the big problem.

Pedestrian, girlish, imaginative is the way some newspapermen and women traveling with the Queen have described her daytime wardrobe in the first weeks of her tour across Canada.

They have applauded the gay colors—jade, bright pinks, yellows, and especially becoming turquoise blues—and the glamorous full-skirted "every inch a queen" evening dresses.

But the shirtwaist type, pleated skirt, undramatic daytime designs are criticized as not doing justice to the attractive 33-year-old 5-foot-3 Queen. Some feel more should be made of the Queen's trim waistline.

For her Chicago visit, a high spot of the tour, the Queen stepped ashore in one of her dressiest morning costumes and made a hit.

"Overdressed as a tourist, but not as a Queen," the Chicago Tribune commented.

The Queen wore a full-skirted oyster white lace dress, reembroidered in shades of brown and accented with a beige and brown taffeta cummerbund sash. With it went a matching wide brimmed hat, white accessories, a triple strand of pearls, small pearly earrings and a diamond pin at the left shoulder.

The dress was by Hardy Amies, who with Norman Hartnell, another London designer, has provided the Queen's royal tour clothes.

It has been pointed out that she likes to be comfortable in her clothes and as she walks parade grounds, stands in a jeep to review troops or in the cockpit of the speedy royal barge coming to dock.

Her handbag is always one with straps to be held on her arm so she can have her hands free for ceremonial duties.

Hats, provided by Claude St. Cyr, a Parisian milliner, and Aaze Thaarup, a Dane who works in London, have been cloche and toque styles with organza and draped chiffon, and some pert straws. Her shoes, mostly white and beige on this tour, have been open-toed and slingbacked, with a moderate heel.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D.
Guidance Counsellor

Rudeness In Teen-Ager Is Sign Of Rebellion

"Why would a nice girl suddenly become rude?" a father asks. "Our daughter, an only child is 13. She is big for her age. Formerly she was obedient and considerate, but now she objects to many of the things we tell her. She's especially rude to her mother. When I give orders she obeys, but she resents it. The parents of her friends tell me their girls are the same way. Will you help us?"

I'll be glad to try. Sooner or later all teen-agers rebel. They feel their oats. They sense their growth. They resent their parents, and the whole adult world. They become daring. Nice, well-raised girls often experiment with rudeness and bad behavior. Usually they rebel more at home than at school.

Their mothers take the brunt of it. Mothers are the biggest part of the babyhood the girls are outgrowing. They still love their mothers. They still depend upon them. But they don't want to show it. They feel they have left Mama behind. By being rude to her they demonstrate their independence. See how it works? What they do is wrong, of course. But understandable.

Girls' rebellion often comes at 13 or 14. Boys' rebellion may be expected a little later. Usually the boys' troubles are more intense and last longer.

I suggest several long talks with your girl. Set up some fair rules of conduct together. Make it clear that you expect her to observe them. One rule is decent respect for her mother, and for you. If she fails to live up to the rules, crack down. Don't spank her, but use restrictions or deprivations. Your girls still needs a boss. Eventually she'll thank you.

READERS' FORUM

(Q)—"You said mothers of teen-agers could work, without loss to their children. My 15-year-old son objects strenuously to me leaving our home for a job. Are you sure you are right?" —Mrs. N.R.L.

(A)—I didn't say quite that. I said many mothers of teen-agers can have paid jobs without loss to their children. But not all of them. Homes, children and mothers differ.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 15, the 196th day of the year, with 169 more days in 1959.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and Mars.

On this date in history:

In 1876, St. Louis hurler George Washington Bradley pitched the first no-hit baseball game in National League history.

In 1912, athlete Jim Thorpe led the United States to victory in the Olympic Games at Stockholm, Sweden.

In 1942, Americans in eastern cities were faced with the first serious meat shortage since the beginning of World War II.

In 1943, Italy declared war on her former Axis partner, Japan.

In 1948, Harry Truman won the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia. His running mate was Kentucky Senator Alben Barkley.

A thought for today: Former President Harry S. Truman said, "The responsibility of the great states is to serve and not dominate the world."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. each day the code letters are different.

BARTENDERS AID PALSY FUND DRIVE

Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union Local 126 placed 75 coin cards in Marin bars and restaurants to assist the fund campaign of United Cerebral Palsy. This week, pickup of the cards began. An early scorer was the Pago-Pago on San Rafael's Fourth street, where three cards, each holding $47.50 in coins, were filled completely. Here, Mrs. Max Robertson accepts the cards for United Cerebral Palsy from bartender Dewey Clelland (center), who with bartender John Young was responsible for the big collection, and owner Reno Ghilotti. Mighty pleased is Christone Nordstrom, 8, cerebral palsy victim and campaign "theme girl." (Independent-Journal photo)

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Disaster Averted

MAX MEADOWS, Va. (AP) — A 26-year-old truck driver may have averted a major disaster yesterday after his truck caught fire near two tanks of propane gas.

Firemen, rescue squad members and police from several surrounding towns evacuated residents from the immediate area. The flames were extinguished in four hours.

The truck driver, Billy E. Jones, suffered first and second-degree burns but he went ahead and turned off a valve and compressor in a small pumphouse where he was working.

Civil Rights Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey gave a sample of his presidential campaign lie today with a fire-eating civil rights speech not calculated to win friends in the South.

The Minnesota senator, first avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, called for congressional action this year to help carry out Supreme Court decisions against racial segregation.

Humphrey, who first claimed national attention with a party-splitting civil rights speech at the 1948 Democratic convention, was publicly advanced yesterday as a candidate for the White House.

Manhunt Ended

BASHAW, Canada (UPI)— A 22-year-old man suspected of killing seven members of his family was recaptured quietly near a rural pig pen last night after a four-day manhunt which terrorized hundreds.

Raymond Cook ripped a heavy wire screen over his window to escape last Friday night from Ponoka Mental Hospital where he was under mental observation prior to trial for the murder of his father, Ray Cook, 54. The bodies of the elder Cook, his wife, and five of Cook's half-brothers and half-sisters were found in a grease pit of the family's garage at Stettler.

A number of rural families left their homes for safety in town during the manhunt for the alleged family killer.

300 Flee Gas

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y. (AP) —A cloud of sulphur dioxide gas escaped from a truck last night, enveloped an eight-block area, and forced approximately 300 persons to evacuate their homes.

One person was hospitalized.

Liner For Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The Federal Maritime Administration still hopes to find a buyer for the debt-ridden liner Leilani and has postponed laying up the vessel in mothballs.

"Two or three east coast companies have indicated an interest in purchasing the ship," Lloyd Fleming, the federal agency's Pacific Coast director, said yesterday.

The 650-passenger cruise ship operated between Hawaii and California until its operators abandoned the service several months ago.

Plane Lands Safely

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An American Airlines jet with 106 passengers aboard landed safely at International Airport yesterday on wheels that were lowered manually.

A leak in the hydraulic system made it necessary to crank down the wheels, but the passengers were unaware there was any difficulty.

Victory For Almond

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia's moderate local option approach to integration, built from the ruins of the court-crumbled "massive resistance" laws, gained ground today as result of a hard-fought Democratic primary election.

Key legislators supporting Gov. J. Lindsay Almond's program of "freedom of choice" fought off segregationist candidates to win renomination yesterday.

Princess Expecting?

TOKYO (AP) — Crown Prince Akihito's bride may be pregnant.

A chamberlain of the imperial household announced today that the royal doctors had reported Crown Princess Nichiko "may be with child." He warned newsmen, however, that the doctors' findings were not conclusive.

Akihito and Nichiko, a commoner, were married April 10 after a storybook romance that had all Japan agog.

No Vacation For Ike

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower has not dared think of a vacation here this summer because the nation's problems are so complex.

Mayor Henry C. Wilkinson disclosed last night the President had so written him in response to an invitation to return to this community. The Eisenhowers have vacationed here the last two summers.

Reasons They Work

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Why do many women continu to work after marriage?

Dr. Kate H. Mueller, Indiana University specialist in the counseling of college women, says it's to help finance the long and expensive American weekend, among other things.

"Weekend trips, the new car, entertaining, clubs, and all the luxury paraphernalia associated with the pace of modern life makes that second check necessary for young people," she said in an address here yesterday.

Soon Back In Jail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Yvonne Conley, released from custody yesterday after charges of being an accessory to murder were dropped, was back in jail five hours later on a drunk charge.

Mrs. Conley and George Cole were brought back to San Francisco last week from Des Moines, Ia. She had been living with Cole, who is charged with the shooting of Police Sgt. Joseph Lacey Dec. 30, 1956.

Shades Of Bill Cody

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Shades of Buffalo Bill Cody, great hunter of the Western plains!

Zookeepers and police spread grain and bread on the ground last night, successfully luring a 1,600-pound bull buffalo back into its enclosure at Roger Williams Park.

The four-year-old animal pushed through the wire fence and was leisurely nibbling foliage when discovered. He eluded all efforts until the bread and grain were spread.

Actor Wrecks Yacht

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — American actor-magician John Calvert said today he had wrecked his yacht on Elcho Island. He said the accident occurred while he was trying to beach the yacht after making a trial run. The Sea Fox was escorted to Elcho, off the north coast of Australia, for repairs after Calvert sent out a system of distress calls that the vessel was leaking and had engine trouble in the Arafura Sea.

Nikita Tours Poland

Irate Citizens Chase Driver

Several irate citizens chased a suspected reckless driver from San Rafael to Sausalito Monday night and caught him at Highway 101 and Bridgeway, then called the sheriff.

Deputies arrested Eric Arvid Wik, 18, of 35 Longview avenue, San Anselmo, on suspicion of reckless driving. He is free on $150 bail.

W. R. Mecham of 87 Billou street, San Rafael, who nabbed Wik, said the youth just about ran him down. Four other witnesses from San Rafael said they are willing to testify against the reckless driving antics of Wik.

The youth told Deputy Sheriff Frederick Marcus he was out for "kicks."

Tam District Has 1,300 In Summer Work

More than 1,300 teen-agers of Tamalpais Union High School District or vicinity are voluntarily attending summer sessions of Tamalpais, Drake and Redwood high schools.

Principal Harry G. Russell says that, as this work is by the students' own choice, their participation is wholehearted and there is practically no problem of discipline. The courses comprise a total of 60 classes giving intensive, accelerated training supplemental to regular-year education.

HEAD UP SCHOOLS

Heading the three schools this summer under Russell's principalship are Cyril E. Beattie at Tamalpais, Merrill Convis at Redwood, and Verle Sorgen at Drake.

Beattie reports that 40 of his 407 students have requested that he send transcripts to schools in Los Angeles, Stockton, Arizona, South Carolina, and Montana as well as to other schools in Marin County. He says that activities parallel those of regular sessions with classes in "Problems of American Democracy," taking field trips to the Marin County Courthouse, art classes traveling to Sausalito galleries and San Francisco museums, and general science allowing for individual projects.

At Drake, Sorgen said that classroom speakers have included District Attorney W. O. Weissich and a U.S. Army missile expert. Drake has the highest enrollment with 521 and offers the greatest number of classes in 17 subjects.

STANDARDS HIGH

Sorgen said that far from lowering standards, the summer sessions allow more individual instruction often accomplishing more than regular classes. Attendance is rigidly watched with three unexcused absenses resulting in no summer work credit.

Redwood's Convis insists that summer session aren't designed for failures. Of his total enrollment of 375, 20 students are doing make-up work, all in English.

Russell says that the general aim is to offer refresher courses where needed, enriched courses for students wishing them, exploratory courses for the curious, supplementary courses not in conflict with regular high school, and vocational courses assisting students in careers.

More students than could be accommodated wanted behind-the-wheel driver training. Classes were limited to 37 on each campus and training cars are being run from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., according to Russell.

Drainage Bids Face Mill Valley Council

Opening of bids for the East Blithedale-Camino Alto drainage project at the eastern Mill Valley city limits is a major item scheduled for tonight's meeting of the city council at 8 o'clock in the city hall.

Also on the agenda is a call for bids for improvements in the Bolsa avenue assessment district.

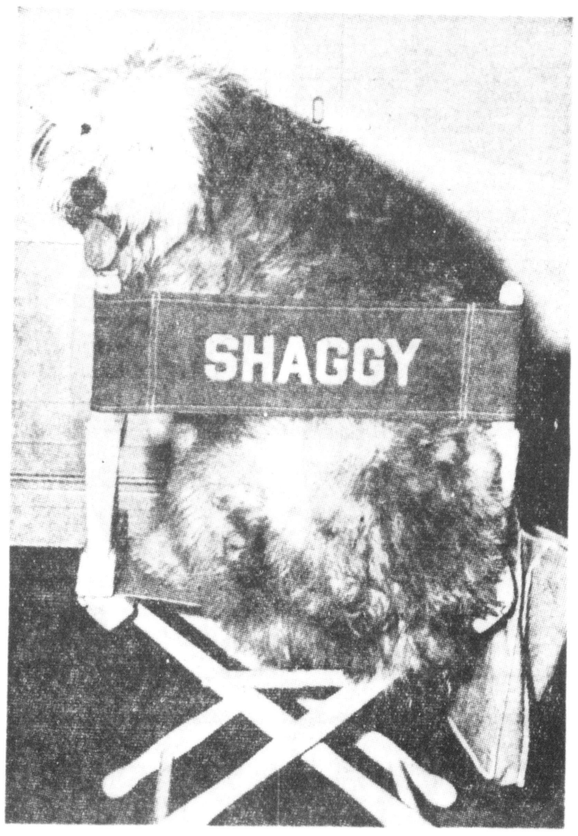
U. S. Service Academy Hopefuls Take Test

Test papers of 14 applicants for U. S. service academies have been sealed for guidance of the 1st District Academy Screening Committee after a written examination Monday in the Davidson School gymnasium in San Rafael.

Municipal Court Judge Richard M. Sims, Marin County member of the committee, said it is not known which academies are desired by the applicants. The test was not in the nature of entrance examination but merely to disclose the basic abilities of the candidates and guide committee recommendations to Rep. Clement W. Miller on appointments.

MILAN CATHEDRAL ON MARIN TOUR ITINERARY

The world-famous Duomo or cathedral in Milan, Italy, considered one of the world's great church buildings, will be visited by members of the Marin European tour group, which departs Sept. 29 for a trans-polar flight to Europe and 20 memorable days touring the continent. The Duomo in its present form was started in the year 1387, occupies an area of 126,000 square feet and can hold 40,000 people. Registrations are now being accepted for the Independent-Journal-sponsored tour. The price is $1,049.60. Registration may be made with coupons appearing frequently in the I-J.



HE GETS STAR BILLING

Lillibrad Sammy's Shadow, usually known as plain Sam the Shaggy Dog, relaxes in his private chair between scenes at the Walt Disney Studio in Hollywood where he is under exclusive contract. Sam romped to fame in the film "The Shaggy Dog," but trainer Bill Koehler says success hasn't spoiled him a bit. (AP Wirephoto)

Fame Hasn't Spoiled Sam The Shaggy Dog

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You'll be pleased to know that success hasn't spoiled Sam the shaggy dog.

Few animals have caught the public fancy as fast as Lillibrad Sammy's Shadow, latest and livest of the long list of Disney animal stars. He's the big 87 pounds bear of an Old English sheepdog that romped through the runaway hit, "The Shaggy Dog."

Sam was resting at his Rialto home between engagements, but Koehler filled me in on how the dog has taken to his newfound fame. Here are the vital statistics on his career:

Born to Norval Pride King and Lillibrad Lindy Lou on Oct. 21, 1956, at Denver, Colo. Bought for $500 by Mrs. Addie Anderson of Rialto. Discovered by Koehler in his obedience school in San Bernardino. Signed by Disney Studios to an exclusive contract.

All kinds of things have been happening to Sam since the movie hit. He acted in a Gale Storm TV film. He guested with Lawrence Welk. He appeared at the Disneyland opening and the Coliseum fireworks show.

"He looked up and saw all those people in the Coliseum and figured they had come to see him" said Koehler. "So he gave them his usual greeting—woof, woof, woof—three barks."

But Sam still has the homey touch, as evidenced by his reunion with mother during a Denver appearance. They gave each other the traditional sheepdog expression of joy: stomping on their front paws.

"Intelligence is not as important in a dog as stability," says Koehler. "I'd rather spend three times longer training a dog if I knew that he would be able to perform the trick no matter what was going on around him. Sam is that way. He goes along with it."

Banking Unit Polls Members On Courses

Lillian Sturken has been named head of a committee to poll members of the Marin County Chapter, American Institute of Banking, to determine preferred courses in an AIB school to open soon.

As for the past four years, the school will give its courses at the College of Marin in Kentfield. It is designed to educate young bank employees to find larger opportunities and to improve their service to the public.

Decision to poll AIB members as to courses for the fall semester was made at a meeting of the chapter's board of governors under the newly elected president, Horace Corona. Other board members are:

Barbara Henderson, secretary-treasurer; Addie Tedrick, vice president; Ralph Manella, in charge of public relations; Beverly Sill, public speaking; Frank Hanlon, past president; Al Rogers, social; Al Locati, forum and seminar; Kermit Irby, debate; Florence Hoffman, women's committee chairman.

Barber Shop Open At Shop Center

Tony's Barber Shop, owned by Tony Petkovich of San Rafael, opened recently in the Montecito Shopping Center at 359 Third street, San Rafael.

The shop is located in the arcade at the center. Petkovich and Ed Dolan of San Anselmo handle the barber work, Alice Crow of San Rafael is manicurist, and the shop also provides shoe shine service.

Customers may make appointments for service, Petkovich announced.

Petkovich also operates Tony's Barber Shop on Tiburon's Main street.

MARIN'S BIGGEST, NEWEST SUPERMARKET

United Markets' brand-new three quarter million dollar supermarket on San Anselmo's Miracle Mile is Marin's largest and most modern. The walls, faced with Italian mosaic, were erected in tilt-up fashion. The interior was carefully planned with an eye to beauty and maximum shopper convenience. The building was constructed by the William H. McDevitt Co. of San Rafael, at a price of $261,628 on a "package deal" which included services of architect, engineer, landscape architect and interior decorator. The remaining half million dollars of the market's cost went into specially-designed interior fixtures and equipment.

FIRST OFF, AN EARTHQUAKE

United Chain Founded In S. F. 54 Years Ago

As United Markets opens its big new San Anselmo supermarket — fourth in the United organization and second in Marin — its executives and personnel throughout the firm cannot help reflecting for a few moments on the company's founder and guiding spirit for nearly half a century — the late Harry Wissman.

Wissman, who died in 1951, established the Wissman stores organization in San Francisco. The name was changed to United Markets in recent years.

He opened his first store in 1905 at Twentyfourth and Clement streets in San Francisco, and was steadily building up a successful business when the 1906 quake and fire came along.

"The store was shaken to pieces," he recalled in later years. "The shelving was down, jellies and jam all over the floor, ammonia was spilled all over everything and there was only one way to clean it up—shovel it out by the spadeful."

The hard-hit Wissman shoveled the mess out by the spadeful, then got together his bills and went to see the wholesalers to whom he owed money.

The latter were hard hit themselves. Their records were mostly destroyed in the fire and many a customer ignored his obligations to them.

Not so Harry Wissman. He told each wholesaler the amount he owed and promised weekly payments until it was paid.

The credit of Harry Wissman was immediately and permanently established in San Francisco.

Young Wissman started business again, with a second store on Clement between Ninth and Tenth avenues. His operations eventually embraced 17 small grocery stores. However, times changed, the supermarket more and more replaced the small grocery and Wissman conformed his operations to the demands of the times, consolidating them into a few strong supermarkets.

Ranging afield from his own outlets, Wissman organized what is now United Grocers, Ltd., a 2,200-member cooperative association of Northern California grocerymen, served as president of the San Francisco Retail Grocers Assn. and as president of the city's Golden Gate Kiwanis Club.

He also developed interests in real estate, being a leader in the development of the Richmond district into a major section of San Francisco.

The Wissman name is still used by the warehouse portion of the business though it has been superseded by United Markets in connection with the stores. But the Wissman spirit and tradition remain firmly at the base of the entire United Markets operation.

Poached Eggs For Epicures

Chicken broth, milk, tomato juice, cream, wine, meat stock, consomme and thin soup may be used for poaching eggs in place of water. Allow 1 quart of liquid for 4 eggs. Bring the liquid to a fast boil over a high gas flame. Drop the eggs into the bubbling liquid and turn the flame to simmer. Cover the sauce pan and cook the eggs 3 to 5 minutes or until the whites are firm. Use a perforated ladle or spoon for removing the eggs and trim off ragged edges. The poaching liquid may be thickened with a little cornstarch or flour and served over the eggs.

Coconut Diamonds—Sturdy Cookies Not Overly Sweet

Here's a sturdy satisfying cookie that is not overly rich or sweet.

COCONUT DIAMONDS

Ingredients: 1 cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, 1 large egg, 3 cups sifted flour, salt, 1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut.

Method: Cream butter and sugar; beat in egg just enough to combine. Add flour, a dash of salt and coconut; mix well with a spoon; dough will be stiff. On prepared pastry cloth with lightly floured stockinet covered rolling pin, roll out one-half of the dough at at time a little less than ¼-inch thick. Cut with sharp diamond-shaped cookie cutter (about 3 by 2 inches), bearing down so coconut ends will be cut clean at cookies' edges. With sharp tines of a fork, prick surface of cookie dough in desired pattern.

Bake in ungreased cookie sheet, about ½-inch apart, in moderate (375 degrees) oven about 15 minutes or until edges of cookies are lightly browned.

Cool on wire racks. Store in tightly-covered container. Makes about 4 dozen.

World Of Flakiness From Proper Oven

Many areas of creative cookery are open to cooks who master the art of making good pastry. Napoleons, strudels, patty shells, puff paste, fried pies, tarts and main dish pies such as chicken pie are just a few of the interesting dishes that start with pie crust dough.

For tender, flaky pastry, be sure to preheat the gas oven to 400 degrees. One-crust pies, such as custard, should be baked for 30 to 40 minutes. Two-crust fruit-filled pies should bake in a gas oven preheated to 425 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes. Pie shells without filling should be baked at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes.

Meat For Repair

Meat in the diet performs many useful and necessary functions. One of the most important is that meat provides high quality protein needed for body building and body repair.

SUCCESS STORY

Ben Saccone Went To Work At Age 15

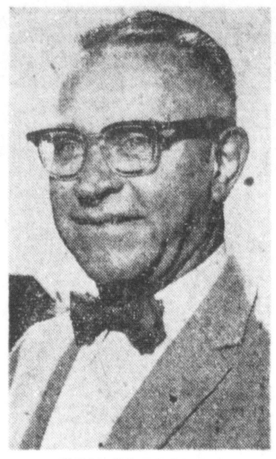
From delivery boy to head of a great supermarket organization. That's the American success story. A typical story, but always a thrilling story.

And it is the personal story of Bernard (Ben) Saccone, president and general manager of United Markets.

It spans the period of the horse and delivery wagon and the modern superlative supermarket Marin finds this weekend in the grand opening of the United Markets' San Anselmo store, and it moves right into tomorrow — and Marin's future.

So now for Ben's story:

Ben Saccone, as thousands know him, went to work at 15 to help support the family—he started driving a horse and wagon delivering for a grocer.



BEN SACCONE
Once a delivery boy . . .

At 19, Saccone was in business for himself, as a groceryman, at Twenty-second avenue at Geary boulevard, San Francisco. It was an unfortunate partnership venture, and without bewailing or casting blame, Saccone just says:

"At 22 I went to work for Harry Wissman—32 years ago—as a grocery clerk. There were 17 small stores operated by Mr. Wissman then, and I was able to work up to store manager. The first store I managed was at Cole and Parnassus, San Francisco. After several years I was promoted to supervisor, then buyer and supervisor, and after Mr. Wissman died, became secretary-treasurer and general manager and later, president and general manager."

Mrs. Saccone, whom he married in 1928, helped Saccone in every way and also reared a family. They have three children, one a married daughter, Mrs. Clara Smith of Santa Rosa, who has two children herself, Terise, 7, and Linda, 5, and Saccone is as proud of his grandchildren as he is of his children.

The Saccones' other children are a daughter, Lois, and a son, Frederick, now assistant office manager for United Markets.

"My life is my family, and my business," he says. "I am looking forward one day to becoming a resident of Marin."

There's more to it than that folks. You see, it's Saccone's "third love." He proudly says he knows it as a boy would know it, who has hiked every trail, climbed every peak, and roamed through every canyon in Marin County.

Imagination Makes Soup Maneuvers

Modern condensed soups can be combined and blended with other ingredients to produce a delicious extra, or the main dish of the evening meal. Here are some good flavor combinations: mushroom and asparagus soups with slivers of ham, tomato and bean soup with slices of frankfurters, turtle soup and green pea soup with a garnish of salted whipped cream, tomato soup with minced clams, and cream of chicken soup with cream-style corn.

The soups are best when they are heated thoroughly over a medium flame for 15 to 20 minutes. Covering the soup kettle helps to develop the flavor.

Two Ground Meats Make Better Loaf

When preparing a meat loaf, do you always use just one type of ground meat? Beef or maybe lamb are some of your choices.

However, did you ever think of combining two ground meats such as ground ham and ground pork, or perhaps putting ground beef and ground veal together in a meat loaf or ring? There are any number of various combinations.

However, it must be remembered that whenever you are using fresh ground pork in a loaf, the loaf must be baked in a 350° F. oven. Other loaves not containing fresh pork are usually baked in a 300° F. oven.

THE FREEZER QUESTION

Just As You May Suspect, Freezers Don't Save Money

By VIVIAN BROWN

To own or not to own a freezer is a question that many housewives face sooner or later. Those who do not take advantage of this innovation of our age have good reasons. But just let them try to persuade the freezer owner that owning a freezer is not essential to modern living! And after all, satisfied customers should be the true test of the freezer's value.

It is not inexpensive to own a freezer, and you do not save money by freezing your own foods no matter how cheap you get it at large quantity prices. But the freezer offers many advantages that may be worth the investment — it is convenient, saves time in marketing and meal preparation, and it offers the advantage of having out-of-season food all the year round.

FREEZER COSTS

Attempts have been made to estimate the cost for home freezing, exclusive of the cost of the frozen food. Into these estimates go a depreciation figure based on a freezer life of 12 years, the cost of packaging the food, the cost of freezing it, and the cost of maintaining a freezer temperature of zero degrees Fahrenheit.

All told a 12-cubic foot freezer with a capacity of 360 lbs. costs 11 cents per pound of food frozen when there is a turnover of 150 per cent and some 900 pounds of food is frozen within the year. If there is not appreciable turnover of frozen food, the cost of operating the freezer is 25 cents per pound, says the experts.

Thus it can be seen that the family that uses the freezer often gets a better bargain because relatively fixed costs of operation of the freezer are divided among a larger number of "useful pounds" of food.

If there is little turnover of frozen food on the housekeepers' books the items "stored" in the freezer must bear such a high share of freezer operating expense that they don't remain "bargains" for long no matter how inexpensive the purchase price.

There are all types of freezers. Some women prefer the chest type, although they find it is difficult to reach to the back of some of these. Other women would rather have the upright freezer, where frozen food is stored like books on a shelf, readily available at the fingertips. It is a matter of preference and space.

BOSS'S EYE VIEW OF MARKET

This "picture window" enables Dick Youngs of San Anselmo, manager of United Markets' new Miracle Mile store, to keep his eye on every facet of the complex business. It is an eye-pleasing view that he gets, as the market's interior was finished under the direction of an expert interior decorator to add beauty to the market's other features designed to provide the ultimate in convenience and restfulness for its customers.

(Ken Molino photo)

United Markets 'Theme' Quality At Low Prices

"The byword in all departments of United Markets is quality."

So when you find a wide supply of floor specials in the new United Markets' Marin outlet in San Anselmo you know that those who buy "for you" are seeking the best—and getting the best prices because of the large direct purchasing power of the organization.

And it is "know how" in the grocery business that gets quality at low prices—and "know how" that operates a smooth, efficient organization from the unloading of the trucks that bring the merchandise in to the supervising the "bag" or "tote" boys who carry your purchases to your car.

JOE SACCONE
It began after school

And "know how" in the case of the assistant general manager of all the United Markets, Joseph E. (Joe) Saccone, goes back to the days when he started working as a small boy after school and on Saturdays. For whom did he work? The United Markets' first store, managed by his brother, Bernard.

"I was so small I had to stand on a box to weigh out the sugar in paper bags, bag beans and rice, and other such chores," says Joe. "I swept the store too. And I really grew up in the grocery business."

Later Saccone joined the Best Foods organization and spent seven years with it, rising to a key position and gaining experience handling men. All this was in preparation for his present post of supervising 200 United Markets employees here and in San Francisco.

Came the army, and service for three years, two of them with Patton in Europe.

After World War II, Saccone rejoined the United Markets organization.

In addition to supervising, he buys for the liquor department, helps select sites for future markets, keeps an eye on competitors' innovations and finds time to plan for his family, which includes his wife, son Joseph Jr., 16, and daughter Noella Maria, 12.

The Saccone family lives at 160 Forbes avenue, San Rafael.

Piping Hot Loaf Dripping Cheese

Here's a new version of America's favorite sandwich to bake in your oven: Slash a loaf of Italian or French bread in regular slices without cutting through the bottom crust. Insert slices of American, Mozzarelli or process Swiss cheese into the slashes and brush with melted butter. Place the loaf in a gas oven, preheated to 350 degrees. Bake about 20 minutes, or until the cheese melts and the loaf is piping hot.

Mealtime Menageries Make Hungry Small Fry Hungrier

You don't have to belong to the "take a bite for Mommy and now one for Aunt Katie" school of feeding children to know that a small amount of kitchen ingenuity usually pleases Junior. Easy-do magic with some basic foods will on occasion help that young man and his sister accept and enjoy nutritious food.

Young ones still at home, or back from school for lunch, are particularly susceptible to the tricks you pull out of your apron pocket. Here are a few ideas using peanut butter with which mothers have beguiled young appetites. We pull up the curtain on peanut butter because it is an inexpensive way to supply, or step up, the protein children need every day.

CLOWN LUNCHEON PLATE

The clown's face is made from scrambled eggs — preferably two eggs, though if you spread the face thin, you can get away with one: (If you're feeding two youngsters, you might use three eggs for two clown faces). One slice of crisply fried or broiled bacon will make the eyes, nose and mouth.

A slice of toast spread with peanut butter and cut into one large and two small triangles will make the clown's hat and bow tie. Two carrot curls are perfect ears and big enough to hear anything that's going on.

COVERED WAGON

Make a peanut butter sandwich and cut it in half. Stack the halves on top of each other. Cut four rounds of carrot and place two on each side of the stacked sandwich halves for wheels; place a long thin piece of celery in front of the wagon to serve as the handle.

MYSTERY BANANA

Peel banana and scrape off any "strings" with a case knife. Slice the banana in half lengthwise. Spread room temperature peanut butter over one cut surface; press the other half of the banana firmly over the peanut butter. Now cut crosswise in slices thick enough for youngsters to pick up and eat out of hand. Small fry usually think the striped effect is mysterious; will want to make a mystery banana themselves.

PANCAKE MENAGERIE

When I was young "pancakes for lunch" were a great treat. (Usually they were prefaced by a vegetable soup, and dessert would be fruit). The pancakes might be a special sort made with cottage cheese. Or they might be the good old plain variety served with maple syrup or honey, jam or jelly and butter.

Half a dozen years or so ago a friend showed us how to make "animals" with pancake batter and since that time a good many families have been concocting menageries enthusiastically. If these edible zoos are new to you, here are directions:

Prepare pancake batter from a mix or start from scratch. Using a small pitcher or measuring cup that has a lip pour out a small round or oval body onto a hot lightly greased griddle. Head, legs and tail are made by dribbling batter from a spoon. Start by making a rabbit, horse, cat, turtle or chicken and then let your imagination guide you. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

Beef-Vegetable Beef Loaf Big Enough For Tomorrow

Every homemaker can undoubtedly show off her culinary talents in the preparation of her own distinguished meat loaf.

The recipe usually is one passed down from mother to daughter but today a nationally known meat expert, Reba Staggs, wishes to have you try this Beef-Vegetable Loaf.

A loaf like this featuring 2 pounds of ground beef yields enough for 8 servings. If there is any left over, simply feature the meat loaf in sandwiches the following day.

BEEF-VEGETABLE LOAF

2 pounds ground beef
½ cup milk
1 cup cracker crumbs
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1¼ teaspoons onion juice
1 cup cooked baby lima beans
½ cup grated carrots
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 eggs, beaten

Pour milk over cracker crumbs. Add ground beef, salt, pepper, onion juice, lima beans, carrots, celery and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Pack in a 5x9-inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Yield: 8 servings.

SPACIOUS MARKET UNOBSTRUCTED BY PILLARS

United Markets' new store provides maximum shopper convenience with wide aisles, carefully planned space allotment for merchandise and an interior unobstructed by pillars. A distance of 122 feet is spanned by wooden trusses to eliminate need for floor-blocking columns. Display cases are equipped with colored plastic bases and, where needed, interior illumination. (Ken Molino photo)

THROUGH THE AIR CURTAIN

Mrs. Richard Bauman of Kentfield tests a United Markets innovation—an "air curtain," in which a stream of cool air is blown down across the opening of the dairy products cooler. The air curtain provides refrigeration for the dairy items and eliminates doors on the cabinet, for the convenience of customers like Mrs. Bauman, who has her hands full with three helpers, daughters Judy, Karen and Mandy. At 23, Fred Saccone Is Veteran Grocer

An old-timer in the grocery business at age 23 is Frederick Saccone, who started as a box-boy when he was a lad of 14.

Saccone is following in the footsteps of his father, Ben Saccone, United's president and general manager, who went to work at 15 driving a grocer's horse-drawn delivery wagon.

Fred Saccone is a graduate of San Francisco's George Washington High School and attended University of San Francisco. He served two years in the Army, returning to United, where he transferred to the firm's general office last year.

He plans to make United a career, and is furthering his knowledge of business operations by attending Heald's Business College in the evenings.

Saccone, his wife Barbara, and 10-month-old son, Michael, are now San Francisco residents but are hoping to move to Marin in the near future.

Molasses Glaze

¼ cup unsulphured molasses
¼ cup prepared mustard

Combine unsulphured molasses and mustard. Forty-five minutes before baking time of ham is completed, take ham from oven. Score fat surface and stud with cloves. Spread part of molasses mixture on ham. Continue baking, brushing ham once or twice wtih remaining mixture.

Glaze Variation: Combine the molasses and prepared mustard with ¼ cup finely cut peach or apricot preserves or marmalade.

Teen-Ager's Slumber Party Has Dreamy Wake-Up Feast

Parents of any teenage daughters have undoubtedly enjoyed the fun of having their home used for a slumber party.

Late evening snacks and breakfast are all part of such a function. Probably the teenage gals will care for their own evening snack needs but it is undoubtedly appreciated by all concerned for Mom to have breakfast . . . ready and waiting.

Sausage Whirls simply involves pancakes wrapped around pork sausage links and topped with an Honey-Orange Sauce. The Sausage Whirls can be made in advance and kept warm in the oven . . . then just let the teenagers help themselves.

SAUSAGE WHIRLS

1 pound pork sausage links
2 tablespoons water
Pancakes (approx. 3¼ inches diameter)

Place pork sausage links and water on cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook 5 minutes. Uncover and cook sausage links until browned, turning occasionally. Wrap hot pancakes around sausages and serve with Honey-Orange Sauce. (Sausage Whirls may be kept in warm oven until served).

HONEY-ORANGE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate
½ cup honey

Melt butter and add orange juice concentrate and honey. Heat thoroughly and serve over Sausage Whirls.

A Dash Of Current Jelly Glazes Broiled Lamb Chop

Dinner deadline is always an important part of a homemaker's schedule. It's not uncommon, however, to be somewhat delayed in dinner preparation due to afternoon commitments.

If such is sometimes the case in your home, turn to lamb chops . . . economical lamb shoulder chops . . . to solve the problem.

Broiled lamb shoulder chops are delicious but add some currant jelly and . . . presto, in just minutes you not only have dinner . . . you have an elegant dinner ready to serve.

Reba Staggs, an expert well versed in the field of meat and meat cookery, comments that the majority of lamb cuts in the steak and chop category are considered tender and therefore can be broiled.

Don't draw your own conclusions, give this idea a fair try and just set the glistening glazed lamb shoulder chops before your family and let them decide.

GLAZED LAMB BROIL

4 lamb shoulder chops, cut ½ inch thick
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup currant jelly
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Set regulator for broiling. Place chops on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so that top of chops is 3 inches from the heat. Broil until browned, about 6 to 8 minutes.

Turn and broil 2 minutes longer. Season with salt and pepper. Mix jelly and lemon juice and spread on chops, using about 1 tablespoon per chop. Continue broiling 2 minutes or until done. Yield: 4 servings.

So That's Why

Metal sometimes affects the flavor of tea; that is why teapots are usually of china or earthenware.

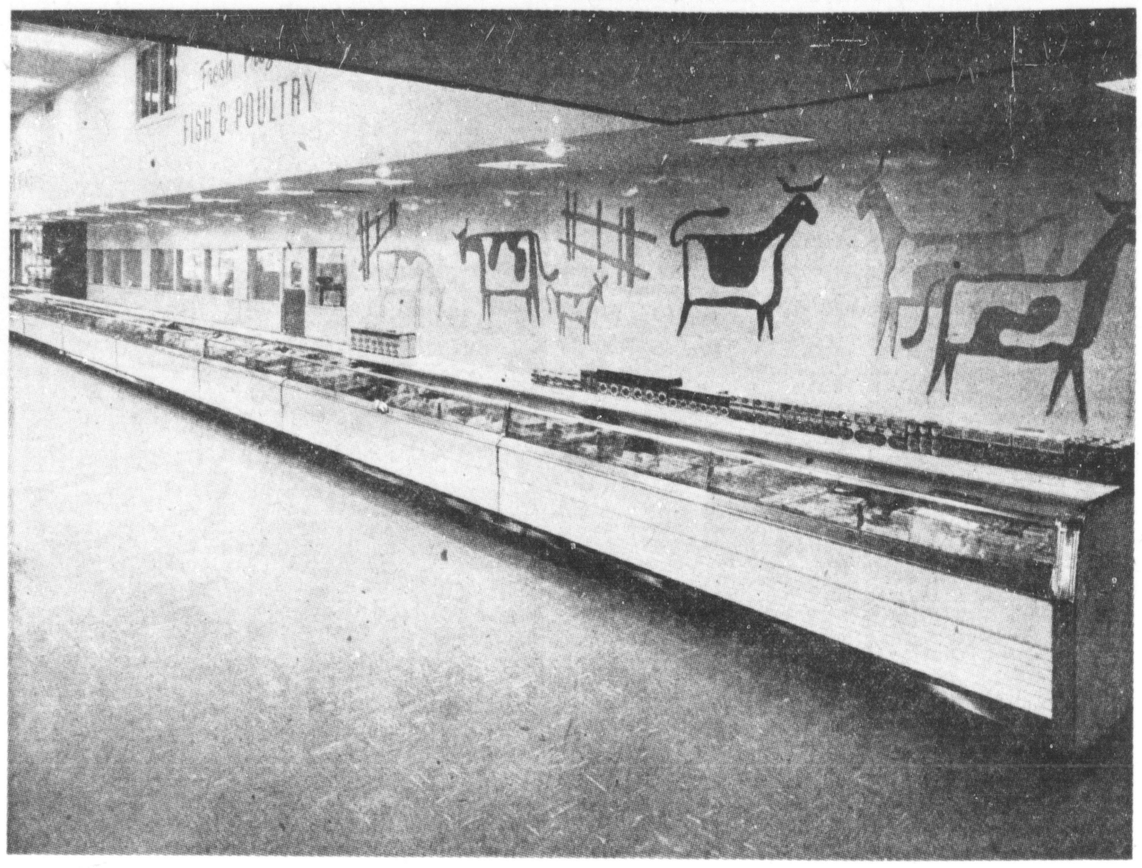
NEWEST MEAT MARKET — San Anselmo headquarters for United Markets' meats are in this beautifully arranged meat department, where new customers learn, and old customers are reminded, of United's pride in offering only the choicest meats and the most complete line of delicacies. Refrigerated self-service meat cabinets are kept fully stocked by a large staff of butchers seen at work in the back shop. (Ken Molino photo)



TOPS IN MARIN—Here is the meat department of the new San Anselmo United Market, pictured just before the market opened its doors last week. The market, like United's other Marin store in San Rafael and others in the United operation, stakes its reputation on the quality of its meats and the efficiency of its service.

Meat Department Has Self-Service

On the well-tested theory that self service in the meat department is what the customer—especially the Marin customer—wants, you will find the meat department of United Markets' new San Anselmo supermart built around these features:

1. The biggest, most modern self-service meat department north of the Golden Gate.

2. The largest staff—a department manager, eight butchers and five girls.

3. The latest in refrigerator cases, with all meat cut before the customer's eyes in a completely air conditioned compartment.

4. Only U.S. Department of Agriculture choice grade meats. Manager of the meat department is Thomas Christian, 43, of 41 Clark street, San Rafael, a Marin resident since 1929.

Christian is a veteran of many years experience in the meat business, with time out for two years in the Marines during World War II. He entered the business in 1933, and was a meat market manager at the age of 19.

He transferred to United's San Rafael store in 1957.

Christian and his wife, Nell, have a son, Thomas, Jr., 17, a graduate of Marin Catholic High School, and a daughter, Misty, 10, who attends Mary Silveira School.

Christian is a golfer, a gardener and an ardent sports fan, but the subject he talks about most expertly is the meat business. He points out that United's policy is to trim meat first, then weigh it and price it, so the customer gets full measure of what she is paying for.

"We want the meat to reach the customer at the peak of flavor and tenderness," he says. "Any piece of meat bought from us carries a money-back guarantee.

"We stress cleanliness and sanitation, but you can check on it by watching through the windows of our preparation room the complete operations of cutting and handling."

In addition to the various standard meat cuts, the United Market will serve cold meats—all vacuum packed under their own brand name, eviscerated poultry, all types of cheese. And then there will be everything for the gourmet, according to Christian.

"Those who want squabs, frog legs, lobster, game hens, fresh and frozen chicken parts,—they'll be able to get them at United Markets," he says.

"In our delicatessen, we have ready for your selection Italian assorted cold meats, vacuum packed, and many other things.

"As in all good meat departments, we offer special prices on freezer orders."

All planned, all ready—help yourself, Marin!

For Those Who Sit On Glass Chairs

Fiber glass chairs, set on sturdy metal pedestals, are a new and exciting development in modern furniture. These pieces are impervious to moisture and can be washed with soap or detergent suds.

This means that even such gay colors as blue, pale yellow, oyster white or gray can be used as accent colors with no qualms about upkeep.

Because their curved shape shows the outside as much as the inside, these chairs should be washed all over.

Fish Bundles—Fun To Say And Eat

Neat little parchment packages of piquancy. This fanciful fish dish (French ancestry) adapts equally well to fresh trout or frozen (thawed) whiting.

FISH BUNDLES

Ingredients: 4 small butterfish or similar variety (1¼ to 1½ pounds), 1 teaspoon anchovy paste, 2 cups sliced mushrooms, 4 large scallions (including green tops and cut into 2-inch lengths), salt pepper, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Method: Have fish cleaned but leave heads and tails on. Arrange each fish on one side of a heart-shaped piece of parchment paper or foil; spread inside of each fish with ¼ teaspoon anchovy paste.

Top fish with mushrooms and scallions; sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper; dot with butter, patting some inside fish.

Fold paper over so edges meet; crimp edges; place on cookie sheet. Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven 15 to 20 minutes. Serve in paper. Makes 4 small servings.

Famous Welsh (Yes!) Crumpet Reigns In Dear Old Victoria

Tea and crumpets, an institution at the stately Empress hotel in Victoria, British Columbia, is a combination considered a "must" by United States visitors to this Canadian city with the English atmosphere. Hundreds throng the deep-carpeted foyer of this world famous hotel, awaiting their turn for this highly pleasant social participation.

What is a crumpet? Of Welsh origin, the crumpet has the same appearance as a pancake or fritter.

Crumpets are closely related to English muffins, but are thinner and flatter. Both are made with yeast and baked on a griddle in shallow metal rings so they will hold their shape. Both are toasted and served hot, with butter and marmalade, as a tea accompaniment. (English muffins are split before toasting; crumpets ordinarily are left whole.)

Here is the authentic recipe for crumpets as given by the Chef of the Empress Hotel.

Heat 3 cups milk with ½ cup butter and ¾ teaspoon salt almost to boiling; let cool to lukewarm. Stir 1 envelope dry granular yeast (or 1 cake compressed yeast) into ¼ cup warm water. When softened, add to lukewarm milk. Stir in 3 to 4 cups all-purpose flour—enough to make a fairly heavy drop batter, a little stiffer than cake batter. Beat thoroughly. Cover, and let stand in a warm place until light and puffy. (This will probably take 45 minutes or longer.)

Heat pancake griddle moderately hot (325 deg., if you have an automatic one). Grease crumpet rings inside; set on hot ungreased griddle. Carefully drop the light batter into the rings. Let cook slowly until well browned underneath (10 to 15 minutes), then turn and cook about 15 minutes longer. Cool on a rack. Serve toasted, with butter and orange marmalade. Makes 1½ to 2 dozen crumpets.

ABOUT CRUMPET RINGS

If you do not have a set of crumpet or muffin rings (and few U.S. kitchens do have them), you can make very satisfactory ones from heavy foil. Cut each strip of foil about 4 inches wide by 10 to 12 inches long. Double it twice, making a band 1 inch wide. Shape into a ring, overlapping the ends; staple or pin them firmly, and the ring is ready for use.

Chinese Clue

If serving braised cubes of pork and are in quest of an accompaniment, simply turn to Chinese noodles, rice or noodles.

Package Plan Built New Hub Market

The William H. McDevitt Co. package building plan, well known in Marin County in the quality residential field, has been expanded to include large commercial and industrial structures.

The new United Market in San Anselmo is an example of the savings and quality obtained through the package service, which includes complete architectural, engineering, construction, landscaping and decorator's services.

Just seven months ago Robert Conyes, financier investor, and Ben Saccone, president of Wissman stores, came to the McDevitt company office with an idea. Today they are opening the largest and most advanced market in Marin County in less time than is usually taken to complete the plans alone. This is how it was accomplished:

Saccone submitted generalized design and budget requirements to the McDevitt company for a survey of the feasibility of the project. After McDevitt had determined that the plans and budget appeared practical, he put architect, Jacob J. van der Ploeg, A.I.A., to work on the project. A team made up of McDevitt's chief estimator, Ray Winther Co., market equipment specialists, and key sub-contractors worked closely with architect and engineer so that preliminary plans and cost estimates were completed for approval within three weeks' time.

Just six weeks after approval of preliminary plans and costs, final blueprints and specifications were complete and construction was started.

Demolition of existing buildings, clearing and tree removal were accomplished during the period that the blueprints were being prepared.

In these early stages of construction, McDevitt appeared before property owner groups and the San Anselmo City Council to explain the effects of the market on traffic and surrounding properties. As a result of these meetings, it was proposed by Ben Saccone that the United Markets widen the streets on either side of their property and install a new street along the rear of the property at their own expense as a part of the construction contract.

These improvements which have now been completed by the McDevitt company give the market frontage on four streets, providing easy access and eliminating traffic congestion.

With zoning and street problems settled and building permits approved, McDevitt company workmen started on concrete pilings and foundations. The interior designer, Lon Foster, A.I.D., was put to work at this stage to design concrete wall colors, mosaic tile panels and interior colors and finishes. Results of his work can be seen in the olive green tilt-up concrete walls with exposed rock aggregate and in the unusual Italian tile emblems on the exterior of the building.

Selections were made by Foster at this early stage and orders placed to avoid any possibility of delay in the finish work.

As work proceeded at a rapid pace, sidewalk superintendents watched in awe as large cranes lifted 20-ton concrete wall panels, which had been poured and finished on the market floor, into place and shortly after placed on the walls huge trusses spanning 122 feet and providing a column-free interior.

Five months' actual construction time was required to complete all details of construction. During the construction period, landscape architect Ernest Wertheim was employed by the McDevitt company to work with the architect in laying out landscaping and sprinkler systems.

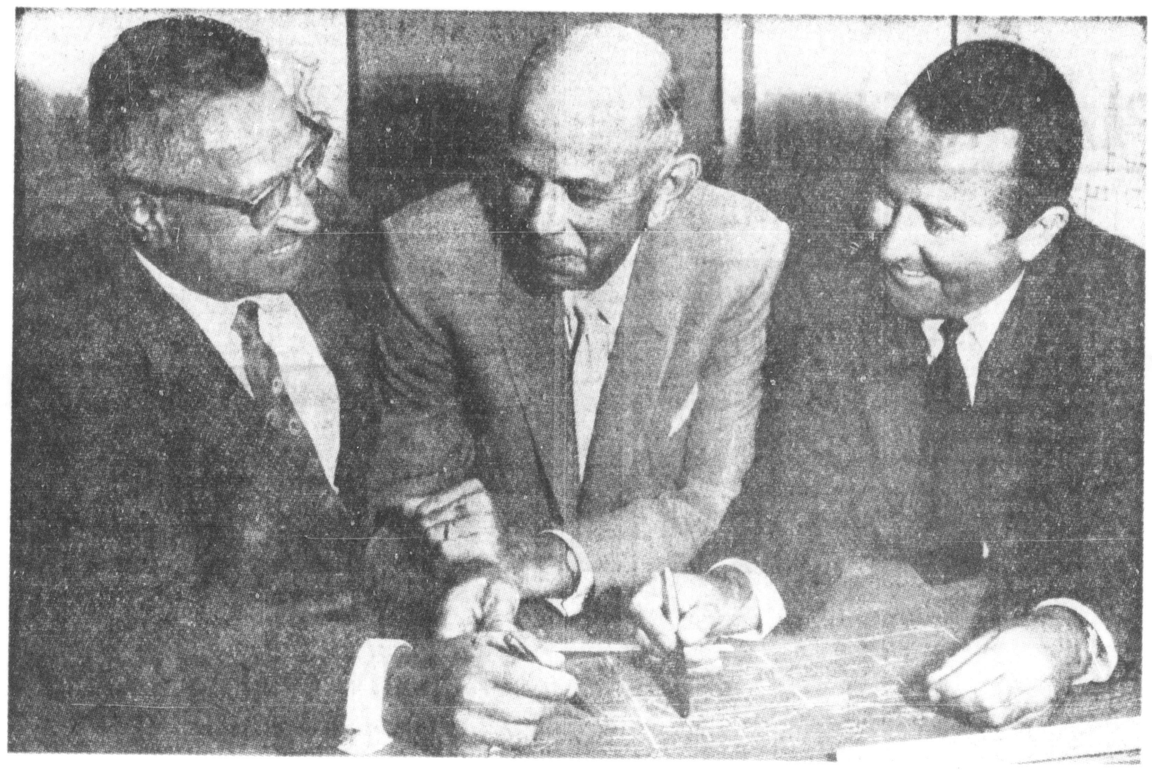
As soon as exterior building construction would permit, workmen in the soil preparation, planting and landscaping work.

McDevitt said he believes in using all of these professional services and that shortcuts are a false economy. His experience, he declared, has shown that finished quality and lasting beauty can only be obtained through the practical use of special talents in each field affecting the project.

"The McDevitt company exercises close control of each phase of design and development in order to maintain the owner's budget and operates an efficient and economical construction operation in order to be able to deliver top architecture and custom quality at prices often lower than stock construction," he said.

Ben Saccone said that, having built under both methods, he would use the McDevitt method again for future projects.

McDevitt estimates that the use of these over-all services saves the customer from 10 to 30 per cent on all types of construction over handling this work on the usual basis. He points with pride to the new United Markets as an example of what can be done.



WRAPPING THE PACKAGE—Huddled over blueprints of the new United Market, putting together the "package deal" under which all services in connection with its design and construction were included in a single contract with builder William H. McDevitt of San Rafael, are, from left, Ben Saccone, United's president and general manager; Robert Conyes, developer and investor who owns the property and leases it to United, and builder McDevitt.

Pineapple Slim

A serving of fresh pineapple provides about 35 calories. That is about a third as many calories as canned or frozen pineapple. Buy it by odor and weight, not color. A fragrant odor, hollow "eyes," absence of blemishes and heaviness are the qualities to look for when buying fresh pineapple. A ripe pineapple may be yellow, yellow-orange or bronze, depending on the variety.

Bean Sprouts Plus Beef—Old Chinese Quick Custom

Quick to cook, as good Chinese food should be.

BEAN SPROUTS PLUS BEEF

Ingredients: ½ pound flank steak (slightly frozen for easy slicing), 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 small clove garlic (crushed), 2 tablespoons peanut oil, 1 chicken bouillon cube dissolved in ¾ cup boiling water, 2 cans (1 pound each) bean sprouts (well drained).

Method: Slice meat across grain so strips are about ⅛-inch thick, 1 inch wide and 2 inches long. Stir together the cornstarch, soy sauce, sugar and garlic in a small platter; add meat and turn so it absorbs mixture.

Heat oil in a 10-inch skillet until very hot; add marinated steak in one layer and brown well and rapidly on both sides; add bouillon and cook and stir constantly until thickened.

Add bean sprouts, mix and reheat quickly. Sauce should be like a glaze; if thicker than desired, stir in 2 to 4 tablespoons hot water. Makes 4 servings.

Curried Rice

The great culinary artists in the East . . . the Chinese . . . will tell us that Curried Rice makes an excellent accompaniment for braised lamb cubes. To prepare this rice specialty, simply add 1 cup rice, ½ cup raisins, 1 teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons curry powder to 4 cups boiling water. Cover and simmer 20 to 25 minutes or until the rice is tender. Drain the rice but do not rinse.

Perfume Isn't Soap

One of the advice columns recently carried a letter from a young man who complained that his favorite date—a pleasant and attractive girl in most ways—"thinks perfume is a substitute for soap and water."

Take heed, girls! Note that liberal use of our true friend, soap, might be one means of keeping out of the lovelorn ranks!

Frozen Roasts

Frozen roasts can be cooked in the same manner as fresh roasts except that it will take ⅓ to ½ again as long for the cooking time.

Founder Of Can Firm Got Into Business By Accident

WATERTOWN, Mass (UPI) — A bearded immigrant from Britain who once walked from New Orleans to Baltimore seeking his fortune wound up outfoxing the foxiest of Yankee traders.

William Lyman Underwood, founder of the nation's oldest canning company, which still bears his name, got into the food business more by accident than anything else. But the firm begun 137 years ago on Boston's old Russia Wharf still stands as a tribute to the ingenuity of "William the First."

Underwood, born in London in 1787, came to the United States bent on making his fortune. He landed at New Orleans in 1817 and, failing to find a suitable outlet for his talents, walked a few years later to Baltimore.

"William the First" apparently started building his fortune in Baltimore because he didn't have to walk to Boston. He established himself as a ship chandler on Boston's busy waterfront in 1821.

Suppliers for one of the world's largest sailing fleets were having a lot of trouble at that time because ship owners had only spices and a rather strange assortment of items to trade for food which would keep fresh during long months at sea.

So Underwood tackled the problem of packaging and preserving food to keep the sailing ship crews free of scurvy and beri-beri. He found that heavily spicing some foods with the very same goods he was forced to take in trade preserved the provisions in glass containers.

He put up all manner of foodstuffs and, together with Samuel Cote of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, later developed the scientific basis for preparing and preserving foods in tin containers.

The word "can" is believed to have originated by bookkeepers of the Underwood Co. Tired of writing the word "canister" over and over in the records, they used the abbreviation which came to be accepted as the American version of the European word "tin."

Today, the Underwood firm is still owned by direct descendants of "William the First," whose marriage to Miss Betsy Hale produced nine children. George C. Seybolt, 43, not a member of the family, is the president today—only the sixth chief executive officer in 137 years.

Little Ambushers

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — Answering a motorist's report of someone shooting at passing cars, Deputy Sheriff Clyde Doty spotted two armed figures on telephone poles near the road. At closer examination, Doty found them to be two youngsters who had merely taken strategic positions to fire at passing "tanks" with their toy guns.

Smooth Operator

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Someone jimmied the trunk of a car owned by sales man Blanchard T. Morris of Kansas City and stole $1,495 worth of razors and blades — enough to keep the thief clean shaven for 700 years, police calculated.

CHURCH STILL FLUORISHES

Meet Reema Z.—One Of Russia's Many Fighters Against Religion

MOSCOW (UPI)—When Reema Z. arrived at the "House of Culture" in the town of Chernavchitzi, she was startled by the sound of "mournful singing."

"That's from across the street," she was told. "A church service."

Reema flung open a window. A church! And right opposite the "House of Culture" where the workers and peasants of the region gathered for lectures on Communism and other cheerful recreation!

"Hey, fellows," she called down the hall, for she was the new house director. "Put that loudspeaker on the windowsill here. And play a record—something lively."

Soon the churchly singing was drowned out by the blare of a military march. But "a man of intelligent appearance" stopped under the window and said:

"That won't get you anywhere. If you want to make people stop doing wrong, you've got to convince them first."

How Reema Z. saw the error of her tactic, how she became an effective fighter for atheism and routed the forces of religion in the town of Chernavchitzi, Byelorussia, was the subject of a long account in the newspaper "Soviet Culture." It was one of the many preachments on godlessness that blossom in the Soviet press.

The Soviet government, though it tolerates religious worship, continues to fight religion by written and spoken word. Christianity is denounced as a harmful myth, a survival of the past, a drag on the future, an impediment to "Communism, the bright future of all mankind."

Trouble is, from the Soviet viewpoint, religion has been surviving better than it was supposed to when the atheistic Communists took power in Russia 40 years ago. According to a recent estimate of Metropolitan Nikolai of the Russian Orthodox Church, 25 per cent of the Soviet Union's population of about 200 million are still religious. Other church representatives have placed the figure even higher.

About 2,200 young men were reported by the Metropolitan to be undergoing preparation for clerical life. Western visitors are constantly surprised to see the churches attended not only by elderly people but by a fair number of the young as well.

Whatever the fault in technique, Soviet authorities lately have indicated dissatisfaction with the progress of the war against religion. Calls for redoubled effort are frequent.

In a recent issue of "Communist," the monthly magazine of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party, the Academy of Sciences of the USSR was taken to task for having "let all these years pass without making a scientific study of the reasons for the tenaciousness of religious anachronisms" in the Soviet Union.

One reason often put forward in the press is that writers and lecturers on atheism all too often try to overwhelm believers with a barrage of scientific arguments or adopt methods like the military march loosed against the church in Chernavchitzi by young Comrade Reema Z.

Which is all the more reason why Reema's change of tactics was held up by "Soviet Culture" as an example for others to follow.

The "man of intelligent appearance" who took the anti-noise stand turned out to be the head of the town school, and together they organized a long series of quiet lectures at the House of Culture to save souls from Christ.

Teachers, agronomists and doctors were mobilized to read papers with such titles as "The Origin of Christian Holidays and Rituals," "The Vatican and Its Reactionary Essence," and "In Gloomy Darkness."

A chemist obliged with an exhibition of how 'fire from heaven," weeping ikons and suchlike wonders can be induced by human means. Local "sorceresses" and fortune-tellers were exposed without mercy.

The believers began coming in greater and greater numbers, the paper said, and Reema had to get biologists and doctors all the way from the city of Brest to answer all their questions.

The great day came for Reema, "Soviet Culture" said, when a lecture was held on Easter Sunday—and the hall was full!

You Can Be Patron Of Arts For Dime At Danish Gallery

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — You don't need a fortune to become a patron of the arts here. Seven-and-a-half cents will do it.

This sum—about half a Danish crown—buys the least expensive item, a tiny ceramic souvenir, at a unique non-profit establishment founded 27 years ago to assist struggling Danish artist who had no gallery in which to display their work regularly.

Today, the exhibitors' roster at Den Permanente has grown from an original 130 to 350. It includes such distinguished names as Sigvard Bernadotte, the Queen of Denmark's brother, who designs for a leading silversmith; furniture designers Hans Wegner and Finn Juhl; ceramist Bjorn Wiinblad; and Kay Bojesen, the late silversmith and toymaker, whose widow, Erna, now operates his workshop.

Most of the artists and craftsmen, however, are virtual unknowns, in keeping with the founders' aims for The Permanent Exhibition of Danish Arts and Crafts.

Some of them had to borrow from the exhibition's loan fund to equip their workrooms and buy raw materials, according to general manager Asger Fischer.

Another emergency fund is maintained, he added, to buy outright from promising artists. These items are stored by the exhibition until a large enough collection of the artist's work is on hand to make a full display.

The collection is dazzling in quality, quantity and variety. If contemporary design is your dish, you'll be tempted to redecorate your entire home, bank account permitting.

A few years ago, one American couple did just that, with their five-room New York apartment, Fischer said. The $6,000 sale was the biggest in the history of the exhibition, although a single item—such as painting or a tapestry—sometimes brings between $1,000 and $1,600. Most of the sale price goes directly to the artist, whose work is held on consignment, and who pays annual membership dues of 25 crowns (less than $4).

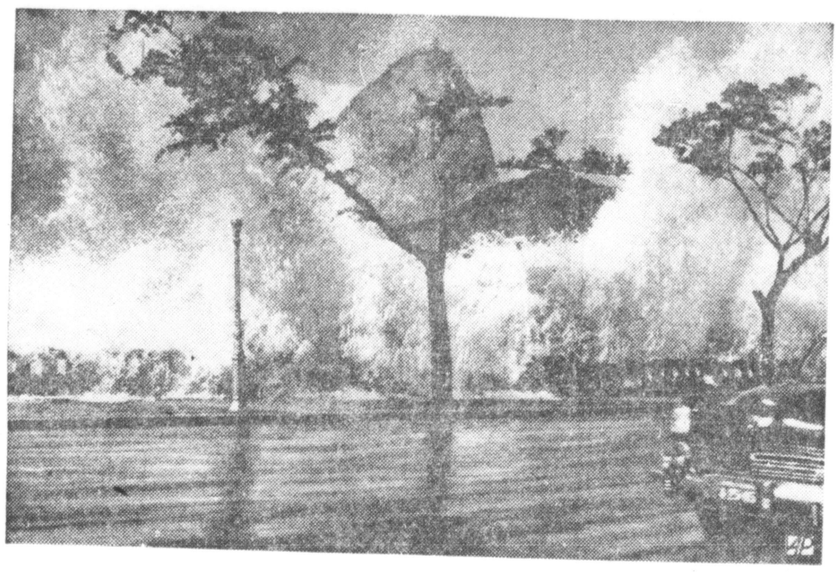
The three-member committee that selects items for display rejects up to 80 per cent of those submitted because they don't measure up to the high artistic and quality standards.

Regular customers at Den Permanente include Queen Ingrid of Denmark, who is its patroness; her father, King Gustav VI of Sweden; and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

The exhibition's best sellers include a small Kay Bojesen monkey, an impish-looking fellow with movable legs. But if you're buying the monkey for a child, mum's the word—or you may be told sternly, as I was, that it is a grown-up's toy.

Talking Is Expensive

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—An interpreter was brought into municipal court when Francisco Garcia, 33, charged with drunk driving, claimed he could speak only Spanish. While the interpreter was laboriously framing a question, police prosecutor Robert Franklin suddenly asked, "How much did you have to drink?" "Just two glasses of wine," Garcia snapped back—in English. The judge added a $5 interpreter's fee to Garcia's fine.



FURY AND BEAUTY

A high wave crashes over a sea wall on waterfront of Guanabara Bay to form a picturesque frame for Sugar Loaf mountain in Rio de Janeiro.

Suspicion Pays

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP)—The marshal of the Pittsburg city court, Joe McIlwrath, apparently has a knack for spotting potential trouble-makers. When McIlwrath saw three boys purchasing BB-shot, he took down the license number of their panel truck. When a large plate glass window was damaged by BB shot three days later, McIlwrath pulled out the license number and the three youngsters were arrested and charged.

It Costs To Caddy

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Four caddies were needed to tote the golf bags for Desi Arnaz, Bing Crosby, Phil Harris and Randolph Scott during an exhibition match for charity in Tucson. Several Tucson businessmen volunteered. Four got the job after they agreed to donate $100 each to the charities.

Burglar Bakes Cake

MAHOMET, Ill. (AP)—Sheriff William Fairfield said a burglar broke into the Carl A. Bays cabin, broke mirrors and lights and sprayed silver paint and shaving cream all over the place. Also, all the gas jets in the kitchen were turned on, emptying the gas cylinders, but not before the vandal baked himself a chocolate cake.

Audience Of One

SAN DIEGO (AP)—State Sen. Hugo Fisher went to a home for a neighborhood rally and found that no one had turned out to meet him. Remembering he had given advance copies of his speech to newspapers, Fisher asked the woman in the home to listen to him and he delivered his speech, complete with gestures.

White Hunter Brings Clients Back Alive

MOSHI, Tanganyika (UPI) — "They don't allow you any big mistakes in this business," said George Walter Dove as he slapped a clip in his rifle. "Lose one client to a rhino, a lion or anything else and you've had your chips."

Dove, 40, has been a professional white hunter more than half his life. He has almost been killed twice but, thanks to his skill and long experience, has kept danger away from the men and women he takes out on hunting trips here in British East Africa.

"Frank Buck spoke about 'bringing 'em back alive'," Dove continued, "and so do we white hunters — only we're talking about our clients, not animals; fall down on that job and there goes your government license to operate."

Right now this pleasant-spoken hunter with a blonde goatee and Dali-type, 10-inch-long waxed mustache is working on "just about the oddest deal of my life."

He has been hired to stand guard in the nearby wild bush area where Robert Taylor and other movie players are on location for the adventure picture "Adamson of Africa."

"There's rhino, lion, buffalo and elephant around here," Dove explained, "and just in case any of 'em come around for Mr. Taylor's autograph — or for Mr. Taylor—this rifle will be wanted."

Dove chuckled wryly. "I've read about cops on the studio gates in Hollywood," he said, "and now I'm just one of 'em —keeping away the gate-crashers. Only they don't shoot 'em in Hollywood, do they?"

Flicking away a fly with his giraffe's tail whisk, Dove watched 16-year-old John Dimech going through his paces for "Adamson," which is being made for Columbia Pictures release by Britain's Warwick Films.

"Rather a young lad to be out in the sun," somebody said.

"I guess so," remarked Dove, "but I was brought up in this country after my parents brought me here from Australia. I shot my first lion when I was 11 and by the time I was 18 I was shooting elephants."

A year or two later Dove began taking out visiting hunters on safari. Hundreds of them have been Americans—"mostly very nice people and keen sportsmen."

"Of course," Dove said, "we get the occasional snob, the one hunting for the Jones next door back home."

Dove confided that there's very little danger on safari—except for the white hunter. He has to search out the game, often at risky close quarters.

Then he brings up his clients to within safe distance and advises them which lion, rhino or buffalo to take a crack at.

Dove has seen more than one "good shot back home" freeze up when an elephant lumbers his way. "A little pushing from the white hunter usually unfreezes 'em," he chuckled, "and they start to shoot quite well."

Dove rates some of his women clients as top shots, recalling one Annie Oakley who chalked up 32 kills out of 40 animals as one-shot kills.

His business is good, Dove indicated, but it can end at any time—with the hunter's death. The hunter almost "had his chips" last year when a lioness suddenly charged him from cover.

Britain Asks: What Makes A Good Girl?

LONDON (UPI) — Britain has neatly dodged a chance to decide once and for all the age-old question:

What is a good girl?

The question arose, although all concerned were trying to ignore it, during discussions leading to the new "street offenses bill" against prostitution.

In Britain there is nothing to stop men and women from being as friendly as they like—providing there is no cash basis for the friendship.

This gives police the ticklish job of picking the thousands of professionals scattered through the city from the even larger number of fun-loving girls simply out for "a good time" — a term which means different things to different girls.

During the months of hearings on which the new law is based, it was occasionally suggested that a firm definition of a lady of the town might help the police and protect the innocent. But those interested in this definition promptly found themselves facing a knotty problem:

"Is money the only criterion of gain?"

In other words:

A girl who accepts money habitually for her services is a "bad girl." (Agreed).

But is she worse than a girl who accepts mink coats, diamonds, boxes of chocolates, theater tickets or dinner for the same favors? (Great confusion).

This discussion in and out of the hearings soon got out of hand. Someone even wanted to know the position of a woman whose price was marriage. And eventually it was swept aside in a wave of more practical suggestions.

But such organizations as the National Council for Civil Liberties are still perturbed by the possibility that a girl innocently in search of a movie and coffee with a nice young man might find herself in the morning array of hard-hearted "pros" at Bow Street court.

Accordingly, it has suggested for the cabinet's consideration an amendment nearly as controversial as the "good girl" definition. It contends in effect that the guilty party in prostition is the one who opens the cash bidding. In some cases, that means the male customer.

Meanwhile, a future and more courageous administration may try to straighten out anomalies such as this:

A girl who taps a maharajah or a millionaire for diamonds gets her picture in the newspapers.

In Britain, Five Lucky Pubkeepers Get Their Licenses Free At Palace

LONDON (UPI) — Once each year London's five most privileged pub owners present themselves — at Buckingham Palace, there to receive free, their annual liquor licenses.

Other pub owners in Britain pay for their licenses, but these five are the "Palace Publicans," whose places "verge on the Palace," and they appear at Buckingham by command of the Board of the Green Cloth.

"Don't ask me the origin of the board's name," said Edgar George Hoiles, owner of the Silver Cross, oldest of the "Palace Pubs," as he sipped his eleven o'clock glass of hock.

'The most popular theory is that the board originally consisted of the palace caterers meeting around a table that was covered with green cloth."

However that may be, the board started operations from Whitehall Palace back in the days of King Charles I. In those days, it had the power to punish by death any subject of the king who ran counter to palace orders.

Today, the board, administered by the Keeper of the Queen's Household, remains a power—at least as far as the five pub owners who operate within walking distance of Buckingham Palace, are concerned.

Local police and health inspectors annually report to the bench of the "Board of Green Cloth" on the condition and behavior of the five privileged pubs: The Silver Cross, The Ship, The Shade, Clarance and Whitehall Court.

'Palace pub owners have no power of argument before the board," said Hoiles, stroking his mustache. "But we'd rather close down than not please the board. You know we're very jealous of our visit to the palace. It lets us see the inside.

Hoiles said he thinks the Silver Cross is the oldest public house in the country. The other palace pubs, he said, "all were rebuilt after Whitehall Palace was burned down in 1698," while the Silver Cross traces back to 1253, when it was known as The Hermitage of St. Catherine and was practically next door to the palace of Charles I.

Charles decided to make The Hermitage a paying proposition by letting the building to Sir William Wade, who paid the King for the privilege of running it, Hoiles said.

Wade built his family crest, a silver cross, into the masonry above the front door and made the inn into a gaming house and bordello for the dandies at court.

'It was because King Charles was financially hard up that the Silver Cross was turned into a gaming house," Hoiles said.

He noted that after the King was executed, the Silver Cross continued to do excellent business during the reign of Charles II, under a new owner, Sir Joseph Craig.

Craig was a noted builder who had the foresight to construct the home of Nell Gwyn, favorite mistress of Charles II, less than a stone's throw from the pub.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Kenneth Harrington of Garden City, Mich., convicted of auto theft, was offered a choice in U.S. district court of serving three years in the National Training School for Boys in Washington, D.C., or being turned over to juvenile authorities in Michigan. He picked the federal sentence. The reason: He thought the National Training School offered a better vocational training program than is available in Michigan.

Justice In Hotrod

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)— When a garage mechanic discovered that Samuel R. Searing's station wagon was "souped up" and capable of 120 m.p.h. speeds, it came as quite a surprise to Searing. He's a police justice, and said: "That's well over twice as fast as I'd ever care to drive."

ON THE SIDE OF THE LAW

Top Safecracker Wears A Badge

DU BOIS, Pa. (UPI)— Pennsylvania's No. 1 safecracker wears a badge.

He is Sgt. Joseph Dussia, officer in charge of the state police barracks here. His ability to "manipulate" a safe is so widely recognized that vault manufacturers ask him to test their new burglar-proof models.

Dussia's lock tinkering began with a boyhood fascination for intricate mechanisms. After 21 years as a state trooper, he is much sought after as an instructor of law enforcement officers in the techniques of investigating safe burglaries.

The 41-year-old sergeant has picked locks and cracked safes by the hundreds—all on the right side of the law. He recalls one time when railroaders "cheered as if I had scored a last minute touchdown" after he had mastered a safe that contained their pay.

On another occasion, a bridegroom sighed with relief when Dussia opened a jammed safe that held the wedding rings on the eve of the ceremony.

Dussia has freed children from locked bathrooms, evacuated "prisoners" from service station restrooms, released brothers from war souvenir handcuffs and even enabled an expectant mother to get a layette out of a trunk before she went to the hospital.

He has picked locks on gambling dens so quietly that raiding officers gained access without alerting a "lookout" just inside the door. Once, he broke into a cell at the Brookville, Pa., prison after it had jammed, making it impossible for the jailer to bring in the prisoners' food.

Dussia takes a scientific approach to safecracking. He is contemptuous of criminals who blast, punch or pry their way into a safe.

"It doesn't take much know-how to force open a safe and wreck it," he said. "But you have to know something to manipulate it open." That professional technique includes touch, hearing and an extensive knowledge of the inner workings of a safe combination lock.

To help him out, Dussia uses a transistorized amplifier with microphone attached which are held to the safe by a magnet. He said it's possible to open most safes merely by plotting each change in the sound of the tiny tumblers on a graph.

The veteran state trooper said that only once did he use his talents "dishonestly"—and he didn't get away with it then. He said he tried to "steal a peek" at the diary of a high school girl, "but she snatched it away so fast that I didn't get a chance. I still wonder what was so confidential about it."

Champ Crow Hunter

IDABEL, Okla. (AP)—Herbert Derryberry is in the crow killing business in a big way. He bought a hi-fi battery operated record player and some crow call records. He can call crows from several miles away. Unless he kills 35 or 40 a day he does not consider it much of a hunt.

Honesty Costs

DIXON, Ill. (AP)—A young man appeared at police headquarters and said he was drunk and should be locked up. The officers obliged, and the next morning he was fined $5 and costs by Police Magistrate Lawrence E. Boos.

PAST CLASH RECREATED

Johnny Reb and Billy Yank go at it again in this re-enactment of a skirmish, part of the Battle of Antietam, near Burkittsville, Md.

The Game Goes On

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — John W. Ulmer takes his bowling seriously, as reflected in this testimony in traffic court: "They paged me and told me another car had smashed into mine. I came out and looked at the wreck. About $1,000 worth of damage had been done my car. So I told my wife to see what could be done about getting the names and addresses of witnesses while I went back and finished my game."

He Gets Action

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Four-year-old Mark Heldrum, a pneumonia victim, called for his nurse at Mercy Hospital to tell her he was feeling better. She didn't appear, so Mark pushed a button. Bells clanged, intercommunications speakers blared and the hospital corridors became a river of rushing nurses and doctors. Mark had pushed the fire alarm.

City Of Lahore Historic Showplace

LAHORE, Pakistan (UPI) — This young nation's second largest city, Lahore, is a historical show place almost unknown outside the Indian subcontinent.

The leading city of the Punjab, Lahore boasts some of the finest tombs and mosques in an ancient land where the construction of monuments used to be big business.

Most notable is Jehangir's tomb, a park-like estate, said to be the most beautiful Mogul project ever built after the famed Taj Mahal.

Another tourist mecca is the historic Lahore center from which the Moguls ruled this part of the world centuries ago. It offers a Palace of Mirrors (Shish Mahal), marble pavilions and such thought - provoking signs as "Elephant Walk" and "Here Stood the Eunuchs."

Situated in the heart of the lush Punjab some 600 miles northeast of Karachi and only a few miles from the Indian border, Lahore today is a refugee-crowded city of almost a million and half persons.

Partition of the Indian subcontinent in 1947 sent thousands of Moslems to Pakistan. Lahore's population nearly doubled, and bloody riots rocked the Punjab. Ten years of Moslem rule has brought peace to the city.

Lahore, which is about 2,000 years old — no one knows for sure—now represents a curious mixture of old and new. Over the centuries it has been conquered by the Afghans, Moguls, Sikhs and the British.

Each new set of rulers left some imprint, with the Moguls and the British, perhaps, leaving behind the most obvious accomplishments.

The city is a patchwork of wide avenues and narrow lanes dotted with picturesque mosques and smokestack - like minarets. Certain areas look as though they were snatched up from some English village. Others could only be found in the over-populated sections of Asia.

Of the large cities of the modern world, Lahore is perhaps the only one in which the horse and buggy has managed to retain a prominent position.

Two-wheeled tongas pulled by plumed horses still provide one of the principal means of transportation.

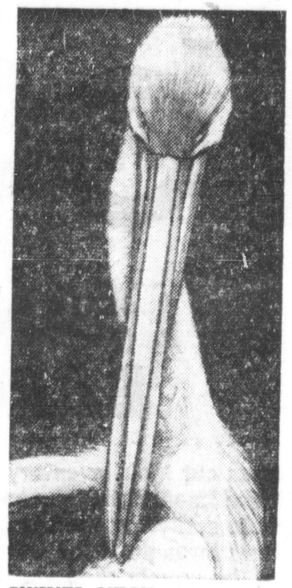
Lahore is also noteworthy as the place where Rudyard Kipling worked on the Civil and Military Gazette.

Kipling's famous lines—"East is East, West is West and never the twain shall meet"—is an anachronism here. His former newspaper now prints the comic strip "Lil Abner" and Lahore citizens religiously study the happenings in Dogpatch.

The city is Pakistan's convention city and annually plays host to several gatherings. It is hot in the summer and is perpetually over-crowded.

It is the nation's educational and cultural center and contains several universities and colleges. It is also the capital of West Pakistan and the location of the supreme court.

Many of its residents regard Lahore as Pakistan's best community. Many of them refer to burgeoning Karachi as "that little seaport town."



SWIVEL NECK—It's mighty useful to have a beak that doubles for a backscratcher. At least it is for this pelican, a denizen of the Perth, Australian zoo.

Ontario Counts Its Moose Noses; They Represent Sport, Profits

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI) — Conservation officers are counting noses — moose noses — in the bush country of Ontario.

Each nose represents $475 to the Canadian economy as well as a lot of meat and sport for the successful hunter.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests said hunters spend an estimated three million dollars a year on their moose hunting.

It is also estimated that the total value of this cash crop is 38 million dollars. Preliminary reports figure that Ontario's total moose population is about 80,000.

The province received $364,883 alone from the sale of moose hunting licenses to about 22,000 sportsmen last year. Indirectly, it also benefits from such items as money spent on guides, outfitters, ammunition, guns, charter air service, food supplies, refreshments, gasoline, tolls and so on.

In Ontario, therefore, moose hunting is big business. The moose population itself is larger than ever before and growing all the time.

That's why the province wants to know how many moose are actually roaming Ontario. It uses 190 pilots and planes of the Air Service to count moose and collect valuable data to aid in setting up hunting regulations, bag limits and restricted areas.

The pilots use a complex system of plotting certain areas of the moose range. They keep records on the number of the big beasts spotted on closely regulated flights.

They also note the number of bulls, cows and calves in an area, to determine the number of animals per square mile in sample areas.

A typical survey would have an aircraft scan a 25-square-mile sample plot. One for example would be near a heavily hunted section. Pilot-observers and conservation officers know their territory as well as most city dwellers know their own neighborhoods.

There is no guess work. The pilot and two observers report only moose they actually see. A fourth man marks each sighted animal on a master map in each aircraft.

In many areas there is dense forest growth and it is impossible to count all the moose in the area but the final count on any survey is regarded as the absolute minimum.

Sacked Out

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Mrs. Mary Panek, 65, laid claim to a paper sack containing nearly $10,000 which three boys found in a vacant lot. She told police she hid the money in the lot because "I was going away for a few days and didn't want to leave it in the house."

SAN ANSELMO BARGAIN DAYS

This is the time of year that distributors and warehouses cut their inventory as low as possible for semi-annual inventory. To do this they offer preferred accounts the finest nationally known food items at discount prices. It is the policy of Drake Market to deduct any discounts earned by the market from the customer (your) price. We've even gone a step further and reduced other items throughout the store including top quality produce and meats as our part of the savings invitation offered to the people of Marin from the merchants of San Anselmo on Bargain Days—Thursday, Friday and Saturday. You'll like shopping in San Anselmo. You'll like shopping at Drake. Why not come in?

Steel Walkout Starts; Ike Hopes For Early End

SIGHTSEER — Earline Dodson, 13, of 19 Ranch road in Los Ranchitos was out riding her horse Lucky yesterday and found a "ringside" seat for a 25-acre grass blaze which for a time threatened to spread to new houses under construction in Terra Linda Oaks. (Independent-Journal photo)

Hub Defeats Change In Civil Service

San Anselmo voters — or at least those who went to the polls —tourned down resoundingly yesterday a proposal to remove city department head positions from the protection of civil service.

Vote on the proposal was 781 "no" to 429 "yes"—nearly a two-to-one turndown, with a two-to-one majority the other way needed to enact the change.

ITS EFFECT

The measure would have removed civil service protection from department head positions while not affecting other city employees covered by the civil service ordinance.

William Souza, president of the San Anselmo Civil Service Employees Assn., today hailed the result.

"City employees were really out working" to defeat the measure," said Souza.

SIGNS CONFUSING

He said he thought the turndown would have been by an even greater majority except that "Vote No Civil Service" signs put up by the employees early in the campaign "confused some people."

"The city council has really done us a favor," said Souza. "We're organized now. If they start any other attack on civil service, we'll be ready to fight it. We intend to follow everything the council does a little closer from now on."

Mayor Arthur W. Smith, who for years had urged removal of department heads from the classified list, said he felt the council had failed to adequately explain the proposal to the people.

"Naturally I'm disappointed," said the mayor. "Through my years of experience, I'm convinced of the need for the change. I think the people were confused."

City Councilman Carleton G. E. Little charged yesterday that the San Anselmo Post Office failed to distribute on Monday 750 cards urging a "yes" vote which he mailed Sunday night.

YOU WILL FIND BARGAINS GALORE IN INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL TODAY

Bargains all through its 62 pages—that's the Independent-Journal today.

San Anselmo Bargain Days opens tomorrow with 43 participating business firms. A 10-page section of today's I-J is loaded with advertisements of the special buys being offered in the Hub City.

Also in San Anselmo, United Markets tomorrow starts the grand opening sale of its new supermarket, Marin's most modern. The celebration values will be offered also in United Markets' San Rafael store. Fourteen pages of the I-J tell you all about them.

Novato is going into the windup of Golden Treasure Days, a sales promotion event featured in advertising on two I-J pages.

And throughout the county other merchants are making sure their stores aren't left deserted by those flocking to the special events. Their challenging bargain offers will be found on the rest of the 62 pages.

Convent Land Studied For Coleman School

The San Rafael Board of Education will seek to settle the controversial Coleman School issue by purchasing land from Dominican Convent, Supt. Frank Lucas said today.

He said the board authorized him and two of its members, Roderick P. Martinelli, and Chairman C. Paul Bettini, to meet next week with convent officials in the hope of being able to purchase six-tenths of an acre which lies directly across the street from the school.

There has been considerable opposition to a board plan to split up grades at the school and move the higher grades to a proposed building at 215 Mission avenue, across High street from the high school.

The property, which Lucas said contains only trees, is across Watt avenue from the school. The superintendent said the board would attempt to get the section of Watt avenue that fronts on the school closed and use the street for part of the school grounds.

Lucas said the site would provide ample space for the addition of six classrooms at the crowded school. Watt avenue would be closed about 500 or 600 feet from Belle avenue. About 10 homes have access from Watt between the point where the school would close the road and Grand avenue.

The plan was presented by a joint parent-board committee.

"This action probably will not result in complete agreement," Lucas said, "but it is our alternative to have the school moved to Mission avenue."

He said that in addition to the six classrooms, a library also would be added.

Lucas said he had no idea how much the land would cost.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Aside from the usual summertime coastal fog, California's weather should continue fair through the rest of the week.

Stubborn Fire Chars 25 Acres In Terra Linda

Units from three fire departments fought a stubborn grass fire for two and a half hours yesterday afternoon in Terra Linda.

San Rafael Fire Chief C. M. Johansen said the blaze, which spread over 25 acres before it was extinguished, was started by children playing with matches in a cardboard playhouse.

San Rafael sent two units to the fire at 3:41 p.m. They were assisted by five trucks from the county fire department and one from the Terra Linda department.

For a while the fire reportedly threatened new homes under construction in Terra Linda Oaks. Johansen said if the fire "had climbed another couple of ridges it would have been in Sleepy Hollow."

He said children had built a playhouse of cardboard and trash and were playing with matches inside.

The cardboard caught fire and was blown by the wind into the dry grass. The blaze was confined to the area south of Frietas parkway, in the new annexation to San Rafael.

Johansen said it was the third big grass fire in the area since the recent annexation.

Ex-Marinite Lost In Lake Tahoe

A $500 reward has been posted at Stateline, Nev., for recovery of the body of John Ehrhardt, 24, Stateline Casino employee and former Sausalitan who is believed to have drowned in Lake Tahoe.

D. W. Ehrhardt of 205 Fourth street, Sausalito, the young man's father, posted the reward yesterday after searchers from El Dorado and Douglas County sheriffs' offices abandoned hope that Ehrhardt will be found alive, United Press International reported from Stateline.

The young man disappeared Sunday. He is believed to have fallen overboard while testing an inboard boat.

FOR NOVATO AIRPORT

Contract Terms Agreed Upon By County, Owners

Contract terms which may lead to establishment of a county airport at Novato were agreed upon last night by the county airport committee and William Q. Wright, owner, and Harry Tollefson, operator of the Novato Airport.

Wright and Tollefson agreed to sublease seven and one-half acres of the airport, containing a 3,000-foot dirt runway, the sublease to coincide with Tollefson's lease on the entire airport which expires in 13 years.

$17,000 FOR RUNWAY

The county committee, headed by Eugene Trombley, agreed that a total of $17,000 should be paid for improvements on the runway, "with additional funds going to improve an access road into the property and parking area improvements."

Financing would be accomplished with money from the county airport fund, now containing about $32,000 in state gasoline taxes.

The proposed lease also would provide that the county may, if it desires, purchase the seven and one-half acres after three years "at no less than $1,000 per acre."

GOING TO BOARD

Carrol Snyker, secretary of the committee, said today that the agreement will be formally drawn up by County Counsel Leland H. Jordan and submitted to the board of supervisors, "probably within the next two weeks."

The proposal, he said, will be accompanied by a letter from the committee advising that the remainder of the county airport fund also be earmarked for the Novato project.

The agreement also provides that:

1. Thirty per cent of the "tie-down" (air craft parking) fees at the airport go for maintenance of the county-leased portion.

2. Right of way be provided by the airport owner for an access road to the landing strip.

3. The operator, Tollefson, must be responsible for carrying up to $500,000 of liability and property damage insurance.

No rent would be paid by the county, according to the agreement.

Angel Island Ferry Studied

Applications for ferry service to Angel Island are being considered by the state Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco.

Milton McDonough of Sausalito, wants to operate boats from Tiburon. Another applicant, the Harbor Tug and Barge Co. has applied to provide ferry service between the island and San Francisco.

The applications have been opposed by Russell G. Lewis of Sausalito, who previously was granted a franchise to run ferries between the island and both San Francisco and Sausalito.

Gromyko Tells Red Price For Berlin Truce

GENEVA (UPI)—Russia warned the West today that her loaded all-German committee proposal is the price for a Berlin truce. The Western powers accused Russia of threatening to torpedo the Big Four talks.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the Western foreign ministers that the all-German committee, on which East German Communists should have equal representation with the West Germans, is tied tightly with his Berlin truce proposal.

". . . And it is not possible to alter that," he said.

The foreign ministers were meeting today for the second plenary session since the Berlin crisis talks were resumed Monday. The chief Western aim was some sort of Berlin agreement that would permit a summit conference with no loss of prestige.

Gromyko threw the Western ministers into a tailspin Monday by refusing to give the fool-proof guarantees the West demands. Then he confused

Taft-Hartley Action Held Not Warranted

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel mills producing 90 per cent of the nation's steel lay idle today in the grip of the sixth major strike since World War II.

President Eisenhower, hopeful that negotiations will bring a quick end to the strike, told his news conference at Washington that present conditions do not warrant invoking the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to end the walkout.

In New York, the United Steelworkers Union proposed the industry agree to submit strike issues to a fact-finding board composed of a man named by the union, another by industry, and an impartial member to be named by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

The proposal was made in a letter today by the union president, David J. McDonald to the industry's four-man negotiating team. McDonald said the recommendations of such a board would not be binding.

The glow from the big open hearth furnaces was no longer visible—nor was the reflection from the Bessemer furnaces. The mills remained dark and quiet.

At the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. plant on Pittsburgh's South Side, hundreds of steelworkers picked up their checks. No picket signs were in sight.

This was the next to the last pay for the duration of the strike.

At the Homestead works of U.S. Steel Corp. about 20 pickets were on duty. It was a far cry from the 300 or more that swelled the area before midnight.

A half-million steelworkers, heeding the call of union leaders, struck after two months of contract negotiations that had gotten nowhere.

The union gave no indication of retreating from its demand for higher wages and improved fringe benefits. Just as steadfastly, the industry stuck to its position that it could not increase production costs, must be able to effect some economies.

Hub Youth Tells Of Kidnaping

San Anselmo police and county sheriff's deputies prowled the hills from Olema to Stinson Beach this afternoon in search of a carload of youths who kidnaped a 16-year-old San Anselmo student and threatened to force indignities on him.

Lawrence Joseph Bersano, of 89 Park drive, San Anselmo, was released, badly frightened but unharmed, at White's Hill. He walked back to his home and reported the kidnaping to police about 9:15 a.m.

Asst. Police Chief Sam [illegible] Serio, accompanied by the boy, cruised the hills looking for a 1955 or 1956 bluish-green Chevrolet two-door sedan.

According to Officer John Orr, the boy gave this account:

He was walking along Saunders avenue to attend summer class at Sir Francis Drake High School about 7:50 a.m. when a group of five youths, about 18 or 19, stopped and asked if he wanted a ride. He said no. But they dragged him inside

THRIVING CROP — The courtroom looked like a nursery this morning as a Mill Valley man faced trial for growing the plants in pots on his back porch. During noon recess, the courtroom doors were carefully locked to safeguard the evidence. Suspect Donald James is behind the plants, talking to his attorney, Peter Allen Smith. To right is Chief Bailiff Jack Bones. (Independent-Journal photo)

Man Denies He Grew Marijuana

A 25-year-old amateur botanist from Mill Valley, accused of nuturing a thriving marijuana crop on his back porch, today denied he had grown the plants.

Donald Phillip James of 59 Crown court testified in his own defense as trial opened before Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

James told the court it was his roommate, Don Barre, 25, who grew the plants. After James's arrest on June 2, roommate Barre disappeared and is now a fugitive.

When James denied owning the plants, Dist. Atty. W. O. Weissich asked the judge for a recess until 2 p.m. so that he could present a tape recording of what James had said at the time of his arrest. According to Weissich, James said he was the one who grew the plants, and Barre had nothing to do with it.

James, who worked as clerk

Councilmen Face Lengthy Session

One of the longest agendas in many months faces the San Anselmo City Council when it meets at 8 tonight in the city hall—and several of the items promise to produce long and perhaps bitter discussion.

Approval of the eligibility list for police chief, to replace Donald T. Wood when he retires Aug. 1, is among the items. The agenda prepared by City Manager Arthur W. Brewer does not call for appointment of a chief tonight. However, under the city manager ordinance, Brewer could make the appointment if the council certifies the eligibility.

Approval of an eligibility list for police patrolman and appointment of one new patrolman also are scheduled.

The council will receive the results of yesterday's election—another matter bearing on the police department as the ballot proposition called for removal of police chief and other department head positions from the classified civil service.

Discussion of financing of the No. 2 firehouse is slated. Councilmen balked a bit two months ago when they realized the cost of financing under a lease-option plan, but have consistently opposed suggestions that a bond issue be submitted to the voters.

The proposed corporation yard site—which also is planned for development under lease-option—is again up for discussion. City Manager Brewer last week renewed the city's option on the property at the end of San Francisco boulevard.

The council is to set a salary for city treasurer, effective with next April's election. The job is now being filled as an extra chore by Police Chief Wood at $1 a month, but the post is elective, Wood having been appointed when the elected treasurer resigned.

A twice-postponed appointment to the board of review, to succeed John P. O'Connell, may produce additional discussion.

Bids are to be called for the Ash Avenue Assessment District street improvement project. A resolution excluding library employees from the city's retirement plan is to be introduced. Numerous reports and several complaints from citizens are also on the agenda.

Special Session On Water Plan Held Possible

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A special session of the legislature "could be called next spring" to iron out kinks in the multi-billion-dollar California water plan, one of its chief authors said yesterday.

M. J. Shelton of San Diego, former assistant director of the state department of water resources, told the American Water Works Assn. conference such a session could "resolve some controversial points which were bypassed in order to avoid further delay in adopting the basic legislation."

Shelton said "efforts to freeze guarantees and reservations in the constitution, efforts on the part of individual legislators to further projects for their own area and many other factors delayed adoption of a program."

MIXED RACIAL WEDDING SCENES DROPPED FROM MOSCOW EXHIBIT

NEW YORK (AP)—Two wedding scene involving Negroes and whites have been dropped from a fashion show prepared for the American exhibition in Moscow.

More than 40 newspaper fashion editors who attended yesterday's dress rehearsal protested the two scenes, saying they were not representative of the American way of life.

Originally there were three wedding scenes:

One depicted a civil marriage between Negro principals with white witnesses

Another depicted the marriage in a garden of a white couple with Negro attendants.

A third showed a marriage in a cathedral of a white couple, with Negroes among the guests.

Only the cathedral wedding will remain, according to Shirley Goodman, liaison director for the Fashion Industries Presentation Committee, which is responsible for the show.

She said that was partly because of the need to shorten the fashion show to 30 minutes and partly because of the protests.

Race Tension In Harlem On Rise, Leader Warns

NEW YORK (AP) — Race tension in Manhattan's dense Negro quarter — Harlem — is on the rise, a Negro leader says.

Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack reports "the people of Harlem are in an angry mood."

Jack made his comments after a stormy meeting between city officials and Harlem leaders at City Hall concerning a near-riot in Harlem Monday.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy assigned 88 extra police to the section.

Jack said the incident was an outgrowth of "rising race tension" in Harlem. It was caused, he said, by resentment over "inadequate housing, poor schools, unsanitary conditions and low-paying jobs."

Police gave the following account of Monday's incident.

Investigating a report of a woman throwing dishes in a restaurant, two white policemen arrested Carmela Caviglione, 21.

The policemen managed to get her into the police car. They said she stepped on the gas, and the car hit a fence. An angry crowd of Negroes gathered.

One policeman stepped out, pistol drawn, and a bystander tussled with him. The gun went off, the richochetting bullet wounded both policemen, neither seriously.

More police arrived and arrested the bystander and the woman.

A sullen crowd of 500 milled for three hours outside the precinct station. When the man was released with a summons to court, the crowd left.

Tennis Club Opens Doors To Bunche

NEW YORK (AP)—The governors of the fashionable West Side Tennis Club say they would give "courteous and prompt attention" to a membership application by Dr. Ralph J. Bunche or his 15-year-old son, Ralph Jr.

The governors have accepted the resignation of the club president, who told Bunche that he and his son were not eligible for membership because they are Negroes.

A statement by the governors yesterday also said "it is the policy of the club to consider and accept members without regard to race, creed or color."

Bunche, a winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, said there seemed to be no immediate likelihood that he or his son would apply for membership.

Bunche, United Nations undersecretary for special political affairs, announced recently he had been barred from the club, in the Forest Hills section of Queens.

Marin Designers To Attend Parley

A group of Marin designers will attend the second national convention of the American Institute of Building Design July 24-26 at the Miramar Hotel, Santa Barbara.

In the group will be Edward Hageman of San Rafael, a state director of the institute; Roy Crocker, George Gerhard, Ervin Hille and Ray Hall.

START OF THE STEEL STRIKE

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, stands atop a car outside the U.S. Steel Corp. Fairless Works at Morrisville, Pa., and raises a picket sign just before the start of the steel walkout. "We're absolutely determined on this strike and by the eternal gods we will win," McDonald told the union members gathered outside the plant gates. Story on page 1. (AP Wirephoto)

McClellan Is Convinced Hoffa Won't Cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today it is crystal clear James R. Hoffa never will clean up corruption in his Teamsters Union.

The Senate rackets probers headed by McClellan wound up yesterday a 2½-year investigation of Teamster President Hoffa and scandals in the union.

As a parting shot, committee counsel Robert S. Kennedy denounced Hoffa to his face as a taker of payoffs from employers.

"I'll tell you that's a lie," Hoffa flared back.

Kennedy said he has no plan for further questioning of Hoffa. But he said the committee still could change its mind and investigate the Teamsters further.

In hopeful tones, Kennedy told reporters the board of monitors appointed by a U.S. District Court to help police the Teamsters could "make the problem academic" by removing Hoffa as the union's president.

'MONITORS FORTIFIED'

In a separate interview, McClellan said he felt sure the inquiry at least has "fortified the monitors in their purpose to supervise and direct a cleanup."

But, the senator said, "Hoffa and his henchmen by their performance have made it crystal clear there can be no cleanup from within the union."

The inquiry ended just about where it had started. Hoffa made lengthy replies to every question the committee asked but they contained little information.

He testified he will move—"in due course"—to deal with charges that gangsters, racketeers, extortionists and narcotics peddlers have risen to power as his aides in important union officers.

PROBLEM DRAMATIZED

McClellan said the final hearing dramatized one of the big problems of the whole investigation—getting real answers to questions.

Hoffa parried demands that he help disclose the source of $10,000 in 50-dollar bills which had figured in the testimony.

"Ask Brennan," Hoffa suggested, pointing to Owen Bert Brennan, his right hand man in Michigan Teamster affairs.

Brennan invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Court Awards Damages To Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Claims today upheld the claim of the Dixon-Yates combine for damages because the government canceled its controversial power contract.

Dividing 3-2, the court rejected the contention that the activities of Adolphe H. Wenzell constituted a conflict of interest. It ruled Dixon-Yates should be reimbursed for out-of-pocket costs before the contract was canceled.

'NO CONFLICT'

Judge J. Warren Madden, who spoke for the majority, said the court saw "not the slightest conflict of interest in Wenzell's position."

The court awarded $1,867,545.56, which was about what Dixon-Yates finally asked. Originally the claim had been for about 3½ million dollars.

Wenzell served as a consultant to the Budget Bureau at the same time he was a salaried official of the First Boston Corp., which became financial agent for Dixon-Yates interests.

The Dixon-Yates contract, entered into by the Atomic Energy Commission, called for a 107-million-dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark.

President Eisenhower had ordered the contract signed in 1954.

Power generated by a Dixon-Yates firm, Mississippi Valley Generating Co., was to be supplied the Tennessee Valley Authority system to compensate for electricity TVA fed into Atomic Energy Commission plants.

STIRRED UP BATTLE

The contract stirred up a battle in Congress over charges that private power was usurping a public power area.

Eisenhower ordered the contract canceled in 1955.

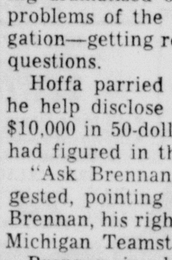
Real Estate Views And Values

"There are two ways to make money," writes a well-known financial columnist. "The most common way, and also the hardest method, is to work for it. The easy way, however, is to let it work for you. This means selecting a good investment for your funds."

Unfortunately, most people assume that it takes lots of money to acquire a real estate investment. Actually, many investment properties can be handled on convenient terms.

For example, you can buy a house to rent out for as little as $1,000.00 down. If you keep it rented, (and most homes in good condition rent readily here), your tenants will pay for this extra house for you over a period of years. This is your reward for merely making a down payment and keeping the property rented and in good repair.



Nancy Kopf

Real estate has an unique advantage compared with any other investment. You can get possession, and all the benefits of ownership, from making a down payment. Frequently, the down payment is as little as 10% of the total price, but you receive 100% of the earnings and benefits.

Come to our office. Let us show you how easily you can make your money work for you—in a sound real estate investment. Wm. E. Doud & Co., 25 E. Blithedale, Mill Valley, DU 8-8494. Multiple Listing Service.

DEMO BUDGET CUT PLANS HIT SNAG

Senate's Boosting Of Defense Money May Interfere With Reduction Aim

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate increases in a defense money bill may interfere with congressional Democrats' plans to show President Eisenhower they can spend less — not more — than even he recommended.

Democratic leaders want to wind up with a net budget reduction and counter Eisenhower's "spender" charges.

But the Senate last night passed by a 90-0 vote a defense appropriations bill calling for 40 billion dollars in defense spending in the next twelve months. This is $346,139,000 more than the President originally requested and $746,000,000 more than was voted by the House.

A House-Senate conference committee will try to resolve differences between the two versions, and the pressure is on to try to chop funds somewhere.

Here's the problem:

Congress so far has completed action on eight of 17 money bills this year. Together they were cut $360,666,980 below the President's level.

Five other bills, including the defense appropriations, have been assigned to conference committees. The Senate versions of these five bills provide for an over-all increase of 661 million dollars. If the Senate bills prevail, this would more than offset all of the cut achieved so far with the first eight bills.

House conferees see one way in which they could reduce the total sharply — and in one fell swoop. They hope to eliminate 380 million dollars the Senate voted for a nuclear powered aircraft carrier.

Demos Balk At Ike's Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) —Democras balked today at accepting the Eisenhower administration's newest version of a housing bill.

Instead, Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) said a banking subcommittee he heads will begin hearings soon on President Eisenhower's voto of a Democratic-sponsored measure the chief executive called extravagant and inflationary.

"We know the President is wrong in the statements he made about this bill and we are going to show on record that he is wrong." Sparkman said in an interview.

"We are going to have a housing bill but it will be written only after full hearings. We are not going to accept just anything he throws at us."

Sparkman joined Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas in denouncing Eisenhower's contention that the vetoed bill would have involved $2,200,000,000 in expenditures. The Democrats estimated costs of the two-year program at $1,375,000,000.

Johnson told the Senate yesterday that Eisenhower's figure was arrived at by a "Madison Avenue gimmick" of including estimates for possible public housing subsidies for the next 40 years. In the public housing program the federal government makes up by subsidy the difference between costs and rents received.

Is Cuba Red Dictatorship?

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP) — What is the truth about Communist infiltration in Cuba's revolutionary regime?

The former chief of Cuba's air force told a Senate committee in Washington Prime Minister Fidel Castro is himself a Communist and heads a Red dictatorship.

Cuban officials from Castro down angrily scoffed at this testimony. They called Maj. Pedro Luis Liaz Lanz a liar and a deserter and traitor.

The truth appears to lie somewhere between these two extremes.

Castro admits there are Communists in his rebel army. He says that when he was fighting dictator Fulgencio Batista, he didn't stop to examine a man's politics if he wanted to help.

Castro denies emphatically, however, that Communists are playing a major part in Cuba's political life.

The man in the street usually says he sides with Castro. Those who don't keep their mouths shut.

But there are many Cubans high in the nation's business and professional life who agree in part with what Diaz said.

Most of them would not call Castro a Communist, but many feel he is being used by the Reds.

They point to Argentine-born Maj. Ernesto Che Guevara, No. 3 man in Castro's government, a man who has long been linked with the Communists.

La Paz, Bolivia, 11,909 feet above sea level, is the world's highest large city.

Shoppers In Novato Hoping For Prizes

Novato buyers today were shopping overtime in hopes of bringing home one of the prizes valued at more than $3,000 as the Chamber of Commerce sponsored Grand Treasure Days drew to a close.

More than 70 businesses are participating in the event which will end at 6 p.m. Saturday, July 18. Businesses taking part include not only retail stores but also service stations, banks, real estate offices and restaurants.

In addition to the prizes—donated by more than 70 Novato retail merchants—the stores involved are offering bargains "unheard of in Novato history," according to George Marshall, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Harley McAskill, chairman of the retail merchants' committee, said that all participating merchants have reported sharp increases in sales during the shopping spree.

GETS EAGLE AWARD — Richard Turner, 18, Novato's newest Eagle Scout, received an Eagle award at a meeting of Novato Rotary Club which sponsors Explorer Post 56. In 1950, Turner, then a Cub Scout, circularized eligible boys at the old Grant School to form the basis of Novato's present large Scout organization.

BUT NOT IN CAPITOL

Portrait Of Knight Is Placed On Display

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —San Franciscans are getting a look at the portrait former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight can't quite see.

The controversial portrait by Cameron Booth went on display yesterday at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

After a few weeks, it will be shown in Los Angeles.

It was originally intended to hang in the state Capitol.

But Knight doesn't like the picture.

He says it's impressionistic. He doesn't care for the cast of the eyes. He doesn't even like the color of the suit — brown.

Mrs. Knight doesn't think the painting looks like her husband. "And that striped tie," she said, "is awful."

Booth isn't saying much anymore. State Finance Director Bert W. Levit assured him he would be paid $3,000 because he fulfilled his contract.

There are two big questions still to be answered:

Who's going to pay for another portrait of Knight for the Capitol wall?

And who's going to take a crack at painting it?

Rug Cleaning Firm Forms

A new Larkspur business partnership today was being drawn up under the name of Colortone Carpet and Upholstery Cleaners, which will specialize in on-location rug cleaning.

The partners are Byron L. Berry, 45, whose home at 32 Millard road, Larkspur, will be the business address, and Grant A. Gipson, 30, of 3 Church court, Corte Madera. Both have operated rug cleaning businesses in Marin County under their own names.

Their specialties will be a color-renewing process and a rug shampoo and soil-proofing in a single operation.

Berry, formerly a professional musician, plays the trumpet for the Olema Owls, the band which won first prize at a recent College of Marin jazz festival. Gipson is a former insurance broker.

Long before the United Nations, there was a United Provinces of Central America in 1824. It broke up over religious issues.

Strawberry Group To Resume Organ

Publication of "Strawberry Leaves," monthly organ of the Strawberry Property Owners Assn., will be resumed next month with Col. W. E. Long, association secretary, as editor.

The publication has been dormant for more than a year. In accepting the assignment, Colonel Long agreed to undertake the job temporarily and appealed for cooperation of all Strawberry residents.

New State Atom Office Created

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California will get a new state officer to keep tabs on atomic energy development and radiation hazards.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed a bill by Assemblyman Seth J. Johnson (R-Los Angeles) creating the position of atomic energy coordinator in the governor's office.

He'll have the job of coordinating the activities of all state agencies concerned with atomic Energy Commission permits in the state and liaison between the state and federal governments.

Pedestrian Hurt By Greyhound Bus

Kenneth Raymond Cundy of Berkeley was struck by a Greyhound bus Monday night as he was walking north on Bridgeway in Sausalito near the Glad Hand restaurant.

He was released from Marin General Hospital after treatment for injury to his left arm.

The driver of the bus, Lester J. Stark of Petaluma, was not cited.

New Novato Country Club Plans Bared

Plans for a $1,750,000 Novato country club, to be developed in stages over a four-year period, have been announced by John Bowen and Associates of San Francisco.

Construction of the first stage, to include a swimming pool and tennis courts, is to start promptly, the announcement said.

Plans for later stages of development include two more pools, a clubhouse with bar and dining rooms, playgrounds, barbecue and picnic areas and an 18-hole golf course with pro shop. A boating facility for the club at Black Point is also planned.

Memberships are available at $150, the announcement said. The club is to be located on a former turkey ranch on Olive avenue, formerly owned by developers Rudy and Boyd Lang.

Trunk Sewer At Novato Is Approved

Final approval has been given by the Novato Sanitary District board for a new main trunk sewer line designed to extend from the Novato treatment plant across Highway 101 to a point adjacent to Lamont avenue and the highway.

Cost of the 30-inch pipeline was estimated at between $80,000 and $100,000.

A. H. Tresch, secretary-manager of the district, said the board has approximately half the required funds set aside and will draw the remainder from the reserve construction fund.

Bids which will be called as soon as final drawings of the project have been completed by J. Warren Nute, district engineer.

The board Monday night approved applications for annexation of the property of Brashear and Tauno Sjoblom at Simmons lane and Marion avenue and of Jack W. Shields on Wilson avenue.

Applying for annexation by the district were Lee Brothers, contractors, whose property is on Tamalpais avenue; Mr. and Mrs. R. Angeli on Center Road, and Desco-Novato, a 21-lot subdivision north of Leese lake.

Also discussed was connection of the Meadow Park School into the Hamilton Field disposal line. This will require a special agreement between the water district and the San Jose School District.

Group Will Study Crime In State

SAN FRANCISCO, (UPI) — State Attorney General Stanley Mosk has appointed a 32-member committee to find out more about how and why crime is committed in California.

Led by Chief Assistant Attorney General Arthur H. Sherry, the committee will study ways of compiling more information about criminals, from the worst felons to the misguided practical joker.

"We now know the numbers arrested and something of what happens in the courts but there are many gaps in existing information which should be remedied," Mosk said, speaking particularly of narcotics offenders.

Auto Stripper Gets Jail Term

James Lee Barri, 23, of 119 Ross street, San Rafael, must serve 90 days in jail for his part in stealing and stripping a car last January in San Rafael.

Barri's attorney, William Bagley, asked for a shorter jail sentence, pointing out Barri's clean past record and the fact that he had merely gone along with three other companions.

But Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled that Barri was the oldest of four involved and should have stopped the others instead of following their actions. The judge put Barri on three years probation on various conditions including a 90-day jail term with work-furlough privileges. Barri must also help make restitution for damages to the stolen car.

Juvenile Hall Is Crowded, Board Told

The average daily number of inmates in Marin's juvenile hall during the first 13 days of July has been 28, with the count having reached as high as 35, Probation Officer Walter Busher told the county board of supervisors yesterday.

Rated capacity of the hall is 20, he noted.

Busher told of the crowded conditions of the hall, and current problems of hard-to-manage inmates, as he asked the board to approve 143 hours of extra-hire work during the 13-day period. The board granted the request.

Preliminary plans for a new hall in Lucas Valley are being drawn by San Rafael architect Rolland B. Hammond.

SUPERVISORS ROUNDUP

Study Of Sewage Ordinance Asked

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday requested further study of a proposed ordinance which would require approval by the health officer of sewage disposal systems installed in subdivisions.

The ordinance, proposed by County Counsel Leland H. Jordan, would also provide fees for inspection of the sewer systems and penalities for violations of the law.

On recommendation of the supervisors, the ordinance will be given further study by Marvin W. Brigham, director of public works; William H. Desmond, director of sanitation, and Jordan.

In other action, the supervisors:

1. Approved payment of $24,394.95 to Carney Brothers Construction Co. for construction of facilities at Miller Park.

2. Authorized overtime payment for county employees who operate the county dump on Saturdays and Sundays.

3. Approved painting of center stripes on several Larkspur streets, the actual cost of the painting to be borne by the City of Larkspur and the striping to be done by county crews at the same time they are painting county roads in the area.

4. Accepted an agreement between the county and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. covering surface riser piping on Sir Francis Drake boulevard at Wolfe Grade. The contract, at no cost to the county, would provide for power to traffic signals recently installed at the junction.

5. Approved payment to Rolland B. Hammond for preliminary plans for the proposed juvenile hall.

6. Received an estimate by the director of public works that proposed improvement of Northern and Marin avenues in Tamalpais Valley would total $229,000. A copy of the estimate was sent the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Assn., which had requested the figures.

7. Turned down a request from Kurt Heath, developer of Marinero subdivision, to be allowed to file a bond for only $100,000 to guarantee subdivision improvements, which are to be installed through assessment district proceedings. Brigham estimated the project's cost as $294,000.

8. Asked County Clerk George S. Jones and County Administrator Donald A. Jensen to work out details of a program under which county department heads will make regular personal reports to the supervisors, or the board will regularly visit the departments, or both.

9. Approved an advance of $30,000 to the Tiburon Fire District until the district receives tax funds at the end of the calendar year.

10. Read 51 postcards asking for a vote on the proposed civic center, and directed that the usual form letter of reply be sent.

11. Received a letter from the Marin County Labor Council reaffarming its stand in favor of the proposed Pt. Reyes national seashore recreation area. The letter was filed after a brief, inconclusive discussion.

12. Sent to Jordan, for preparation of a memorandum to department heads, a policy proposal by Jensen that all proposed new ordinances or amendments be approved in principle by the board before Jordan's time is taken in drafting them.

13. Approved appointment of Eugene Trenam as intermediate clerk in the county clerk's office at a salary of $295, effective July 1, to replace John Dana, resigned.

14. Approved appointment of Evelyn Flindt as senior stenographic clerk in the planning department at $341, effective July 1, to fill a vacancy.

State Colleges Busy Building

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's state colleges are in the midst of their biggest building program in history, a program designed to house a record 50,000 students next September and the 141,000 students expected to throng the campuses by 1970.

State architect Anson Boyd said that 67 million dollars worth of new buildings will open in September and that another 120 million dollars worth of new construction is expected to be completed during the next 12 months.

There will be 19 residence halls among the new buildings holding 200 students each, the result of the first dormitory program for state colleges in their 103-year history.

Library Addition Is On Schedule

Construction of the $170,000 addition to San Rafael Library is on schedule, and the new wing should be completed by the end of November.

This was disclosed at Monday night's meeting of the library board. Mrs. Vivian Smith, chief librarian, said there was nothing else on the agenda except payment of monthly bills.

The next meeting of the library board is set for Aug. 10.

Civic Leader Released From Hospital Today

Truel F. Tourtellotte, San Rafael civic leader who suffered a heart attack last Thursday, was to return home to 12 Clyde avenue today from San Rafael General Hospital, but his physician said no visitors would be permitted for two weeks.

Tourtellotte, a special representative for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., was stricken while on vacation.

Slaying Suspect Pronounced Sane

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A man charged with the murders of two women in San Francisco hotels was pronounced sane yesterday by two court-appointed psychiatrists.

Richard Thomas Cooper, 32, had entered a double plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity last week.

Dr. Walter Rappaport, superintendent of Agnews State Hospital, and Dr. Percy Poliak examined Cooper on orders of Superior Judge Gerald S. Levin.

Cooper surrendered himself June 4 when he said he had strangled Earlean Mosely in his hotel room. He later confessed the slaying of Elvira Hay, Aug. 3, 1958 — a crime for which John (Tennessee) Fry went to San Quentin Prison. Fry was released when Cooper's confession was verified.

Dillon Beach Street Work Is Protested

Residents of the Dillon Beach Assessment District must wait at least two more weeks for a decision on complaints regarding the street and grade situation in their community, it was decided yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Facing more than a dozen letters of protest and personal appearances by many embittered residents were representatives of the firms of Wilsey and Ham, engineers and planners, and Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton, civil and structural engineers.

Protests, both written and oral, centered on the inequity of individual assessments due to the inaccessability of streets from many properties.

"I will be satisfied to pay what the others pay if you will add 55 feet of blacktop to reach my house," one protestant said.

B. J. Whitlow, vice president of one of the engineering firms involved, indicated that the continuation of the street would have to be put in at the property owners expense. "According to the contract, you are as close as you will ever be to a street unless you build it yourself," Whitlow told the owner of the property in question.

Eugene K. Sturgis, attorney for the assessment district, told the supervisors that the contractor would be responsible for bringing any work up to standard which were in the specifications. If the specifications did not indicate particular items the residents are demanding, the cost would have to be borne through additional assessment, Sturgis said.

Indicating that the engineers present had "wasted everyone's time" by not being prepared to answer the individual complaints, the supervisors gave them until July 28 at 4 p.m. to appear with the answers.

Floods Hit Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Floods following torrential rains spread over southern Japan and the unofficial death toll rose to 41, with 16 persons missing.

Supervisors Refuse To Delay Apartments

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday by a pair of 4-1 votes refused to hold up apartment buildings while the county's apartment zoning ordinance is being changed.

An ultimate apartment development of two million dollars opposite Hamilton Air Force Base, which would begin with one triangular building containing 30 units, was sent back to the county planning commission with a recommendation that it be approved. The planning commission earlier had voted 2-2, effectively denying the apartment under the present zoning.

The proposed building, the first of six planned for a seven and one-half-acre tract owned by Joseph Bianchi, would average out to about 1,500 square feet of site area for each apartment unit.

A proposed new apartment zoning would require 1,750 square feet for each apartment unit. Attorney Harold F. Riede, representing Edgar T. Lindner of Ross and an associate who hold an option on the Bianchi property, said his clients would be willing to take their chances with a changed ordinance but would like to get construction started soon. A new ordinance would apply to property presently zoned "R-3" unless construction on it is already under way.

Six triangular apartment buildings of 30 units each are planned for the Bianchi property. In the center of each would be a courtyard with swimming pool. The site is on the west side of Highway 101 about 400 feet from the highway.

Reide said fewer apartments per building would force rent up to about $150 a month. He said the expected tenants, enlisted men from Hamilton Air Force Base, could afford only $110 to $115 rents.

On the motion of Supervisor William Gnoss, the supervisors voted 4-1 to send the matter back to the planning commission with a recommendation that it be approved.

The same vote was recorded on another Novato apartment project previously denied by the planning commission. In both cases the dissenting vote was cast by Supervisor Vera Schultz.

The second apartment project was proposed by Alfred Bellucci, Novato real estate broker, for a site on the east side of South Novato boulevard just north of Yukon way. He proposes a building of 12 to 15 units with a swimming pool on a site of slightly more than 20,000 square feet.

The supervisors set a hearing on Aug. 4 at 2 p.m. on Cypress Lane Apartments, a 14-unit building on Sir Francis Drake boulevard in Kentfield between Stetson and Terrace avenues.

Prison Camp Escapee Captured In Arizona

Raymond E. Lockwood, 27, who walked away from San Quentin Conservation Camp 17 at Willits on July 7 was picked up at Globe, Ariz., yesterday, prison officials reported.

Lockwood, a welder, was serving a five-year-to-life sentence for first degree robbery in San Diego County.

11 Booby Traps Are Found In Prison Mine

PETROS, Tenn. (AP)— Brushy Mountain Prison officials reported today they have found 11 dynamite booby traps in a prison coal mine where rebellious convicts held three foremen captive for 32 hours.

"They had used their mine cap batteries to rig up booby traps," Warden Frank Llewellyn said. "Anywhere from two to 10 sticks of dynamite were used in each trap."

The prisoners gave up yesterday after officials issued an ultimatum.

Meanwhile, a high state official offered the rebels a chance to air their complaints.

Pat Patterson, assistant corrections commissioner, remained overnight at Brushy Mountain Prison to listen to individual grievances. He had refused to negotiate further until the 94 rebel convicts left their hideaway and released three captive mine foremen.

Eight men Patterson called ring-leaders in the rebellion were shipped last night to the maximum security section of the state penitentiary at Nashville, 160 miles to the west.

The convicts started the rebellion at the start of the Monday day shift.

Marshall Trustees To Study Budget

Trustees of the Marshall School District are expected to meet early next month to approve a final 1959-60 budget approximating $14,900.

Mrs. Lydia Grossi, board clerk, said today a meeting previously set for yesterday was canceled because the tentatively approved budget had not yet been approved by the county superintendent of schools.

The budget, about $2,000 higher than the current year's expenditures, will not mean an increase in the present tax rate of 80 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, Mrs. Grossi said.

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL BOYS LEARN ABOUT SILENT SERVICE

Thirty-three eager newspaperboys from the Independent-Journal went by bus yesterday to the Naval Reserve Training Center at Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Vallejo, first visiting the reserve submarine Sunfish and later being given a conducted tour of industrial and waterfront areas. This shows the group boarding the Sunfish. After their tour they were given luncheon before departure. (All photos by Independent-Journal photographer Jack Steinheimer)

DRAWING A BEAD—David Harris of Lagunitas, one of the newspaperboy guests, peers through sights of a 40-mm. gun. Behind him is Peter Del Tredici of San Anselmo.

I-J Newspaperboys Get Look At Navy's Undersea Craft

Thirty-three Independent-Journal carrier-dealers got an inside look at the Navy's underseas fighting craft.

The boys, as reward for efficient service, were taken to Mare Island Naval Shipyard by bus, on a tour arranged by Chief J. J. Zuurbier, Marin Navy recruiter.

There, they went aboard the naval reserve training submarine Sunfish — a veteran of World War II, her sides decorated with the emblems of Japanese shipping she sent to the bottom of the Pacific.

They saw how the craft is submerged and raised to the surface, how its torpedo tubes operate, how its crew lives while afloat under the sea.

They peered through a land-mounted periscope used in training naval reservists, to get a sub's eye view of the bay.

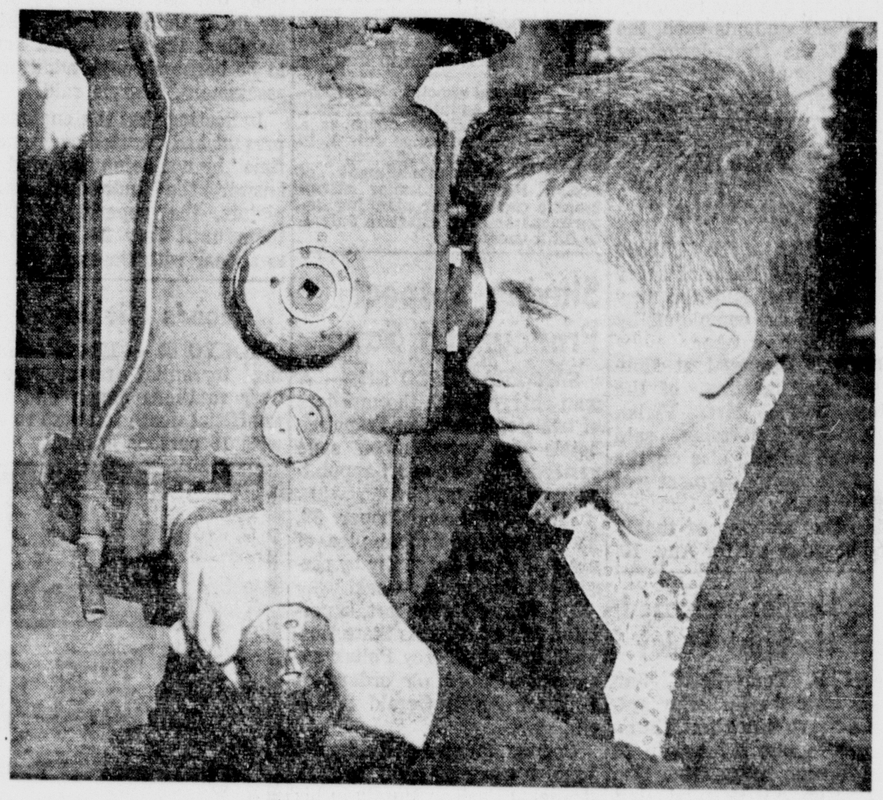
They toured facilities of the Naval Reserve Training Center with E. J. Lowry, civilian management analyst for the naval shipyard, as guide.

And they were taken through a full-scale mockup of the Theodore Roosevelt, one of two atomic submarines now under construction at Mare Island. It will be larger than the Nautilus that made the famed trip under the ice of the North Pole.

To top off the tour, the boys were guests of the Navy at lunch in a cafeteria of the Reserve Training Center.

"I think it was the most educational and interesting trip the boys have ever made," declared Julian C. Leone, circulation manager, who, with district manager Willie Wong, accompanied the boys.

Most of the boys seemed to agree wholeheartedly.



UP PERISCOPE!—This periscope is land-mounted but it works like those on submarines. Jim Wagele, a newspaperboy from Greenbrae, is having a look as though the sighting device were mounted on a vessel below the surface.

GOES WITH A WOOSH—The long streamlined form of a deadly torpedo is inspected by the Independent-Journal newspaperboys in the Sunfish's forward torpedo room.

HOW IT GOES DOWN—Engineman 1/c J. M. Aloi of Vallejo explains use of the diving planes which are handled for proper "trim" from the submarine's diving control room.

Three Children Hurt In Truck-Car Crash

Three farm laborer's children were injured today, when the pickup truck they were riding in collided with a car west of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge near the turnoff of Sir Francis Drake highway from Highway 17.

Both vehicles were eastbound on Highway 37 when the accident happened at 10:10 a.m.

Thrown from the rear of the truck along with mattresses, a washtub and other household gear, were Christine, 7; Louise, 5; Rose Marie, 4, and Joseph, 3, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Servin of Lindsay.

Louise and Rose Marie were being treated at San Rafael General Hospital for head injuries. Christine was cut on her legs. The others were not injured, a California Highway Patrol officer said.

Mrs. Servin was driving the truck, she told the CHP, and heard the children yelling as she started to turn the car from an outside lane toward the center.

As the truck entered the center lane it was struck from the rear by a car driven by Gerald G. Hoyt, 35, a general contractor and developer of Marinwood, who lives at 131 Blackstone, Marinwood. Hoytt complained of stiff left elbow, and went to a doctor.

The CHP said a citation is pending against Mrs. Servin for changing lanes without warning. The CHP said the family was en route to a farm-labor job at Sebastopol.

More Talks On Sewage Deal Asked

More discussion between the Corte Madera Sanitary District and its Ross Valley counterpart on charges to the Corte Madera for use of Ross Valley's Greenbrae sewage treatment plant is being asked by the Corte Madera district in a letter being prepared by Ernest T. Mock, member of the Corte Madera board of directors.

A proposal by Ross Valley Sanitary District that Corte Madera pay $200 for each million gallons of sewage in excess of a contractual limit of 175,000 gallons a day was discussed by the four Corte Madera directors at an adjourned meeting Monday night. A draft of a reply was prepared. Mock would not state his board's position in detail before the letter had been sent to Ross Valley Sanitary District.

Charge to the Corte Madera District now is $26.10 for each million gallons of sewage. An average of 400,000 gallons a day is pumped to the Greenbrae plant for treatment.

Ever since the Corte Madera Sanitary District began to exceed the 175,000-gallon-a-day limit set in a contract the two districts have been negotiating off and on for an expanded plant, with the cost to be underwritten by the Corte Madera district.

TRIAL

in a San Francisco surgical supply house, also told the district attorney that he studied botany as a hobby and was interested in the growing habits of the marijuana plant, Weissich said.

Mill Valley police and sheriff's deputies confiscated 17 potted marijuana plants from the porch of the Mill Valley home. They were about three feet tall then.

This morning, Weissich introduced the plants as evidence in court. They now stand five to six feet high. One of the deputy sheriffs had kept the "evidence" growing at his home until today's trial.

Novato Woman Dies Suddenly

Alice T. Hogg, 47, died unexpectedly yesterday at her home, 6 Los Alondros court, Novato, where she had resided with her sister, Grace Hogg, for the past four years.

Cause of death was not immediately known.

Miss Hoag was employed by the Bemis Bag Co. of San Francisco for the past 21 years. She was a native of that city. There are no other survivors.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato. Interment will follow in Memorial Park Cemetery, Colma.

Woman Gets Probation For Bank Thefts

Mrs. Ulla Diana Engstrom, 24, of San Rafael pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in San Francisco today to misappropriating $270 from the Crocker-Anglo National Bank in San Rafael while she was employed as a teller-bookkeeper there.

Judge George B. Harris imposed a one-year suspended prison sentence and placed Mrs. Engstrom on probation for three years. He made full restitution of the funds a condition of probation.

Mrs. Engstrom, a citizen of Sweden, was formerly employed by the Crocker-Anglo bank in San Francisco. When the San Rafael branch opened last Dec. 15 in the Montecito Shopping Center, she transferred to it.

She left the bank's employ about the end of February. Subsequently, a $270 shortage in her accounts was discovered.

Mrs. Engstrom wrote checks on her own account and posted them against another customer's account.

She was quietly arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after discovery of the shortage, and admitted the thefts.

Mrs. Engstrom's address while employed at the bank was 6 Wood street, San Rafael.

Trial Set For Editor

Pearce Gardiner Davies Jr., 37, editor of the Sausalito Gazette, will be tried by jury next month on a charge that he cut a picture out of a library book to use on the front page of his first edition.

Davies pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of malicious mischief and petty theft, and asked for a jury trial. Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court set trial for 9:30 a.m. Aug. 18.

Police Chief Howard Goerndt of Sausalito and Inspector Donald E. Midyett of the district attorney's office said Davies borrowed the book, "In Tamal Land," from the Sausalito library on May 21. When it was returned, a rare picture showing the main street of Sausalito 50 years ago was missing. Last week, the first issue of the Gazette carried the picture on the front page.

the car and drove off toward Fairfax.

At first, he said, they were wondering what they would do with him, and finally decided to take him to Stinson Beach to commit atrocities. But at White's Hill, they let Bersano out of the car, probably because they became frightened, the victim related.

Bersano said four of his abductors had black hair, and the fifth had brown greasy hair.

Child Kicked By Horse; Parents Sue

Parents of a 2-year-old Mill Valley girl are suing for $75,000 damages for injuries suffered by the girl when a horse on the loose kicked her in the head last April.

Mrs. Laura Andrews of Montecimas avenue filed the suit for her daughter, Teresa, in Marin Superior Court today against neighbors Alfred A. and Catherine Averill, also of Montecimas avenue. Attorney Theodore A. Rosenak of San Francisco is representing the Andrews.

According to Rosenak, the girl was playing alongside Montecimas avenue, accompanied by her mother, on April 15. An unattended horse owned by Mr. and Mrs. Averill came wandering along and kicked the girl in the head, Rosenak claims.

The complaint alleges that the girl required hospitalization and operations for head injuries.

Gate Playhouse Bills 'On Town'

The Gate Playhouse in Sausalito will open "On the Town," on July 24, director Leslie Abbott announced today. Curtain will be at 8:30 p.m.

"Visit to a Small Planet" closed last Sunday night after an extended showing.

OBITUARY

Composer Bloch Succumbs

Composer Ernest Bloch, 78, father of Mill Valley painter Mrs. Lucienne Bloch Dimitroff, died this morning in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore.

Bloch, who has lived on the Oregon coast for a number of years, had been undergoing treatment for cancer. He entered the hospital last Tuesday.

The former director of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music had traveled extensively throughout Europe, but spent most of his creative life as a composer in the Bay Area.

Bloch came to the United States in 1917 from his native Switzerland. He was naturalized in 1924.

In 1938 he accepted the post of instructor of music at the University of California in Berkeley. His prize-winning composition, "America," once received an honorary resolution from the San Francisco board of supervisors.

Mrs. Dimitroff, his youngest daughter, is the wife of Stephen P. Dimitroff, owner and operator of an art supply store in Mill Valley. She is the mother of three children.

Funeral Is Held For Ex-Resident

Private funeral services for Mrs. Mary Hornell, 89, a former resident of Marin who died at a local rest home Friday, were held yesterday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Hornell and her late husband, James Hornell, were residents of Marin for 10 years prior to moving to San Jose a number of years ago.

Recently Mrs. Hornell came back to Marin to reside at a rest home. She was a native of Canada. She is survived by a son, John H. Hornell of Burlingame, and a grandson in San Jose.

Burial was at Mt. Tamalpais Memorial Park, San Rafael.

Former Marin Resident Dies

Mrs. Martha L. Blagg, 83, died yesterday at a Sonoma rest home where she had been confined with an illness for nine months. She was a former resident of San Rafael, where she had lived many years.

Prior to moving to the rest home she had made her home in San Francisco.

She is survived by two sons, Ernest J. and Martin J. Blagg, and two grandchildren, all of San Rafael.

A Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Rita's Church, Fairfax, with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

The rosary will be read at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Keaton Mortuary chapel, San Rafael.

TOPS IN HARMONY—The Baytown Four, which placed among the top 10 in the national competition of the SPEBSQSA this summer, will be featured in the Marin County chapter's sixth annual Harmony Festival Saturday night at Marin Catholic High School. The four, from Berkeley, are Don McDaniel and Fred Anderson (rear) and Dave Baughman and Dick Saylor (front).

Barbershop Music Fete Saturday In Greenbrae

The Marin County Chapter of SPEBSQSA (that's the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America) will hold it's sixth annual Harmony Festival Saturday evening.

The festival will start at 8 o'clock at Marin Catholic High School in Greenbrae, and will feature the Baytown Four as a star attraction.

The Baytown Four, organized less than a year ago, has climbed to national porminence in record time. In competition with 26 other quartets from five states it qualified in the Far Western District regional contest last spring. This gave it the golden opportunity to compete in the national contest in Chicago this summer. There, the four placed in the top 10 in a field of 60 accomplished Barber Shop quartets, representing the best on the North American continent.

Every year the SPEBSQSA holds a national competition to find the best of the nations quartets and male choruses. This has been going on for 20 years, since the society was formed in 1938. This year over 5,000 attended the three-day convention and competition in Chicago.

The Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America was formed by a group of professional and business men in 1938 to preserve the old harmony, and the fellowship it expressed. Today there are 26,000 members—barbershoppers, as they call themselves—organized into 600 local chapters. California alone has 46 chapters with an average membership of 40 per chapter.

The Marin Chapter was formed six years ago by two San Rafael businessmen, and with 43 members today, membership chairman Ben Walton hopes to make it 60 by the time the year is over.

The Marin chapter's chorus, the Marin Saltaires, are polishing up several numbers for the festival Saturday.

Three organized quartets from the chapter; the Golden Gate Harmony Four, the Chord Reporters, and the San Rafelows, also will be on the program.

Brown Signs Bill Banning Racial Bias

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Racial or religious discrimination in any business establishment in California was banned by a bill signed today by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The measure by Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles) becomes effective Sept. 18.

Present California law explicitly prohibits discrimination only in certain businesses, such as inns and restaurants. Court decisions have caused uncertainty about certain other places.

Unruh's bill says "all business establishments of any kind whatsoever."

It also increases the penalty for violation from $100 to $250.

Brown called it the third major civil rights bill he has signed. The others prohibit discrimination in employment and publicly assisted housing.

'Dozer Operator Is Hit By Pellet

A 12-year-old boy with a pellet gun stopped a bulldozer in Tamalpais Valley Monday afternoon.

Bulldozer operator John M. West, 41, of 77 Spruce road, Fairfax, was working on the B. W. Albert property at 620 Eucalyptus avenue about 4 p.m. when the pellet struck his right shoulder. West said the shot left a red welt on his shoulder.

The boy admitted he and his brother were shooting pellet guns, and he aimed the one that hit the bulldozer operator.

Sheriff's deputies confiscated the pellet guns and ordered the boys and their parents to appear at the probation office Thursday.

The American Federation of Labor was organized in 1886. Originally it was known as the Knights of Labor.

New Deputy D.A. Weds Berkeley Girl In Nevada

Hadden Roth, 29, of Mill Valley, newest member of the Marin district attorney's office, surprised his colleagues and parents alike by getting married in Nevada to a Berkeley girl.

She is Shelly von Duering, 27, a social worker in Alameda County, who formerly lived in Fairfax.

Roth took a leave of absence this week, but Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich said no one in his office thought Roth was going to get married. Monday this telegram arrived at Weissich's office from Kings Beach, near Lake Tahoe: "Married Sunday in Nevada. See you next Monday. Hadden."

Roth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Roth of 101 Ralston avenue, Mill Valley. Mrs. Roth operates the Redwood stationery store in Mill Valley while Roth owns a bulletin board manufacturing company in San Francisco.

Two Big Sequoia Trees Make News

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK (AP)—Two giant sequoia trees, in the Sierra Nevada range where people from throughout the world come to see the oldest and largest living things, are making news.

The redwood giants have been something of a mystery, and certainly one of nature's most awe-inspiring attracions, since their discovery little more than a century ago. They have lived the longest of anything known, with the possible exception of their gnarled, scraggly eastern Sierra neighbor, the bristle cone pine.

These trees have survived hundreds of forest fires over the centuries, the ravages clearly written in the bark and tree crests. Many are from 3,000 to 4,000 years old.

Last March 23 the evening sky behind Giant Forest Lodge in Sequoia National Park was illumined by a bolt of lightning that gave new fuel for an old discussion about the fire-resistance of the big trees. It struck a 240-foot sequoia and started a fire in the upper trunk that burned steadily for a week.

Many of these trees have been hit by lightning. Some were destroyed outright. But literature does not reveal another instance of a tree being consumed by fire. Only after it had burned down to about 100 feet and fire hoses were played on it, was the flame extinguished.

Witnesses said two large limbs knocked from the trunk by lightning left holes into the hollow center that seemed to create a strong draft. This gave the fire the force of a blast furnace.

On June 23 another sequoia, 275 feet tall and some 30 feet in diameter, crashed only a mile away and carried two large sugar pines with it. The top 125 to 150 feet shattered with such force against a granite outcropping that nothing but splintered chunks—many weighing tons — remained strewn over the mountainside. Beneath the trunk lay the sugar pines, themselves so large they would dwarf companions in any ordinary forest.

"It is not a rare thing," said park naturalist Harry Robinson, "for a sequoia to fall; that is how most of them finally come to an end. A few have succumbed to lightning. None is known to have died 'on its feet' from disease, insects or old age."

No other tree is like a sequoia. The gigantea, native only in the western Sierra Nevada range, with a maximum known diameter of 35 to 40 feet, is the largest. Its coastal cousin, sempervirens, is taller, reaching some 400 feet. With little more than half the mass of the gigantea it still is the second largest in the world' by a wide margin.

Both species have a thick brown bark nearly impervious to fire and insects, whether alive or dead. Trunks of trees known to have died hundreds of years ago when they were more than 4,000 years old, lie intact on the forest floor.

Bargain Carnival Opens Tomorrow In San Anselmo

A style show on the lawn of the San Anselmo City Hall at 10 a.m. tomorrow will open special events of the three-day San Anselmo Bargain Days, a chamber of commerce - sponsored citywide sales event.

Forty-three businesses are participating in the bargain carnival, which will feature awards of two 17-inch portable television sets and two eight-transistor pocket radios. All merchants will begin tomorrow morning handing out tickets for the prizes, with no purchase necessary. The winning numbers will be drawn on the city hall lawn at 10 a.m. next Monday.

10 NUMBERS

Ten numbers will be drawn for each prize. If the winning number is not surrendered within five days, the prize will go to the second number. If it is not then surrendered within one day, the third number will win, and so on, said George G. Washburn, chamber of commerce secretary.

Individual interviews with all participating businessmen will be broadcast over radio station KTIM during the sale. Window banners will identify participating stores.

CITY HALL PROGRAM

A program on the city hall steps preceding the fashion show will feature addresses by Mayor Arthur W. Smith, president A. Von Rotz of the chamber of commerce, and Homer Hickards, the San Anselmo Bargain Days chairman.

Participating merchants and business firms are:

A. Von Rotz, contractor; Cutty's Liquor and Smoke Shop, Photo Shop, Hank's Menlo Service, Orrick Travel Bureau, Lamps and Things, Jim and Jay's Meats, Casper's La Siesta, Modern Shoe Store, Owl Rexall Drugs, Kientz's Pastry Shop.

Haggett's Machine Shop, Lee's Loom, Drake Market, Brown's Store for Men and Boys, Braverman's Kaufman's Department Store, Oriental Treasures, Sunnyside Nursery, Yarn Nook, Toy Circus, Sir Francis Drake Nursery, Red Hill Nursery, San Anselmo Hardware.

Dupree's Jewelers, Preview Maternity Shop, San Anselmo Furniture, Winter Hardware, Torrance Art Gallery, Home Market, Lalla's, Ernest Ongaro, Sally's Apparel, San Anselmo Health Foods,

Hoy's Golden Hind Book Store, Sprouse-Reitz Co., San Anselmo Paint Center, White's Furniture, Art Smith Variety Store, Marin County Poultry, Marin Paint Store and United Markets.

SHE'D BETTER NOT LET DADDY KNOW

LONDON (UPI) — Alina Correa Ribiero, 17, of Brazil said yesterday on completing two years at a finishing school here that she now likes tea much better than coffee. But she's not sure whether she'll brew any when she gets home.

Her father is one of Brazil's leading coffee producers.

Phone Stock Split Approved By PUC

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state Public Utilities Commission yesterday authorized the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s plan to split its common stock seven for one.

New Pharmacy Wins Planners' Approval

A new Poehlmann Pharmacy building with drive-in facilities won architectural approval last night at the San Rafael Planning Commission meeting.

The new drive-in drug store will go up in the burned-out block of Fourth street between D and E street. It will be built between the Christian Science reading room and Miller and Severin architectural office.

Plans presented last night show that customers will be able to drive in on Fourth street, and through to Fifth avenue for exit. Offstreet parking spaces are also provided.

In other action, the planning commissioners:

1. Set July 28 as public hearing date for a proposed private tennis and swim club at the south end of C street. Developer John Farrar and several partners plan to put in a club similar to the Mill Valley Tennis Club on seven acres of land. The property extends from the end of C street to Meyer road.

2. Rezoned Julius J. Frnjak's property on First street at Miramar from duplex to multiple zoning. Frnjak wants to put up a medical building.

3. Put off until July 28 a request to erect a "Terra Linda Oaks" sign at the entrance to Terra Linda. The planners asked John Kenny to bring in plans on the sign by the July 28 meeting.

4. Set July 22 as date for a special meeting to consider several subdivision requests, including Terra Linda Meadows, Dominican Heights, and Loch Lomond Unit 6.

5. Granted Harry Albert a use permit for a new building on Fifth avenue behind Grand Auto Stores. It will be used for auto accessories and appliances as an expansion of Grand Auto Store.

Assessment Roll Down In Sausalito

Although Sausalito has enjoyed a large increase in property development during the last year, its equalized assessment roll is down almost a million dollars from last year, according to figures submitted to the City Council last night by City Clerk-Assessor Amelie Smith.

The apparent paradox developed as the county sat as a board of equalization after the regular council meeting which ran until after midnight.

The equalized roll presented by Mrs. Smith came to $9,767,360. Her records indicated the comparable figure for a year ago was $10,778,270.

"This seems hard to believe," Mrs. Smith said, referring to the city's constant building growth. "However, the difference is probably traceable to the reappraisal of property as well as from the fact that last year the figure was based on 28 per cent of appraisal, where this year it is 25 per cent."

Only one assessment protestant showed up last night.

Fred D. Turner of 144 Prospect avenue told the council the assessed valuation on two of his lots had been set at $5,500 and he felt it should be $3,760. At the suggestion of Mayor Howard Sievers, the figure was changed to $4,000. Turner said he would also protest to the county.

Sausalito Councilmen Argue About Sandspit

Sausalito's City Council was dealing in futures last night when city fathers and City Atty. John B. Ehlen engaged in lengthy debate as to whether the sublease on the controversial sandspit should expire in 2007 or in 2002.

Ehlen recommended that the date of 2007, now in the document, be changed to 2002. There was some question, he said, about the city's legal right to lease the property for the longer period.

Councilman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., consistent foe of the entire sandspit commercial plan, sought to block approval of the change. He contended the entire agreement should be reexamined.

"This policy of planned delay leaves me flat," stormed Ehlen as Mayor Howard Sievers called for a vote approving the change. It carried 3-1, Ehrlich dissenting. Councilman Marjorie Brady is on vacation.

A threatened hassle on minimum land requirements for apartment or hotel construction was avoided as the council introduced an ordinance cutting in half the 2,500 square foot figure recommended by the planning commission.

The council also:

1. Approved a liberalized agreement for annexation and zoning of the Conser property on Waldo Point, to be developed for 50 apartments utilizing a minimum 1,250 square feet per living unit, one-to-one parking, underground utilities and 30 per cent lot coverage. A planning commission recommendation had been for more severe restrictions. A public hearing is set for Aug. 18.

2. Again set a "final date" for Byron Edwards to provide a performance bond covering removal of a barge from a city street and another covering required changes to the structure. New "final date" is Aug. 4.

3. Denied unanimously a petition by occupants of four arks on Mono street to connect with city sewers after City Attorney Ehlen termed the petition "as phoney as $3 bill" and not made in good faith. Attorney Theodore Rosenak denied the allegation.

4. Accepted a state map showing location of state tidelands deeded to the city.

5. Introduced an ordinance authorizing boulevard stops on both sides of Bridgeway from San Carlos avenue to the north city limits.

6. Introduced an ordinance repealing a section of the new building code which conflicts with the zoning ordinance on building height limits.

7. Authorized 12 new parking meters on upper Bridgeway and seven on Humboldt avenue between Anchor and Bay streets.

8. Authorized City Manager Donald A. Duerr to hold an examination to create an eligible list for police officers.

9. Approved claims and demands totaling $31,781.25.

10. Postponed action on a new appointment to the planning commission replacing Richard Grambow, who submitted his resignation.

11. Set Aug. 18 as a hearing date on a request by Frank Bugai for abandonment of a portion of Marin avenue at Bridgeway.

12. Approved a revision in the agreement with Mark-A-Line Inc. for installation of parking lot facilities, subject to approval by Ehlen.

13. Set for Aug. 4 a public hearing on a proposal by Morden Dunn for rezoning a portion of Nevada street for commercial use.

14. Welcomed new city engineer John L. Hunter, who succeeds John C. Oglesby.

15. Noted that the next meeting would be Aug. 4, cancelling any meeting on the regular date, July 21.

Buildings At San Rafael High To Get New Roofs

The San Rafael Board of Education last night accepted a low bid of $6,900 from the Marin County Roofing Co. to re-roof the San Rafael High School shop buildings and auditorium.

It was the lowest of three bids, with the high bid at $8,500, according to Supt. Frank L. Lucas.

He said the work would be completed for the opening of school in September.

At the same time the board called for bids for filling low areas at Davidson School. Lucas, who gave no price estimate, said about 7,000 cubic yards of fill will be needed. Bids will be opened Aug. 4.

In other business the board:

1. Heard a report that the evening high school adult program had 210 students the past school year.

2. Heard a report that the county is ready to build an overpass for the San Pedro School at Loch Lomond after a joint agreement by the school district, San Rafael, and county to split the costs at $8,000 each.

3. Approved tentative new design for the proposed homemaking and arts and crafts rooms at the intermediate school at Santa Venetia. The board previously had rejected architectural designs by Cantin and Cantin because it was thought that the building program might be too costly. The same firm was authorized to start work on new working drawings.

4. Held a brief discussion on a name for the new high school at Terra Linda, but did not come up with any suggestions.

5. Named Webster Smith of Torrance as principal at Coleman to replace Ann Philbert who will be principal at McPhail. She replaces Harold Delma who will be principal at E Street School, who in turn replaces William Sewell who will be principal at Laurel Dell. He will replace Mrs. Marion Faustman, who resigned.

6. Hired Mrs. Louise Cheatham of San Rafael for a half-time teacher at Santa Venetia School at $2,341 a year, and Douglas Felt of San Francisco as an English teacher at the high school at $5,272 a year.

Nine Take Out Bid Forms For Ward Project

Nine contractors have taken out forms for bids to be opened at 3 p.m. tomorrow for a four-million - dollar Montgomery Ward and Co. store in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held April 30 on a 175 by 350-foot site covered with some 40,000 cubic yards of earth fill. A two-story building with 75,000 square feet of space, designed by architect John S. Bolles of San Francisco, is expected to be ready for business by next February. It is to be fully air-conditioned and to have escalators.

This will be Montgomery Ward's second such construction in the west since 1940. A new Richmond store is expected to be ready just before completion of the Corte Madera project. Included will be an outside sales area for seasonal merchandise.

Brown Signs Bill Raising Jobless Insurance Payment

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed legislation raising the state's top unemployment insurance payment from $40 to $55 a week, assuring more than 600,000 idle workers of increased benefits.

Brown gave final approval to the bill by Assemblyman William A. Munnell (D-Montebello) yesterday. The governor had requested the increase in his message to the Legislature.

About 95 per cent of the workers covered by unemployment insurance will get a raise under the bill, which Brown praised as "one of the major social insurance achievements of the decade."

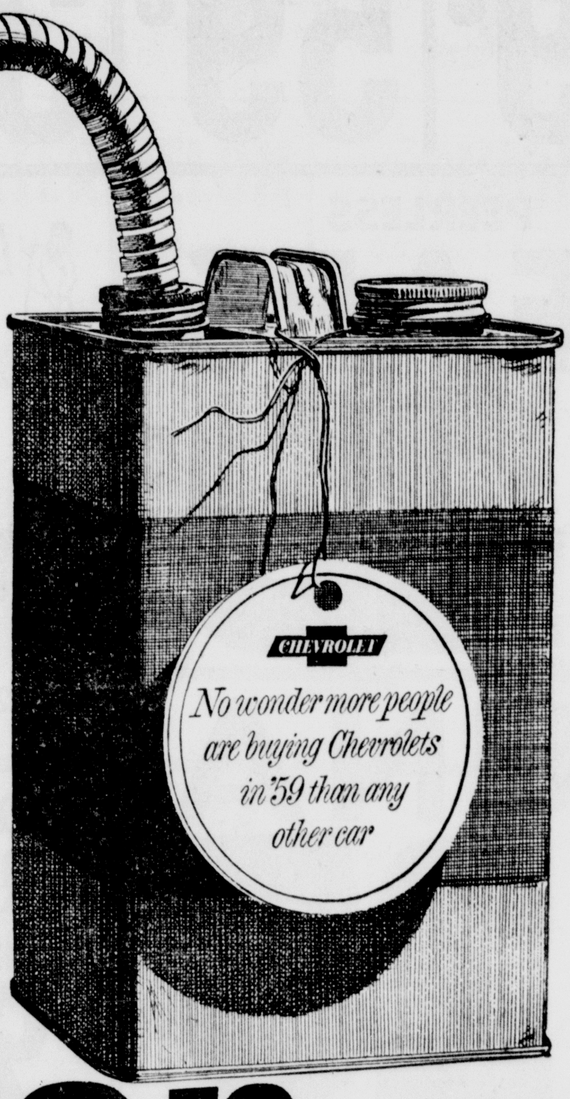
most miles per gallon



ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it, not from us, but from official results of this year's Mobilgas Economy Run: Chevy's pennypinching 6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 22.38—of any full-size car. And here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's other six bests:

BEST TRADE-IN
Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE
It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES
In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR†, Chevrolet 'out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not: Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM
Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.‡ make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE
Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE
MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about a long list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

NEW TYPE OF GOVERNMENT TWO-WHEELER

Pfc. Douglas C. Kizziah, 21, of Travis Air Force Base was at the steering wheel of this truck when it sideswiped a lumber truck as both were northbound at 12:55 p.m. yesterday. The truck lost its front wheels, reported California Highway Patrolman Richard O'Brien. Kizziah suffered cuts on both hands as the windshield shattered. Driver of the lumber truck was Gene Walton Ramsey of Willits. (George Wheeler photo)

Ike Says No Break Yet In Deadlock

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Eisenhower said today that Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has full authority to agree to a Big Four summit conference if Russia makes it clear it will respect Western rights and obligations in Berlin.

The President said at his new conference, however, that for the moment there doesn't appear to be any break in the deadlock at the just-resumed Geneva Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

He said he was sure the Russians would like to reach an agreement in Geneva if it was all in their favor. However, he added, the real question is whether the Russians are ready to make concessions, in exchange for Western concessions, that would give everybody confidence that there is some progress being made toward peace.

STOCKS TODAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels, nonferrous metals and electronics advanced in moderately active trading late this afternoon as the stock market posted a limited gain.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,300,000 shares, compared with 3,230,000 yesterday.

Pivotal issues rose from fractions to about a point. Losers moved in the same range.

The start of the steel strike found shares of the industry nicely ahead. Youngstown Sheet and Lukens Steel were up about two U.S. Steel was ahead about a point.

Kennecott rose about a point while Magma Copper jumped more than a point.

Electronics cut back some of their best early gains. Zenith remained ahead about four and Texas Instruments around five. Motorola and Ampex were ahead more than a point each.

Novato School Board Adopts Final Budget

A final budget of $1,578,295 for 1959-60 was approved last night by trustees of Novato Unified School District, with the board members agreeing to "try to hold the present tax rate of $3.16."

This year's expenditures have totaled $1,373,120. The increase next year, however, is expected to be offset by increased assessed valuation, reported Supt. William J. J. Smith.

Trustees included the stipulation that $6,000 of items in the budget be earmarked for deletion in the event the increase in revenue is not realized.

The board approved the sale of $141,000 worth of elementary school bonds, which will go to amortize previous state loans and make possible further state loans for purchase of eight acres off South Novato boulevard for a new school site (the Connell property) and further construction work at Hill School.

Trustees also:

1. Awarded contracts totaling $10,155 for new furniture at Lu Sutton and Hill Schools to Beir and Gunderson Co. of Sacramento, Virco Manufacturing Co. of San Francisco and Educators Co. of Sacramento.

2. Authorized calling bids for sound equipment, estimated to cost $7,000, for language classes in German at Novato High School. Half of the funds are to come from the federal government under the National Defense Act.

3. Accepted the bids of five suppliers for metal and wood working shops equipment totaling $19,976.

4. Accepted a low bid of $1,376 by Fabian Bobo of Novato for asphalt paving at Marion School.

5. Heard Superintendent Smith report that summer school enrollments have fallen 20 per cent short of expectations. He said 497 students are enrolled from third grade through high school.

Patrol Car Strikes Parked Automobile

A sheriff's patrol car driven by Deputy D. L. Greeson hit a parked car on Mar West street in Tiburon about midnight last night while trying to avoid an oncoming car.

No one was reported hurt, but the patrol car received damages on the front fender. Greeson said he was forced off the road by an oncoming car which swerved into his lane.

Gems Stolen From Store In San Rafael

Somebody walked into Gorb's Jeweler's in San Rafael and slipped out with a trayful of gems worth $3,000 retail, Michael Alex Gorb reported to San Rafael police yesterday.

Missing are six sets of diamond engagement and wedding rings which were in a tray inside a showcase. Police said it is possible for a person to reach over the 18-inch wide showcase, open the sliding door, and take the tray. Each set of rings had a carat of diamonds, and was worth $500.

Billie Margaret Arrington of 804 Rosal way, San Rafael, the store's only employee, discovered the tray missing about 3:30 p.m. Monday. Gorb said he did not report the loss to police right away because he wanted to do some checking first.

Investigators said the theft probably occurred in daylight.

DUNCAN, Ala. (AP) — A large bulldog, chasing a cat, became lodged under a small foreign car and police had to be called to free him.

Corte Madera Sanitary Budget Set

A 1959-60 budget of $56,450 and predicated on a tax rate limit of 60 cents pere $100 assessed valuation was adopted Monday night by directors of the Corte Madera Sanitary District.

The four directors whittled $3,500 from a proposed budget submitted by William A. Adam, district manager. The budget represents an increased spending program of $11,130 over the 1958-59 budget but no change in the district's operating tax rate.

Breakdown of the adopted budget is as follows:

Salaries totaling $20,700, including $7,800 a year for Adam and $2.50 an hour for Mrs. Portia Fitzgerald, a part-time secretary (both receive the same salary as last year, and the remainder to cover wages of seasonal labor; $28,700 for maintenance and operation; $2,050 for purchase of a used truck, man hole jacks and other tools, and $5,000 as a reserve fund.

The adopted budget requests that the district's June 30 balance estimated at about $10,000 to be "reserved" to the district. The budget of $56,450 is to be financed entirely from current tax revenues.

Archers Slate Shoot Saturday

The Northwoods Bowmen's Club will hold a variable distance handicap archery tournament Saturday at their range out San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia.

Registration begins at noon and closes at 1:30. Shooting starts at 1 p. m.

All archers are invited to participate. Tournament is arranged so that every archer, regardless of ability, has a chance of winning one of the trophies that will be offered.

A special trophy will be given for the most original "alibi" for having missed a deer during the current archery hunting season.

MISS PHYSICAL FITNESS GIVEN TROPHY

Two startling examples of physical perfection are awarded winning trophies after the Miss Physical Fitness contest in Albany. Winning the title over 30 shapely contestants was Donna Engar, San Francisco (left). Winifred Lewis of Corte Madera (right) placed second. Miss Lewis is the wife of Reg Lewis, "Mr. Universe of 1957," who operates a physical culture studio in Corte Madera. Placing fifth in the event was another Marin girl, Judy McAtee of Ross.

Fairhurst Continues To Head Airport Unit

Reappointment of C. J. Fairhurst, president of the Fairhurst Lumber Co., San Rafael, as chairman of the airport committee of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation was announced today by President Fred F. Enemark.

Main activity of the committee, membership of which Fairhurst is now selecting, will be to seek to educate Marinites on the potentialities a small plane airport has in this county.

In accepting the appointment Fairhurst stressed that such an airport would not depend upon locally owned planes for its economic health but rather those attracted by nearby communities, particularly San Francisco and the East Bay.

Fairhurst, said: "Travel by businessmen in company owned planes is increasing by leaps and bounds, and yet in the increasingly congested San Francisco Bay Area, it is getting continually more difficult to find airports where such planes can be based. This is Marin's opportunity. The San Quentin Point site is extremely accessible to its market. We feel, and competent surveys assure us, that it will attract not only a volume of planes presently and uncomfortably based at other airports but will also serve as a magnet for attracting new industries and businesses that must be close to such an airport. With the signing of the new federal airport bill by the president, we plan to again bring the proposal before the people."

New Building For College

BERKELEY (AP)—A new $1,600,000 six-story reinforced concrete building has been completed on the University of California's Berkeley campus.

Chancellor Glenn T. Seaborg said today occupation of the building will begin soon and should be completed by the opening of the fall semester. It will house the departments of astronomy, mathematics, and statistics and the university's computer center.

The new building has been named William W. Campbell Hall in honor of a former president of the university and director of Lick Observatory. Features include two domed observatories on the roof and an open deck observatory.

Bus Loses Brakes, Kills Small Girl

ARCADIA (AP)—A bus returning 90 youngsters from a mountain day camp lost its brakes on a grade yesterday and careened wildly down a tree-lined suburban street.

The bus left a wake of three smashed cars and the broken body of a 3-year-old girl before it overturned.

None of the campers was seriously injured.

The girl, Corrine Matson of Arcadia, was killed when thrown from a sedan hit from behind by the bus.

Exhaust Control Step Is Taken

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress took the first major step yesterday towards possible control of harmful exhaust gases from automobiles.

A House health and safety subcommittee approved a bill, sponsored by Rep. Paul F. Schenck (R-Ohio), which would require auto manufacturers to equip cars so they produce only a limited amount of air pollution.

The legislation would direct the U. S. Public Health Service to determine what the safe limits are. Once the standards are set, auto makers would be prohibited for one year from shipping in interstate commerce any new cars which did not conform.

One Forest Fire Under Control, One Waning

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

One major Northern California forest fire was controlled and another 60 per cent under control today, but not until enough potential lumber to build 1,500 averaged-sized homes had been destroyed.

Fair weather aided fire-fighters yesterday, as the worst of the two blazes, in the Kern River Canyon area, was 60 per cent subdued with expected total control by late today.

The other blaze, in the redwood logging region on the Sonoma-Mendicino line, was controlled by 6 p.m. yesterday, with all danger to the evacuated town of Annapolis ended.

By yesterday the two blazes had consumed 21,500,000 board feet of timber.

Two-hundred-fifty persons fled Annapolis yesterday when flames reached the town's edge, but an overnight fog and a cool southern breeze helped 700 fire-fighters save the Annapolis homes.

The estimated loss of the blaze that broke out Sunday in Sequoia National Forest was estimated at 5,300 acres with 1,000 of that amount in valuable pine and fir trees.

Nearly 1,000 men were still on the fireline.

MEDICAL SOCIETY URGES

Health Department Cease Throat Culture Analyses

Dr. Calvin Plumhof of San Rafael, representing the Marin County Medical Society, recommended yesterday to the county board of supervisors that the county health department discontinue its analysis of streptococcal throat cultures.

The supervisors had asked for a recommenation from the medical society when it noticed an abrupt rise in cost of health department laboratory supplies. Last year $1,483 was spent and $2,200 was budgeted for 1959-60.

The rise in cost was explained by Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer. In January a better method of transporting throat cultures was perfected and the number sent in by physicians tripled, she said.

The throat culture now may be inserted in an envelope and sent to the health department by mail instead of being taken by hand in a glass tube. From July through December last year, 657 cultures were analyzed; during the first six months of this year, 3,420 were analyzed.

In addition, sheep red blood cells used for the cultures have doubled in price recently.

The laboratory staff of two microbiologists and since July 1, a half-time aide, have been "nearly killed with work," Dr. Albrecht reported.

Dr. Plumoff told the supervisors that the free service was started as "a research thing and seems to have continued because of doctors' curiosity."

Dr. Albrecht said she thought "if our department is to prevent illness we should detect the unknown carriers."

She told the supervisors that the laboratory staff could carry on for three months until statitical study is completed, and asked that decision on the streptoccal throat cultures be postponed until then. The supervisors agreed.

Radio Panel To Discuss Billboards

Kitty Oppenheimer will moderate the question, "Are Marin County's Billboard Regulations Too Strict?" on the Marin Sounding Board program heard over radio KTIM at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Taking part in the discussion will be Leland H. Jordan, county counsel; B. D. Dobbs, county planning commission member; Angelo Sabella, owner of Sabella's restaurant; and James Stockman, owner-manager of the Edgewater Inn.

Questions telephoned by listeners will be directed to the panelists. The program will be re-broadcast Sunday at 12:30 p.m. from a recording.

Blood Is Sought For Anemia Victim

Blood donations are sought for Bograd Christensen, 60, of 110 Terrace avenue, Kentfield, a retired engineer who worked on the Golden Gate Bridge and whose condition requires a pint of blood each week. He has thus far used 50 pints.

Christensen is a victim of aplastic anemia.

Donors to the Marin Reserve Fund may be made in his name at the San Rafael Elks Club Friday between 2:30 and 6:30 p. m. They will be received by the Bloodmobile of the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank of the San Francisco Medical Society.

Joe College's Writing Concerns Educators

By DAVID O. TYSON

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —Why Johnny can't read is a big problem for some educators. Others are worried because Joe College can't write.

They feel Joe just doesn't get enough drill in putting words together while he's in high school and something should be done about it.

High schools in 16 cities throughout the nation this past school year started an experiment designed to ease the problem. Already the program has improved the compositions of some 8,000 students.

The program is based on a simple idea: Housewives with college training and tested ability in correcting themes are hired on a piece work basis to grade papers.

The work is the sort many mothers like to do. It's stimulating. And it means more money in the family till.

English teachers are just as enthusiastic. The fearful chore of correcting up to 200 themes for all her classes, a job estimated to take 33 hours, has been lightened.

More writing can be assigned, which means writing is improved.

"You can't learn to write without writing," says Henry Chauncey, president of the Educational Testing Service of Princeton.

The idea of using so-called "lay leaders" to help English teachers popped into Chauncey's head several years ago. But he takes no credit for it.

"I had the original idea but ideas are a dime a dozen," he says. "The important thing is the way they're carried out. So the credit should go to Paul Diederich for having conducted the program and the fund for the advancement of education for sponsoring it."

Diederich is on the staff of ETS, a nonprofit corporation which conducts educational research and tests for schools, colleges, the government and professions.

The Fund for the Advancement of Education provided $150,000 to develop the program. And Diederich tried it out first during the 1957-58 school year at New Brunswick High School and nearby Bound Brook High School.

A women's page story in the New Brunswick Daily Home News announced the experiment.

A total of 110 women applied in person in New Brunswick and 67 more in Bound Brook. Others telephoned. Only six readers, plus six substitutes, were to be chosen in New Brunswick.

The field was narrowed with the help of ETS and its testing experience. The applicants got a verbal aptitude test, paper-grading test, paper-correction test and wrote a short paper on choice of topics. The 20 who stood highest were interviewed.

New Brunswick High has a total enrollment of 1,575. About 16 English teachers were assigned lay readers for some, but not all, of their classes. Between 500 and 525 students in grades 10 through 12 thus had the benefit of lay readers.

Diederick says homework writing assignments in many schools are down to four or five a year. The teachers can't handle the grading any more.

Diederick says no feature of the plan is copyrighted and ETS will make test materials available to any other high schools which care to launch such a program.

Measles In Marin Still On Decline

Measles in Marin continued to decline last week as 17 cases were reported to the county health department.

Of these, eight were reported in San Rafael, three in Kentfield, two in Larkspur and one each in Mill Valley, San Anselmo, Fairfax and Novato.

Other communicable diseases reported throughout the county included six cases of gonorrhea, five of mumps, one of tuberculosis, two strep infections and one case of salmonella.

Span Unit Against Giving Funds To Visitors Bureau

The finance committee of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District's board of directors Monday recommended denial of a request that the district give $500 to the Marin Visitors Bureau to aid in promotional work.

The committee's vote to recommend denial was 7-3, with Marin Director Matthew Graham voting in favor of the appropriation. Marin's other director, Leland Murphy, is not a finance committee member but was present and spoke in favor of the fund request.

The request was presented to the committee by Bernard Seligman on behalf of the visitors bureau, which is an adjunct of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

Report On Uniforms At Redwood Slated

A progress report on the possibility of uniforms for girls at Redwood High School will be presented Monday to the Tamalpais Union High School District board.

The presentation will be made by representatives of the Redwood Parent-Teacher Assn. who have been working with student body members and Dean of Girls Emma Jean Wulzen to determine the amount of interest. The P-TA committee is composed of Mrs. J. R. B. Ellis of Greenbrae, Mrs. Thomas Procter of Belvedere and Mrs. James Jenkins of Kentfield.

Other business on the board's agenda for the 8 p.m. meeting at the district office at Redwood High School includes:

Consideration of revising the option agreement for the Marin City School site to allow the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to maintain and operate buildings on the property until 1962.

Arranging another meeting with Mill Valley city officials on the proposed development of the road involving a portion of Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way adjacent to Tamalpais High School.

A report that five students of the Tamalpais Adult Evening School have met requirements for graduating.

Approving publication of the final draft of the 1959-60 budget approved on June 17, and designation of a public hearing date.

Opening of bids for a tractor-loader, language laboratory equipment, station wagon, and a folding machine for the Tam print shop.

Adoption of a new textbook for current geography.

Check Clearings Total Is Given

Total check clearings of the six Marin offices of the First National Bank in San Rafael were $26,013,000 during the period June 16-30.

The first half of June showed a total of $28,739,000. Each period contained 11 banking days.

Sonoma County Fair To Open Tomorrow

SANTA ROSA—The Sonoma County Fair, third largest in California, opens its 22nd annual run for 10 days here tomorrow.

An extra day of racing is expected to better last year's 173,542 attendance and exceed 1958 total pari-mutuel handle of $2,702,060. A total of 2,648 head of livestock is the most ever assembled for exhibit at a county fair.

West Coast Shows and Foley and Burk again split the dates, the former in for the first five days. A new enclosed rodeo ring this year finally takes all night shows off the race track and clears the way for construction of a new million-dollar-plus grandstand for 1961.

The John Strong Circus, "The Cloudbusters" aerial thrill act, four days and nights of vaudeville, a flower show, three clowns on the grounds, arena polo and a horse show and rodeo round out the attractions.

School Officials Answer Questions On Study Course

"Questions About School Study Course Need Answering."

That's what we said in this space last Friday, suggesting that the County Board of Education and the county superintendent of schools ought to set the record straight with regard to the controversial study course.

We subsequently learned that the chairman of the county board, Mrs. Nancy Rust, already was at work doing just what we suggested and she had enlisted the assistance of the county superintendent, Virgil Hollis.

Here are their joint answers to pertinent questions:

What is this course of study?

The Course of Study, as approved by the County Board of Education on June 8, 1959, consists of three volumes, each covering three grades. It is a guide of areas to be covered, a plan for sequential development of concepts, and a bookful of ideas for teachers. At every grade level it is further divided into the subject areas of Science, Arithmetic, Health, Physical Education, Music, Art, Social Studies (the term used to cover the combined subjects of History, Geography, Civics, Economics, etc.) and Language Arts (the term used to include reading, writing, spelling, speaking and listening.) The Course of Study suggests what children should be taught as they move through the grades and the concepts they should learn; it also suggests examples for teachers to use that will help children learn the suggested subject matter. The purpose is to provide the classroom teachers in every school with a curriculum guide. It does not attempt to regulate the freedom of teachers to add to the content nor does it try to require all teachers to do exactly the same things at the same time.

Why is there a new course of study?

The law requires that the County Board of Education in each county in California adopt a course of study prior to July 1st of each year. Marin County has been using the same course of study since approximately 1943, with a few revisions throughout that time. In 1953, the County Board of Education, recognizing the need for a more comprehensive revision, appointed a Curriculum Steering Committee of about 35 members, composed of classroom teachers, principals and administrators from districts throughout the county, County Staff Members, PTA representatives and school board members. The Board believed that major revisions were imperative due to growth in Marin County, changing technological development and advances in materials for classroom use. For example, the space age and its implications may require a different approach in science and social studies, and a curriculum guide needs to be flexible enough to incorporate changes as they occur. The old course of study devoted one and a half pages to science for all eight grades. With the current emphasis on the need for an understanding of the methods of science, the influence of science on human life, and the main scientific facts concerning the nature of the world and of man, the science section in the new guide is far more complete.

How was the guide developed?

The Curriculum Steering Committee, with the advice of the county staff, selected chairmen and consultants for each of the subject areas, usually classroom teachers from one of the school districts, to serve on a Production Committee, and additional members were recommended or volunteered. These committees met to discuss and put into written form their ideas of what the scope and sequence of each subject-area should be, and how it might be taught. The committees were aided by the use of consultants from Stanford, U.C., and San Francisco State College. Although every committee may have gone at it a little differently, most of them developed a guide using these general headings: Concepts; Areas of Experience; Methods and Techniques; Ideas for Classroom Use; and Other Teaching Aids.

Each Production Committee Chairman reported at the monthly meeting of the Curriculum Steering Committee. When completed and approved by the Steering Committee, each section of the guide was sent to about 200 teachers throughout the county for their additional suggestions.

When the recommendations from these 200 teachers had been received and worked on by the production committees, the guide went back to the Steering Committee for further review, and approval. It was also presented to the district superintendents, and was sent to every classroom teacher in Marin County. Copies were also available in the County Office for any interested person to study. At this point the Guide was presented to the County Board of Education, who devoted eight board meetings to the discussion of the various sections of the guide and, in addition, had them reviewed by their own curriculum committee. The Board thus had the opportunity to study, comment upon and understand all the guides before formal presentation for giving final approval on June 8.

Why is the guide desired by September 1?

The various districts in Marin County have expressed their desire to have the guides available for in-service education meetings with their teachers prior to the opening of school in September. The County Board and the County Superintendent agreed that this was imperative. The production committees and the consultants in the County Office recognized the validity of this request and worked rapidly to complete the guide prior to the July 1st deadline for approval by the County Board. (The Education Code states "County Board of Education shall prescribe, on or before the first day of July each year, the course of study in and for each grade of the elementary schools of the county for the ensuing year." (Section 10321). It adds "Such a course of study shall not apply to elementary schools in cities governed by city board of education" (Section 10322). It clarifies the requirement for unified school districts thus: "Whenever a unified school district has within its boundaries a chartered city or a city of the first to fifth classes, inclusive, or whenever the average daily attendance of a unified school district is fifteen hundred or more, for all purposes the district shall be deemed a city school district governed by a city board of education and the governing board thereof shall be deemed a city board of education." (Section 4629). Consequently, all elementary districts in the county except San Rafael and Novato will base their instructional program around the County Course of Study.

One of the unique aspects of public education in the entire United States is the local control of the schools expressed by the people through their local school boards. The County Board of Education and the County Superintendent wish to enhance this position of local boards in curriculum matters. However, there are certain state laws which conflict with complete local autonomy and which place the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent in a compromising position. Therefore, the County Board and Superintendent are offering a curriculum guide to the local school districts which should ensure to each child instruction in certain minimum essentials as required by law, but which also encourages local districts to implement the course of study in the best way possible in each school district. Thus the districts exercise their rights to have their local school boards make some of the policy decisions (within legal limitations) regarding the courses their children shall be taught and how they wish to teach them. As a matter of fact, some of the districts, with the permission of the County Board, will add other courses such as typing, foreign languages, homemaking, shop, and others. Novato and San Rafael are examples of districts that, although they have participated in its development, wish to postpone full use of the new course of study until they have developed details to assist their own teachers and supplement various areas.

What is the cost?

The cost of printing 3000 volumes (1000 complete sets) of the guide by a local union printer (R. G. Fontant & Son, San Anselmo) is $10,534.76. This was the lowest estimate for printing.

When did the board authorize the course of study?

When the Course of Study was approved unanimously by the Board on June 8, unanimous approval was also given to print it as soon as possible in order to have it available before the opening of school next fall. Dr. Hollis suggested a postponement of approval until June 23 so that he could have additional copies duplicated, during the next week, to give board members and others further opportunity to study the final guide, and to assure availability of study copies before printing could be completed. Some of the board questioned the physical possibility of reproducing the 550 pages in a week, felt study copies might be achieved by requesting additional galley proofs, and that time pressure required starting to print at once. Early the next week, Dr. Hollis phoned the board members and recommended that R. G. Fontana & Son of San Anselmo, who had submitted the lowest estimate, be authorized to start work. The board informally approved this.

When will the Course of Study be finished?

At the board's meeting on June 23, Mr. Blackmore, Administrative Assistant in the County Office, presented the Board with copies of a schedule of the estimated cost of printing the course of study, and gave a brief explanation of it. He stated that formal order to print could not be given until the board approved conditions of the contract. The schedule showed that in order to obtain all three volumes of the guides by September 1, additional charges for overtime, amounting to approximately $3850 would be necessary. He indicated that this figure was the average for printers consulted. Dr. Hollis expressed concern over this total high cost, and that although it was imperative that the school districts have the course of study by Setember 1, the decision to assume the additional cost must be made by the board and that he had reservations about recommending it to them.

In discussion the board reviewed the funds available, and stressing the need of the districts, approved by a vote of 6 to 1 a written contract for printing the course of study, including the overtime premium for delivery by September 1st and that a penalty clause be inserted.

Why were alternate methods of duplicating the guides discussed?

In negotiating the written contract, Dr. Hollis learned that the printer would not be able to deliver all three volumes of the guide by September 1st nor would Fontana accept any penalty; and that there had been a misunderstanding of the schedule submitted at the board's June 23rd meeting. Even with overtime, only two volumes could be completed by that date, with the third not ready until October 15th. Therefore, Dr. Hollis called board members to discuss alternative methods of producing the guides for delivery before the opening of school.

At the board's regular meeting July 7, Dr. Hollis submitted to the board a listing of costs to multilith the course of study in the County Office instead of having Fontana print it. Following the phone calls of the previous week, several of the board members had checked into costs on their own. It was found that the printing bid was not exorbitant for a job of this size. Another member had obtained time and cost factors on multilithing from a large San Francisco firm with wide experience in estimating these factors in their own office. Board members pointed out that the recommendation all the way through the various presentations had advised printing as the best method to reproduce a guide that was expected to be used constantly over a number of years, and that a verbal contract was in effect with Fontana & Son, and that there would be severance costs with them or even the possibility of a breach of contract suit. However, Dr. Hollis believed that satisfactory arrangements could be made with Fontana & Son even though a contract release cost had not been obtained, and that he would be able to have it multilithed in the office before September 1st for approximately $1700.00. Everyone agreed that multilithing would be less expensive, but some of the board believed Dr. Hollis's cost estimate was much lower than actual expenses would run and feared that obligations already incurred with Fontana would push the total cost close to the contract amount. Therefore, on a 5 to 2 vote, the board authorized Dr. Hollis to sign a contract with R. G. Fontana & Son for $10,534.76 to print the County Course of Study with the following delivery dates: Volume 1 on August 1, 1959 or earlier; Volume 2 on September 15 or earlier; and Volume 3 on November 1 or earlier. This contract was signed on July 8, 1959.

In order to provide the school districts with copies of Volumes 2 and 3 of the guide in time for their in-service meetings, without the large overtime charge required by the printer, Dr. Hollis is giving consideration to and making cost estimates of duplicating in his office enough copies of these two volumes for the teachers' use until the printed volumes are ready.

What happens now?

The major concern of both the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent of Schools is the improvement of instruction for the boys and girls who live in Marin County. There is a genuine need for the new course of study to help achieve this goal. The details on how to produce it have been settled and now both the County Board and the County Superintendent will make every effort to complete the production as rapidly as possible.

Volunteer Firemen Thanked For Aid

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

On behalf of Mrs. Holladay and myself I wish to express our thanks to the many volunteers who helped in fighting the fire which involved our house on Greenwood Beach, June 30.

It is indeed gratifying to realize that there are so many public spirited citizens who are willing to help their neighbors.

We sincerely appreciate everyone's cooperation.

Loggers Threaten Our Scenic Assets

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In the contest between the forces laboring to save our finest scenic assets and those determined to erase them, fire may easily have the last word again, and we all lose.

It happened next door to Muir Woods and partly burned a redwood area just-logged yet publicly long known to be within the published bounds of land the State has indicated intent to buy and preserve for all. Fire almost cost us Muir Woods in addition. Logging should cease here immediately or it might cost Muir Woods and more.

Secondly, drive along Highway 1, stop and park, then look west at the rapidly expanding mess in the Douglas fir forest. This is the same forest stated to be an integral part of the admittedly finest National Seashore Park proposed anywhere along the entire Pacific Coast.

Then please recall what just occurred beside Muir Woods.

Please consider this for your "What Our Readers Say" column.

Copy Editor Cleans Out Desk, News Writing Gems Come To Light

IN THE ABSENCE of anything else to write about this week (that's the way we always write this thing) we will pass along to you a couple of nifties that came over the I-J's news service teletypes.

We owe these to our copy editor Dick Layman, who has been cleaning out his desk preparatory to moving to the news editor's desk which he is taking over.

In the process of cleaning it out, he found these:

From Associated Press: "OAKLAND — In what investigators believe was an attempt to murder a sleeping couple, someone slipped into an Oakland apartment early today, poured gasoline over them and set them on fire."

We are inclined to believe it, too.

And then there was United Press, bobbing up with this insert for the story of the death of comedian Oliver Hardy:

"Death, attributed to the effects of a stroke Sept. 12, 1956 left Hardy virtually completely paralyzed."

CLINTON T. DUFFY, warden of San Quentin Prison from 1940 to 1951, is moving into a new home in Greenbrae this week.

The home, at 197 Corte Damon on a hillside site, commands an excellent view of—among other things — San Quentin Prison.

KEN MOLINO, former I-J photographer and now a commercial lensman in San Rafael, is not above doing a bit of press-agentry to get his name and new business mentioned in the paper.

He dropped off an item the other day telling of photo contest prizes won by people who have studied photography in his class at College of Marin.

Molino is a dandy photographer, but leaves a bit to be desired as a press agent.

His handout neglected to mention the name of the commercial photographer-instructor — Molino.

On second thought, maybe he's not so bad at that. He got his name in here one way or another. We might as well go whole hog and put his address in, too: 1203 Third street, San Rafael.

DURING DISCUSSIONS by the board of supervisors over pay raises for county employees, Supervisor Bill Gnoss mentioned that quite a few people who thought the county aides ought to get bigger raises had called him and mentioned, pointedly, that they had read where supervisors got a $100 a month boost by act of the recent legislature.

Gnoss, sounding kind of aggrieved, pointed out that they had better read the small print, too. The supervisorial raises don't start until the beginning of a new term of office, which in Gnoss' case will be January, 1963, if he seeks and wins re-election.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon Could Sew Up Nomination Right Now But Refuses To Do So

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon is driving his highest-level political supporters mildly frantic.

The reason is they are absolutely convinced that fairly, firmly and save against later challenge, they can lock up the 1960 Republican Presidential nomination and deliver it to him with iron-clad commitments tonight — but the Vice President won't let them.

To most non-politicians and to some politicians this must sound boastful or wishful or like some kind of slight-of-hand.

THIS IS WHAT they are talking about:

The minimum nominating majority at the 1960 Republican national convention will be 663 delegates.

Mr. Nixon's influential advocates are in intimate contact with the Republican leaders of every state in the union — except New York — and their reports add up to a maximum of 1,000 delegates and a minimum of 800 delegates whose backing at Los Angeles next July can, they say, be unequivocally pledged.

The basis on which these pledges are said to be tree-ripened and ready to be harvested by the lightest breath of a breeze is fourfold: (1) Mr. Nixon has battled their battles and campaigned in the Republican party's campaigns in every part of the country in two Presidential and four Congressional elections and they honorably feel in his debt; they look upon this kind of service to the party as earning due-bills of political return support which they would like to honor not tardily but soon, not later but now; (2) they feel that Mr. Nixon would make the kind of candidate and President they want; (3) they would like to avoid any possibility of a lacerating, last-ditch fight between Nixon and Rockefeller so that they can concentrate for a good twelve months on preparing for the election, organization-wise and fund-wise, (4) They are confident he can be elected.

IF THESE estimates are correct — and there is a good deal of evidence to support them—then what really stands in the way of these Nixon advocates collecting on these "due bills" with, in effect, signatures on the dotted line?

Something does stand in the way — and it is Mr. Nixon himself. If these "due bills" are to be cashed and unequivocal commitments obtained affecting enough delegates to guarantee his nomination no matter what, only the Vice President can say the word that will do it. He would have to be unequivocal himself. He would have to say: "Yes, I am a candidate and I would like to see the matter settled just as soon and just as definitely as possible."

But Mr. Nixon will not make this statement — and this is what drives his highest-level and closest supporters mildly frantic. He refrains from making it, in my judgment, not because he is not a candidate or being coy, not because he does not want and does not expect to be nominated. He refuses to make this statement because he is taking a longer and, I believe, a wiser view than his nail-it-down-now advocates.

The Vice President's controlling views are these:

That it is impossible to separate in the public mind the campaign for the nomination from the campaign for the election.

That is going to be hard enough for the Republican nominee to win in 1960 without making it harder by allowing either the appearance or the substance of high-pressure tactics to surround the nomination.

That the Republican leaders and the delegates ought not to try to freeze the nomination in advance of the convention.

That if Mr. Nixon can't get the nomination in an open convention without trying to pre-empt it months ahead he had just as soon not have it; or, perhaps more precisely, he is entirely prepared to take and prefers to take that risk.

ALL THIS is what Mr. Nixon's most politically powerful advocates are telling the Vice President and what he is telling them.

The fact that they are eager to sew up the nomination so soon suggests anxiety over a late-starting, snowballing Rockefeller. If Mr. Nixon is worried, he doesn't show it.

YANKEES PROTECT LEAD; NIP HELD AT PLATE —Woody Held of the Cleveland Indians is cut down at plate in eighth inning of game won by Yankees 1 to 0 in Yankee Stadium last night. Ryne Duren, Yankee pitcher, takes throw from catcher Yogi Berra to tag out Held. Held attempted to score from third when Duren's pitch to Elmer Valo (17) bounded out of Berra's glove and rolled back of the plate. (AP Wirephoto)

THE DANDY YANKEE

Duren Unscored On In 17 Games

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

What's wrong with the New York Yankees? Take your pick. What's right with the champs? Only one answer. Ryne Duren.

The big, right-handed reliever has whitewashed Yank ills, you might say, with a string of 32⅔ scoreless innings in 17 games since April 30. And he hasn't piled up that streak, longest in the majors this season, against any pushovers.

Fact is, a third of the string has been run up against Cleveland, and Tuesday night he paired with a tired Whitey Ford for a five-hit, 1-0 victory over the Indians that trimmed their American League lead to mere percentage points. It also halted the Yankees' skid at five games and left them 6½ games behind in fourth.

While Duren was nailing it with a two-inning, one- hit mop-up capped by three strikeouts in the ninth, Chicago's second-place White Sox closed within .002 percentage points of Cleveland with a 7-3 victory at Boston.

Third-place Baltimore moved within four games of the lead by splitting a twi-night double-header with last place Kansas City, winning 3-1 after being blanked 1-0 by Ray Herbert's four-hit pitching. Washington tumbled Detroit to fifth, 4-2.

The Yankees, now 6-6 against the Indians for the year, beat a wild Herb Score (9-7) although they managed just four singles. Score walked eight, two ahead of Bobby Richardson's two-out single that scored the run.

Ford, now 9-6 with Duren's seventh save in the shutout string, also allowed four singles. Working with only three days rest, the little lefty walked five, all in the first three innings, and struck out four.

HELD HALTED

The Indians gave Duren, who has fanned 43 in his streak, a tough time in the eighth when the Yankees messed up a pair of double-play balls after Tito Francona's leadoff single. An error and a wild pitch put the tying run on third with two out, but when Woody Held tried to score after a pitch got past catcher Yogi Berra, he was nailed at the plate on Berra's toss to Duren.

Billy Pierce won his 10th for a .500 record as the White Sox won their fourth in a row. But he was tagged for home runs by Don Buddin and Jackie Jensen and needed Turk Lown's relief for the last two outs against the Red Sox, who had won five straight. Ted Wills (2-6) lost it in a three-run fourth when Chicago overhauled a 2-1 Boston lead on an error and rookie Jim McAnany's two-run single.

Herbert (7-7) ,who pitched his first major league shutout in his last start, ran his scoreless inning streak to 18. The A's had only five hits and were blanked until the ninth, when Harry Chiti's popfly double beat Billy O'Dell (5-7). The Orioles came back on a five-hitter by Milt Pappas (10-4) and Willy Tasby's homer off loser Johnny Kucks (3-5). Roger Maris homered for the A's.

Rookie Bob Allison hit his 23rd home run and Roy Sievers smacked his 11th for the Senators, who made four of their five hits good for extra bases while edging within a half-game of the Tigers. A walk and consecutive triples by Hal Naragon and Billy Consolo beat Frank Lary (9-7) in the fourth. Pete Ramos (10-8) won it with an eight-hitter.

Hillsdale Vs. Round Table Race Is Off

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scratch the proposed match race between Round Table and Hillsdale.

Aimed at helping settle "Horse of the Year" honors, the head-to-head meeting of the two wealthy contenders was shelved yesterday at least for the present, by C. W. Smith, Hillsdale's owner.

Smith—emphasizing that he is not afraid of Round Table—said he decided his 4-year-old colt needed a summer vacation.

Hillsdale, the year's leading money-winner with $432,500 in the bank, has run 10 times this year, winning eight races and finishing second twice.

Smith said he wants his horse in the peak of condition when he meets Round Table, the all-time leading money winner who has won $1,452,639 during his career.

"It has been our pattern," said Smith, "to race Hillsdale a couple of months and give him a month or so off."

The possibility remains that Hillsdale and Round Table can be brought together for a fall meeting.

Skidmore Stopped By Mackin In Richmond Fight

RICHMOND (AP) — Middleweight Lyle Mackin of Oakland, scored a second round knockout over Frank Skidmore of San Francisco last night.

It was Mackin's third straight kayo and 16th win in 17 fights.

Mackin, 146, dropped the 149-pound Skidmore twice in the second round. As Skidmore wobbled to his feet the second time, Referee Tony Bosich stopped the bout at 2:27 and called it a knockout.

The preliminaries:

Morris Duran, 134, San Francisco, outpointed Al Carroll, 131, Stockton, 6.

Al Vega, 118, Los Angeles, outpointed Stan Davis, 122, Stockton, 6.

Eddie Moore, 134, Oakland, outpointed Charlie Robinson, 133, San Francisco, 4.

Charlie Pyatt, 137, San Francisco, stopped Ray Bett, 140, San Francisco, 3.

Chandler In Blast At Major Leagues, Frick

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Taking his baseball bat in hand, Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler thumped big league baseball and some of its leaders yesterday.

"So far as leadership is concerned, baseball is bankrupt" said the Kentucky executive on the eighth anniversary of his retirement as baseball commissioner.

"Baseball liquidated the office of commissioner when it refused to renew my contract, and got just what the owners wanted when they named pliable Frick," he said referring to Commissioner Ford Frick.

Chandler also blasted National League President Warren C. Giles and minor league head George M. Trautman.

"Frick and Trautman and Giles are just time-servers, all working for big salaries and big expense accounts, and accomplishing nothing," Chandler elaborated.

He said Frick and Trautman are more interested in pleasing the major league owners than in helping baseball, the fans and players.

FRICK WON'T FEUD

Frick declined to become involved in a feud with his predecessor.

"He has been completely discredited long ago," Frick commented.

Chandler, however, charged that baseball no longer belongs to the fans but "belongs to those selfish men who own the major league clubs—and they will ruin it eventually."

Chandler said baseball hit a new low last week in passing a ruling that allowed inter-league trades without getting waivers.

"Frick was against it, but that made no difference to the owners. It just shows how much power Frick has. I wouldn't have permitted it, no matter what the owners wanted."

"If baseball is to survive—and I think it's headed for destruction—you must have local rivalries.

"The three-league answer is to set up one circuit on the east coast, one in the midwest and one in the far west. It would cut traveling expenses and set up rivalries which do not now exist."

Palacio 2nd In Publinx Qualifying

Mat Palacio, personable auto salesman from San Rafael, started out in match play today in quest of the National Public Links golf championship in Denver.

The 43-year-old former California amateur champion appeared "up" for the gruelling national test as he wound up in a three-way tie for second in qualifying rounds yesterday. Mat barely missed a tie for medal honors when his 10-foot putt on the 18th green lipped the cup. He settled for a 69, duplicating his opening round score for a total of 138.

The qualifying medal was won by defending champion Dan Sikes Jr., of the University of Florida with a 69-68—137. He canned a 12-foot side-hill putt on the 18th green yesterday to shake Palacio.

Tied with Palacio, who, incidentally, was celebrating his 15th wedding anniversary, were Rick Casabella of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. Donald Keith, San Diego.

Johnny's Quint Wins Again In Drake Basketball

Bill Buffalow tanked 14 points and Bill Anderson followed with 10 last night as they paced Johnny's Service to a 38-19 rout of San Rafael in the high school division of the Drake Summer Basketball League. The win was Johnny's second without defeat.

In other games Marin Catholic, paced by Ron Blum's 13 points, topped Schaefer's Sports Shop 40-34 and Tamalpais trounced Maggi's Florists, 48-26. Hinky Kreuter and Ray Edwards with 13 and 12 points led the Tamites.

Crucial Game In Gallinas League

The first place Red Sox and second place Merchants clash tonight in a crucial Gallinas Valley Little League game at Castro Field, Santa Venetia, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

The Red Sox lead the standings with five wins and one loss while the Merchants have a 4-2 record, tied with the Beavers. Other teams' records are Odd Fellow and Lions each 2-4 and Redwood Sports Shop 1-5.

Rigney Still Gives Giants Good Chance For Pennant

S. F. Pilot Sees 4-Team Race Right To The Wire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manager Bill Rigney said today his front-running San Francisco Giants have a good shot at the National League pennant because "we've got a young club and six pitchers who are pitching like hell."

"But," Rigney added, "we'll play one game at a time. It's going to be a race right down to the wire with us, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh.

"And don't forget, the other clubs can be just as tough on any given day. They're all trying to get better. You'll see a lot of good baseball now."

Rain washed out a scheduled twi-night double-header between the Giants and Philadelphia yesterday. They'll play a single game tonight and a twi-night double-header tomorrow night.

The pitchers Rigney referred to were Mike McCormick, Johnny Antonelli, Sam Jones, Eddie Fisher, Jack Sanford and Stu Miller.

"The way our schedule is right now," Rigney remarked, "our club will be playing practically every day. We've got a young group and if they keep their strength—hell, we've got a chance."

BULLPEN PROBLEM

The manager declared that although his starters have been coming through, the bullpen's been thin. "We'll need some help too from Gordon Jones, Al Worthington and Billy Muffett," he said. "I've had to use starters in relief and I'd rather not do that."

There was one other thing Rigney was looking forward to.

"One of those .400 months a certain center fielder is noted for."

You guessed it. Willie Mays!

The double-header marked the fifth and sixth games the Giants have been rained out of here in the past two seasons.

McCormick, who shut out the Phils three times already this season, opposes Robin Roberts, one of the three Philly pitchers to beat the Giants in the nine games played so far.

McCormick's record is 8-7, Roberts' 7-8.

Law Keeping Pirates In Thick Of Race

By Associated Press

When your two aces have won only four games and have lost 16 by the middle of July, there oughta be a law. For Pittsburgh, there is — Vern Law.

A year ago, the Pirates finished a sudden second in the National League race, with Bob Friend a 22-game winner and young George Witt winning his last seven in a row.

At the moment, Friend has a 4-10 record, Witt is 0-6. Yet the Bucs are fourth, just 2½ games shy of first, and it has been Law's job as a starting pitcher plus Roy Face's magnificent relief performance that has put them there.

Law won his 10th, a total bettered only by Face's 14 on the Pittsburgh staff, with a seven-hitter that beat Los Angeles 9-1 last night. It was the big righthander's fifth success in six decisions and it pushed the Pirates within one game of the third-place Dodgers.

First-place San Francisco gained a full-game lead although rained out at Philadelphia. Second-place Milwaukee lost 10-5 to the Chicago Cubs. St. Louis ended Don Newcombe's winning streak at eight by beating Cincinnati 6-5 in 11 innings.

LOSES SHUTOUT

Law (10-5) lost his shutout in the sixth when Charlie Neal doubled and Wally Moon singled. But he was home free from the start when seven consecutive hits — beginning with Dick Groat's one-out double and a triple by Bob Skinner—gave the Bucs five first-inning runs against Johnny Podres and Clem Labine.

Three Milwaukee errors gave the Cubs four unearned runs, three of them scoring in a four-run, tie-breaking seventh inning capped by a two-run single from winning reliever Bill Henry (6-4). Lee Walls and Earl Averill homered for the Cubs. Walls' came with a man on in the first, ending Juan Pizarro's shutout string at 14 innings. Hank Aaron hit his 24th home run for Milwaukee. Joey Jay (3-6) was the loser.

The Cardinals rapped newcombe (9-5) for 17 hits, handing him his first defeat since May 10 on singles by Ray Katt, Don Blasingame and Joe Cunningham after Stan Musial's eighth home run had tied it 5-all in the sixth. Winning reliever Lindy McDaniel (7-10), who pitched the last two frames, and rookie Marshall Bridges blanked the Reds on five hits over the last 8⅔ innings. Cincinnati chased starter Larry Jackson in a four-run third, triggered by Frank Robinson's three-run, 23rd homer, his fifth in five days.

40-LB. SALMON CAUGHT BY MARIN ANGLER

H. H. Paulsen of Santa Venetia went fishing yesterday morning and came back last night with 60 pounds of salmon.

One of 10 anglers aboard the party boat "Blue Fin," skippered by John McKeon, Paulsen caught a whopping 40-pound Chinook along with smaller ones of 12 and 8 pounds as every member of the party limited out in waters near the Farallon Islands. The 40-pounder, which will win Paulsen a prize in the Schenley Sportsmen's Club, put up a 25-minute battle.

Gets Quick Action

TUCSON Ariz. (AP)— Reaction to Supt. of Schools Robert Morrow's suggestion for a 10-month school term was quick. He was hanged in effigy a few blocks from Tucson High School.

SOLTAU QUITS 49ERS AFTER NINE SEASONS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gordy Soltau, the San Francisco 49ers' place-kicking specialist and the National Football League's third ranking scorer, is quitting professional football after nine seasons with the 49ers.

Soltau will team with Tommy Harmon, former Michigan great, in broadcasting 49er games televised by the Columbia Broadcasting System next season.

"It's tough to hang them up after nine seasons," Soltau said yesterday. "But I believe I've received a great opportunity in the broadcasting field."

Soltau plans to continue his work as a sales executive with a San Francisco stationary firm. He lives in Palo Alto with his wife, Nancy, and three children.

The departure of Soltau leaves the 49ers without an experienced placekicker. The job is expected to be filled by Bobby Luna, defensive regular in 1955 returning after Army service, and Tommy Davis, rookie halfback from Louisiana State.

In his nine 49er seasons Soltau, a collegiate end star at Minnesota, scored 644 points on 25 touchdowns, 284 conversions, and 70 field goals.

Don Hutson of Green Bay tops NFL scoring records with 825 points and Lou Groza of Cleveland ranks second with 694 points.

"I've enjoyed my association with the 49ers," said Soltau, "and I feel fortunate that I'll still have a close contact with the game."

Presidio '9' Ties For Lead In S. R. Softball Circuit

Presidio Army Base defeated Sohner Tree Service, 4-1, and Hamilton Field's 28th Air Division bombarded Pacific Telephone, 12-0, in last night's Class A double-header in the San Rafael Recreation Department Men's Softball League at Albert Park.

The Presidio victory gives the Army nine a 2-0 second round record and moves the soldiers into a first place tie with the idle Novato Merchants.

Presidio scored once in the first inning and then iced the game with a three-run rally in the fourth with catcher Gene Viviani's single the key blow.

Jack Phillips accounted for Sohner's lone run when he blasted a fourth-inning homer.

Presidio first-sacker Jim Willingham stabbed Tom Orovich's liner with the bases loaded in the sixth and turned it into a game-saving double play. A foot either way and the score would have been knotted.

THREAT ERASED

Sohner's threatened again in the seventh when Bert Coffey and Earl Beyer hit back-to-back singles, but Presidio hurler Lee Gascon put down the uprising to keep the Soldiers in the unbeaten ranks for the second round. (Presidio and Hamilton Field meet at 2 p.m. Sunday at Albert Park in a playoff for the first round championship.)

Jim White with a triple and single and Willingham with a pair of singles paced the Presidio hitting attack while Phillips' homer and single led the Sohner assault.

In the second game, Hamilton's Howie Miller hurled a two-hit shutout and struck out 16 batters to keep the Jets in the running for the second round crown.

Shortstop Art Marthallar with two doubles and a single and center fielder Jim Hibbard with a two-run homer led the Hamilton hitting parade.

Jim Menthroe and Ron Jerome collected the PT&T safeties.

North Bay Lumber Team Wins Title

Twin Cities Little League second half series championship was won last night by North Bay Lumber Co. in a 4-3 extra-inning victory over Larkspur Lumber Co.

North Bay's Dick Newberry and Larkspur's Jack Baglietto pitched a six-inning 3-3 duel. They were relieved by Tom Gootherts and Dennis Smith, respectively. In the bottom of the seventh, with one away and the bases loaded, Newberry drove in Jeff Huelett with the winning run and the championship.

TRANS-PACIFIC YACHT RACE

Goodwill First To Finish; Chubasco Leads On H'Cap

HONOLULU (AP) — The 161-foot schooner Goodwill crossed the finish line first in the rain last night in the 21st Trans-Pacific yacht race.

The big schooner, which broke her topmast five days ago, and mended it to continue, covered the 2,225 miles from Los Angeles in unofficial time of 10 days, 12 hours, 16 minutes and 15 seconds.

Although the Goodwill finished first in the fleet of 41 starters, she stood no chance of ending up the actual winner because of her heavy time handicap.

The Goodwill carried top handicap of 12 hours, 6 minutes added to her elapsed time while all the other boats in the race received lesser handicaps to be deducted from their crossing times.

The actual winner of the sailing classic may not be decided for a week.

The Goodwill is owned by Ralph Larrabee of Huntington Park and carried a crew of 52, largest in the race.

Thousands of yachting enthusiasts, well wishers and friends of the crews lined the shore at the finish as the Goodwill's white sails passed before the huge searchlight beam on Diamond Head that marked the finish line.

Families of many of the crews flew here from the west coast to be on hand for the finish and take part in a week of revelry.

The Goodwill crossed the searchlight beam at 9:16 p.m. Hawaii standard time (11:16 p.m. Tuesday PDT).

Second in the fleet position and with a good chance of winding up the actual winner was the 66-foot yawl Chubasco, owned by Arnold Haskell of Newport Beach.

It was roughly 60 miles out from Honolulu when the Goodwill finished.

Other boats in the race were strung out up to 600 miles from Honolulu.

The last boat was not expected until next week.

The third position was the 75-foot schooner Constellation, owned and skippered by 29-year-old Sally Blair Ames of Beverly Hills, the only woman skipper in the race.

In crossing first, Larrabee failed to break the elapsed time record of 9 days, 15 hours, 5 minutes established by the ketch Morning Star in 1955.

The race got under way at noon July 4 from San Pedro with 41 starters.

The 72-foot yawl Escapade from Newport Beach, owned by Baldwin M. Baldwin of Pasadena, was due in today along with the 66-foot cutter Nam Sang of Los Angeles, owned by A. B. Robbs Jr. of Phoenix.

GIANT LANTERN

Observers perched along the highway around Diamond Head said the Goodwill glowed like a giant lantern as she crossed the beam of the finish.

She flew only six sails and found it difficult to fill these because of weak winds near shore.

She was not carrying a Spinaker because of the loss of the main topmast last Thursday.

Sailing master Don Douglas radioed in advance that a tug would be needed. The schooner's engine could not be used, he said, because the propeller was removed from the drive shaft for the race.

State Boating Act Not Yet In Effect

While California's first uniform boating bill for recreational craft has been signed by Governor Edmund G. Brown, it has not yet become law.

The measure, known as Assembly Bills 828 and 830 while before the legislature and finally amended together as AB 828, will not go into effect until it obtains the final approval of the Secretary of the Treasury in Washington.

The secretary's approval of such legislation is required under the terms of the Federal Boating Act of 1958.

AIMED AT UNIFORMITY

The California bill is aimed at establishing uniformity for safety, equipment, operation, boat numbering, and liability of owners throughout the state.

Generally AB 828 adopted many of the established federal regulations which have been enforceable only upon waters classified as navigable.

For lack of any such regulations on the so-called "non-navigable" waters, 26 counties have passed local ordinances with varying provisions, thus compounding the confusion.

One of the prime provisions of the new state law will be a requirement that all undocumented vessels not exempt within the act must obtain a number for their bow. After April 1, 1960, effective date for the boat numbering, there can be only one number on a vessel.

Whether you have a U.S. Coast Guard number on your boat now or not, if your boat is not specifically exempt from numbering under the act, you will get a new number on that date. Boats exempt from state numbering are all documented vessels; boats propelled solely by oars, paddles, or electric motors of 10 horsepower or less; boats 8 feet or less in length propelled solely by sail; and special government vessels as outlined in the act.

FROM VEHICLE OFFICES

Pending secretary of the treasury endorsement, the act states that the original certificate of number, renewals, replacements, and change of address or ownership certificates must be obtained from any motor vehicle office in the state. The U.S. Coast Guard will not issue numbers except to special vessels under other federal law, after April 1, 1960.

Owner liability for injury or damage caused by negligent operation of the vessel holds a limit of $10,000 for the death or injury of one person in any one accident and $20,000 for the death or injury of more than one person in any one incident. There is a $10,000 limitation for damage of property.

'Framework' Dates For Hunting Seasons Released By U. S. Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Fish and Wildlife Service yesterday announced revisions in bag limits and adjustments in seasons for some areas in releasing the framework regulations under which states may select 1959-60 hunting dates for doves, rails, gallinues, woodcock, and bandtailed pigeons.

The service also announced migratory bird hunting seasons in Alaska.

The service specified these outside dates for state hunting seasons: mourning doves, Sept. 1 through Jan. 15; rails and gallinues, Sept. 1 through Jan. 10, woodcock, Oct. 1 to Jan. 15; and band-tailed pigeons, Sept. 1 through Jan. 10.

The various state game departments may select their own hunting seasons within the limits set by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

The principal changes in regulations this year include a reduction of 20 days in the rail season for the Mississippi and Central flyways on account of the drought; an increase of one day in the white-winged dove season in Texas in view of a substantial increase in this year's white-winged dove breeding population in that state; a reduction in the bag and possession limits on sora; and a reduction in daily bag and possession limits on brant in Alaska because of a significant decline in the brant population in the Pacific flyway.

Detailed regulations for the hunting of migratory waterfowl, coots, and Wilson's snipe in continental United States will be issued in August.

The basic regulations cover the four flyway regions in the United States. Flyways are the migratory routes of the birds.

Regulations by species:

RAILS AND GALLINUES—Open seasons are prescribed only for the Atlantic, Mississippi, and Central flyways.

WOODCOCK—Season length remains at 40 days and the daily bag and possession limit at 4 and 8.

MOURNING DOVES — Since the 1959 dove breeding population is about the same as in 1958, regulations will remain the same as last year. Within the Sept. 1-Jan. 15 framework, all states east of the Mississippi River and Arkansas and Louisiana, may submit recommendations for hunting seasons that conform to the following conditions: (a) hunting only between the hours of noon to sunset; (b) 65 consecutive half-days; or (c) two periods totaling 65 half-days.

For all states west of the Mississippi River (exclusive of Arkansas and Louisiana, and except Texas as explained under regulations for white-winged doves), the 1959 season will be 50 full days, the same as in 1958.

Possession limit on mourning doves throughout the country, except in California and New Mexico, will be 20 after the first day of the season with the daily bag limit remaining at 10 —the same as in 1958.

California is being offered the same option as last year: (a) a daily bag limit of 10 mourning doves or 10 white-winged doves or 10 in the aggregate of both kinds, with possession limit of 20 singly or in the aggregate; or (b) a daily bag and possession limit of mourning and white-winged doves of 10, singly or in the aggregate of both kinds.

Because of its size, Texas again will be permitted to recommend three separate mourning dove seasons on the same basis as last year which includes the provision that hunting will be continued to the period of noon to sunset. Texas, therefore, can select seasons of 50 half-days for each of three geographical areas.

WHITE-WINGED DOVES — Where a white-winged dove season is prescribed, in Arizona, California, and New Mexico, it will conform to the mourning dove season in these states. A substantial increase occurred in this year's white-winged dove breeding population in Texas, which permits three alternate days for hunting this species in that state, with the same bag and possession limits and shooting hours as last year. In Texas, the daily bag limit on mourning and white-winged doves is 10 singly or in the aggregate of both kinds, and possession limit is 20. In Arizona the daily bag limit is 10 mourning doves and 25 white-winged doves, and the possession limit is 10 mourning doves and 25 white-winged doves.

BAND-TAILED PIGEONS — Regulations for this species will remain the same as last year. Outside dates in two areas of California and in Oregon and Washington are from Sept. 1 to Jan. 10, with daily bag and possession limit at 6.

WATERFOWL, COOTS, AND WILSON'S SNIPE IN ALASKA —The season, bag and possession limits for Wilson's snipe in Alaska will remain the same as in 1958. The season will be from Sept. 1 through Oct. 15.

The waterfowl and coot seasons in Alaska will run from Sept. 1 to Dec. 5, with bag and possession limits remaining the same as in 1958, except in the case of brant. Because there has been a significant decline in the brant population in the Pacific flyway, the hunting of brant in Alaska during the 1959 season will coincide with the waterfowl season but the bag limit will be two instead of three and the possession limit two instead of six.

Not Through, Insist Ted, Stan The Man

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—If Ted Williams and Stan Musial, two of the greatest hitters of our time, decide to call it quits at the end of the 1959 season, it will not be because they feel they no longer can hit big league pitching.

The two future Hall of Famers made it plain in interviews during the All-Star break in Pittsburgh they are far from washed up, as has been indicated in some quarters.

The 40-year-old Williams, fiercely proud of his reputation as the most feared hitter in baseball for the past 16 years, refused to subscribe to the theory of slowed reflexes, lost timing and inability to cope with with the new crop of fine young pitchers in the American League.

NECK TO BLAME

"Don't believe that hogwash," he said. "It's not the pitchers at all who are responsible for my failure to hit. And it's not my age either. It's that damn neck of mine.

"I don't like to talk about it because those newspaper wise guys will accuse me of alibiing and I've never alibied in my life. But this thing is killing me."

Handicapped by a neck condition which sidelined him the first month of the season, Ted got off to the worst start of his career and was hitting a microscopic .217 at All-Star game time.

"I've been hitting a little better in the past two weeks," he said, "but it's going to be a real battle for me to hit .300."

In 16 seasons, Ted has never hit below .317 and owns a lifetime mark of .349.

Had he given any serious consideration to hanging up his spikes?"

KNOW IN OCTOBER

"Well, I don't want to make any decision now," he said. "It all depends upon this neck of mine. If it comes around, I see no reason to quit. The weather should have a lot to do with it. The doctors seem to think that's all I need—warm weather. I'll let you know in October."

The 38-year-old Musial, a modest, unassuming man devoid of any temperament, laughed at reports he was through as a top-flight hitter.

"This may sound trite," he said, "but honestly I feel better now than I have during the last three years. I can't explain my .270 batting mark though. If I could, I'd probably be hitting higher."

During the last month, Stan has raised his batting average 34 points from .236 to .270. In the same span, Williams boosted his mark from .173 to .217.

"I think I can reach .300 before the end of the season," Musial said. "In fact, I'm confident I will."

VETERANS CHAT

Musial related a conversation he had with Williams the night they were both honored by the Pittsburgh baseball writers for their contribution to baseball over the last two decades.

"We'll both wind up hitting .300," I assured him.

"'You're not too badly off,' Ted said. 'You're within striking distance of .300. But I've got to hit .500 to make it.'"

Actually, Williams has to hit .365 the rest of the season to climb into the .300 circle.

THANKS FOR A WONDERFUL TIME, MISTER

Andrew Edgar, secretary-treasurer of Whitney's Playland-at-the-Beach, receives a token of appreciation from the Ross Little League Dodger champions of 1959 after the boys were treated to a day of fun at the play spot which sponsors their club. Hamburgers, hot dogs, soda pop, and rides were included in the outing. The Ross champs won 15 games and lost but two in chalking up the championship.

Mims Favored Over Benton In TV Fight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — George Benton, an unranked middleweight who is about as popular as the tax collector, will meet seventh-ranked Holly Mims tonight in a nationally-televised 10-rounder.

The bout at Miami Beach Auditorium will be televised (ABC) at 7 p.m. PDT. Mims is a slight favorite at 6-5.

Benton, a 26-year-old fighter from Philadelphia, has been a professional for 10 years, but his record shows he has trouble finding men willing to crawl into the ring with him. He has fought only 41 times during the decade, winning 36 fights and losing 4. One ended in a draw.

Mims, a 30-year-old boxer from Baltimore, has had 69 fights since he became a professional in 1948. He has a 45-18-6 record.

Wife Seasick, So Marathon Swimmer Gives Up Attempt

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Griffith, husky 31-year-old former life guard, gave up near the half way mark last night in his third bid to swim across Lake Michigan from Chicago to Michigan City, Ind., a distance of 36¾ miles.

Griffith, stroking strongly, pulled himself out of the rough waters after 17 miles because his wife, Phyllis, became seasick in an escort boat.

The ex-Marine, an auto salesman, had been in the water about 13½ hours in his attempt to become the first person ever to swim Lake Michigan.

He had been moving steadily at a pace of nearly 1⅓ miles an hour. Griffith had planned to swim the distance in 30 to 40 hours.

Last July 29, a fatigued Griffith came within 10 miles of his goal after a gruelling swim of 28 hours and 35 minutes. In 1957 Griffith hit rough surf and was pulled out after 12½ hours.

Rookie Backs Join Chicago's Regulars

CHICAGO (AP) — First-year Chicago Bears halfbacks Jim Ellis and Don Miller, join veterans in the opening next week of training at St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Ind.

Ellis, a regular on Michigan State's 1953 Rose Bowl team, won three letters at Michigan State, and all-Big Ten and All-America mention in 1951 and 1952.

Miller was with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1954.

The BULLPEN

With JOHN J. CONNOLLY

CONNOLLY

Go swipe the kid's crayon and make a big fat circle around this date: Monday, July 20, 1959.

That is the date that our S.F. Giants return home from their current road trip.

And IF the Giants still are in strong contention at that time, I'll change my mind, stick out my neck, go out on a limb, if you will, and solemly swear that they will bring the first National League pennant to San Francisco this year.

Don't laugh or giggle—there is cool logic behind this thinking—and I mean cool, man, cool.

Between July 20 and Sept. 27 (the last day of the season) the Giants are scheduled to play 60 games, plus any make-ups, and of these 37 will be played in the cool of San Francisco's fog season.

23 games are away in the heat of Los Angeles and the East and Middle West.

IF YOU HAVE never traveled "the big apple" you have no idea how tiring and enervating it can be to play baseball day after day in the hot, humid weather that prevails east of the Rocky Mountains.

It is nothing for a ball player to lose 10 to 15 pounds during a stretch.

It is too hot to eat, too hot to rest, and tempers flare at the slightest provocation.

Pitchers "die" a couple of innings earlier, and the poor relief pitchers can be through before they are called in to take over for a faltering starter.

For two long stretches, from July 20 to Aug. 9, and from Sept. 2 to Sept. 20, the Giants will be meeting their rivals in the cool of Seals Stadium or Candlestick Park.

And in contrast to the early part of the season, the Giants will have nine or ten days off in the second half, unless there are too many make-up games thrown in.

DURING THIS same stretch, Milwaukee has 32 games at home and 29 away with only 5 games in the cool of San Francisco.

And, at the moment, the Braves have more make-up games to face than the Giants, with a greater prospect of more to come in the thunder storm belt.

The Pittsburgh Pirates face a similar ordeal with 34 games at home and 23 away with four in San Francisco.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have 33 at home and 26 away with five in our area. While the weather at the LA Coliseum is not as humid, the temperature goes well above 100 and stays high for the night games.

To look at it from another angle, after July 20 the Giants will play 23 games in the East, Middle West and Los Angeles; Milwaukee will play 56; Pittsburgh 53, and Los Angeles will play 54. This is a serious matter to contending clubs.

If the Giants can get into Candlestick Park by the scheduled Sept. 2 date they will have two more odds going for them. Greater familiarity with their park and the "lift" that goes with bigger and more enthusiastic home crowds.

YOU CAN bet your paycheck that the Candlestick grounds will be "tailored" to the present Giants club—even to a hard surfaced centerfield for Willie Mays and a soft infield for the benefit of whoever is playing shortstop for the Giants at that time. A smart groundskeeper can mean many games for our club in the stretch.

So, if our Giants don't fall apart through the "Ides of July" they have all the odds going for them to sweep the field.

Don't say we didn't warn you.

HOLE IN ONE IS 292 YARDER

WASAGAMING, Canada (AP)— Salesman Art Slater of Winnipeg realized the golfer's dream at the Clear Lake course there—a hole-in-one.

What's so unusual about a hole-in-one these days?

Well, Slater's came on Lake's No. 8 par four hole — a distance of 292 yards.

His three companions in the foursome and a Brandon couple just leaving the green witnessed the fabulous shot.

San Rafael Firemen Use Drill Tower For Ladder Practice

Three mornings a week a crew of half-a-dozen firemen practice "ladder evolutions" under San Rafael's Deputy Fire Chief Vance Trivett.

San Rafael holds a unique position among the county's fire department. It is the only one which has a drill tower. This structure, which resembles a tall, thin, four-story apartment house, is behind the new Firehouse No. 2 on Third street.

The men practice extension of ground ladders ranging in height from 24 to 50 feet. At least once a year, they practice drafting water from a pit near the drill tower. And periodically they practice laying hose on an infrequently traveled San Rafael street.

The morning practice sessions, held each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, are open to members of any Marin County fire department who are authorized by their chiefs to take part, Chief Trivett said.

As Marin County gets into the summer months when fire is an everyday hazard, the members of the San Rafael Fire Department have nine months of drilling to their credit.

"Of course, training is a never-ending thing," commented Chief Trivett.

UP WITH THE LADDER—Three firemen practice lifting a 35-foot extension ladder at a training session directed by San Rafael Deputy Chief Vance Trivett. From left, they are George Hasler, James Kennon and Gene Gay. Gay was supposed to have his arms at shoulder height.

DIZZY HEIGHTS—Fireman George Hasler looks unconcerned about the fact that solid ground is 100 feet below him. Beside him on the end of San Rafael's aerial ladder is a telephone to communicate with the engineer who must extend and retract the ladder from a fire truck.

80 YEARS OLD

Novato Man Is Honored On Birthday

One hundred friends and relatives of Victor Sjoblom gathered at his Novato home Sunday to pay their respects on his 80th birthday.

And all 100 were served a lavish buffet dinner prepared by Mrs. Sjoblom, who is "not quite 80."

The festive board at the family home at 511 Atherton avenue was adorned with ham, scalloped potatoes, macaroni and cheese, "old country" style salads, home made bread and coffee, all cooked by Mrs. Sjoblom—plus big birthday cakes baked by her daughter and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anna Church and Mrs. Verna Sjoblom of Novato.

Son Tauno Sjoblom, daughter Mrs. Church and adopted daughter Charlotte Fuller of San Francisco, along with four grandchildren, were among the 100 who called at the party for the longtime North Marin poultry raiser.

Mrs. Sjoblom, who worked several days preparing the feast, said she doesn't do it for every one of her husband's birthdays: "Just every 10 years—I'll do it next when he's 90." 90."

Trial Scheduled In Drug Forgery

A Terra Linda mother, accused of forging doctor's prescriptions to supply herself with barbituates, faces a jury trial in Marin Superior Court on Aug. 11.

Mrs. Inger Helene Kelly, 32, of 794 Del Ganado road pleaded innocent to several counts of forgery Monday before Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Sheriff's Inspector Guido Battaglia said Mrs. Kelly is suspected of using the name of a Redwood City doctor to get large amounts of seconal and dexedrine tablets from Marin pharmacies. Some of the prescriptions retrieved date back to 1957.

Caffe Espresso, Capuccino Can Be Served At Home

In the coffee house, one may sit at a small table, sipping a cup of fragrant espresso, and talk away a long afternoon. Somewhere in the background, there are strains of Handel or Beethoven, interupted occasionally by the puffing and steaming of an espresso machine in one corner. This, indeed, is a world apart from the rush of daily routine.

Exotic coffees—like Caffe Espresso, spicy Cappuccino or Caffe Borgia—all belong to the coffee-house tradition of atmosphere and elegance. Caffe Espresso, with its colorful twist of lemon peel, is easy enough to make at home. So is Cappuccino, a blend of espresso and steamed milk, said to have been developed by the Capuchin Monks centuries ago.

Caffe Borgia is still another variation of espresso that's topped generously with whipped cream and grated orange. All three capture the true spirit of the coffee house.

ITALIAN COFFEE

4 Standard coffee measures (8 level measuring tblsp.) French or Italian-roast pulverized coffee
1½ measuring cups water

A drip pot may be used, but a macchinetta is best. This coffee-making device consists of two cylinders, one with a spout, and a coffee sieve between them. Measure the coffee into the sieve. Put together with cylinder having the spout on top, and with measured water in lower cylinder.

Place on heat and wait for small opening in lower cylinder to steam. Then remove from heat and turn the macchinetti upside down until all the brew has dripped through. Serve in demitasse cups or wine glasses with a twist of lemon peel and sugar, never with cream. Makes 4 demitasse servings.

CAFFE CAPPUCCINO

Combine equal quantities of steaming Italian coffee and steaming milk. Pour into Cappuccino cups and sprinkle with cinnamon and nutmeg. Serve with sugar.

CAFFE BORGIA

Combine equal quantities of steaming Italian coffee and hot chocolate. Pour into cups and top with sweetened whipped cream. Sprinkle with grated orange peel.

VARIATIONS on the espresso theme are worthy of a summer party. You can make them yourself at home with a little care.

The Coffee House Captures The Fancy Of Younger Folk

Marin residents are no strangers to coffee houses, for they have flourished in the Bay Area for many years, springing up without much fanfare and attracting hosts of young people.

Now the coffee houses phenomenon, it appears, is sweeping across the country inland from the West and East Coasts.

Marinites who visit Minneapolis, New York, Los Angeles and Chicago's North Side report that the coffee house is becoming a popular meeting place there too.

The little espresso shops, which often feature classical music, Italian pastries and an assortment of art on the walls, attract the younger generation and have given them the taste of the many special coffees served.

The coffee houses offers Americans something that is hard to find — a pleasant place where one can pursue the art of conversation away from the main stream of frenzied activity. Here two people can relax and chat, unhurried, over cups of espresso. The fare is usually simple, the decor imaginative, and the relaxed mood conducive to talking.

MOSTLY YOUTH

The ascendency of the coffee house has been brought about mainly by young people. This is important because, in many ways, it is a reflection of the young generation's need to talk thing over, to ask questions, to discuss the future. Also important, the coffee house provides a place for the date, one that is sophisticated, romantic—and easy on the pocketbook.

Of course, it is not only the young who patronize coffee houses. Middle-agers have their favorite coffee haunts, attracted by the aura of the arts. Catering to the aesthetic bent of their patrons, many coffee houses feature art exhibits, hi-fi concerts, folk singing, poetry readings or just an abundance of Bohemian charm. Young dancers and students are often employed to wait on tables, making the coffee-house scene even more appealing.

In New York, as elsewhere, couples gravitate toward the coffee houses that best suit their romantic moods. The Coffee Mill for example, is a favorite among couple in the getting-to-know-you stage. Here, one couple set an all-time record . . . oblivious of time, they talked for twelve hours over two cups of coffee. The Coffee Mill's policy is that it never hurries its customers.

IN THE VILLAGE

Another coffee house, the Limelight in Greenwich Village, seems to attract the almost-marrieds. According to its pretty, red-headed proprietor, Mrs. Helen Gee, young people today are "family minded." She also says, "It seems to me that the youngsters look upon cocktails as a rather quaint and old-fashioned diversion."

In order to achieve individual flavor, two things are needed: a strong idea and a strong personality to back it up. A prime example is the unique coffee house, Serendipity 3, on New York's fashionable East Side.

The word "serendipity" means " the art of finding the unusual, or pleasantly unexpected, by chance or sagacity." The "3" indicates the three men who, a few years ago, decided to concoct a coffee house which would answer this definition. They opened a tiny coffee-house gift-shop patterned after a refined general store of the Victorian era. The walls were painted white, the shop was filled with Tiffany glass, hand-made hats and bone china.

Of course, there are hundreds of other coffee houses with the strong, individual idea behind them. Orsini's in New York is an elegant replica of Rome's historic coffee house, Cafe Greco.

One of the thirty coffee houses now in Hollywood is the new Renaissance, which sponsors programs of progressive jazz, drama workshops and a string quartet.

Enrico's in San Francisco is famous for its elegant serving of 31 different coffees, while Riggs Cafe Espresso in Minneapolis has won state-wide recognition for its continental decor. There is also a new coffee house in Memphis . . . one in Albuquerque . . .and still another in Dallas.

IN A SETTING of espresso machine, dark furniture, art and hi-fi music the talk goes on and on in the American coffee house. More and more a favorite of the younger generation, the coffee house is one place where a couple may sit undisturbed and talk quietly for hours over a single cup of coffee.

Make It Separate

Like to serve salad with your main course? Then provide a separate salad plate or bowl and place it to the left of the luncheon or dinner plate. Cold salad should never be served on plates that have been warmed for a hot main course.

When Company Comes

Company dinner service: If service plates are used, napkins should be placed on them. If the first course is at each place before guests come to the table, place napkins to the left of the forks.

Planning Another Barbecue? Be Sure You Buy Best Meat

"Make mine thick and juicy" is an often heard request in steak houses around town, at backyard grilling parties, and even in the family kitchen when it has been announced there's steak for dinner.

The first step in preparing a steak that's "thick and juicy" begins in the meat market. It's there that a certain amount of the thickness and juiciness of the cooked steak is chosen — cooking has a great deal to do with it, too.

All beef steaks for broiling should have a generous covering of white or creamy fat on the outer edges and the lean should be marbled with fat — the fat makes the meat juicy. For broiling, steaks should be cut at least an inch thick —1½ to 2 inches is an ideal thickness for broiling. One-third to one-pound meat per person is the amount of steak to buy. The amount varies according to the appetites of the persons to be served, the amount of bone in the meat, and probably, the cost of the meat. Choose from these favorite steaks:

Club steak, from the rib end of the short loin, is triangular in shape and has little or no tenderloin. Club steaks are usually served one to a person.

Rib steaks are sold in some parts of the country where rib steaks are more popular than rib roasts of beef. Rib steaks are similar in shape to club steak, but cut from the rib rather than the loin.

T-bone steak adjoins the club steak on the loin, but is larger and includes some tenderloin. This steak is easily identified by its T-shaped bone.

Porterhouse steak is really a large T-bone steak. It is cut from the sirloin end of the short loin and is the most tender section of the side. It includes a large portion of the tenderloin.

Sirloin steak is cut from the loin end. It is the largest of the loin steaks for broiling and is named according to type of bone it contains: pin bone, double bone, round or wedge bone. Sirloin steak is an excellent family steak.

Tenderloin steak, or filet mignon, is cut from the whole tenderloin. Tenderloin steaks have less fat than the other beef steaks, and are often cooked with a strip of bacon, especially when cut from the lower grades of beef.

Another steak, available in some parts of the country, is known as strip steak, Kansas City or New York steak. Strip steaks are available frozen. This steak is easily cut at home, for it is actually a T-bone steak minus the bone and tenderloin.

1. Preheat broiler with regulator set at "broil."

2. Slash fat edge of steak to keep meat from curling during cooking. Place steak on rack in broiler pan with top of steak two to five inches from source of heat: A one-inch thick steak, two to three inches from heat source; a two-inch steak, three to five inches from heat source.

3. Broil until top side is cooked to the preferred degree of doneness, then season and turn, using tongs rather than fork which might pierce the meat and allow juices to escape.

4. Broil second side to the preferred degree of doneness. Check doneness of meat by making a small slit with a sharp knife near the bone and note color of inside. Season second side of steak and serve immediately.

CHINESE SOUP TRICK

Secret With Egg And Broth Is How You Pour And Stir

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures

Chefs try to keep their secrets. This food editor tries to ferret them out!

What's on our mind? The way of a Chinese chef with an egg and a kettle of broth. A quick beating, a few stirs, and lovely films of egg looking like delicate flowers appear.

We followed chefs' directions for this soup as given in cook books, but never could we create the magic. Blame it on recipe semantics or on us, but the long wispy shreds of egg just didn't form. You know what we were aiming for if you've ever eaten Egg Drop Soup in a fine Chinese restaurant.

Then we came on a special directive, experimented with it; now we pass along the secret to you. There are three keys to this operation. The broth has to be the right temperature. The egg has to be beaten to the proper consistency. The pouring and stirring — has to be done just so. The simplest trick in the world once you've mastered it!

This egg broth, we find, is a superb pickup.

EGG FLOWER SOUP

Ingredients: 1 egg, 1 can (12½ fluid ounces) clear chicken broth, boiling water, salt.

Method: Break the egg into a teacup; with a fork beat just enough barely to combine yolk and white so when egg is lifted high it will run off fork in a watery stream.

Empty broth into a 1-pint measure; add enough boiling water to make 2 cups. Turn broth into a 1-quart saucepan and heat until boiling hot; adjust heat so broth will simmer —that means bubbles form slowly and collapse below the surface of the liquid. Hold cup about 5 inches above saucepan and pour egg slowly in a fine stream into the very hot broth; stop and start again a few times during the pouring so as to be sure to add the egg slowly enough to keep the soup at simmering temperature; as you pour, stir constantly with the fork in wide circles so as to draw the egg, as it hits the hot broth, into long films and strands. After all the egg is added, add salt to taste and simmer several minutes. Serve at once. Makes 2 servings.

EGG FLOWER SOUP, front right, is easy to prepare with broth and a raw egg—if you know the technique. The other two soups, boullion and vegetable, feature hard-cooked eggs.

Some Prefer Roll 'N Cut Cookies

Ingredients: 1¼ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoons baking powder, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, cup sugar and vanilla; beat in egg thoroughly. Mix in sifted ingredients. Chill until firm. Roll out a small portion of dough at a time on a prepared pastry cloth with stockinet covered rolling pin.

Cut out with 2-inch cookie mutter. Mix 1 tablespoon sugar and lemon rind; sprinkle over cookies. Place on buttered cookie sheet about 1½ inches apart. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 10 minutes. Makes about 40 cookies.

Oatmeal Cookies Are Easy, Good

Ingredients: 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¾ cup shortening, 1¼ cups firmly packed dark brown sugar, ⅓ cup milk, 2 eggs, 3 cups quick-cooking rolled oats.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add soft shortening, sugar, milk and eggs. Beat vigorously until combined. Stir in rolled oats. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, a few inches apart, on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven about 12 minutes. Cool on wire rack; store in tightly-covered container. Makes about 3 dozen.

Vegetable Tray

For a raw vegetable tray use radishes, cauliflowerets, sticks of carrot and celery, strips of cucmber and pickled mushrooms.

Light, Puffy Omelet Makes Summer Meal Seem Special

By VIRGINIA PORTER
Home Advisor

Light and airy omelets are pleasantly satisfying on a warm summer day. Puffy omelets have a souffle-like quality and are frequently served as dessert fare with fruit filling or sauces. To prepare puffy ones, simply beat whites and yolks separately . . . the whites until stiff but not dry and the yolks until thick and lemon-colored. With a gentle hand, fold whites into yolks, pour into skillet and bake or broil until slightly dry on top. The omelet should gently spring back when touched.

French omelets are generally known for their smooth surface and texture. The eggs being beaten long enough to thicken and then cooked in a hot skillet with only a suggestion of melted fat.

Filled omelets boast such filling fare as jellies, jams and marmalades, cream cheese with chives, cottage cheese with green pepper diamonds, shredded sharp cheddar cheese, sauteed chicken livers, garlic-croutons, chicken salad, chopped turkey, and for a he-man appetite tempter, hash browned spuds.

Surprise omelets have the taste tempting flavor accents tucked inside. For Puffy Omelet fold the "surprise" food into the yolks before the whites, and French Omelets after the eggs are beaten together. For 3-egg Surprise Omelets add:

½ cup crispy bacon crumbles
½ cup grated sharp cheddar
¼ cup each drained bean sprouts and crisp bacon crumbles
⅓ cup chopped or ½ cup tiny whole mushrooms
¼ cup each chopped onion and chopped parsley
⅓ cup shredded oil packed tuna

Onion Burgers

Ingredients: 1 pound ground lean beef, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons instant onion, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 to 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Method: Sprinkle beef with salt, pepper and onion. Add milk and mix lightly. Shape into 4 patties. Heat butter in heavy skillet until very hot. Add hamburgers and brown rapidly on both sides over high heat; reduce heat and cook to desired doneness. Makes 4 servings.

Egg, Lemon, Veal Are Combined Into Meatballs

Ingredients: 1 egg, 1 tablespoon cold water, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 pound ground veal, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons peanut oil, 2 tablespoons olive oil, ¼ cup water.

Method: In a medium-sized mixing bowl, beat egg and 1 tablespoon water enough to combine yolk and white. Mix in salt, pepper, grated lemon rind, lemon juice, paprika and nutmeg. Add veal and work together well with a fork.

Taking up 1 tablespoon of the mixture at a time, shape into small balls and roll in flour. Heat oils in 10-inch skillet; add veal and brown thoroughly; by this time the meat should be cooked through.

Remove meat to serving platter; add ¼ cup water to skillet; stir over low heat with a wooden spoon to get up drippings and bring to a simmer; pour over meat. Makes 4 small servings.

Good With Fish

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fishermen will relish this side dish with their catch. Drain and chop 1 (1-pound) can of sauerkraut. Add 1 medium-sized green pepper, chopped, 1 cup of mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon of salt and ⅛ teaspoon of pepper. Mix well and chill.

Enhances Flavor

If you've always flavored your standard jelly-roll cake batter with vanilla, try adding 1 teaspoon of lemon juice and ½ teaspoon of grated lemon rind and omit the vanilla.

FASHION PREVIEW

Glittering Brocades Are Seen In Simple Shirtwaist Dresses

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Offhand opulence is the keynote of fall fashions.

This is the word from New York designers, opening a crowded week of fall style previews for the visiting fashion press, in the 32nd National Press Week of the New York Dress Institute.

Lavish furs and lush fabrics are cut as casually as a schoolgirl's raincoat. Glittering brocades appear in simple shirtwaist dresses. Man-tailored suits sport fabulous fur linings or collars.

Fashion, being a woman, is enjoying a season of contradictions.

She goes to the theater in a gold trench coat and a slouch hat, shows up for work in a menswear worsted suit bearing a fortune in furs. She wears a fedora and carries a swagger stick, but her little-boy coat is lined in sable.

It's the same spirit that inspired the renowned Marlene Dietrich to wear a white ermine polo coat with slacks, and that impelled designer Valentina to observe that "mink is for football games."

It's an all-American attitude of taking luxuries for granted, a sort of ostentation in reverse, like trading your limousine for a sports car.

You wear the most luxurious furs, fabrics and jewels with nonchalance. You never look fussy or overdressed whether you're clothed in brocade or denim. The more fabulous the fabric of your costume, the simpler the cut.

Though there are no extreme changes in silhouette for fall, there is a whole new mood throughout the collections. Almost everything has a tailored, under-state, subtly sophisticated look, whether it's a tweed suit or a satin evening dress.

Newcomers greeted by the Welcome chairman, Mrs. Richard Tompkins, were Mesdames James Kleckner, Donavan Lyon, Walter Phillips, Winfield Burns and Teresa Spring (new associate member), mother of Mrs. Marvin Good.

Also greeted was a guest, Mrs. Allen Ahrens, mother of Mrs. Lyon.

Mrs. Hugh Parker, honorary OWC president and wife of Maj. Gen. Parker, commander of Western Air Defense Force, was introduced.

Newly elected and appointed council members and chairmen include Mesdames Joe Lyle Jr., president; James Fuhrman, first vice president; Melvin Call, second vice president; Leroy Hude, secretary; Harry Caldwell, assistant secretary; Edward Hoover, treasurer; Parke Tamblin, first assistant treasurer; Thomas Jones, second assistant treasurer; Herbert Lindstrum, parliamentarian; George Milholland, welfare chairman; Thomas Brown, ways and means; Phillip Coady, publicity chairman; Richard Tompkins, welcome chairman; John Rice, editor of the Lady Hamilton; Harlow Millard, social activities chairman; Harry Arendt, property chairman and Maxwell Johnson, activities director.

Decorations were done by Mrs. Tompkins and her committee of Mesdames Robert Williams, James Kleckner and L. B. Griffith.

SWINGING to happiness are Barbara Galvan and Richard Allen Dobell, who will be married on Aug. 15. The bride-elect is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edmond E. Galvan of Orinda, formerly of San Rafael.

BARBARA GALVAN TO BE WED TO RICHARD DOBELL AUG. 15

At a dinner party attended by members of both families, the engagement of Barbara Galvan and Richard Allen Dobell was announced recently. The bride-elect is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edmond E. Galvan of Orinda, formerly of San Rafael. Also residents of Orinda are Mr. and Mrs. Bernal E. Dobell, parents of the future benedict, and the dinner was at their home.

The young couple will be married on Saturday, afternoon, Aug. 15, at 2 o'clock at the Northbrae Community Church in Berkeley and will reside in San Luis Obispo.

Barbara, who has one sister, Mrs. Joseph Tyman (Mary Alice Galvan) of Walnut Creek, attended San Rafael High for two years and then Reno High of which she is a graduate. In February she was graduated from University of California in Berkeley and will teach in the Pismo School District. She is a Delta Gamma and was active in music and drama groups in high school and at the university where she also served on the Rally Committee. At San Rafael High, she was a member of Ra Ravas. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Charles C. Heller of Sacramento and the late Hubert H. Moulton and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Galvan.

Dick, who has one brother, Rodger Dobell of Hayward, is a graduate of Acallanes High School in Lafayette and is a junior in the School of Architecture at California Polytechnic in San Luis Obispo. His fraternity is Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

TIBURON PENINSULA

Four Girl Scouts Presented Highest Award—Curved Bar

The highest award for proficiency in intermediate scouting, the Curved Bar, has been awarded to four girls on the Tiburon Peninsula. They are Janet De Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick De Berry of Little Reed Heights; Nancy Bagnall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bagnall of Belvedere; Tina Bertrand, daughter of Mrs. F. J. Bertrand of Paradies Cove, and Julie Banning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Banning of Belvedere.

To receive the Curved Bar a girl must have attained first class rank and then earn at least four badges in each of the following interest fields: homemaking, arts, citizenship and out-of-doors. To complete the pioneer badge in the out-of-door interest field, the girls participated recently in a three night campout at Big Basin in the Santa Cruz Mountains. They were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Wayne Bingham, and Mrs. F. J. Bertrand. Also on the campout were Carol Lee Willetouski and Barbara Bonfigli.

The Curved Bar signifies a tremendous amount of cooperation between the parents and the leaders plus exceptional effort on the part of the girls. It is comparable to the Eagle Scout award in boy scouting.

Because the requirements had not been completed in time for the Tiburon-Strawberry Courts of Award, a special ceremony was held to present the girls with their pins.

This year three Courts of Awards were held on the Tiburon Peninsula by grade level. The fifth graders met at Strawberry School where 43 second class badges were presented to the girls. Jan Hutchinson spoke on the eleven fields of scouting and the cooperation which parents can give. The previous week Troop 11, at a special meeting, received cook badges as their special emphasis has been on homemaking.

A Court of Awards for the sixth graders was held at Whitaker Hall at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere. This group had received their second class badges the previous year and this year were awarded proficiency badges. Two girls, Kim Hahn and Sandy Marshall, new to scouting this year, were able to accomplish in one year what normally takes two. The two passed their tenderfoot rank and went on to win their second class badge plus proficiency badges.

Vickie Emerson, senior scout, discussed with the girls the opportunities in senior scouting. Some of the badges, particularly seamstress, were explained and aspects of first aid including artificial respiration and bandaging, were demonstrated. On display were a rock collection and exhibits depicting the dabbler (painting), adventurer, and campercraft badges.

A five-year pin was awarded to Mrs. Robert Watkins by Mrs. Arthur Collbran, vice president of the Marin County Girl Scout Council.

The older girls, including seventh and eighth graders and senior scouts, met at the Strawberry School where first class badges were awarded to Linda Allroggen, Sue Bishell, Donna Darroch, Sandra Lelich, Joan Nettro of Troop 34, and Peggy Mirata, Sandra Estudillo and Melinda Moore of Troop 152.

The advantages of senior scouting were explained by Jan Lafferty, Winnie Watkins, Bettina Bost and Randy Daugherty. The girls emphasized the Senior Roundup which has just been held at Colorado Springs.

Adult awards which were presented by Mrs. Collbran included a 15-year pin to Mrs. Mollie Love; a 10-year pin to Mrs. Bingham, and five-year pins to Mesdames Gilbert Darroch, M. R. Bolan, Edwin A. Gratonik and L. S. Bergstrom.

Inge Bauer Bride Of Richard Rhodes

St. Paul's Church in Stuttgart, Germany, was the setting on Saturday, July 11, for the 12:30 o'clock single ring wedding ceremony of Inge Ursula Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Bauer of Schorndorf - bei - Stuttgart, and Richard Willard Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rhodes of San Rafael.

Greens, white gladioli and white carnations were at the altar for the ceremony officiated by Herr Dekan Brezger. The wedding was held at St. Paul's because of the reconstruction underway at the Gothic Cathedral of Schorndorf.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of Swiss nylon and lace fashioned with high neckline and long sleeves. The skirt had a taffeta undergown. She had a coronet of veiling, sequins and silk and a short veil. Her bouquet was of moss roses with veiling.

Erika Bauer was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a sheer lemon colored dress and carried a bouquet of summer flowers.

Heidi and Doris Lutz and Irmgard Gratze as bridesmaids, wore pastel organza dresses and carried bouquets of summer flowers.

Sussanne Koglin and Regine Briegel were flower girls.

Roy Rhodes served his son as best man and ushers included Erich Bauer, the bride's brother, Hans Haller, Ullrich Kessler and Eberhard Kessler.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bauer chose a blue and silver brocade dress with matching jacket.

Mrs. Rhodes wore a powder blue lace sheath with matching accessories.

A reception for 50 guests followed the ceremony at the Hotel Lamm in Schorndorf where summer flowers and pink and blue ribbons were used in arrangements.

For a wedding trip to Salsburg, Austria, the bride changed to a red silk suit with black accessories.

The bride and bridegroom met when he was with the U.S. Army in Germany in 1955. She attended schools in Germany and worked for an advertising firm in Schorndorf before coming to live in San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lowell High School in San Francisco and the University of California. He is employed with the California Retail Hardware Assn. Mrs. Duane Dotson of San Rafael is his sister. Richard is a member of the Marin Lodge 191, Free and Accepted Masons, the California Alumni Assn., and the Press and Union League Club of San Francisco.

The bridegroom's parents are now touring Europe with the bride's parents.

The newlyweds will return to the United States by ship and take up their residence on Arch street in San Francisco.

THE MILL VALLEY Community Church was the setting for the recent wedding of Tenney Louise Coulon and Speed B. Leas. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Coulon of Mill Valley and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nat N. Leas of Fresno.

Expectant Mothers Honored At Tea

The Expectant Mother's tea recently given for 14 women who have completed the course given for them at Marin General Hospital, by Miss Amelia Ditt, director of nurses at the hospital.

Pink Ladies, Mrs. Lee Marriott, and Mrs. Robert W. Smith were hostesses at the tea. Among those present were Mesdames Alan H. Sawyer, Kyle R. Mauk, Chaunce Dunford, Harry L. Parker and John MacAuley of San Anselmo; Mesdames Robert F. Stewart and Richard H. Dicker of Belvedere; Mrs. James L. Roy of Tiburon; Mrs. Thomas Y. Drake of Sausalito; Mrs. Jerry Frazier of Fairfax; Mrs. William C. Bentinck of Kentfield; Mrs. James R. Smith and Mrs. R. J. Nicholson of San Rafael; and Mrs. Charles Campbell of Novato.

Mrs. Martin Stuart Fetes New Resident

To welcome Mrs. Bruce Manheim to the Tiburon Peninsula, Mrs. Martin Stuart entertained at her Belvedere Lagoon home last week. Luncheon was served on the sundeck overlooking the water and the tables were decorated with old fashioned bouquets of yellow daisies with a central rose.

Dr. and Mrs. Manheim, who are from Scarsdale, New York, have recently built in Little Reed Heights. They have three children, Melissa, Bruce Jr., and Leslie.

Guests at the luncheon were the Mesdames William Slater, John Raisin Jr., Charles Bancfort, Bobert Brown Jr., Robert Schell, Walter Machette, Richard Garrick, John Hoefer, Robert Gros, Warren Fink and Albert Siedel.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II Fair Game For Fashion Critics

By FRANCES LEWINE

A little girl in Chicago looked at Queen Elizabeth and lamented: "But mommy, she's not wearing a long dress."

A Toronto woman in her 80s raised an eyebrow at the Queen in a cool, gray and white checked outfit and said in surprise: "She looks like a little girl."

From the very young to the very old, Britain's Queen Elizabeth II is fair game for the fashion critics.

Nobody is quite sure what a 20th Century Queen should wear. But getting drama into her daytime dresses seems to be the big problem.

Pedestrian, girlish, imaginative is the way some newspapermen and women traveling with the Queen have described her daytime wardrobe in the first weeks of her tour across Canada.

They have applauded the gay colors—jade, bright pinks, yellows, and especially becoming turquoise blues—and the glamorous full-skirted "every inch a queen" evening dresses.

But the shirtwaist type, pleated skirt, undramatic daytime designs are criticized as not doing justice to the attractive 33-year-old 5-foot-3 Queen. Some feel more should be made of the Queen's trim waistline.

For her Chicago visit, a high spot of the tour, the Queen stepped ashore in one of her dressiest morning costumes and made a hit.

"Overdressed as a tourist, but not as a Queen," the Chicago Tribune commented.

The Queen wore a full-skirted oyster white lace dress, reembroidered in shades of brown and accented with a beige and brown taffeta cummerbund sash. With it went a matching wide brimmed hat, white accessories, a triple strand of pearls, small pearly earrings and a diamond pin at the left shoulder.

The dress was by Hardy Amies, who with Norman Hartnell, another London designer, has provided the Queen's royal tour clothes.

It has been pointed out that she likes to be comfortable in her clothes and as she walks parade grounds, stands in a jeep to review troops or in the cockpit of the speedy royal barge coming to dock.

Her handbag is always one with straps to be held on her arm so she can have her hands free for ceremonial duties.

Hats, provided by Claude St. Cyr, a Parisian milliner, and Aaze Thaarup, a Dane who works in London, have been cloche and toque styles with organza and draped chiffon, and some pert straws. Her shoes, mostly white and beige on this tour, have been open-toed and slingbacked, with a moderate heel.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D.

Rudeness In Teen-Ager Is Sign Of Rebellion

"Why would a nice girl suddenly become rude?" a father asks. "Our daughter, an only child is 13. She is big for her age. Formerly she was obedient and considerate, but now she objects to many of the things we tell her. She's especially rude to her mother. When I give orders she obeys, but she resents it. The parents of her friends tell me their girls are the same way. Will you help us?"

I'll be glad to try. Sooner or later all teen-agers rebel. They feel their oats. They sense their growth. They resent their parents, and the whole adult world. They become daring. Nice, well-raised girls often experiment with rudeness and bad behavior. Usually they rebel more at home than at school.

Their mothers take the brunt of it. Mothers are the biggest part of the babyhood the girls are outgrowing. They still love their mothers. They still depend upon them. But they don't want to show it. They feel they have left Mama behind. By being rude to her they demonstrate their independence. See how it works? What they do is wrong, of course. But understandable.

Girls' rebellion often comes at 13 or 14. Boys' rebellion may be expected a little later. Usually the boys' troubles are more intense and last longer.

I suggest several long talks with your girl. Set up some fair rules of conduct together. Make it clear that you expect her to observe them. One rule is decent respect for her mother, and for you. If she fails to live up to the rules, crack down. Don't spank her, but use restrictions or deprivations. Your girls still needs a boss. Eventually she'll thank you.

READERS' FORUM

(Q)—"You said mothers of teen-agers could work, without loss to their children. My 15-year-old son objects strenuously to me leaving our home for a job. Are you sure you are right?" —Mrs. N.R.L.

(A)—I didn't say quite that. I said many mothers of teen-agers can have paid jobs without loss to their children. But not all of them. Homes, children and mothers differ.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 15, the 196th day of the year, with 169 more days in 1959.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and Mars.

On this date in history:

In 1876, St. Louis hurler George Washington Bradley pitched the first no-hit baseball game in National League history.

In 1912, athlete Jim Thorpe led the United States to victory in the Olympic Games at Stockholm, Sweden.

In 1942, Americans in eastern cities were faced with the first serious meat shortage since the beginning of World War II.

In 1943, Italy declared war on her former Axis partner, Japan.

In 1948, Harry Truman won the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia. His running mate was Kentucky Senator Alben Barkley.

A thought for today: Former President Harry S. Truman said, "The responsibility of the great states is to serve and not dominate the world."

BARTENDERS AID PALSY FUND DRIVE

Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union Local 126 placed 75 coin cards in Marin bars and restaurants to assist the fund campaign of United Cerebral Palsy. This week, pickup of the cards began. An early scorer was the Pago-Pago on San Rafael's Fourth street, where three cards, each holding $47.50 in coins, were filled completely. Here, Mrs. Max Robertson accepts the cards for United Cerebral Palsy from bartender Dewey Clelland (center), who with bartender John Young was responsible for the big collection, and owner Reno Ghilotti. Mighty pleased is Christone Nordstrom, 8, cerebral palsy victim and campaign "theme girl." (Independent-Journal photo)

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Civil Rights Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey gave a sample of his presidential campaign lie today with a fire-eating civil rights speech not calculated to win friends in the South.

The Minnesota senator, first avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, called for congressional action this year to help carry out Supreme Court decisions against racial segregation.

Humphrey, who first claimed national attention with a party-splitting civil rights speech at the 1948 Democratic convention, was publicly advanced yesterday as a candidate for the White House.

Manhunt Ended

BASHAW, Canada (UPI)— A 22-year-old man suspected of killing seven members of his family was recaptured quietly near a rural pig pen last night after a four-day manhunt which terrorized hundreds.

Raymond Cook ripped a heavy wire screen over his window to escape last Friday night from Ponoka Mental Hospital where he was under mental observation prior to trial for the murder of his father, Ray Cook, 54. The bodies of the elder Cook, his wife, and five of Cook's half-brothers and half-sisters were found in a grease pit of the family's garage at Stettler.

A number of rural families left their homes for safety in town during the manhunt for the alleged family killer.

300 Flee Gas

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y. (AP) —A cloud of sulphur dioxide gas escaped from a truck last night, enveloped an eight-block area, and forced approximately 300 persons to evacuate their homes.

One person was hospitalized.

Disaster Averted

MAX MEADOWS, Va. (AP) — A 26-year-old truck driver may have averted a major disaster yesterday after his truck caught fire near two tanks of propane gas.

Firemen, rescue squad members and police from several surrounding towns evacuated residents from the immediate area. The flames were extinguished in four hours.

The truck driver, Billy E. Jones, suffered first and second-degree burns but he went ahead and turned off a valve and compressor in a small pumphouse where he was working.

Liner For Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The Federal Maritime Administration still hopes to find a buyer for the debt-ridden liner Leilani and has postponed laying up the vessel in mothballs.

"Two or three east coast companies have indicated an interest in purchasing the ship," Lloyd Fleming, the federal agency's Pacific Coast director, said yesterday.

The 650-passenger cruise ship operated between Hawaii and California until its operators abandoned the service several months ago.

Plane Lands Safely

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An American Airlines jet with 106 passengers aboard landed safely at International Airport yesterday on wheels that were lowered manually.

A leak in the hydraulic system made it necessary to crank down the wheels, but the passengers were unaware there was any difficulty.

Victory For Almond

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia's moderate local option approach to integration, built from the ruins of the court-crumbled "massive resistance" laws, gained ground today as result of a hard-fought Democratic primary election.

Key legislators supporting Gov. J. Lindsay Almond's program of "freedom of choice" fought off segregationist candidates to win renomination yesterday.

Princess Expecting?

TOKYO (AP) — Crown Prince Akihito's bride may be pregnant.

A chamberlain of the imperial household announced today that the royal doctors had reported Crown Princess Nichiko "may be with child." He warned newsmen, however, that the doctors' findings were not conclusive.

Akihito and Nichiko, a commoner, were married April 10 after a storybook romance that had all Japan agog.

No Vacation For Ike

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower has not dared think of a vacation here this summer because the nation's problems are so complex.

Mayor Henry C. Wilkinson disclosed last night the President had so written him in response to an invitation to return to this community. The Eisenhowers have vacationed here the last two summers.

Reasons They Work

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Why do many women continu to work after marriage?

Dr. Kate H. Mueller, Indiana University specialist in the counseling of college women, says it's to help finance the long and expensive American weekend, among other things.

"Weekend trips, the new car, entertaining, clubs, and all the luxury paraphernalia associated with the pace of modern life makes that second check necessary for young people," she said in an address here yesterday.

Soon Back In Jail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Yvonne Conley, released from custody yesterday after charges of being an accessory to murder were dropped, was back in jail five hours later on a drunk charge.

Mrs. Conley and George Cole were brought back to San Francisco last week from Des Moines, Ia. She had been living with Cole, who is charged with the shooting of Police Sgt. Joseph Lacey Dec. 30, 1956.

Shades Of Bill Cody

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Shades of Buffalo Bill Cody, great hunter of the Western plains!

Zookeepers and police spread grain and bread on the ground last night, successfully luring a 1,600-pound bull buffalo back into its enclosure at Roger Williams Park.

The four-year-old animal pushed through the wire fence and was leisurely nibbling foliage when discovered. He eluded all efforts until the bread and grain were spread.

Actor Wrecks Yacht

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — American actor-magician John Calvert said today he had wrecked his yacht on Elcho Island. He said the accident occurred while he was trying to beach the yacht after making a trial run. The Sea Fox was escorted to Elcho, off the north coast of Australia, for repairs after Calvert sent out a system of distress calls that the vessel was leaking and had engine trouble in the Arafura Sea.

Nikita Tours Poland

Irate Citizens Chase Driver

Several irate citizens chased a suspected reckless driver from San Rafael to Sausalito Monday night and caught him at Highway 101 and Bridgeway, then called the sheriff.

Deputies arrested Eric Arvid Wik, 18, of 35 Longview avenue, San Anselmo, on suspicion of reckless driving. He is free on $150 bail.

W. R. Mecham of 87 Billou street, San Rafael, who nabbed Wik, said the youth just about ran him down. Four other witnesses from San Rafael said they are willing to testify against the reckless driving antics of Wik.

The youth told Deputy Sheriff Frederick Marcus he was out for "kicks."

Tam District Has 1,300 In Summer Work

More than 1,300 teen-agers of Tamalpais Union High School District or vicinity are voluntarily attending summer sessions of Tamalpais, Drake and Redwood high schools.

Principal Harry G. Russell says that, as this work is by the students' own choice, their participation is wholehearted and there is practically no problem of discipline. The courses comprise a total of 60 classes giving intensive, accelerated training supplemental to regular-year education.

HEAD UP SCHOOLS

Heading the three schools this summer under Russell's principalship are Cyril E. Beattie at Tamalpais, Merrill Convis at Redwood, and Verle Sorgen at Drake.

Beattie reports that 40 of his 407 students have requested that he send transcripts to schools in Los Angeles, Stockton, Arizona, South Carolina, and Montana as well as to other schools in Marin County. He says that activities parallel those of regular sessions with classes in "Problems of American Democracy," taking field trips to the Marin County Courthouse, art classes traveling to Sausalito galleries and San Francisco museums, and general science allowing for individual projects.

At Drake, Sorgen said that classroom speakers have included District Attorney W. O. Weissich and a U.S. Army missile expert. Drake has the highest enrollment with 521 and offers the greatest number of classes in 17 subjects.

STANDARDS HIGH

Sorgen said that far from lowering standards, the summer sessions allow more individual instruction often accomplishing more than regular classes. Attendance is rigidly watched with three unexcused absenses resulting in no summer work credit.

Redwood's Convis insists that summer session aren't designed for failures. Of his total enrollment of 375, 20 students are doing make-up work, all in English.

Russell says that the general aim is to offer refresher courses where needed, enriched courses for students wishing them, exploratory courses for the curious, supplementary courses not in conflict with regular high school, and vocational courses assisting students in careers.

More students than could be accommodated wanted behind-the-wheel driver training. Classes were limited to 37 on each campus and training cars are being run from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., according to Russell.

Drainage Bids Face Mill Valley Council

Opening of bids for the East Blithedale-Camino Alto drainage project at the eastern Mill Valley city limits is a major item scheduled for tonight's meeting of the city council at 8 o'clock in the city hall.

Also on the agenda is a call for bids for improvements in the Bolsa avenue assessment district.

U. S. Service Academy Hopefuls Take Test

Test papers of 14 applicants for U. S. service academies have been sealed for guidance of the 1st District Academy Screening Committee after a written examination Monday in the Davidson School gymnasium in San Rafael.

Municipal Court Judge Richard M. Sims, Marin County member of the committee, said it is not known which academies are desired by the applicants. The test was not in the nature of entrance examination but merely to disclose the basic abilities of the candidates and guide committee recommendations to Rep. Clement W. Miller on appointments.

MILAN CATHEDRAL ON MARIN TOUR ITINERARY

The world-famous Duomo or cathedral in Milan, Italy, considered one of the world's great church buildings, will be visited by members of the Marin European tour group, which departs Sept. 29 for a trans-polar flight to Europe and 20 memorable days touring the continent. The Duomo in its present form was started in the year 1387, occupies an area of 126,000 square feet and can hold 40,000 people. Registrations are now being accepted for the Independent-Journal-sponsored tour. The price is $1,049.60. Registration may be made with coupons appearing frequently in the I-J.

HE GETS STAR BILLING

Lillibrad Sammy's Shadow, usually known as plain Sam the Shaggy Dog, relaxes in his private chair between scenes at the Walt Disney Studio in Hollywood where he is under exclusive contract. Sam romped to fame in the film "The Shaggy Dog," but trainer Bill Koehler says success hasn't spoiled him a bit. (AP Wirephoto)

Fame Hasn't Spoiled Sam The Shaggy Dog

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You'll be pleased to know that success hasn't spoiled Sam the shaggy dog.

Few animals have caught the public fancy as fast as Lillibrad Sammy's Shadow, latest and livest of the long list of Disney animal stars. He's the big 87 pounds bear of an Old English sheepdog that romped through the runaway hit, "The Shaggy Dog."

Sam was resting at his Rialto home between engagements, but Koehler filled me in on how the dog has taken to his newfound fame. Here are the vital statistics on his career:

Born to Norval Pride King and Lillibrad Lindy Lou on Oct. 21, 1956, at Denver, Colo. Bought for $500 by Mrs. Addie Anderson of Rialto. Discovered by Koehler in his obedience school in San Bernardino. Signed by Disney Studios to an exclusive contract.

All kinds of things have been happening to Sam since the movie hit. He acted in a Gale Storm TV film. He guested with Lawrence Welk. He appeared at the Disneyland opening and the Coliseum fireworks show.

"He looked up and saw all those people in the Coliseum and figured they had come to see him" said Koehler. "So he gave them his usual greeting—woof, woof, woof—three barks."

But Sam still has the homey touch, as evidenced by his reunion with mother during a Denver appearance. They gave each other the traditional sheepdog expression of joy: stomping on their front paws.

"Intelligence is not as important in a dog as stability," says Koehler. "I'd rather spend three times longer training a dog if I knew that he would be able to perform the trick no matter what was going on around him. Sam is that way. He goes along with it."

Banking Unit Polls Members On Courses

Lillian Sturken has been named head of a committee to poll members of the Marin County Chapter, American Institute of Banking, to determine preferred courses in an AIB school to open soon.

As for the past four years, the school will give its courses at the College of Marin in Kentfield. It is designed to educate young bank employees to find larger opportunities and to improve their service to the public.

Decision to poll AIB members as to courses for the fall semester was made at a meeting of the chapter's board of governors under the newly elected president, Horace Corona. Other board members are:

Barbara Henderson, secretary-treasurer; Addie Tedrick, vice president; Ralph Manella, in charge of public relations; Beverly Sill, public speaking; Frank Hanlon, past president; Al Rogers, social; Al Locati, forum and seminar; Kermit Irby, debate; Florence Hoffman, women's committee chairman.

Barber Shop Open At Shop Center

Tony's Barber Shop, owned by Tony Petkovich of San Rafael, opened recently in the Montecito Shopping Center at 359 Third street, San Rafael.

The shop is located in the arcade at the center. Petkovich and Ed Dolan of San Anselmo handle the barber work, Alice Crow of San Rafael is manicurist, and the shop also provides shoe shine service.

Customers may make appointments for service, Petkovich announced.

Petkovich also operates Tony's Barber Shop on Tiburon's Main street.

MARIN'S BIGGEST, NEWEST SUPERMARKET

United Markets' brand-new three quarter million dollar supermarket on San Anselmo's Miracle Mile is Marin's largest and most modern. The walls, faced with Italian mosaic, were erected in tilt-up fashion. The interior was carefully planned with an eye to beauty and maximum shopper convenience. The building was constructed by the William H. McDevitt Co. of San Rafael, at a price of $261,628 on a "package deal" which included services of architect, engineer, landscape architect and interior decorator. The remaining half million dollars of the market's cost went into specially-designed interior fixtures and equipment.

FIRST OFF, AN EARTHQUAKE

United Chain Founded In S. F. 54 Years Ago

As United Markets opens its big new San Anselmo supermarket — fourth in the United organization and second in Marin — its executives and personnel throughout the firm cannot help reflecting for a few moments on the company's founder and guiding spirit for nearly half a century — the late Harry Wissman.

Wissman, who died in 1951, established the Wissman stores organization in San Francisco. The name was changed to United Markets in recent years.

He opened his first store in 1905 at Twentyfourth and Clement streets in San Francisco, and was steadily building up a successful business when the 1906 quake and fire came along.

"The store was shaken to pieces," he recalled in later years. "The shelving was down, jellies and jam all over the floor, ammonia was spilled all over everything and there was only one way to clean it up—shovel it out by the spadeful."

The hard-hit Wissman shoveled the mess out by the spadeful, then got together his bills and went to see the wholesalers to whom he owed money.

The latter were hard hit themselves. Their records were mostly destroyed in the fire and many a customer ignored his obligations to them.

Not so Harry Wissman. He told each wholesaler the amount he owed and promised weekly payments until it was paid.

The credit of Harry Wissman was immediately and permanently established in San Francisco.

Young Wissman started business again, with a second store on Clement between Ninth and Tenth avenues. His operations eventually embraced 17 small grocery stores. However, times changed, the supermarket more and more replaced the small grocery and Wissman conformed his operations to the demands of the times, consolidating them into a few strong supermarkets.

Ranging afield from his own outlets, Wissman organized what is now United Grocers, Ltd., a 2,200-member cooperative association of Northern California grocerymen, served as president of the San Francisco Retail Grocers Assn. and as president of the city's Golden Gate Kiwanis Club.

He also developed interests in real estate, being a leader in the development of the Richmond district into a major section of San Francisco.

The Wissman name is still used by the warehouse portion of the business though it has been superseded by United Markets in connection with the stores. But the Wissman spirit and tradition remain firmly at the base of the entire United Markets operation.

Poached Eggs For Epicures

Chicken broth, milk, tomato juice, cream, wine, meat stock, consomme and thin soup may be used for poaching eggs in place of water. Allow 1 quart of liquid for 4 eggs. Bring the liquid to a fast boil over a high gas flame. Drop the eggs into the bubbling liquid and turn the flame to simmer. Cover the sauce pan and cook the eggs 3 to 5 minutes or until the whites are firm. Use a perforated ladle or spoon for removing the eggs and trim off ragged edges. The poaching liquid may be thickened with a little cornstarch or flour and served over the eggs.

Coconut Diamonds—Sturdy Cookies Not Overly Sweet

Here's a sturdy satisfying cookie that is not overly rich or sweet.

COCONUT DIAMONDS

Ingredients: 1 cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, 1 large egg, 3 cups sifted flour, salt, 1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut.

Method: Cream butter and sugar; beat in egg just enough to combine. Add flour, a dash of salt and coconut; mix well with a spoon; dough will be stiff. On prepared pastry cloth with lightly floured stockinet covered rolling pin, roll out one-half of the dough at at time a little less than ¼-inch thick.

Cut with sharp diamond-shaped cookie cutter (about 3 by 2 inches), bearing down so coconut ends will be cut clean at cookies' edges. With sharp tines of a fork, prick surface of cookie dough in desired pattern.

Bake in ungreased cookie sheet, about ½-inch apart, in moderate (375 degrees) oven about 15 minutes or until edges of cookies are lightly browned.

Cool on wire racks. Store in tightly-covered container. Makes about 4 dozen.

World Of Flakiness From Proper Oven

Many areas of creative cookery are open to cooks who master the art of making good pastry. Napoleons, strudels, patty shells, puff paste, fried pies, tarts and main dish pies such as chicken pie are just a few of the interesting dishes that start with pie crust dough.

For tender, flaky pastry, be sure to preheat the gas oven to 400 degrees. One-crust pies, such as custard, should be baked for 30 to 40 minutes. Two-crust fruit-filled pies should bake in a gas oven preheated to 425 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes. Pie shells without filling should be baked at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes.

Meat For Repair

Meat in the diet performs many useful and necessary functions. One of the most important is that meat provides high quality protein needed for body building and body repair.

SUCCESS STORY

Ben Saccone Went To Work At Age 15

From delivery boy to head of a great supermarket organization. That's the American success story. A typical story, but always a thrilling story.

And it is the personal story of Bernard (Ben) Saccone, president and general manager of United Markets.

It spans the period of the horse and delivery wagon and the modern superlative supermarket Marin finds this weekend in the grand opening of the United Markets' San Anselmo store, and it moves right into tomorrow — and Marin's future.

So now for Ben's story:

Ben Saccone, as thousands know him, went to work at 15 to help support the family—he started driving a horse and wagon delivering for a grocer.

At 19, Saccone was in business for himself, as a groceryman, at Twenty-second avenue at Geary boulevard, San Francisco. It was an unfortunate partnership venture, and without bewailing or casting blame, Saccone just says:

"At 22 I went to work for Harry Wissman—32 years ago—as a grocery clerk. There were 17 small stores operated by Mr. Wissman then, and I was able to work up to store manager. The first store I managed was at Cole and Parnassus, San Francisco. After several years I was promoted to supervisor, then buyer and supervisor, and after Mr. Wissman died, became secretary-treasurer and general manager and later, president and general manager."

Mrs. Saccone, whom he married in 1928, helped Saccone in every way and also reared a family. They have three children, one a married daughter, Mrs. Clara Smith of Santa Rosa, who has two children herself, Terise, 7, and Linda, 5, and Saccone is as proud of his grandchildren as he is of his children.

The Saccones' other children are a daughter, Lois, and a son, Frederick, now assistant office manager for United Markets.

BEN SACCONE
Once a delivery boy . . .

"My life is my family, and my business," he says. "I am looking forward one day to becoming a resident of Marin."

There's more to it than that folks. You see, it's Saccone's "third love." He proudly says he knows it as a boy would know it, who has hiked every trail, climbed every peak, and roamed through every canyon in Marin County.

Two Ground Meats Make Better Loaf

When preparing a meat loaf, do you always use just one type of ground meat? Beef or maybe lamb are some of your choices.

However, did you ever think of combining two ground meats such as ground ham and ground pork, or perhaps putting ground beef and ground veal together in a meat loaf or ring? There are any number of various combinations.

However, it must be remembered that whenever you are using fresh ground pork in a loaf, the loaf must be baked in a 350° F. oven. Other loaves not containing fresh pork are usually baked in a 300° F. oven.

Imagination Makes Soup Maneuvers

Modern condensed soups can be combined and blended with other ingredients to produce a delicious extra, or the main dish of the evening meal. Here are some good flavor combinations: mushroom and asparagus soups with slivers of ham, tomato and bean soup with slices of frankfurters, turtle soup and green pea soup with a garnish of salted whipped cream, tomato soup with minced clams, and cream of chicken soup with cream-style corn.

The soups are best when they are heated thoroughly over a medium flame for 15 to 20 minutes. Covering the soup kettle helps to develop the flavor.

THE FREEZER QUESTION

Just As You May Suspect, Freezers Don't Save Money

By VIVIAN BROWN

To own or not to own a freezer is a question that many housewives face sooner or later. Those who do not take advantage of this innovation of our age have good reasons. But just let them try to persuade the freezer owner that owning a freezer is not essential to modern living! And after all, satisfied customers should be the true test of the freezer's value.

It is not inexpensive to own a freezer, and you do not save money by freezing your own foods no matter how cheap you get it at large quantity prices. But the freezer offers many advantages that may be worth the investment — it is convenient, saves time in marketing and meal preparation, and it offers the advantage of having out-of-season food all the year round.

FREEZER COSTS

Attempts have been made to estimate the cost for home freezing, exclusive of the cost of the frozen food. Into these estimates go a depreciation figure based on a freezer life of 12 years, the cost of packaging the food, the cost of freezing it, and the cost of maintaining a freezer temperature of zero degrees Fahrenheit.

All told a 12-cubic foot freezer with a capacity of 360 lbs. costs 11 cents per pound of food frozen when there is a turnover of 150 per cent and some 900 pounds of food is frozen within the year. If there is not appreciable turnover of frozen food, the cost of operating the freezer is 25 cents per pound, says the experts.

Thus it can be seen that the family that uses the freezer often gets a better bargain because relatively fixed costs of operation of the freezer are divided among a larger number of "useful pounds" of food.

If there is little turnover of frozen food on the housekeepers' books the items "stored" in the freezer must bear such a high share of freezer operating expense that they don't remain "bargains" for long no matter how inexpensive the purchase price.

There are all types of freezers. Some women prefer the chest type, although they find it is difficult to reach to the back of some of these. Other women would rather have the upright freezer, where frozen food is stored like books on a shelf, readily available at the fingertips. It is a matter of preference and space.

BOSS'S EYE VIEW OF MARKET

This "picture window" enables Dick Youngs of San Anselmo, manager of United Markets' new Miracle Mile store, to keep his eye on every facet of the complex business. It is an eye-pleasing view that he gets, as the market's interior was finished under the direction of an expert interior decorator to add beauty to the market's other features designed to provide the ultimate in convenience and restfulness for its customers.

(Ken Molino photo)

United Markets 'Theme' Quality At Low Prices

"The byword in all departments of United Markets is quality."

So when you find a wide supply of floor specials in the new United Markets' Marin outlet in San Anselmo you know that those who buy "for you" are seeking the best—and getting the best prices because of the large direct purchasing power of the organization.

And it is "know how" in the grocery business that gets quality at low prices—and "know how" that operates a smooth, efficient organization from the unloading of the trucks that bring the merchandise in to the supervising the "bag" or "tote" boys who carry your purchases to your car.

And "know how" in the case of the assistant general manager of all the United Markets, Joseph E. (Joe) Saccone, goes back to the days when he started working as a small boy after school and on Saturdays. For whom did he work? The United Markets' first store, managed by his brother, Bernard.

"I was so small I had to stand on a box to weigh out the sugar in paper bags, bag beans and rice, and other such chores," says Joe. "I swept the store too. And I really grew up in the grocery business."

Later Saccone joined the Best Foods organization and spent seven years with it, rising to a key position and gaining experience handling men.

JOE SACCONE
It began after school

All this was in preparation for his present post of supervising 200 United Markets employees here and in San Francisco.

Came the army, and service for three years, two of them with Patton in Europe.

After World War II, Saccone rejoined the United Markets organization.

In addition to supervising, he buys for the liquor department, helps select sites for future markets, keeps an eye on competitors' innovations and finds time to plan for his family, which includes his wife, son Joseph Jr., 16, and daughter Noella Maria, 12.

The Saccone family lives at 160 Forbes avenue, San Rafael.

Piping Hot Loaf Dripping Cheese

Here's a new version of America's favorite sandwich to bake in your oven. Slash a loaf of Italian or French bread in regular slices without cutting through the bottom crust. Insert slices of American, Mozzarelli or process Swiss cheese into the slashes and brush with melted butter. Place the loaf in a gas oven, preheated to 350 degrees. Bake about 20 minutes, or until the cheese melts and the loaf is piping hot.

Mealtime Menageries Make Hungry Small Fry Hungrier

You don't have to belong to the "take a bite for Mommy and now one for Aunt Katie" school of feeding children to know that a small amount of kitchen ingenuity usually pleases Junior. Easy-do magic with some basic foods will on occasion help that young man and his sister accept and enjoy nutritious food.

Young ones still at home, or back from school for lunch, are particularly susceptible to the tricks you pull out of your apron pocket. Here are a few ideas using peanut butter with which mothers have beguiled young appetites. We pull up the curtain on peanut butter because it is an inexpensive way to supply, or step up, the protein children need every day.

CLOWN LUNCHEON PLATE

The clown's face is made from scrambled eggs — preferably two eggs, though if you spread the face thin, you can get away with one. (If you're feeding two youngsters, you might use three eggs for two clown faces). One slice of crisply fried or broiled bacon will make the eyes, nose and mouth.

A slice of toast spread with peanut butter and cut into one large and two small triangles will make the clown's hat and bow tie. Two carrot curls are perfect ears and big enough to hear anything that's going on.

COVERED WAGON

Make a peanut butter sandwich and cut it in half. Stack the halves on top of each other. Cut four rounds of carrot and place two on each side of the stacked sandwich halves for wheels; place a long thin piece of celery in front of the wagon to serve as the handle.

MYSTERY BANANA

Peel banana and scrape off any "strings" with a case knife. Slice the banana in half lengthwise. Spread room temperature peanut butter over one cut surface; press the other half of the banana firmly over the peanut butter. Now cut crosswise in slices thick enough for youngsters to pick up and eat out of hand. Small fry usually think the striped effect is mysterious; will want to make a mystery banana themselves.

PANCAKE MENAGERIE

When I was young "pancakes for lunch" were a great treat. (Usually they were prefaced by a vegetable soup, and dessert would be fruit). The pancakes might be a special sort made with cottage cheese. Or they might be the good old plain variety served with maple syrup or honey, jam or jelly and butter.

Half a dozen years or so ago a friend showed us how to make "animals" with pancake batter and since that time a good many families have been concocting menageries enthusiastically. If these edible zoos are new to you, here are directions:

Prepare pancake batter from a mix or start from scratch. Using a small pitcher or measuring cup that has a lip pour out a small round or oval body onto a hot lightly greased griddle. Head, legs and tail are made by dribbling batter from a spoon. Start by making a rabbit, horse, cat, turtle or chicken and then let your imagination guide you. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

Beef-Vegetable Beef Loaf Big Enough For Tomorrow

Every homemaker can undoubtedly show off her culinary talents in the preparation of her own distinguished meat loaf.

The recipe usually is one passed down from mother to daughter but today a nationally known meat expert, Reba Staggs, wishes to have you try this Beef-Vegetable Loaf.

A loaf like this featuring 2 pounds of ground beef yields enough for 8 servings. If there is any left over, simply feature the meat loaf in sandwiches the following day.

BEEF-VEGETABLE LOAF

2 pounds ground beef
½ cup milk
1 cup cracker crumbs
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1¼ teaspoons onion juice
1 cup cooked baby lima beans
½ cup grated carrots
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 eggs, beaten

Pour milk over cracker crumbs. Add ground beef, salt, pepper, onion juice, lima beans, carrots, celery and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Pack in a 5x9-inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Yield: 8 servings.

SPACIOUS MARKET UNOBSTRUCTED BY PILLARS

United Markets' new store provides maximum shopper convenience with wide aisles, carefully planned space allotment for merchandise and an interior unobstructed by pillars. A distance of 122 feet is spanned by wooden trusses to eliminate need for floor-blocking columns. Display cases are equipped with colored plastic bases and, where needed, interior illumination. (Ken Molino photo)

THROUGH THE AIR CURTAIN

Mrs. Richard Bauman of Kentfield tests a United Markets innovation—an "air curtain," in which a stream of cool air is blown down across the opening of the dairy products cooler. The air curtain provides refrigeration for the dairy items and eliminates doors on the cabinet, for the convenience of customers like Mrs. Bauman, who has her hands full with three helpers, daughters Judy, Karen and Mandy. At 23, Fred Saccone Is Veteran Grocer

An old-timer in the grocery business at age 23 is Frederick Saccone, who started as a box-boy when he was a lad of 14.

Saccone is following in the footsteps of his father, Ben Saccone, United's president and general manager, who went to work at 15 driving a grocer's horse-drawn delivery wagon.

Fred Saccone is a graduate of San Francisco's George Washington High School and attended University of San Francisco. He served two years in the Army, returning to United, where he transferred to the firm's general office last year.

He plans to make United a career, and is furthering his knowledge of business operations by attending Heald's Business College in the evenings.

Saccone, his wife Barbara, and 10-month-old son, Michael, are now San Francisco residents but are hoping to move to Marin in the near future.

Molasses Glaze

¼ cup unsulphured molasses
¼ cup prepared mustard

Combine unsulphured molasses and mustard. Forty-five minutes before baking time of ham is completed, take ham from oven. Score fat surface and stud with cloves. Spread part of molasses mixture on ham. Continue baking, brushing ham once or twice wtih remaining mixture.

Glaze Variation: Combine the molasses and prepared mustard with ¼ cup finely cut peach or apricot preserves or marmalade.

Teen-Ager's Slumber Party Has Dreamy Wake-Up Feast

Parents of any teenage daughters have undoubtedly enjoyed the fun of having their home used for a slumber party.

Late evening snacks and breakfast are all part of such a function. Probably the teenage gals will care for their own evening snack needs but it is undoubtedly appreciated by all concerned for Mom to have breakfast . . . ready and waiting.

Sausage Whirls simply involves pancakes wrapped around pork sausage links and topped with an Honey-Orange Sauce. The Sausage Whirls can be made in advance and kept warm in the oven . . . then just let the teenagers help themselves.

SAUSAGE WHIRLS
1 pound pork sausage links
2 tablespoons water
Pancakes (approx. 3¼ inches diameter)

Place pork sausage links and water on cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook 5 minutes. Uncover and cook sausage links until browned, turning occasionally. Wrap hot pancakes around sausages and serve with Honey-Orange Sauce. (Sausage Whirls may be kept in warm oven until served).

HONEY-ORANGE SAUCE
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate
½ cup honey

Melt butter and add orange juice concentrate and honey. Heat thoroughly and serve over Sausage Whirls.

A Dash Of Current Jelly Glazes Broiled Lamb Chop

Dinner deadline is always an important part of a homemaker's schedule. It's not uncommon, however, to be somewhat delayed in dinner preparation due to afternoon commitments.

If such is sometimes the case in your home, turn to lamb chops . . . economical lamb shoulder chops . . . to solve the problem.

Broiled lamb shoulder chops are delicious but add some currant jelly and . . . presto, in just minutes you not only have dinner . . . you have an elegant dinner ready to serve.

Reba Staggs, an expert well versed in the field of meat and meat cookery, comments that the majority of lamb cuts in the steak and chop category are considered tender and therefore can be broiled.

Don't draw your own conclusions, give this idea a fair try and just set the glistening glazed lamb shoulder chops before your family and let them decide.

GLAZED LAMB BROIL
4 lamb shoulder chops, cut ½ inch thick
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup currant jelly
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Set regulator for broiling. Place chops on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so that top of chops is 3 inches from the heat. Broil until browned, about 6 to 8 minutes. Turn and broil 2 minutes longer. Season with salt and pepper. Mix jelly and lemon juice and spread on chops, using about 1 tablespoon per chop. Continue broiling 2 minutes or until done. Yield: 4 servings.

So That's Why

Metal sometimes affects the flavor of tea; that is why teapots are usually of china or earthenware.

NEWEST MEAT MARKET — San Anselmo headquarters for United Markets' meats are in this beautifully arranged meat department, where new customers learn, and old customers are reminded, of United's pride in offering only the choicest meats and the most complete line of delicacies. Refrigerated self-service meat cabinets are kept fully stocked by a large staff of butchers seen at work in the back shop. (Ken Molino photo)

TOPS IN MARIN—Here is the meat department of the new San Anselmo United Market, pictured just before the market opened its doors last week. The market, like United's other Marin store in San Rafael and others in the United operation, stakes its reputation on the quality of its meats and the efficiency of its service.

Meat Department Has Self-Service

On the well-tested theory that self service in the meat department is what the customer—especially the Marin customer—wants, you will find the meat department of United Markets' new San Anselmo supermart built around these features:

1. The biggest, most modern self-service meat department north of the Golden Gate.

2. The largest staff—a department manager, eight butchers and five girls.

3. The latest in refrigerator cases, with all meat cut before the customer's eyes in a completely air conditioned compartment.

4. Only U.S. Department of Agriculture choice grade meats. Manager of the meat department is Thomas Christian, 43, of 41 Clark street, San Rafael, a Marin resident since 1929.

Christian is a veteran of many years experience in the meat business, with time out for two years in the Marines during World War II. He entered the business in 1933, and was a meat market manager at the age of 19.

He transferred to United's San Rafael store in 1957.

Christian and his wife, Nell, have a son, Thomas, Jr., 17, a graduate of Marin Catholic High School, and a daughter, Misty, 10, who attends Mary Silveira School.

Christian is a golfer, a gardener and an ardent sports fan, but the subject he talks about most expertly is the meat business. He points out that United's policy is to trim meat first, then weigh it and price it, so the customer gets full measure of what she is paying for.

"We want the meat to reach the customer at the peak of flavor and tenderness," he says. "Any piece of meat bought from us carries a money-back guarantee.

"We stress cleanliness and sanitation, but you can check on it by watching through the windows of our preparation room the complete operations of cutting and handling."

In addition to the various standard meat cuts, the United Market will serve cold meats—all vacuum packed under their own brand name, eviscerated poultry, all types of cheese. And then there will be everything for the gourmet, according to Christian.

"Those who want squabs, frog legs, lobster, game hens, fresh and frozen chicken parts,—they'll be able to get them at United Markets," he says.

"In our delicatessen, we have ready for your selection Italian assorted cold meats, vacuum packed, and many other things.

"As in all good meat departments, we offer special prices on freezer orders."

All planned, all ready—help yourself, Marin!

For Those Who Sit On Glass Chairs

Fiber glass chairs, set on sturdy metal pedestals, are a new and exciting development in modern furniture. These pieces are impervious to moisture and can be washed with soap or detergent suds.

This means that even such gay colors as blue, pale yellow, oyster white or gray can be used as accent colors with no qualms about upkeep.

Because their curved shape shows the outside as much as the inside, these chairs should be washed all over.

Fish Bundles—Fun To Say And Eat

Neat little parchment packages of piquancy. This fanciful fish dish (French ancestry) adapts equally well to fresh trout or frozen (thawed) whiting.

FISH BUNDLES

Ingredients: 4 small butterfish or similar variety (1¼ to 1½ pounds), 1 teaspoon anchovy paste, 2 cups sliced mushrooms, 4 large scallions (including green tops and cut into 2-inch lengths), salt pepper, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Method: Have fish cleaned but leave heads and tails on. Arrange each fish on one side of a heart-shaped piece of parchment paper or foil; spread inside of each fish with ¼ teaspoon anchovy paste.

Top fish with mushrooms and scallions; sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper; dot with butter, patting some inside fish.

Fold paper over so edges meet; crimp edges; place on cookie sheet. Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven 15 to 20 minutes. Serve in paper. Makes 4 small servings.

Famous Welsh (Yes!) Crumpet Reigns In Dear Old Victoria

Tea and crumpets, an institution at the stately Empress hotel in Victoria, British Columbia, is a combination considered a "must" by United States visitors to this Canadian city with the English atmosphere. Hundreds throng the deep-carpeted foyer of this world famous hotel, awaiting their turn for this highly pleasant social participation.

What is a crumpet? Of Welsh origin, the crumpet has the same appearance as a pancake or fritter.

Crumpets are closely related to English muffins, but are thinner and flatter. Both are made with yeast and baked on a griddle in shallow metal rings so they will hold their shape. Both are toasted and served hot, with butter and marmalade, as a tea accompaniment. (English muffins are split before toasting; crumpets ordinarily are left whole.)

Here is the authentic recipe for crumpets as given by the Chef of the Empress Hotel.

Heat 3 cups milk with ½ cup butter and ¾ teaspoon salt almost to boiling; let cool to lukewarm. Stir 1 envelope dry granular yeast (or 1 cake compressed yeast) into ¼ cup warm water. When softened, add to lukewarm milk. Stir in 3 to 4 cups all-purpose flour—enough to make a fairly heavy drop batter, a little stiffer than cake batter. Beat thoroughly. Cover, and let stand in a warm place until light and puffy. (This will probably take 45 minutes or longer.)

Heat pancake griddle moderately hot (325 deg., if you have an automatic one). Grease crumpet rings inside; set on hot ungreased griddle. Carefully drop the light batter into the rings. Let cook slowly until well browned underneath (10 to 15 minutes), then turn and cook about 15 minutes longer. Cool on a rack. Serve toasted, with butter and orange marmalade. Makes 1½ to 2 dozen crumpets.

ABOUT CRUMPET RINGS

If you do not have a set of crumpet or muffin rings (and few U.S. kitchens do have them), you can make very satisfactory ones from heavy foil. Cut each strip of foil about 4 inches wide by 10 to 12 inches long. Double it twice, making a band 1 inch wide. Shape into a ring, overlapping the ends; staple or pin them firmly, and the ring is ready for use.

Chinese Clue

If serving braised cubes of pork and are in quest of an accompaniment, simply turn to Chinese noodles, rice or noodles.

Package Plan Built New Hub Market

The William H. McDevitt Co. package building plan, well known in Marin County in the quality residential field, has been expanded to include large commercial and industrial structures.

The new United Market in San Anselmo is an example of the savings and quality obtained through the package service, which includes complete architectural, engineering, construction, landscaping and decorator's services.

Just seven months ago Robert Conyes, financier investor, and Ben Saccone, president of Wissman stores, came to the McDevitt company office with an idea. Today they are opening the largest and most advanced market in Marin County in less time than is usually taken to complete the plans alone. This is how it was accomplished:

Saccone submitted generalized design and budget requirements to the McDevitt company for a survey of the feasibility of the project. After McDevitt had determined that the plans and budget appeared practical, he put architect, Jacob J. van der Ploeg, A.I.A., to work on the project. A team made up of McDevitt's chief estimator, Ray Winther Co., market equipment specialists, and key sub-contractors worked closely with architect and engineer so that preliminary plans and cost estimates were completed for approval within three weeks' time.

Just six weeks after approval of preliminary plans and costs, final blueprints and specifications were complete and construction was started.

Demolition of existing buildings, clearing and tree removal were accomplished during the period that the blueprints were being prepared.

In these early stages of construction, McDevitt appeared before property owner groups and the San Anselmo City Council to explain the effects of the market on traffic and surrounding properties. As a result of these meetings, it was proposed by Ben Saccone that the United Markets widen the streets on either side of their property and install a new street along the rear of the property at their own expense as a part of the construction contract.

These improvements which have now been completed by the McDevitt company give the market frontage on four streets, providing easy access and eliminating traffic congestion.

With zoning and street problems settled and building permits approved, McDevitt company workmen started on concrete pilings and foundations. The interior designer, Lon Foster, A.I.D., was put to work at this stage to design concrete wall colors, mosaic tile panels and interior colors and finishes. Results of his work can be seen in the olive green tilt-up concrete walls with exposed rock aggregate and in the unusual Italian tile emblems on the exterior of the building.

Selections were made by Foster at this early stage and orders placed to avoid any possibility of delay in the finish work.

As work proceeded at a rapid pace, sidewalk superintendents watched in awe as large cranes lifted 20-ton concrete wall panels, which had been poured and finished on the market floor, into place and shortly after placed on the walls huge trusses spanning 122 feet and providing a column-free interior.

Five months' actual construction time was required to complete all details of construction. During the construction period, landscape architect Ernest Wertheim was employed by the McDevitt company to work with the architect in laying out landscaping and sprinkler systems.

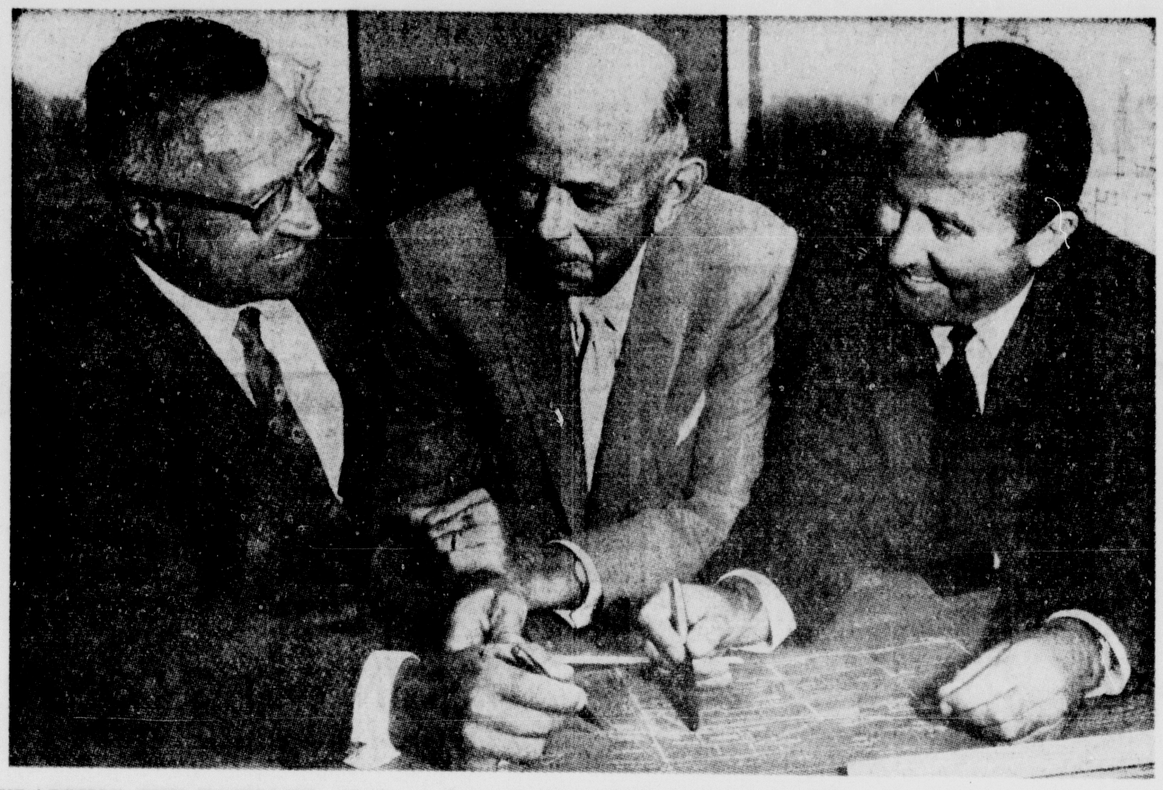
As soon as exterior building construction would permit, workmen in the soil preparation, planting and landscaping work.

McDevitt said he believes in using all of these professional services and that shortcuts are a false economy. His experience, he declared, has shown that finished quality and lasting beauty can only be obtained through the practical use of special talents in each field affecting the project.

"The McDevitt company exercises close control of each phase of design and development in order to maintain the owner's budget and operates an efficient and economical construction operation in order to be able to deliver top architecture and custom quality at prices often lower than stock construction," he said.

Ben Saccone said that, having built under both methods, he would use the McDevitt method again for future projects.

McDevitt estimates that the use of these over-all services saves the customer from 10 to 30 per cent on all types of construction over handling this work on the usual basis. He points with pride to the new United Markets as an example of what can be done.



WRAPPING THE PACKAGE—Huddled over blueprints of the new United Market, putting together the "package deal" under which all services in connection with its design and construction were included in a single contract with builder William H. McDevitt of San Rafael, are, from left, Ben Saccone, United's president and general manager; Robert Conyes, developer and investor who owns the property and leases it to United, and builder McDevitt.

Pineapple Slim

A serving of fresh pineapple provides about 35 calories. That is about a third as many calories as canned or frozen pineapple. Buy it by odor and weight, not color. A fragrant odor, hollow "eyes," absence of blemishes and heaviness are the qualities to look for when buying fresh pineapple. A ripe pineapple may be yellow, yellow-orange or bronze, depending on the variety.

Bean Sprouts Plus Beef—Old Chinese Quick Custom

Quick to cook, as good Chinese food should be.

BEAN SPROUTS PLUS BEEF

Ingredients: ½ pound flank steak (slightly frozen for easy slicing), 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 small clove garlic (crushed), 2 tablespoons peanut oil, 1 chicken bouillon cube dissolved in ¾ cup boiling water, 2 cans (1 pound each) bean sprouts (well drained).

Method: Slice meat across grain so strips are about ⅛-inch thick, 1 inch wide and 2 inches long. Stir together the cornstarch, soy sauce, sugar and garlic in a small platter; add meat and turn so it absorbs mixture.

Heat oil in a 10-inch skillet until very hot; add marinated steak in one layer and brown well and rapidly on both sides; add bouillon and cook and stir constantly until thickened.

Add bean sprouts, mix and reheat quickly. Sauce should be like a glaze; if thicker than desired, stir in 2 to 4 tablespoons hot water. Makes 4 servings.

Curried Rice

The great culinary artists in the East . . . the Chinese . . . will tell us that Curried Rice makes an excellent accompaniment for braised lamb cubes. To prepare this rice specialty, simply add 1 cup rice, ½ cup raisins, 1 teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons curry powder to 4 cups boiling water. Cover and simmer 20 to 25 minutes or until the rice is tender. Drain the rice but do not rinse.

Perfume Isn't Soap

One of the advice columns recently carried a letter from a young man who complained that his favorite date—a pleasant and attractive girl in most ways—"thinks perfume is a substitute for soap and water."

Take heed, girls! Note that liberal use of our true friend, soap, might be one means of keeping out of the lovelorn ranks!

Frozen Roasts

Frozen roasts can be cooked in the same manner as fresh roasts except that it will take ⅓ to ½ again as long for the cooking time.

Founder Of Can Firm Got Into Business By Accident

WATERTOWN, Mass (UPI) — A bearded immigrant from Britain who once walked from New Orleans to Baltimore seeking his fortune wound up outfoxing the foxiest of Yankee traders.

William Lyman Underwood, founder of the nation's oldest canning company, which still bears his name, got into the food business more by accident than anything else. But the firm begun 137 years ago on Boston's old Russia Wharf still stands as a tribute to the ingenuity of "William the First."

Underwood, born in London in 1787, came to the United States bent on making his fortune. He landed at New Orleans in 1817 and, failing to find a suitable outlet for his talents, walked a few years later to Baltimore.

"William the First" apparently started building his fortune in Baltimore because he didn't have to walk to Boston. He established himself as a ship chandler on Boston's busy waterfront in 1821.

Suppliers for one of the world's largest sailing fleets were having a lot of trouble at that time because ship owners had only spices and a rather strange assortment of items to trade for food which would keep fresh during long months at sea.

So Underwood tackled the problem of packaging and preserving food to keep the sailing ship crews free of scurvy and beri-beri. He found that heavily spicing some foods with the very same goods he was forced to take in trade preserved the provisions in glass containers.

He put up all manner of foodstuffs and, together with Samuel Cote of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, later developed the scientific basis for preparing and preserving foods in tin containers.

The word "can" is believed to have originated by bookkeepers of the Underwood Co. Tired of writing the word "canister" over and over in the records, they used the abbreviation which came to be accepted as the American version of the European word "tin."

Today, the Underwood firm is still owned by direct descendants of "William the First," whose marriage to Miss Betsy Hale produced nine children. George C. Seybolt, 43, not a member of the family, is the president today—only the sixth chief executive officer in 137 years.

Little Ambushers

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — Answering a motorist's report of someone shooting at passing cars, Deputy Sheriff Clyde Doty spotted two armed figures on telephone poles near the road. At closer examination, Doty found them to be two youngsters who had merely taken strategic positions to fire at passing "tanks" with their toy guns.

Smooth Operator

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Someone jimmied the trunk of a car owned by sales man Blanchard T. Morris of Kansas City and stole $1,495 worth of razors and blades — enough to keep the thief clean shaven for 700 years, police calculated.

CHURCH STILL FLUORISHES

Meet Reema Z.—One Of Russia's Many Fighters Against Religion

MOSCOW (UPI)—When Reema Z. arrived at the "House of Culture" in the town of Chernavchitzi, she was startled by the sound of "mournful singing."

"That's from across the street," she was told. "A church service."

Reema flung open a window. A church! And right opposite the "House of Culture" where the workers and peasants of the region gathered for lectures on Communism and other cheerful recreation!

"Hey, fellows," she called down the hall, for she was the new house director. "Put that loudspeaker on the windowsill here. And play a record—something lively."

Soon the churchly singing was drowned out by the blare of a military march. But "a man of intelligent appearance" stopped under the window and said:

"That won't get you anywhere. If you want to make people stop doing wrong, you've got to convince them first."

How Reema Z. saw the error of her tactic, how she became an effective fighter for atheism and routed the forces of religion in the town of Chernavchitzi, Byelorussia, was the subject of a long account in the newspaper "Soviet Culture." It was one of the many preachments on godlessness that blossom in the Soviet press.

The Soviet government, though it tolerates religious worship, continues to fight religion by written and spoken word. Christianity is denounced as a harmful myth, a survival of the past, a drag on the future, an impediment to "Communism, the bright future of all mankind."

Trouble is, from the Soviet viewpoint, religion has been surviving better than it was supposed to when the atheistic Communists took power in Russia 40 years ago. According to a recent estimate of Metropolitan Nikolai of the Russian Orthodox Church, 25 per cent of the Soviet Union's population of about 200 million are still religious. Other church representatives have placed the figure even higher.

About 2,200 young men were reported by the Metropolitan to be undergoing preparation for clerical life. Western visitors are constantly surprised to see the churches attended not only by elderly people but by a fair number of the young as well.

Whatever the fault in technique, Soviet authorities lately have indicated dissatisfaction with the progress of the war against religion. Calls for redoubled effort are frequent.

In a recent issue of "Communist," the monthly magazine of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party, the Academy of Sciences of the USSR was taken to task for having "let all these years pass without making a scientific study of the reasons for the tenaciousness of religious anachronisms" in the Soviet Union.

One reason often put forward in the press is that writers and lecturers on atheism all too often try to overwhelm believers with a barrage of scientific arguments or adopt methods like the military march loosed against the church in Chernavchitzi by young Comrade Reema Z.

Which is all the more reason why Reema's change of tactics was held up by "Soviet Culture" as an example for others to follow.

The "man of intelligent appearance" who took the anti-noise stand turned out to be the head of the town school, and together they organized a long series of quiet lectures at the House of Culture to save souls from Christ.

Teachers, agronomists and doctors were mobilized to read papers with such titles as "The Origin of Christian Holidays and Rituals," "The Vatican and Its Reactionary Essence," and "In Gloomy Darkness."

A chemist obliged with an exhibition of how 'fire from heaven," weeping ikons and suchlike wonders can be induced by human means. Local "sorceresses" and fortune-tellers were exposed without mercy.

The believers began coming in greater and greater numbers, the paper said, and Reema had to get biologists and doctors all the way from the city of Brest to answer all their questions.

The great day came for Reema, "Soviet Culture" said, when a lecture was held on Easter Sunday—and the hall was full!

'Mother Knows Best'

ITHACA, N. Y. (UPI) — Most adolescent girls buy the theory that "mother knows best."

A Cornell University survey of 194 girls in the 9th and 10th grades indicates that they follow their mothers' advice more than just doing what their friends do.

You Can Be Patron Of Arts For Dime At Danish Gallery

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — You don't need a fortune to become a patron of the arts here. Seven-and-a-half cents will do it.

This sum—about half a Danish crown—buys the least expensive item, a tiny ceramic souvenir, at a unique non-profit establishment founded 27 years ago to assist struggling Danish artist who had no gallery in which to display their work regularly.

Today, the exhibitors' roster at Den Permanente has grown from an original 130 to 350. It includes such distinguished names as Sigvard Bernadotte, the Queen of Denmark's brother, who designs for a leading silversmith; furniture designers Hans Wegner and Finn Juhl; ceramist Bjorn Wiinblad; and Kay Bojesen, the late silversmith and toymaker, whose widow, Erna, now operates his workshop.

Most of the artists and craftsmen, however, are virtual unknowns, in keeping with the founders' aims for The Permanent Exhibition of Danish Arts and Crafts.

Some of them had to borrow from the exhibition's loan fund to equip their workrooms and buy raw materials, according to general manager Asger Fischer.

Another emergency fund is maintained, he added, to buy outright from promising artists. These items are stored by the exhibition until a large enough collection of the artist's work is on hand to make a full display.

The collection is dazzling in quality, quantity and variety. If contemporary design is your dish, you'll be tempted to redecorate your entire home, bank account permitting.

A few years ago, one American couple did just that, with their five-room New York apartment, Fischer said. The $6,000 sale was the biggest in the history of the exhibition, although a single item—such as painting or a tapestry—sometimes brings between $1,000 and $1,600. Most of the sale price goes directly to the artist, whose work is held on consignment, and who pays annual membership dues of 25 crowns (less than $4).

The three-member committee that selects items for display rejects up to 80 per cent of those submitted because they don't measure up to the high artistic and quality standards.

Regular customers at Den Permanente include Queen Ingrid of Denmark, who is its patroness; her father, King Gustav VI of Sweden; and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

The exhibition's best sellers include a small Kay Bojesen monkey, an impish-looking fellow with movable legs. But if you're buying the monkey for a child, mum's the word—or you may be told sternly, as I was, that it is a grown-up's toy.

Talking Is Expensive

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—An interpreter was brought into municipal court when Francisco Garcia, 33, charged with drunk driving, claimed he could speak only Spanish. While the interpreter was laboriously framing a question, police prosecutor Robert Franklin suddenly asked, "How much did you have to drink?" "Just two glasses of wine," Garcia snapped back—in English. The judge added a $5 interpreter's fee to Garcia's fine.

FURY AND BEAUTY

A high wave crashes over a sea wall on waterfront of Guanabara Bay to form a picturesque frame for Sugar Loaf mountain in Rio de Janeiro.

Suspicion Pays

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP)—The marshal of the Pittsburg city court, Joe McIlwrath, apparently has a knack for spotting potential trouble-makers. When McIlwrath saw three boys purchasing BB-shot, he took down the license number of their panel truck. When a large plate glass window was damaged by BB shot three days later, McIlwrath pulled out the license number and the three youngsters were arrested and charged.

It Costs To Caddy

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Four caddies were needed to tote the golf bags for Desi Arnaz, Bing Crosby, Phil Harris and Randolph Scott during an exhibition match for charity in Tucson. Several Tucson businessmen volunteered. Four got the job after they agreed to donate $100 each to the charities.

Burglar Bakes Cake

MAHOMET, Ill. (AP)—Sheriff William Fairfield said a burglar broke into the Carl A. Bays cabin, broke mirrors and lights and sprayed silver paint and shaving cream all over the place. Also, all the gas jets in the kitchen were turned on, emptying the gas cylinders, but not before the vandal baked himself a chocolate cake.

Audience Of One

SAN DIEGO (AP)—State Sen. Hugo Fisher went to a home for a neighborhood rally and found that no one had turned out to meet him. Remembering he had given advance copies of his speech to newspapers, Fisher asked the woman in the home to listen to him and he delivered his speech, complete with gestures.

White Hunter Brings Clients Back Alive

MOSHI, Tanganyika (UPI) — "They don't allow you any big mistakes in this business," said George Walter Dove as he slapped a clip in his rifle. "Lose one client to a rhino, a lion or anything else and you've had your chips."

Dove, 40, has been a professional white hunter more than half his life. He has almost been killed twice but, thanks to his skill and long experience, has kept danger away from the men and women he takes out on hunting trips here in British East Africa.

"Frank Buck spoke about 'bringing 'em back alive'," Dove continued, "and so do we white hunters — only we're talking about our clients, not animals; fall down on that job and there goes your government license to operate."

Right now this pleasant-spoken hunter with a blonde goatee and Dali-type, 10-inch-long waxed mustache is working on "just about the oddest deal of my life."

He has been hired to stand guard in the nearby wild bush area where Robert Taylor and other movie players are on location for the adventure picture "Adamson of Africa."

"There's rhino, lion, buffalo and elephant around here," Dove explained, "and just in case any of 'em come around for Mr. Taylor's autograph — or for Mr. Taylor—this rifle will be wanted."

Dove chuckled wryly. "I've read about cops on the studio gates in Hollywood," he said, "and now I'm just one of 'em —keeping away the gate-crashers. Only they don't shoot 'em in Hollywood, do they?"

Flicking away a fly with his giraffe's tail whisk, Dove watched 16-year-old John Dimech going through his paces for "Adamson," which is being made for Columbia Pictures release by Britain's Warwick Films.

"Rather a young lad to be out in the sun," somebody said.

"I guess so," remarked Dove, "but I was brought up in this country after my parents brought me here from Australia. I shot my first lion when I was 11 and by the time I was 18 I was shooting elephants."

A year or two later Dove began taking out visiting hunters on safari. Hundreds of them have been Americans—"mostly very nice people and keen sportsmen."

"Of course," Dove said, "we get the occasional snob, the one hunting for the Jones next door back home."

Dove confided that there's very little danger on safari—except for the white hunter. He has to search out the game, often at risky close quarters.

Then he brings up his clients to within safe distance and advises them which lion, rhino or buffalo to take a crack at.

Dove has seen more than one "good shot back home" freeze up when an elephant lumbers his way. "A little pushing from the white hunter usually unfreezes 'em," he chuckled, "and they start to shoot quite well."

Dove rates some of his women clients as top shots, recalling one Annie Oakley who chalked up 32 kills out of 40 animals as one-shot kills.

His business is good, Dove indicated, but it can end at any time—with the hunter's death. The hunter almost "had his chips" last year when a lioness suddenly charged him from cover.

Britain Asks: What Makes A Good Girl?

LONDON (UPI) — Britain has neatly dodged a chance to decide once and for all the age-old question:

What is a good girl?

The question arose, although all concerned were trying to ignore it, during discussions leading to the new "street offenses bill" against prostitution.

In Britain there is nothing to stop men and women from being as friendly as they like—providing there is no cash basis for the friendship.

This gives police the ticklish job of picking the thousands of professionals scattered through the city from the even larger number of fun-loving girls simply out for "a good time" — a term which means different things to different girls.

During the months of hearings on which the new law is based, it was occasionally suggested that a firm definition of a lady of the town might help the police and protect the innocent. But those interested in this definition promptly found themselves facing a knotty problem:

"Is money the only criterion of gain?"

In other words:

A girl who accepts money habitually for her services is a "bad girl." (Agreed).

But is she worse than a girl who accepts mink coats, diamonds, boxes of chocolates, theater tickets or dinner for the same favors? (Great confusion).

This discussion in and out of the hearings soon got out of hand. Someone even wanted to know the position of a woman whose price was marriage. And eventually it was swept aside in a wave of more practical suggestions.

But such organizations as the National Council for Civil Liberties are still perturbed by the possibility that a girl innocently in search of a movie and coffee with a nice young man might find herself in the morning array of hard-hearted "pros" at Bow Street court.

Accordingly, it has suggested for the cabinet's consideration an amendment nearly as controversial as the "good girl" definition. It contends in effect that the guilty party in prostition is the one who opens the cash bidding. In some cases, that means the male customer.

Meanwhile, a future and more courageous administration may try to straighten out anomalies such as this:

A girl who taps a maharajah or a millionaire for diamonds gets her picture in the newspapers.

In Britain, Five Lucky Pubkeepers Get Their Licenses Free At Palace

LONDON (UPI) — Once each year London's five most privileged pub owners present themselves — at Buckingham Palace, there to receive free, their annual liquor licenses.

Other pub owners in Britain pay for their licenses, but these five are the "Palace Publicans," whose places "verge on the Palace," and they appear at Buckingham by command of the Board of the Green Cloth.

"Don't ask me the origin of the board's name," said Edgar George Hoiles, owner of the Silver Cross, oldest of the "Palace Pubs," as he sipped his eleven o'clock glass of hock.

'The most popular theory is that the board originally consisted of the palace caterers meeting around a table that was covered with green cloth."

However that may be, the board started operations from Whitehall Palace back in the days of King Charles I. In those days, it had the power to punish by death any subject of the king who ran counter to palace orders.

Today, the board, administered by the Keeper of the Queen's Household, remains a power—at least as far as the five pub owners who operate within walking distance of Buckingham Palace, are concerned.

Local police and health inspectors annually report to the bench of the "Board of Green Cloth" on the condition and behavior of the five privileged pubs: The Silver Cross, The Ship, The Shade, Clarance and Whitehall Court.

'Palace pub owners have no power of argument before the board," said Hoiles, stroking his mustache. "But we'd rather close down than not please the board. You know we're very jealous of our visit to the palace. It lets us see the inside.

Hoiles said he thinks the Silver Cross is the oldest public house in the country. The other palace pubs, he said, "all were rebuilt after Whitehall Palace was burned down in 1698," while the Silver Cross traces back to 1253, when it was known as The Hermitage of St. Catherine and was practically next door to the palace of Charles I.

Charles decided to make The Hermitage a paying proposition by letting the building to Sir William Wade, who paid the King for the privilege of running it, Hoiles said.

Wade built his family crest, a silver cross, into the masonry above the front door and made the inn into a gaming house and bordello for the dandies at court.

'It was because King Charles was financially hard up that the Silver Cross was turned into a gaming house," Hoiles said.

He noted that after the King was executed, the Silver Cross continued to do excellent business during the reign of Charles II, under a new owner, Sir Joseph Craig.

Craig was a noted builder who had the foresight to construct the home of Nell Gwyn, favorite mistress of Charles II, less than a stone's throw from the pub.

Hot (Golf) Match

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—For a time anyway, T. R. Boggess was the hottest golfer on the course. His trousers caught fire apparently from matches in his pocket.

Looking To Future

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Kenneth Harrington of Garden City, Mich., convicted of auto theft, was offered a choice in U.S. district court of serving three years in the National Training School for Boys in Washington, D.C., or being turned over to juvenile authorities in Michigan. He picked the federal sentence. The reason: He thought the National Training School offered a better vocational training program than is available in Michigan.

Justice In Hotrod

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)— When a garage mechanic discovered that Samuel R. Searing's station wagon was "souped up" and capable of 120 m.p.h. speeds, it came as quite a surprise to Searing. He's a police justice, and said: "That's well over twice as fast as I'd ever care to drive."

ON THE SIDE OF THE LAW

Top Safecracker Wears A Badge

DU BOIS, Pa. (UPI)— Pennsylvania's No. 1 safecracker wears a badge.

He is Sgt. Joseph Dussia, officer in charge of the state police barracks here. His ability to "manipulate" a safe is so widely recognized that vault manufacturers ask him to test their new burglar-proof models.

Dussia's lock tinkering began with a boyhood fascination for intricate mechanisms. After 21 years as a state trooper, he is much sought after as an instructor of law enforcement officers in the techniques of investigating safe burglaries.

The 41-year-old sergeant has picked locks and cracked safes by the hundreds—all on the right side of the law. He recalls one time when railroaders "cheered as if I had scored a last minute touchdown" after he had mastered a safe that contained their pay.

On another occasion, a bridegroom sighed with relief when Dussia opened a jammed safe that held the wedding rings on the eve of the ceremony.

Dussia has freed children from locked bathrooms, evacuated "prisoners" from service station restrooms, released brothers from war souvenir handcuffs and even enabled an expectant mother to get a layette out of a trunk before she went to the hospital.

He has picked locks on gambling dens so quietly that raiding officers gained access without alerting a "lookout" just inside the door. Once, he broke into a cell at the Brookville, Pa., prison after it had jammed, making it impossible for the jailer to bring in the prisoners' food.

Dussia takes a scientific approach to safecracking. He is contemptuous of criminals who blast, punch or pry their way into a safe.

"It doesn't take much knowhow to force open a safe and wreck it," he said. "But you have to know something to manipulate it open." That professional technique includes touch, hearing and an extensive knowledge of the inner workings of a safe combination lock.

To help him out, Dussia uses a transistorized amplifier with microphone attached which are held to the safe by a magnet. He said it's possible to open most safes merely by plotting each change in the sound of the tiny tumblers on a graph.

The veteran state trooper said that only once did he use his talents "dishonestly"—and he didn't get away with it then. He said he tried to "steal a peek" at the diary of a high school girl, "but she snatched it away so fast that I didn't get a chance. I still wonder what was so confidential about it."

Champ Crow Hunter

IDABEL, Okla. (AP)—Herbert Derryberry is in the crow killing business in a big way. He bought a hi-fi battery operated record player and some crow call records. He can call crows from several miles away. Unless he kills 35 or 40 a day he does not consider it much of a hunt.

Honesty Costs

DIXON, Ill. (AP)—A young man appeared at police headquarters and said he was drunk and should be locked up. The officers obliged, and the next morning he was fined $5 and costs by Police Magistrate Lawrence E. Boos.

PAST CLASH RECREATED

Johnny Reb and Billy Yank go at it again in this re-enactment of a skirmish, part of the Battle of Antietam, near Burkittsville, Md.

The Game Goes On

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — John W. Ulmer takes his bowling seriously, as reflected in this testimony in traffic court: "They paged me and told me another car had smashed into mine. I came out and looked at the wreck. About $1,000 worth of damage had been done my car. So I told my wife to see what could be done about getting the names and addresses of witnesses while I went back and finished my game."

He Gets Action

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Four-year-old Mark Heldrum, a pneumonia victim, called for his nurse at Mercy Hospital to tell her he was feeling better. She didn't appear, so Mark pushed a button. Bells clanged, intercommunications speakers blared and the hospital corridors became a river of rushing nurses and doctors. Mark had pushed the fire alarm.

City Of Lahore Historic Showplace

LAHORE, Pakistan (UPI)—This young nation's second largest city, Lahore, is a historical show place almost unknown outside the Indian subcontinent.

The leading city of the Punjab, Lahore boasts some of the finest tombs and mosques in an ancient land where the construction of monuments used to be big business.

Most notable is Jehangir's tomb, a park-like estate, said to be the most beautiful Mogul project ever built after the famed Taj Mahal.

Another tourist mecca is the historic Lahore center from which the Moguls ruled this part of the world centuries ago. It offers a Palace of Mirrors (Shish Mahal), marble pavilions and such thought - provoking signs as "Elephant Walk" and "Here Stood the Eunuchs."

Situated in the heart of the lush Punjab some 600 miles northeast of Karachi and only a few miles from the Indian border, Lahore today is a refugee-crowded city of almost a million and half persons.

Partition of the Indian subcontinent in 1947 sent thousands of Moslems to Pakistan. Lahore's population nearly doubled, and bloody riots rocked the Punjab. Ten years of Moslem rule has brought peace to the city.

Lahore, which is about 2,000 years old—no one knows for sure—now represents a curious mixture of old and new. Over the centuries it has been conquered by the Afghans, Moguls, Sikhs and the British.

Each new set of rulers left some imprint, with the Moguls and the British, perhaps, leaving behind the most obvious accomplishments.

The city is a patchwork of wide avenues and narrow lanes dotted with picturesque mosques and smokestack-like minarets. Certain areas look as though they were snatched up from some English village. Others could only be found in the over-populated sections of Asia.

Of the large cities of the modern world, Lahore is perhaps the only one in which the horse and buggy has managed to retain a prominent position.

Two-wheeled tongas pulled by plumed horses still provide one of the principal means of transportation.

Lahore is also noteworthy as the place where Rudyard Kipling worked on the Civil and Military Gazette.

Kipling's famous lines—"East is East, West is West and never the twain shall meet"—is an anachronism here. His former newspaper now prints the comic strip "Lil Abner" and Lahore citizens religiously study the happenings in Dogpatch.

The city is Pakistan's convention city and annually plays host to several gatherings. It is hot in the summer and is perpetually over-crowded.

It is the nation's educational and cultural center and contains several universities and colleges. It is also the capital of West Pakistan and the location of the supreme court.

Many of its residents regard Lahore as Pakistan's best community. Many of them refer to burgeoning Karachi as "that little seaport town."

SWIVEL NECK—It's mighty useful to have a beak that doubles for a backscratcher. At least it is for this pelican, a denizen of the Perth, Australian zoo.

Ontario Counts Its Moose Noses; They Represent Sport, Profits

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI)—Conservation officers are counting noses—moose noses—in the bush country of Ontario.

Each nose represents $475 to the Canadian economy as well as a lot of meat and sport for the successful hunter.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests said hunters spend an estimated three million dollars a year on their moose hunting.

It is also estimated that the total value of this cash crop is 38 million dollars. Preliminary reports figure that Ontario's total moose population is about 80,000.

The province received $364,883 alone from the sale of moose hunting licenses to about 22,000 sportsmen last year. Indirectly, it also benefits from such items as money spent on guides, outfitters, ammunition, guns, charter air service, food supplies, refreshments, gasoline, tolls and so on.

In Ontario, therefore, moose hunting is big business. The moose population itself is larger than ever before and growing all the time.

That's why the province wants to know how many moose are actually roaming Ontario. It uses 190 pilots and planes of the Air Service to count moose and collect valuable data to aid in setting up hunting regulations, bag limits and restricted areas.

The pilots use a complex system of plotting certain areas of the moose range. They keep records on the number of the big beasts spotted on closely regulated flights.

They also note the number of bulls, cows and calves in an area, to determine the number of animals per square mile in sample areas.

A typical survey would have an aircraft scan a 25-square-mile sample plot. One for example would be near a heavily hunted section. Pilot-observers and conservation officers know their territory as well as most city dwellers know their own neighborhoods.

There is no guess work. The pilot and two observers report only moose they actually see. A fourth man marks each sighted animal on a master map in each aircraft.

In many areas there is dense forest growth and it is impossible to count all the moose in the area but the final count on any survey is regarded as the absolute minimum.

Sacked Out

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Mrs. Mary Panek, 65, laid claim to a paper sack containing nearly $10,000 which three boys found in a vacant lot. She told police she hid the money in the lot because "I was going away for a few days and didn't want to leave it in the house."

TONS-O-FOOD SALE

SAN ANSELMO BARGAIN DAYS

This is the time of year that distributors and warehouses cut their inventory as low as possible for semi-annual inventory. To do this they offer preferred accounts the finest nationally known food items at discount prices. It is the policy of Drake Market to deduct any discounts earned by the market from the customer (your) price. We've even gone a step further and reduced other items throughout the store including top quality produce and meats as our part of the savings invitation offered to the people of Marin from the merchants of San Anselmo on Bargain Days—Thursday, Friday and Saturday. You'll like shopping in San Anselmo. You'll like shopping at Drake. Why not come in?
